No. 64,458

THURSDAY OCTOBER 8 1992

45p

SEX BIAS AND THE LAW

How can women win justice?

Life & Times, page 1

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

Disney goes back to fairyland

Life & Times, page 3

THE TRIALS OF GORBACHEV

Bernard Levin on the Soviet collapse

Page 14

Heseltine silences Tory doubters — then former leader reopens Maastricht wounds

Thatcher derides Major's EC vision

By Philip Webster, chief political correspondent

BARONESS Thatcher undermined a spirited cabinet de-Just as the cabinet appeared to fence of the government's be gaining the upper hand in the internal Tory debate on Europe, an intervention from Baroness Thatcher European policy last night with a calculated intervention in which she described the Maastricht treaty as a ruinous has fuelled the controversy.

> exactly the way we should have managed ours. They put their country first and in doing so showed up the impossibility of a single currency for a group of such divergent economies as those of Europe."

In a rebuke to her successor she says: "Once we realised that the ERM lacked the flexibility we expected and required, we should have left." Her strictures refuelled the internal Conservative dispute on Europe after indications that the pro-Maastricht wing was gaining the upper hand. But even the Euro-sceptic hardliners were accepting yes-with a barnstorming conference speech in which he goaded and then silenced the Euro-sceptics heckling him. He was backed by Norman Lamont, the Chancellor, who said on the conference fringe last night that Maastricht safeguarded Britain's interests and achieved its goals. Mr Major and his colleagues made plain that Lady Thatcher would be ignored. The prime minister repeatedly declined to comment on her remarks, saying that he would set out his position in his conference speech tomorrow. He added that he had the terday that the treaty would be ratified.

Michael Heseltine led a sustained cabinet offensive any doubt that he would dent review bodies. Senior ministers suggested yesterday that a more politically realistic course would be to allow some latitude in the pay bill as long as increases are accompanied by higher productivity. Some less-favoured groups, such as council manual workers, may

The scale of the planned economy drive became plain yesterday in Brighton as embattled spending ministers signalled that they were under increasing pressure from Mr

Lamont and Michael Portillo.

Sterling's forced exit from the Treasury chief secretary.

the European exchange-rate mechanism has strengthened

Mr Portillo's hand in his talks with spending ministers. He Continued on page 18, col I

Sterling recovers, page 19

be particularly hard hit.

continue with it. Lady Thatcher's article, timed to gain maximum impact, provoked new recriminations among the Conservative high command. Kenneth Clarke, home secretary, said she should face up to the fact she was just as joining the ERM. The decision to enter the ERM was taken by her and John Major, the two of them took that personally," he said. "Margaret would never turn around saying 'I didn't mean it really. I was bullied. I had my arm twisted by John Major." He asked how a former prime minister could attack her successor on a policy for which she, as the senior figure, was more responsible. Lord Howe of Aberavon, former foreign secretary, said that Lady Thatcher's intervention was very disappointing and "adds considerably to the difficulties facing John Major and his colleagues in cabinet. The timing is particularly Lord Tebbit said he did not see it as an attack. "I welcome what she said. It is in line with the great mass of the party.

In the conference Mr Heseltine, board of trade president, hailed Mr Major's battle at Maastricht for British interests, and declared that no Conservative government would allow Britain to be on the periphery of Europe.

He outlined the gains awaiting Britain from being an integral part of Europe and then brought the audience to its feet by turning on his critics, telling them that they had lost the argument. The big ovation accorded Mr Heseltine by an overwhelming majority of the conference delighted the party leadership. They claimed it demonstrated clearly how the Euro-sceptics were in a minority. There was no co-ordination between Lady Thatcher and Lord Tebbit, but her entry into the fray came at the worst possible time for the government, which had hoped the storm was subsiding. She writes: "The ERM and Maastricht are inextricably linked. The first is a prerequisite to the fulfilment of the second. We found the confines of the first unbearable: the straitjacket of the second would be ruinous. Thanks to the decision to float the pound, we now have a chance to follow an economic policy that puts British needs first Like the Maastricht treaty, the ERM in no way represents what is best for British interests."

In a speech to the Con-servative Political Centre, Mr Lamont urged the party to unite in working for a better , "without unnecessary interference from Brussels".

Thatcher comments, page 6 Brighton reports, pages 6-8 Diary, page 14 Leading article, page 15 Matthew Parris, page 18 L&T section, page 1

Lamont plans huge cuts in public spending

By Nicholas Wood, Philip Webster and Peter Riddell

His speech will cover both monetary and fiscal targets and will be aimed as much at restoring confidence in foreign exchange and stock markets as among the party faithful. Officials said yesterday that Mr Lamont would devote a "lengthy passage" of his speech to the new system for controlling public spending announced in July. Mr Lamont will also underline his determination to impose pay

The cabinet committee on public spending will hold further meetings over the next two weeks before the Chancellor makes his autumn state-

A public sector pay freeze would save about £3 billion

but put ministers on a collision course with powerful and pop-ment in early November.

STRINGENT cuts in public emphasising his determ- ular groups such as nurses. spending plans are being ination to put in place a teachers and doctors, all of finalised by Norman Lamont, credible anti-inflation whom are covered by independent of the covered by inde the Chancellor, as part of a determined attempt by the government to restore market confidence in its economic policies and to create room for straitjacket.

She is expected to be greeted with wild acclaim when she appears with John Major on the Conservative conference platform in Brighton this morning. But writing in to-day's edition of The European she derides his assertion that Britain must be at the heart of Europe and dismisses the Maastricht treaty as "part of the vision of yesterday".

"We now need an economic strategy which works with markets, not against them, is realistic and sustainable, and provides a framework for growth," she says. Lady

Thatcher welcomes sterling's departure from the European exchange-rate mechanism but adds: "I do not blame the Germans. They have man-aged the new currency in tax cuts in the long-term. Public sector pay, road building, inner city renewal and defence budgets are expected to bear the brunt of the government's drive to stick to next year's target of £244.5 billion. This would be an increase of £18 billion or 2.8 per cent in real terms above this year's plans. Some senior ministers are suggesting that the govern-ment might reduce the total below this ceiling as a sign of its commitment to reining in the public sector.

One immediate casualty is likely to be the £1.8 billion Jubilee line extension to the troubled Canary Wharf office in London's development

Ministers are bracing themselves for a spate of public sector strikes next spring i... protest at the planned pay

Curbs will also be applied to the £70 billion social security budget, which makes up almost a third of total state spending. There will be an end to the series of large increases in planned health spending of recent years.

Mr Lamont who is being urged by colleagues to freeze the pay of 4.5 million public sector workers, will seek to reassert his authority today before the Conservative party conference in Brighton by

HNDEX

deaths

Calm before the storm: Rosemary and Norman Lamont relaxing yesterday. Today he addresses the conference

By RACHEL KELLY, PROPERTY CORRESPONDENT

Court .. BIRMINGHAM is not for sale - or so the burghers of Obituaries... LIFE & TIMES Law Report.... Concise Crossword......

Britain's second city would have European heads of government believe when they gather for next week's Eurosummit. Councillors want Birmingham estate agents to take down their To let and For Sale signs to "tidy up" the city centre and reduce the impression of an area in recession.

The clean-up was suggested by councillors and businessmen as a "precautionary" measure, inspired in part by the fact that visiting journalists might be short on copy.

The devil finds work for idle hands," said a council spokesman. "We don't want any stories to give a slanted or a biased view."

centre on October 16.

sure it's a good one."

Geoff Thomas, a director of Tewson, Cheshire, was ap-40 signs: "We asked our

The buildines' owners replacing the boards, but tion to engage the services of Others pointed out that taking their signs down could mean a missed opportunity to attract some welcome European business.

Patten's lecture rattles Peking

FROM JAMES PRINGLE IN HONG KONG

CHRIS Patten, the governor of Hong Kong, yesterday came under fire from Peling over his blueprint for more participatory democracy during Hong Kong's last five years as a British possession. While drawing back from challenging the Chinese leadership by proposing an in-crease in the number of directly elected legislators, he lectured the territory's future communist masters on the benefits of democracy.

The former Tory party chairman set out his ideas for more open government in his maiden policy speech to the legislative council, the colony's parliament. He risked Peking's ire by proposing a formula to broaden the electorate for at least some of the 60 council seats.

China reacted sharply to the proposals, calling them irresponsible and a breach of the 1984 Sino-British agreement on Hong Kong. British government sources say that no increase in the elected representatives in the legislative council can be made without Peking's approval, and they are not hopeful this can be secured.

In words that would be anathema to Peking, which is nervous about the spread of even limited democracy, Mr Patten said: "Democracy is more than just a philosophical Continued on page 18, col 5

> Democracy plan, page 11 Chris Patten, page 14 Leading article, page 15

Signs of nerves in summit city

Staff from the office of the council's city centre manager. Alan Pickford, spent yesterday ringing estate agents to suggest they take down about 100 boards in the city "We cannot order them to take them down," said Mr Pickford. "But I hope this will lead to them looking at their presentation. Maybe this will make the city look tidier. You only get one chance to make a good impression — and Birmingham wants to make the agents Debenham, proached about taking down clients and not surprisingly.

they were not enthusiastic." would not only have to bear the cost of taking down and there would be hot competithe city's three signwriting

East Midlands Electricity has joined the Union of Democratic Mineworkers consortium to bid for British

ON OTHER

PAGES

Hospitals

on a spree

Some London teaching hospitals are attempting to survive by spending millions on new buildings and equipment. They are doing so in anticipation of the Tomlinson report, expected to recommend the closure of four hospitals.....Page 2

A bomb exploded near Centrepoint in central London. There were no reports of injuries. Earlier, five people were hurt when a Black box found

The flight recorder from the Boeing 747 freighter that crashed in Amsterdam has been recovered and is being examined at the air accident

investigation centre in Farn-

Up to 10,000 people fled when Serbian forces captured the strategic town of Bosanski Brod on the Bosnian border after a three-

All major building work on the Channel tunnel terminal in Kent is now complete, and Michael Dynes has examined the procedure cross-

Channel drivers will undergo...... Page 18

Tunnel vision

.... Page 13

Haymarket ...

borough ...

Town falls

month siege...

Coal bid

small device exploded off the London bomb

Hospitals spending millions in fight to stave off closure

By JEREMY LAURANCE, HEALTH SERVICES CORRESPONDENT

hospitals are on new buildings and equipment in an attempt to stave off closure as the propaganda war over their future intensifies. Teaching hospitals under threat from the Tomlinson enquiry into the capital's health services are pouring money into new facilities that be closed within months. being thrown after bad by an investment strategy which is relying on money from public appeals and mustee's charita-ble funds as well as health authority resources. But the hospitals believe that new facilities and equipment will make it more difficult for late submission last week to the Tomlinson enquiry, whose trying to spend their way out region, said.

PR battle over way to run health care

By Alison Roberts

risk of cuts and closures as publication of the Tomlinson report on London's health service draws nearer are fighting a public relations battle.

St Thomas's Hospital, in London is putting on the strongest show. Money from a trust fund established 900 years ago is being used to enlist the services of Sir Tim Bell. Baroness Thatcher's image maker and, recently, advisor to David Mellor.

Almost £43,000 is is being spent with his firm. Lowe Bell Public Relations Consultants. More than £90,000 is going to Ernst and Young Manage-ment and another £14,000 is being spent on hospital signs.

A large portion of the £160.770 total is going towards research into a pan-London study of hospital services. St Thomas's argues that submissions to Tomlinson have come from health authorities, which concentrate on their patch. effectively quartering the capital. 'St Thomas's is the favourite child of no one health authority because we exist on the report is due on the desk of Virginia Bottomley, the health secretary, desk on October 15, the North East Thames regional health authority gave a warning that hospitals were

"We wanted to put up a marker that we were concerned about the level of investment going on while the future of a lot of institutions was uncertain." Chris Howgrave-Graham. London review co-ordinator for the

Some investments were long planned but there was a ministers to close them. In a ing those things the hospitals

HOSPITALS thought to be at boundaries of several," said a spokesman. "The health service in London has kept very hospitals work together."

The hospital says that the trust fund has always been ring-fenced for projects that the national health service would not fund and is not taking money away from medical services. It also says that the health department employs advertising agencies. Charing Cross Hospital has internal public relations staff and access to those covering all of the Riverside Health Authority. There are no plans for a big promotional cam-paign, but staff briefings have been held to "explain the hospital's strengths? Charles Marshall, the chief executive of the University College/Middlesex Hospitals. said that the complex had put its case to Tomlinson without employing PR men. If the verdict were unfavourable, a greater PR mobilisation might be needed.

St Bartholomew's is thought to have had extra PR help for its fight.

Five year term. Example assumes deposit of £8,200 on or before 6 October 1992 and shows terum for a basic rate taxpaser (at current rates of rax). Withdrawals may be subject to payment of a fee and loss of tax-exempt status. Full details available on request from National & Provincial Building Society, Provincial House, Bradford BDI INL. Telephone 0274 733444.

National & Provincial Building Society

TO GUARANTEE TURNING THIS

INTO THIS

TAKE OUT AN

N&P GUARANTEED TESSA I.

Whether you want to invest from as little as £100 up to £8,200, our Guaranteed TESSA I offers a fixed rate of interest over 5 years. To make the most of your money call our helpline free between 8am and 8pm,

0800 44 66 00

No-one's busier on your behalf

£12,657

have to do from those they are doing in order to say 'Look. can you possibly close us?." he

Less than a formight ago. St Bartholomew's hospital - one of four the Tomlinson enquiry is expected to name and with charitable assets of £60 million new £15 million operating theatres, partly paid for by the hospital's special trustees. St Bartholomew's has spent £50 million in the last five years in a refurbishment programme. still continuing. Children's wards, day surgery wards and out-patient facilities have been

Last week, St Thomas's, whose future is also threatened and with charitable assets of £65 million. announced that it was spending £1.2 million to expand the work of its sexually transmitted diseases clinic, paid for with health authority funds. It opened a new £5 million scanner, underwritten by the special trustees last summer and started work on a £3.2 million expansion of the accident and emergency

St Thomas's is battling for survival with the neighbouring Guy's and Kings College hospitals, both of which have spent hundreds of millions of pounds on new buildings in recent years. South East Thames regional health authority said in its submission to the Tomlinson enquiry last summer that all three could not survive.

Charing Cross hospital, another on Tomlinson's list, took over a £3 million extension to the cancer radiotherapy department last month together with new equipment worth El million. But its fate has been sealed by the open-ing next year of the new 665bed Westminster and Chelsea Hospital.

The fourth hospital expected to be named in the Tomlinson report, University College/Middlesex, has attempted to pre-empt closure by announcing plans to sacrifice the 350-bed Middlesex to save the 400-bed University College hospital, a scheme that is reported to have impressed the Tomlinson team.

climb into a ward at St George's Hospital in Tooting. south London, that was closed early yesterday after a fire. Twenty-live patients from Ogle Ward have been moved to other parts of the hospital. The blaze damaged more than half the ground floor and a quarter of the second floor of Knightsbridge wing. About 130 patients, some in beds and seriously ill, and 21 staff

ac intensive care were considered too ill to be moved but would have taken part in the evacuation if the fire had threatened the unit. The blaze lasted for three hours and at one point firefighters fearing radiation leaks evacuated surrounding residential properties. Andrew Dillon, the hospital's chief executive, said only files and records were destroyed as all radioactive that the cardiac unit was well away from the fire: "Staff were supurb in the evacuation: the patients were moved sensitively and very quickly to other parts of the hospital. One ward will now be unoccupied. closed for up to two weeks after smoke and water damaged the building." A fire brigade spokesman said the blaze was one of the largest in London this year.

shut down on descent to Gatwick

By HARVEY ELLIOTT

THE starboard engine of a new Airbus A-320 shut itself down as the crowded jet crossed northern France at

Although there was no immediate danger from the shut down, the Incident has alarmed manufacturers of both the engine and the aircraft. It suggests the highly sophisticated electronic computers which control the en-gine could be capable of developing a mind of their own and countermanding decisions made by the crew.

The A-320, belonging to the charter airline Air 2000 and registered G-OOAC, was crossing Abbeville on its way from Venice to Gatwick with 135 passengers and seven crew on September 26. As the pilot slowed down and began the descent towards Gatwick, the starboard engine continued to "wind down" until it was running at well below the flight idle speed at which jet engines turn in the descent. The captain had to shut the engine down completely - a routine operation that did not affect safety. As the A320, which was on a temporary lease to Monarch Airlines. reached 14,000ft he succeeded in re-starting the engine, enabling him to make a normal two-engined landing. Despite a detailed check of all the systems, the fault has not been traced, but it is believed to involve the "engine over-speed valve", which restricts the flow of fuel to the engine

The V2500 engine is made by IAE, an international consortium of which Rolls-Royce has a 30 per cent stake, which is trying to break into the Airbus market. A spokesman said last night: "This is the only uncommanded rundown we have had but we are taking it very seriously. We have sent all the electronic components and valves back to the manufacturers for testing and told our customers of the incident. We are now awaiting a full as power is cut.

Jet engine | Amsterdam flight recorder is found

BY OUR AIR CORRESPONDENT

THE flight recorder from the El Al Boeing 747 freighter which crashed into an Amsterdam block of flats was last night being examined by experts at Farmborough.

The blackened and dented data recorder was found in the rubble of the flats into which the jumbo jet plunged on Sunday with the loss of at least 200 lives. Dutch officials decided that it should be sent to the Department of Transport's air accident investiga-tion branch at Farmborough because it has the most sophis-ticated techniques for deci-phering any information which may remain intact.

Dutch officials said yesterday that the jet had a mid-air engine fire on a flight bound for Amsterdam in July. The fire was extinguished by the plane's system before it landed.

The black box automatic-ally keeps a second by second check on engine temperatures, power settings, exhaust gas temperatures, as well as the aircraft's height, speed and heading. It also shows the position of the flaps, slats and control column It will be taken apart and the wire tape, which records up to the last 36 hours of the aircraft's flying operations, will be taken out and fed through a decoder.

Letters, page 15

NEWS IN BRIEF

Editors denounce drive for privacy

Newspaper editors today warn against bringing in a privacy law in the wake of recent coverage of the royal family. David Mellor, Virginia Bottomley and other public figures. Such a Mellor, Virginia Bottomiey and other public ingures. Such a law is "injustified and wrong in principle" and would act "as a shield to protect these privileged social groups", the Guild of British Newspaper Editors says in its submission to Sir David Calcutt, who is reviewing press self-regulation.

Sir David should not "give undue weight in his assessment to the debate on the merits or otherwise of the grievances of five to six public figures." the editors say. The guild says that politicians, local councillors, the wealth, members of the health and legal establishments, business, the executive, prominent figures and other opinion formers including the media itself are all legitimate areas of responsible enquiry. A privacy law would protect such groups. They challenge politicians and in particular Clive Soley MP to produce evidence of the nature of the public complaints that they say merit legislative measures. The guild strongly supports the existing Press Complaints Commission and its code of practice. Only 11 of 70 complaints against the regional press in 1991 were upheld by the commission, and only two concerned privacy.

Nurse threatened

The nurse who reported a consultant for injecting a patient with a lethal dose of potassium chloride has received threatening phone calls and letters. Sister Roisin Hart, who reported Dr Nigel Cox at the Royal Hampshire County Hospital, Winchester, after reading his medical notes, said that a man had threatened to assault her in the hospital car park. Dr Cox was found guilty of trying to murder a 76-year-old woman and was given a 12-month suspended prison sentence. Sister Hart said: "By documenting what he had done. Dr Cox involved the nurses . . . I just want the system changed so that other nurses faced with a similar dilemma can make the right decision without the persecution."

New BBC executive

The BBC has appointed Pamela Taylor, the British Medical Association's head of public affairs, as its director of corporate affairs. She takes over the job in the midst of a debate about the renewal of the corporation's charter in 1996. Ms Taylor, 43, said: "I am joining the BBC at an important time. I look forward to carrying forward the public debate on the future of the BBC." Its director-general, Sir Michael Checkland, said: "The need for the BBC to be an effective and professional communicator has never been higher." Debate on the charter will centre on the way the corporation is run, the licence fee and the nature of public service broadcasting in the satellite age.

Crisps go chocolate

Chocolate flavoured crisps are being test-marketed in the North East and Scotland. Tudor Crisps, the company that was the first to give the country pickled onion, tomato and spring onion crisps, said: "Chocolate crisps are a special edition. We introduce a new flavour every three months to let people try something different. The last three were corned beef, chicken tikka and sweet and sour crisps. Chocolate seemed a fun idea." There are no immediate plans to put chocolate crisps in permanent production. Some shoppers in Newcastle were giving them an enthusiastic reception although David Wallace, 16, of South Gosforth, said: "Actually they need more chocolate."

Charities losing out

Charities are losing £500 million a year because people do not donate in the most cost-effective way, the Consumers' Association said today. Spontaneous donations are almost worthless, the new Which? Guide to Giving and Inheriting warns, advising forward planning and regular donations to enable charities to gain tax advantages. Deeds of covenant, gift aid and payroll giving are among the schemes recommended. According to the guide, £4 billion was given to charity last year, nearly half of which was in response to collections. advertisements and appeals, but charities were denied £500 million because people did not take advantage

Plea for contact

Margaret Still, left, has appealed to her son and daughter-in-law who disappeared at the weekend to contact her. Fears are growing for Rachel Still, 23, a mother of two, and her estranged husband Philip, 28, who have not been seen since Saturday. The couple, from Wervin, near Chester, failed to appear at a separation hearing on Monday and Mr Still missed a job

Church cash enquiry

Senior figures in the City of London are to examine the management of the Church of England's £2.4 billion assets. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr George Carey, yesterday announced an enquiry team that includes Peter Baring, chairman of Barings merchant bank and Alan McLintock, the impact of the Woodrich Building Society. chairman of the Woolwich Building Society. The enquiry was prompted by reports that the Church Commissioners. who manage the church's assets, had suffered losses of £500 million on investments. Dr Carey has commissioned Coopers and Lybrand, the accountants, to examine the commissioners' borrowings. They will also look at what information is needed for the best management of assets.

Crowther still critical

The television personality Leslie Crowther remained in a critical condition last night in the intensive care unit at the Frenchay Hospital, Bristol. Doctors said Mr Crowther, 59, had maintained the slight improvement he had shown on Tuesday but his condition overall had not changed. He has had two operations to remove blood clots from the brain since receiving a head injury after his Rolls-Royce careered off the M5 near Cheltenham on Saturday.

Now you can answer your business and personal unication needs with the Pocket Answer-Machine. Put an Answer-Machine in your Pocket ONLY £12 PER MONTH As an answer-machine, it takes messages for you on an advanced recording system. As a pager, it alerts you

PHONE FREE NOW: 0800 801 808

WC hir

wer dri

Salia says F

UPSI CO ISD

Black star for EastEnder characters meant 'very painful removal'

Writer drew up slaughter list for TV soap players

A SCRIPTWRITER yesterday treated a judge in the High Court to an exposition of the way sentence of death is passed in the world of television soap operas.

N BAIEF

David Yallop, the script-writer recruited by the BBC to rescue the ratings of East-Enders, described how he intended to weed poor performers from the cast, dis-pensing carnage and "painful death" by means of an IRA bomb, armed robbery, suicide and fatal disease.

Mr Yallop said that he had been hired by the BBC to write a year's supply of storylines for the EastEnders. He was paid off with a £7,500 fee from the BBC.

He maintains that he spent 70 days working on 100,000 words of story outlines and alleges breach of contract. He claiming more than £70,000 in unpaid fees.

Mr Yallop revealed that the show's producers planned to get rid of actors whose professional abilities they regarded as inadequate. As a result few characters in the successful television soap were to be left untouched by tragedy, and the death rate among the cast resembled that of the

Mr Yallop smiled grimly in court as he explained how he marked his cast list with black stars, signifying untimely

He said: "I had a list of the cast in front of me. Some would be written out just naturally, others would be more painfully removed."

Judge Gervase Sheidon asked: "The black stars were painful?" Mr Yallop replied: Very painful."

Mr Yallop, of Hornsey, north London, said that he was hired by the BBC to write a year's supply of storylines for the EastEnders. He was asked to cut the cast by ten and to lift the show above ITV's Coronation Street in

Mr Yallop and EastEnders producer Mike Gibbon de-cided the fate of the cast in a two-week brain storming session in September 1989. One of the first characters to go was to be the illegitimate child of Wicksey, onetime barman at the EastEnders' He told the court that the pub, the Queen Vic.

Mr Yallop explained: "We had to reach a decision with the illegitimate child who was in the process of being born as a result of an earlier story-line. We wanted to know what to

Targets: Peter Dean, left, and Rani Singh, due for violent ends in the series, and, right, David Yallop, who planned their doorn

Steven "seriously ill", but the reprieve was temporary. Mr Yallop said: "In episode 606 I resolved the problem." On his draft storyline he wrote the words "Baby die".

acting abilities of the cast were a key factor in deciding with Mr Gibbon who should He said: "When it became apparent that the producer required the removal of certain members of the cast, the reasons being given were in some instances, delicate.

They concerned the professional view the producer had of various actors and

Mr Yallop intended Barbara, the girl-friend of market-stall holder Pete Beale, played by Alannah O'Sullivan, to meet her end in an IRA bomb explosion at the Albert Square community centre.

Pete himself, a role still taken by Peter Dean, was to be gravely injured in the blast and to succumb shortly afterwards. Mr Yallop said: "He would linger for a while and then die."

Suña Karim, the wife of snopkeeper, Ashraf Karim, played by Rani Singh, was to be killed in a raid on the couple's newly acquired sub post office. Mr Yallop's script did allow

Mr Karim to overcome his grief and acquire a new bride through an advertisement placed by fax in the Bangladeshi Times.

Sadly she too was to die, committing suicide when she was confronted by the culture shock of arriving in the trage-

Mr Yallop and Mr Gibbon arranged a two day seminar for the series' scriptwriters to explain the dramatic change of direction planned for the soap, but Mr Yallop said: "It didn't take place because the producer. Mr Gibbon, was removed from the series and my services were no longer

Mr Yallop is also the author of In God's Name, a book which alleges that Pope John Paul I was murdered.

The case continues today.

Five hurt in litter bin bomb explosion

By RICHARD FORD HOME CORRESPONDENT

SCOTLAND Yard's anti-terrorist squad was yesterday bomb blast that injured five people in central London.

The device went off near Piccadilly Circus 35 minutes after a coded warning had been telephoned to a local radio station. But the warning did not give a specific location and police were still searching for the device when an explosion ripped through a litter

1.45am hurled fragments of the bin through the air. The five injured were taken to Westminster hospital but were not seriously hurt and were allowed home after treatment.

They were a taxi driver, a trainee cab driver who had been on a scooter, two men and a women who had been walking near the scene of the

Sally Bassett, a sister at the hospital, said: They were all walking wounded, suffering from shock and bruises from falling to the ground with the force of the blast."

Luke Canham, 19, who was treated for shock and an injured arm, said he had been told by road sweepers that a bomb had been planted in a litter bin in Panton Street. "I had walked past the bank and was about 25 yards away when there was this huge bang. I felt the blast and there was a whoosh of air past me. I'dived for cover and burt my arm as I fell.

The worst bomb attack in London this year was on April-10, the day after the general election, when an IRA car bomb killed three people and injured 91 others in the City of

Fear festers along west Belfast's thin peace line

Edward Gorman reports on a protest by Ulster Catholics at the rise in murder attempts by unionist gunmen barracks at New Barnsley looked especially sinister yesterday. Set against a grey autumnal sky and the dark line of the Black Mountain. that overlooks west Belfast, the concrete walls, metal sangars and observation posts took on a threatening aspect.

About forty residents gathwhere concrete blocks are placed to deter car bombers, to make their protest. These were unemployed Roman Catholic men and women, some with babies in prams, who say they have reached the end of their tether over the constant threat of attacks by unionist gummen crossing the peace line which separates Catholic and Protes-

In contrast to the rhetoric of government ministers and noliticians carried away with the apparent progress of the

In the shadow of violence: protesters at the barracks

THE joint police and army talks on Northern Ireland, these people spoke not of reconciliation or peace, but of contempt and haired for their Protestant neighbours. To them nothing has changed in Northern Ireland except, in many respects, to get worse.

The solution they advocate to their security problem is not to pull down the walls of West They want their Springvale area to be fenced in complete-ly, insteads of on three sides at present, so that unionists cannot get in at night to shoot at Catholic homes.

Because most of the demonstrators were from a hardline Sinn Fein area, they could hardly be seen to be asking for extra army and police patrolling. They directed their anger at the Northern Ireland Office, saying it should be pre-pared to spend more and to listen more to its reluctant constituents in West Belfast.

Their self-appointed leader, Michael Donnelly, 43, an outof-work pipelayer, said that the protest was non-political and not backed by Sinn Fein. He wanted money made avail-able so that residents could secure their homes at night and "a wall for the people" to be built along the back of the

A few hundred yards away on the unionist side of the line, a housewife whose council house looks out on to the wall seemed happy in her divided world. "It's great," she said.
"Just normal." And the wall? "I think it's OK," she added, smiling and shutting the door neatly behind her.

Thompson: killed by mugger in Florida

Girl tells of murder in Florida

By Peter Victor

THE girl friend of the murdered British tourist Keith in Florida, yesterday told how she tried to save his life. Ann Sole, 34, broke her silence as American detectives mounted a huse manhunt for the killers of Mr Thompson. 42. a postman from Cheimford. Essex, and the Orlando/Orange County Visitors Bureau announced a $5,000 (£2,900) reward for the gang.

Miss Sole told press in London how she, Mr Thompson, and two friends had just arrived at their holiday hotel when the muggers struck: "One of them pointed a gun at us and said. 'Give us your money.' I spoke as calmly as I could and said, 'There is no problem here, I will get it for you.' Keith's equally natural reaction was to say, 'No way.'

The other two said, 'Leave it, Keith.' But everything happened too fast. Keith was shot in the chest from about eight feet away. The robbers es-caped with a wallet and a security pouch. We laid Keith on the ground and I started mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and at the same time a nurse gave him heart massage." Mr Thompson died in hospital.

Yachts duel for supremacy

Vivien Cherry, skipper of the Coopers & Lybrand, sends her first Times dispatch from the British Steel Challenge round-the-world yacht race

A CLOSE encounter last night with another yacht did wonders for the sail trimmers' concentration and was a boost to us all. We crossed a quarter of a mile in front of Interspray, then the leading yacht. It had taken us days to climb back to the front of the fleet, where we had so gloriously started on September 26. Our position then did not last long, though a wave of relief and relaxation rolled over us; relief that the years of waiting had ended and relaxation as the race finally began. Routine took a few days to settle, but the Bay of Biscay soon reminded us of its notori-ety. In the early hours of the Monday morning waves were washing over the deck. One of the galleys was inundated, since most of the ventilation hatches had been left open. Another lesson relearned, and I doubt if that was the last

Lots of sail changes as we crossed the bay with tired arms, and half the crew down with my cold. The knack of quicker sail changes is to have the next correct sail ready in advance. With more practice, I think we will get it right most

We have a rota of four 4hour watches, each taking its turn to cook and clean. We have become a tightly knit group, with everyone feeling free to insult each other.

Ann found our first flying fish floundering on the foredeck, a beauty but not quite enough to feed us all. It was gutted and expland to profess. gutted and cooked to perfec tion by Brian. We are currently west of Tenerife, in the Canary Islands, lying in second place after Interspray crept past us in. It is our first sight of land for about five days. Mount Teide formed a speciacular backdrop for photographs.

DPP tries to close drink-drive loophole

By FRANCES GIBB LEGAL CORRESPONDENT

THE Director of Public Prosecutions, Barbara Mills QC. yesterday tried in the High Court to plug a loophole in drink-drive law opened by a test case. If she fails, an estimated 100,000 fined and disqualified drivers could gain the quashing of convictions for failing to give breath, blood, or urine samples.

Alun Jones QC, for the DPP, told three judges that it was "of great importance". with 150 applications for judicial review already made by drivers. They can fairly be said to represent only a small proportion of the number of cases involved, dating back, on one view, to 1972, and, on another, to 1981," he said.

Yesterday, applications for judicial review were brought by six drivers asking Lord Justice Walkins, Mr Justice Macpherson and Mr Justice Roch to clear them on the basis of a test ruling in June that wording on the standard police charge sheet was faulty. Sean Sexton, the solicitor who found the loophole, said yesterday that he was "very surprised" to have had no notice of the hearing since he was now acting for 2,000 motorists in the same position. Last month, at Southwark Crown Court, Kogi Kum-boono Gandaa, a computer engineer, had a ban overturned on the strength of the test case. Yesterday's hearing was the first challenge in the High Court.

In June, two High Court judges found Bootle magis-trates correct to throw out a case against a jobless drinkdrive suspect. Terry Corcoran, 43, for failing to provide samples in breach of the 1988 Road Traffic Act. They found the charge sheet "bad for duplicity" because it did not specify whether he was investi-gated for "driving or attempt-ing to drive" under one section of the act, or, under another section, of "being in charge of a vehicle". A defendant cannot be tried on one charge for two different possible offences.

Mr Jones argued that Mr Corcoran had been charged with only one offence, and that a charge implying two was not necessarily invalid. The hearing continues today.

SOCIAL ACTION ON BBC RADIO ONE FM

Hear about the job opportunities in Europe, over the channel.

Tune into BBC Radio One FM for Euro Action week And pick up the most essential guide to living, studying, and Action Special is One FM's most established social action campaign. It has been a regular feature on the network since 1979 and to date, it has given help and advice to over two million people in the UK. But this is the first time it will be broadcast from across Europe. Our top presenters will bring young people practical information and advice on jobs, training, benefits and welfare rights, from such locations as Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Dublin, Amsterdam, Madrid and other

Further information and advice will be available from the free One FM Action Special helpline set up during that week.

So tune in between 8th and 16th October and catch wind of all the job opportu-

Australia says Britain is a poor cousin

By Julia Liewellyn Smith

BRITISH pride reached a fronts along London's new low yesterday when Strand But Graham Mc-Norman Lamont's Australian counterpart described how homeless Londoners were bedding down in the doorway of Anstralia House .

in the Strand. There is 10.9 per cent cial said: "We would be very unemployment Down Under, but John Dawkins, to sleep on our steps. We the Australian Treasurer, told his parliament after a recent visit to Europe "If you want to see a country in recession, go to Britain. People go around looking for doorways in which to huddle and go into doorways to beg for some kind of support that their government will not give them. At about five o'clock every evening there is a rush to see who can occupy the doorways of Australia

Yesterday the doorsteps of Australia House were clear, as were shop and restaurant

Donald of Outreach, a charity that helps the homeless, said about 40 people would set up sleeping quarters in the street through the night.

An Australia House offihave guards and security cameras everywhere." A receptionist was more revealing. "I have no comments . . . People do sleep along the Strand and we are at the far end of the Strand. Does that sue Archer, a personnel officer from Melbourne. Australia, on her first visit to London, said: "I have noticed the amount of beggars on the streets and people sleeping in shop doorways and at first it shocked me. We have those kinds of problems in Melbourne, but 14,645.

they are not so visible. People find parks to sleep in, rather than the streets. I think we have better resources there." According to the Department of the Environment, the number of homeless on the Strand was a key factor in embarrassing the government into introducing new housing initiatives. "Tour-ists had to climb over bodies to walk down the street," a spokesman said.

At any time there are about 2,000 people sleeping rough in London, compared with an average of 650 in the 1960s and 1970s. Not only is the recession putting Britons on the streets, it is also preventing them from escaping to sunnier climes. Last year the number of UK residents emigrating to Australia reached an all-time low of

The North is being unfairly starved of housing resources in comparison to the South because of the highprofile problems of homessuess in the capital, Northern-based housing associations say.

The 12 housing associa-tions have formed the Regional Equity Group to campaign against unfair dis-tribution of resources for social housing (Rachel Kelly writes).
While only 16 per cent of new funding for social hous-ing is being directed at North East, the North West and Merseyside, more than half is targeted at London and the South-East.

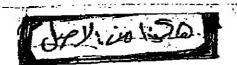

lan Perry, chairman of the group, said: "We are not saying there is no problem in the South. But such an unjustifiable imbalance can only be seen as political expediency."

There's still one place where luxury air-conditioned office space moves fast.

At up to 125 mph in fact. Get down to work in First Class, and at the end of the day, you know you've really got somewhere. INTERCITY

For an InterCity guide to services call 081 200 0200.

per block

Sm pl

docking ba

Court blocks police negligence' claim over husband's death

By RICHARD FORD, HOME CORRESPONDENT

THREE appeal court judges yesterday blocked a widow's attempt to win compensation for negligence from the police following the death of her husband at the hands of an obsessive killer.

OCTOBER &

ast.

The judges said that the woman had an arguable case because is could be said that the family had been exposed to risk from the killer. But they ruled that police should not be sued in circumstances involving alleged failures to detect of suppress crime.

Lord Justice Beldam said:
"On the grounds of public policy, the plaintiff's claims are not maintainable against the defendant."

The judges backed earlier court decisions that permission to allow such legal actions to proceed would lead to all kinds of compensation claims being brought against police. Mulkiye Osman and her son Ahmed were suing the Metropolitan police for negligence following the killing of Mrs Osman's husband by a teacher who had warned that he would carry out a "thing-like Hungerford" because of his obsession with the Ahmed

Paul Paget-Lewis, a sus-pended teacher, had become obsessed with the youth, then 15, whom he taught at a school in Hackney, east London. He changed his name to Osman and allegedly harassed the boy and his

Justices Beldam and Simon Brown, said yesterday that Paget-Lewis had formed a "strange and unhealthy" at-tachment for Ahmed Osman.

After his behaviour led to his supersion from Homerton

House school, Hackney, he was alleged to have told a police officer that the loss of his job was so distressing that "he might do something criminally insane". Interviewed by an Inner London Education Authority inspector, he said he was "going to do something that would be a sort of Hungerford but it would not police were aware of the situation and that he should not worry about his safety or that of his family.

Leave to appeal to the House of Lords was refused, although the Osmans can still apply directly to the law lords happen at the school". A police officer was said t have told Mr Osman that the

He went to the family's home in Clapton, east London, and killed Ali Osman, the boy's father, and seriously injured. Ahmed. After the shooting in 1987, Paget-Lewis went to the home of his deputy headmaster, shot and injured him and killed his 17-year-old son. He was arrested shortly afterwards and cent to Broadmoor.

Counsel for Mrs Osman alleged in the appeal court that in spite of being aware of Paget-Lewis's infatuation with Ahmed and his harassment of the family, police did not pursue the teacher after a raid on his home failed to find him.

Mirs Osman and her son laimed that police failed to act after earlier incidents in which the teacher daubed graffiti on their home, superglued the locks to their front door and slashed the tyres of the family

They said that the police had been negligent and that what happened at their home could have been prevented if Paget-Lewis had been detained. Lord Justice McCowan, sitting with Lord

Towering success: Geoff Preston, a stone carver, puts the finishing touches to a beast on the National Trust's tower at Lacock Abbey. Wiltshire. The beasts were put into storage between the wars because they had been so badly eroded. The trust has spent £110,000 restoring the tower built by William Sharington in about 1550

Green light for cheaper milk supply

BY MICHAEL HORNSBY AND TOM WALKER

BRUSSELS approved a radi-cal shake-up of Britain's Milk Marketing Board yesterday that should lead to cheaper milk and a wider range of home-produced cheeses and yoghurts. Officials working for Sir Leon Brittan, the European Community's competition commissioner, said: "One would imagine a downward pressure on prices."

Bob Steven, the chairman of the board, welcomed the announcement by Sir Leon, saying it would help to ensure market in milk "from which milk producers, dairy companies and consumers will all benefit". Dairy trade officials. however, questioned whether the reforms would increase

With approval from Brus-sels, the board is now free to turn itself into a voluntary cooperative, shedding the monopoly powers it has had since the 1930s to buy and sell all the milk produced in England and Wales. The board expects the plan to receive the royal assent next summer and to come into effect early in 1994.

Sellafield hot spots reported

By RONALD FAUX

FRIENDS of the Earth claimed yesterday to have discovered 33 new radioactive "hot spots" caused by dis-charges from the Sellafield nuclear reprocessing plant in

The environmental pressure group said its radiation monitoring unit had found the previously unreported con-tamination in 17 sites along estuaries in south Cumbria, Lancashire, Merseyside and North Wales. The 33 hot spots are concentrated in seven different locations.

A spokesman for British Nuclear Fuels, which is applydischarges from the plant into the sea, rejected the survey as a "typical example of scare-mongering". Changes the company were seeking in dis-charge levels would make little difference and monitoring had shown that levels were well within safe limits.

Two admit £5m plot to raid vault

TWO men yesterday admitted a plot to snatch £5 million in cash, jewels and gold. The pair planned to raid the KLM cargo depot vault at Heathrow airport by kidnapping the warehouse manager and holding his wife and his daughter hostage. However, police had planted two undercover officers inside the gang, the Old Bailey was told. When Carl Harrison, former soldier, burst into the manager's home at Staines, west London, he was faced in police with sub-machinestics.

His target, Ian Blake, 50, thicken whisked away by police, and Mr Blake's wife Task decided to take a v

Harrison's accomplice.
Peter White, working in the inside at the warehouse was arrested at the airpeaugus ap operation involving tipes 50 police officers.

White, 34, of Liesson, west

London, on The day admitted conspiring to kidney acquisite ing to rob and having a fixe-arm without a certificate. Harrison, 30, of Heinslow, west London, had denied signilar charges, but yesterday admitted them after Judge Laughland QC rejected a defence argument, that secret tape recordings by unidentified undergover officers were inadmissible as evidence. Sentence will be passed figure.

The court was told that an informer told police of White's plan, and introduced two undercover officers to White. On the day of the planned raid, the want held £5.3 million in cash, jewels and gold.

trot.

Some free flight bonus schemes are like walking the wrong way up an escalator.

It takes a long time to get anywhere.

Not so with British Midland.

Our Diamond Club scheme, 'Destinations' awards bonus points on every Diamond Service flight, domestic and international.

So they soon add up.

Quickly achieving enough points for a free flight anywhere on our growing European and domestic nerwork.

And beyond, thanks to a unique link-up with 3 other major airlines.

Virgin, SAS and United Airlines.

Which means, 'Destinations' takes you a whole lot further, a whole lot faster.

For more information on 'Destinations' and Diamond Club membership, call British Midland on 0332 854 328.

The quicker. The better.

DIAMOND

CLUB

DESTINATIONS

flights to se	DIAMOND CLUB DESTINATIONS	TYPICAL FREQUENT
C)e		1 .
NEW YORK	32	85
LOS ANGELES	32	132
SINGAPORE	41	163
STOCKHOLM	8	24
EDINBURGH	. 5	9
NICE	12	17

Dogfight expected over docking ban

By MICHAEL HORNSBY AGRICULTURE CORRESPONDENT

are heading for a hackle-raising clash with pedigree dog owners and breeders over moves to end the docking of dogs' tails except to treat disease or injury.

Tail-docking has been practised since the time of the ancient Romans, who thought it prevented rabies, and is still fiercely defended on cosmetic and other grounds. Breeders fear that customarily docked breeds will become unsaleable if left as nature intended.

Some 50 of the 185 breeds registered with the Kennel Club, the studbook authority for pedigree dogs since 1873, have traditionally been docked. They inciude corgis, the Queen's favourite canine, boxers, do-bermans, old English sheepdogs, rottweilers and many spaniels and terriers. At a meeting next month. the council of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons is expected to rule that non-therapeutic taildocking should be regarded as prima facie evidence of "disgraceful conduct", for which a vet can be struck off:

sociation, which opened its annual congress at Har-rogate, Yorkshire, yesterday, supports such a move. John Bower, a past president, said. The great ma-jority of vets want an end to docking. We would have preferred the government to impose the barr but they have left it up to us." ··· At the moment, a vet can dock dogs' tails for cosmetic reasons without fear of being disciplined even though the royal college's professional conduct guide states that the operation is unnecessary mutilation" and "not ethically

In practice, breeders usually do the docking them-selves, using a small bone cutter or scissors without anaesthetic when the puppy is three or four days old, or by means of an elastic band, which stops the supply of blood, causing the tail to drop off. From July 1 1993, allowed to dock.

Europe's 'prizes' dangled in front of Maastricht opponents

Heseltine papers over party cracks

By Sheila Gunn and Arthur Leathley

don't know the Tory party.

We've come here this week as the party of government.

We've come because we won,

The trade and industry de-

the prime minister,

bate, which was not attended brought repeated cries for confidence in industry, although recipes for recovery

swung between further interest rate cuts and higher capital plans for launching a massive export drive with the help of 100 people seconded from British companies together

Mr Heseltine announced government action to restore not because we lost."

on Europe.

MICHAEL Heseltine challenged the Euro-sceptics headdemolish the anti-Maastricht case and vigorously support John Major's commitment to ratify the treaty.

In a barnstorming performance, which restored to him the mande of the Tory confer-ence's darling, the one-time leadership candidate twice brought party activists to their feet in Brighton when he almost casually dismissed those who criticised the Maastricht treaty.

The president of the Board of Trade catalogued the 'prizes" awaiting Britain through being an integral and committed part of Europe. He said that no Conservative government would see Britain marginalised on the periphery of Europe. No Conservative politician in office could advo-

"And that is why John Major went to Maastricht. He went to fight for our essential interests.

As a few hisses rose up from the floor. Mr Heseltine continued undaunted: "I know of no British leader who negotiated a treaty more directly tailored to British self-interest than he did there."

Then, using one of the oldest political tricks in the book, he first handed the Euro-sceptics a deliberate bait. The whole history of the European Community has isation in Brussels," he ventured. A cry of "it shouldn't" predictably filled the pause.

Mr Heseltine turned on him: "Then what the heck are you complaining about when John Major has reversed the

As cheers heavily out-weighed protests. Mr Heseltine said sarcastically: This is the articulate voice of the Tory party. I cannot understand a word it says and, even if I did, it is not worth istening to.

He was not finished. As a lone heckler refused to back down, he sighed: "One against so many. You just

Although his speech may have only papered over the cracks, he undoubtedly succeeded in refocusing the party with a pledge that "manufacturing industry matters". He said that 15 new divisions had been set up within his department, ranging from aerospace to chemicals, electronics to textiles, to liaise with

"We are there to help," he said. "We have no subsidies, no pot of gold, no magic wand, and not many illusions. We will endorse no moaner's charter. But when industry argues a good case, we will support them in Whitehall, in Brussels, anywhere, everywhere where it is proper for us

One-stop shops would soon

away from the open warfare CONFERENCE They're saying that we've NEWS & VIEWS come here this week to lick our wounds and bandage our limbs." he said. "I say, they Peter Riddell > be opened in 15 towns to advise firms and business

Law and order.

Dole fraud.

people, he added. Although Mr Heseltine made it clear that he was not in the business of rescuing bankrupt companies or subsidising loss-making project, he audaciously owned up to being an interventionist; the label which condemned him in the eyes of Margaret

"If I have to intervene to help British companies, like the French government helps French companies, or the German government helps German companies, or the Japanese government helps Japanese companies, then ... I'll intervene." he said.

During the debate Richard Reeves, from North West Essex, was cheered when he called on the government to stimulate economic recovery through investment in infrastructure, which was "in a deplorable state". Many public services, including schools, roads, and housing, were now a disgrace, he said. Britain's position at the forefront of ndustrial development was at took action. "We don't want want orders for the goods and services we can make and supply; and we want them

He called on Norman Lamont, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, to show more confidence to encourage consum-er optimism and said that investment in British Rail was a key part of improving the economy. "Make British Rail a rolling stock and not a laughing stock," he said, add-ing: "There are no green shoots if you don't plant your Peter Fleet, from Southampton, was among several speakers who called for the vernment to take advantage of the withdrawal from the exchange rate mechanism by lowering interest rates. We need a commitment that interest rates will be decisively cut and will stay cut and that taxes will not go up."

Anna Hawkins, a businesswoman from Croydon South, pleaded on behalf of small businesses that were being made bankrupt and asked the government to raise from £1.000 to £4,000 the debt threshold below which businesses are not made bankrupt.

> Diary, page 14 Leading article, page 15 Archer's party, L&T

Conference cover-up: a masked party organiser sets up shop to tempt representatives to buy tickets for today's Conservative ball in Brighton

TIDY UP THIS AUTUM Electronic ignition, semi-automatic bump feed head. Lawn Raker RE30 At B&Q you'll find everything you Rear grassbox with compactor need to tidy up your garden this Autumn and prepare it for Winter rakêr, scarifier and leaf co 12" (30cm) raking width. idray Spanian Ginge Grass and Leaf Sweeper 50 Heavy duty frame, An effective tool for sweeping and collecting grass and leaves from the lawn, galvanized pan. Easy to assemble. flagstones and asphalt. Complete with grass collection bag. True Temper Lawn/Leaf Rake FS24 24" polypropylene head with a wooden handle ICI 'Clean-Up' A Winter wash for dormant fruit trees and roses. Clears moss and stime from paths, patios, roofs, walls and lawns and is also a strong disinfectant for sterilizing greenhouse glass, staging and soil. Contains far acids. 500ml. Now is the time to give your lawn the fertilizer and top dressing it needs for strong root growth through the cold Winter months B&& Granular GRANILAB Autumn Lawn Feed Easily applied mini granules. Make the most of all your garden waste this Autumn. We have everything you need to turn it into perfect compost the easy way. Feeds and prepares the lawn for Winter. Revitalises existing lawns in Autumn. 3.5kg treats ◆ AL-KO H1100S Compost-Star Shredder B&Q Composi Maker Easy to apply granular form. Suitable for application to compost With microsafety switch. 1050 watt induction motor. heaps to aid quick breakdown of soft green garden household refuse. 6kg pack. Fisons Liquid Autumn Lawn Food A specially balanced fertilizer to help grass withstand hard Winter conditions and J.Arthur Bower's New Hortzon PeatFree Multipurpose Compost Peat free formula with a series give a healthy lawn next Spring. Rotoco Stide Panel Compost Bin R10 10 lough PVC panels. 100sq.metres Garotta Compost Maker Shaker Pack formula with periite and vermiculite to Loam Based Turf Dressing The original compost maker. Makes rich, One piece lid locks on. 311/1"(80 cm) height, 191/1" (48cm) diameter, 4.8 cu.ft capacity. BE WILLIAM COMMEN improve aeration, drainage and moisture refention. 80 Litre bag. of four areas -----A blend of fine loam, lime-free organic compost in weeks. No turning needed. 1kg pack. sand, sphagnum pect and petitle for better ceration and drainage. Promotes strong root growth and encourages

READ THE LABEL SEFORE YOU BUY: USE PESTICIDES SAFELY

OPEN 8AM-8PM

MONDAY TO

SATURDAY

MOST STORES

OPEN SUNDAYS

9AM-6PM

RING

081-466 4166

FOR YOUR NEAREST

STORE

FREE DELIVERY

WHEN YOU

SPEND

£100 OR MORE

No surcharge when you use your credit card.

The Lady fires both barrels on ERM

THESE are selected extracts from Baroness Thatcher's article in today's issue of The

"This Conservative government, like its predecessors, should have as its main priority the maintenance of our constitutional freedoms, our democratic institutions, and the accountability of Parliament to the people.

"Because I believe in these principles so deeply, I cannot support the ratification of the Maastricht treaty, and I welcome sterling's departure from the exchange-rate mechanism. The ERM and Maastricht are inextricably linked. The first is a prerequisite to the fulfilment of the second. We found the contines of the first unbearable - the straitjacket of the second would be

"Thanks to the decision to float the pound, we now have a chance it follow an economic policy that puts British needs first. Like the Maastricht treaty, the ERM in no way represents what is best for British interests."

Contrasting Britain's exchange-rate position with Germany's, Lady Thatcher said: "They put their country first and in doing so showed up the rency for a group of such divergent economies as those

"We now need an economic strategy which works with markets, not against them, is realistic and sustainable, and provides a framework for

"We must return to the policy of domestic monetary control that worked throughout most of the 1980s, cutting inflation from over 20% to under 4% while the economy expanded.

She said: "Our political debate on the Maastricht treaty and the future development of Europe has been conducted in, if possible, even less rational terms than our discussion of exchange rates.

"We are warned, from home and abroad, that it would be a national humiliation if Britain were left in the 'slow lane' while others sped towards economic and monetary union.

lik to ali mai

CINC

 $\sim 8$ ينيني وجواحق

in in a special control of the contr

in installed

e je i na pomet igitoliji

5. 医野

1.710

1. has

N. 17.

"- " Fin- ?

· · Spiritel

7° 5 /4 142

The training the Land

Title with

er territoria salati

1 1 m The state of the · 人 排 · PART I

· · · ं न्या वाक्ष्य

196 Abr. 18, 18

But as Lord Salisbury once pointed out, half the errors in politics come from taking metaphors literally. A 'two-tier' Europe would at least enable the different groups of Europe impossibility of a single cur- to pursue different visions."

Publishers churn out Maastricht editions

By KATE ALDERSON

KENNETH Clarke, a prime defender of the government's European policy, admitted yesterday in a radio interview that he had not read the Maastricht treaty, and said that most people would find it an uninteresting document full of legalese. However. Conservatives were yesterday rushing to buy copies of a combined version of the Treaty of Rome, the Single European Act and the Maastricht treaty from a small bookstall at the conference.

Anthony Cowgill, director of the British Management Data Foundation, said yesterday that Conservatives had found it difficult to get hold of copies of the Maastricht treaty, and were delighted to be able to purchase The Maastricht Treaty in Perspective - Consolidated Treaty on European Union, the only publication to combine all elements that comprise European Union. The Foundation has sold

1.000 copies of the combined treaty, costing £12.50, to busi-nesses, the Houses of Commons and Lords and the Conservative party. The government has re-fused to publish the text in this form, saying that it would be presumptious to do so before the treaty isin force, but the foundation believes that simply reading the Maastricht treaty will not give a clear idea about Europe.

French voters were sent free copies of the Treaty on European Union, the Irish had a summary of it sent to every home and the Danes could pick up free copies in their libraries. In Britain, government copies of the treaty cost between £6.50 and £13.30 and are subject to availability.

THE TREATY

David Pollard was so angry that copies were not freely available that he typed up a copy of it himself and then started publishing it from a small office in Oxford: "Our copy costs £2.95 and the idea was started by my business partner Susan Nel-son three weeks after the general election in April," he said. While Her Majesty's Stationery Office has sold a mere 6,000 copies of the treaty, David Pollard Publishers has sold almost 5,000 copies so far.

Free copies of the treaty on disc are also going to 170,000 computer magazine readers.

RATE FROM A SELECTION OF 30 TOP INSURERS ₹ 0345 123111 ALL CALLS CHARGED AT LOCAL RATE

Hill House Hammond

Chancellor walks fine line on EC

BY ARTHUR LEATHLEY

NORMAN Lamont sought last night to heal Conservative wounds opened up by Lord Tebbit's rousing speech on Europe to the Tory conference. The Chancellor, seen by some Tory Euro-sceptics as their most senior ally, steered a cautious path between the party's federal European loband its vociferous

AY OCTOBER,

He acknowledged the "great debate" continuing within the party, but referred diplomatically to the arguments being beset by misunderstanding", refusing to

Enthusiasts for a federal Europe often underestimate ment in the Community .... but the narrow nationalists refuse to acknowledge the obvious benefits that Europe

mitment to the Maastricht treaty, he called for the Conservative party to unite behind

Now it is our responsibility, not to turn our backs on Europe, but to join with the prime minister and use the huge influence of our nation and our party to ensure the Community becomes the workable, practical success we

In a wide-ranging speech on Europe. Mr Lamont restricted himself to discussing issues directly affecting the treaty and the EC, adding that he would dwell on exchange-rate mechanism matters when he addresses the conference

He spoke of his "ambitions, tempered by realism", to enlarge nations' economic potential and political influence without denying countries the right to be self-governing.

The achievement of those ambitions would create a more highly regarded community than would "the perilous construction of a grandiose political super-

He emphasised that he was speaking as one of Britain's three Maastricht treaty negotiators, and called the treaty "a firm step in the right direc-tion". He added that he, Mr Major, the prime minister, and Douglas Hurd, the forbelieve that it is good for Britain and for Europe."

Underlining his fervent commitment to subsidiarity

Ulster call rejected

Sir Patrick Mayhew rejected the proposal made by Bill Clinton, the American presidential candidate, for a special peace envoy in Northern Ireland (Sheila Gunn writes). After the conference debate yesterday, the Northern Ireland secretary said: "We do not need a peace envoy thank you very much. What we need is a settlement as a result of the talks process."

Sir Patrick said he was "a lot more optimistic now" about the talks on the political future of the province than he had been at the beginning of the pro-cess. He told the confer-ence: The people want them to succeed. They beg me to keep them going.

They are weary beyond words of the shackles of the

"You can be sure ... that we will not allow ourselves to be dismayed by any temporary setback we may

Such is the demand to speak in the economic debate today that the morning session will start 15 minutes earlier, at 9.15.

The Labour party's economic team, led by Gordon Brown, the shadow

chancelor, will scrutinise

Norman Lamont's speech and call on John Major to implement urgently a national recovery programme to bring Britain out of Today's agenda

The main debate at the conference today is on the economy. Other debates are on employment, the environment, health, defence, and national well yet meet."

Early start

pace of ever-closer union".

'National identity is rooted in history. We don't acquire it as an occasional habit. We feel it as a powerful emotion." the

"I do not think that in my lifetime, at the very least, there will be any consent for a massive transfer of sovereignty and power, let alone affection.

to a European state. And under this government such a

Mr Lamont insisted that people would deviand that their grievances be heard by institutions they understood. "If they are faced with a set of institutions that seem distant will be an awakening of bitterness and feeling that their politicians can no longer achieve anything on their behalf."

ter, added his weight to Tory calls for Euro-sceptic MPs to fall into line. He said that Mr Major had given Britain an opportunity to influence Europe significantly for the first time since joining the EC.

good sense of the Conservative party will not allow what was a triumph for Britain to turn

Speaking at a conference fringe meeting. Mr Garel-Jones, insisted that he re-mained passionately opposed to a sederal Europe but said that Britain should increase its influence in Europe.

He condemned those who said that Britain should accept country. "I don't believe the Conservative party will ever believe or accept that."

BR to sell off parcel

deliveries

THE first step towards the privatisation of the railways was taken yesterday when British Rail was authorised to sell off the Red Star Parcels business. The announcement was made at the Tory confer-ence by John MacGregor, the transport secretary.

The momentum towards privatisation was building up, be said. A bill would be published next month and a consultation paper aimed at potential franchisees would be

Mr MacGregor told report ers later that the paper was a market testing document. The government needed to know what kind of franchise ar-rangements the franchisees would like to see. About 50 companies had expressed an interest in taking up fran-chises, he said. He hoped the first would be in place by April

1994, but before then he hoped to have completed the sale of the freight and parcel

Mr MacGregor said that safety would be a priority and told reporters that the department and British Rail had been in talks with the Health

Mr MacGregor also an-nounced proposals to speed up the planning process for new motorways and bypasses. He said it took on average: 13 years to build a new road, from concept to completion, but construction took only two years. "There is all the difference in the world between being environmentally sensitive and environmentally ob-sessed." While being sensitive to local concerns, he did not agree with spending taxpay ers' money on decade-long arguments. He added that

London Buses would be privatised next year and a deregulation bill would follow.

and Safety Executive.

mblished next Monday.

"I very much hope that the Earlier, Tristan Garel-Jones, European affairs minisstate is not on the cards."

Chancellor said.

Lord Tebbit: party clothes fall out of fashion

Treaty heat leaves sceptics in the cold

M aastricht has become a distraction from the real challenges facing the Major government. The battle over the treaty will drag on over the winter and until the early summer, but the outcome is already clear. Barring further whirtwinds, the treaty will be ratified by Parliament in the current session. Douglas Hurd saw off the Eurosceptics on Tuesday and Michael Heseltine isolated them further yesterday.'

In a skilful performance, Mr Heseltine had the conference cheering Maastricht as being in Britain's national interests. By taking on and ridiculing the more vocal opponents of the treaty, he showed how invaluable he is to John Major and laid the ground for the prime minislooking speech on Friday. The debates on the treaty will, of course, be heated and long. Baroness Thatcher and Lord Tebbit will fulminate, as they have over the past two days, in ways which give a new twist to the meaning of no doubt be given an ecstatic reception this morning when the arrives on the conference platform, and this could stir embarrassing though the Thatcher and Tebbit interventions are to Mr Major, their shrill protests are those of the defeated. Hijacking the headlines is not the same as winning the battle.

RIDDELLIN BRIGHTON

More significant than the protests is the way the cabinet has united around ratification of Maastricht. The indefinite postponement of re-entry into the exchange rate mechanism has enabled ministers, whether Eurosceptic or Euro-enthusiast, to accept the treaty as a reason-able compromise, on which to base the government's European policy.

The speeches of cabinet ministers offer widely differ-ing views of the development of Britain's relations with the EC. But there is a common line: acceptance of Maas-tricht. Only the most pedan-tic could discern a split in their view of current policies. The words Maastricht and unity are treated as synony-mous. Mr Heseltine yester-day said he knew of "no a treaty more directly tailored to British self-interest than he Mr Major did there."

But their visions of Europe differ. On Tuesday, Kenneth Clarke celebrated British society becoming more European and denied that we would ever reach "a set of political buffers which mark the end of a completed journey". He denied that the Maastricht treaty was simply an exercise in damage limitation. By contrast, Peter Lilley talked of the EC in almost wholly hostile terms.

he most interesting con-I tribution came last night from Norman Lamont in his Conservative Political Centre lecture, entitled "Europe, a community not a superstate." This was billed as the Euroscepties case for supporting Maastricht. His theme was the importance of preserving national identity within a framework of European cooperation. His tone was gen-erally hostile to the ambitions of the Brussels Commission. He emphasised that Maastricht was only the beginning of subsidiarity. The inclusion of these provisions in the Maastricht treaty, although far from signalling the end of the battle, indicate that a new and potentially useful front has been opened up." The key passages referred to the politics of the Maastricht treaty, the joint negoti-ations by Mr Major, Mr Hurd and Mr Lamont: "We all strongly believe that is good for Britain and for Europe." He emphasised the "substantial" concessions made to Britain last December, not just on subsidiarity but also on co-operation between governments.

In short, Mr Lamont is fully on board for Maastricht. along with Mr Major and Mr Hurd. The message is clear: if they agree, so should the rest of the Tory party, including those suspicious of Brussels. That will not, of course, end the public argument. But the real debate now within the Tory party, and the govern-ment, is about the direction of economic policy, and fill-ing the gap left by the debacle of September 16. Mr Lamont will make a start later this morning. But the conse-quences of the withdrawal from the ERM will have far more influence on the longterm fate of the government

PETER RIDDELL

Drive away a Peugeot from as little as £5,995*

(with no add-ons, extras or hidden supplements)

106 XN 1.0 $5,995 DRIVE AWAY*

Trust Peugeot to bring you a straightforward, easily understood deal. For once, the price you see is the price you pay.

With Peugeot's sales up by 9% so far this year, compared with a total market which is down, the Peugeot Lion continues to go from Strength to Strength. And Autumn promises to be even more successful as Peugeot introduce the exciting 1993 Model Year range at the Birmingham International Motor Show this month.

But right now, to ensure continued success, Peugeot have launched some very special drive away prices on popular versions of our top selling cars. This means you can now save up to £1,200 against similarly specified Peugeots. And the price includes delivery, number plates, and six months' Road Fund Licence, which normally costs over £440.

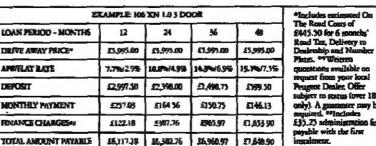

> And to make buying your new Peugeot even easier, there is a range of attractive finance plans** over 12, 24, 36 and 48 months, all fully subsidised by Peugeot.

205 LOOK $6,995 DRIVE AWAY*

309 LOOK $7,995 DRIVE AWAY*

SO WITH THESE SPECIAL CARS, SPECIAL DRIVE-AWAY PRICES AND SPECIAL FINANCE DEALS, NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR NEW PEUGEOT.

THE LION GOES FROM STRENGTH TO STRENGTH

405 ULTRA FROM $8,995 DRIVE AWAY

or offer applies to new 106 XN 1.0, 205 Look, 305 Look, and 405 Ultra madels purchased and repostered between 10th September 1992 NEC BIRMINGHAM

Clarke to crack down on young tearaways

BY RAY CLANCY AND ROBERT MORGAN

Conservative party has come of age on these issues."

Mr Clarke singled out a hard core of boys aged 14 and 15 as being at the heart of a crime wave in towns and cities

all over the country, "If a 14-year-old does not attend school, stays on the streets at night, repeatedly steals cars and burgles houses, it is not doing the child any favours to allow him to carry on regardless. Care orders and counselling are not sufficient if the child is rude to the social worker, will not stay in the community home and runs wild in the streets. Such a child needs. in his own interest, restraint so that he can be

STUDENTS

dent union at their college or university. These local unions then decide by ballot whether to affiliate to the national body. Almost all do.

and affiliation fees are paid by the state.Last year, £2.28 million of the NUS's income of £2.44 million arose from

The NUS said that Mr

Patten's charge of a closed shop was wrong, as individual universities and colleges voted on joining."We are more like the Confederation of British Industry than a traditional trade union," it

Mr Patten also pledged to oversee every school in the country becoming grant-maintained and said he would protect much-needed village schools. He praised teachers but attacked the teaching trade unions.

Some seem to think that children should not be taught the alphabet. Others think children should not be tested." His vision was of a system based on the traditional values of the three Rs.

Leading article, page 15

affiliation fees.

Patten vows to scrap

campus closed shop

A CAMPAIGN against juventerday by Kenneth Clarke, the home secretary. Too many cautions for persistent offenders led many youngsters "to gain the impression they can get away with it", he told the Conservative conference.

He promised legislation to deter new crimes while on bail and the toughening of other laws. He had taken advice from magistrates, police, pro-bation officers and others and concluded that the crackdown was urgently needed, he said in a subdued debate on law and order.

Mr Clarke said afterwards: "I cannot remember a law and order debate where there was no mention of hanging and flogging. This shows that the ship of the National Union of Students is to be abolished. John Patten, the education secretary, announced at the conference yesterday.

COMPULSORY member-

applause Mr Patten said would be scrapped as soon as possible and he pledged to give parents more choice for their children in a traditional education system based on "the three Rs". He indicated later that he would bring forward a bill

"Most students who go on to college or to university do so because they want a good education and a qualification that they can use later in life. It is only a few who get involved through the National Union of Students in supporting dubious causes of no interest to the great majority of students."

he said. "In a free country that is their privilege. But why should the taxpayer

Under the present system.

students automatically become members of the stu-

have to pay for it?"

by Christmas.

that the "closed shop"

To cheers and resounding made to live in a setting where he will receive care and affec-LAW AND ORDER

tion." he said. "We are going to legislate to make offending whilse on bail an aggravating feature when determining sentence. We are urgently preparing other changes in the law to toughen it up. We are making sure that in future courts will have much better information about people asking for bail."

He called on local authorities to use powers under the new Criminal Justice Act to place young offenders in secure accommodation. He said that so far some did not have the facilities available and were unwilling to contemplate placing any young boys", but he was "expecting them in the future to do so". The view taken by some councils that no children should ever be restrained by lock and key would no longer be accepted. He also targeted new-age travellers and ravers and described them as parasites who preved on the public. particularly in rural areas. In the next few weeks a team at the Home Office would draw up a package of measures that would be brought before the Commons for approval.

During the debate there were calls for a national identity card, greeted with widespread applause, and niggling doubts were expressed about the Criminal Justice Act, which came into force last

Michael Wren-Hilton, a solicitor from Fylde, who opened the debate, described the new act as a courageous attempt to cut the prison population, but said the law would need to be carefully monitored. Calling for national identity cards, he said that any scheme to combat crime would always meet with objections from well-meaning people who were ill-informed. Sir Joseph Barnard, immediate past chairman of the conference and a magistrate. said that JPs and those more senior were concerned about not being able to take past offences into account when passing sentence. Gary Johnson of Bexlevheath, south London, expressed concern about lack of support for victims of crime. "A weak sentence lets down the victim. lets down the police and lets down society."

Platform partners: Peter Lilley's wife Gail joins in the cheering after his promise to end Britain's "something-for-nothing society"

Lilley targets 'scroungers'

BY ROBERT MORGAN

THE government is to clamp DOLE FRAUD down on social security fraudsters, Peter Lilley, the Opening the debate, Ian social security secretary, said Bridge from Noningham yesterday. Every pound lost to fraud North said: "There is no doubt meant less for those in need, in my mind that housing Mr Lilley told the conference. priorities under the Homeless To cheers he said: "This Families Act and the benefits government and this secretary system have encouraged girls to use pregnancy as an eco-nomically viable way of leavof state will not tolerate fraud. It is an insult to the lawabiding majority. I have set a ing home. target of tracking down £500 million. And I mean to get it back. I am closing down the

Mr Lilley also responded to grassroots anger about the high priority given to single mothers by council housing departments. Among the frauds he intended to tackle was "young ladies who get pregnant just to jump the

But later he had little new to offer on this front, beyond saying that the new child support agency, which will force absence fathers to pay towards the upkeep of their children, would help curb housing list".

something-for-nothing

"Somehow the father must be made accountable for his child until that child is 18. The social benefits system must not encourage pregnancy as a way of jumping the queue."

Mr Lilley touched a chord among the party faithful when he spoke of new-age travellers. Most people were as sickened as I was by the sight of these spongers descending like locusts, demanding benefits with menaces. We are not in the business of subsidising scroungers."

He was loudly cheered, too, when he spoke of fraudulent asylum-seekers making claims. It was outrageous that people claimed using a dozen different names. Since the clampdown had begun in the summer, 20,000 claims had vaporated.

Mr Lilley, not generally regarded as a conference star. stirred representatives with a hard-hitting attack on the Labour party in a speech interspersed with jokes and parodies of Churchill and The Mikado. He was rewarded with a lengthy standing ovarion He also managed a joke against himself, pointing out that his Labour shadow, Donald Dewar, had only one claim to fame. "He is even less well known than I am."

further tightening of the screw on scoungers echoed the views of a number of earlier speak-

His announcement of a

Peter Bromley, of Leicester West, spoke of the different attitude of Conservatives compared with Labour. We say, 'Pick up you tools, load up your ass and journey with us to the Promised Land, while the Labour response is, 'Lay down your tools, sit on your asses, this is the Promised

Lang promises more home-grown policies

BY SHEILA GUNN POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT

SCOTLAND was promised home-grown policies and more power over decisionmaking by lan Lang, the Scottish secretary, as he warned Tory party activists yesterday of the danger of ignoring separatist sentiments.

In a speech to a fringe meeting Mr Lang made clear his conviction to a change in the Conservatives' attitude to demands for constitutional changes and pledged changes in the government of Scotland.

However, he did not spell out his proposals, which are understood to be opposed by some ministers as going too far in appeasing the devolu-tion lobby. He is believed to want greater powers for the Scottish committees in the Commons and more co-operation with other political parties in certain policy areas. With no Scottish debate at the conference, Mr Lang opted for a Monday Club fringe meeting to report on the consultation exercise on Scotland's constitution promised by John Major after the general election, Mr Lang said:

"We've got to get more decision-making into Scotland and into the hands of Scotland."

CONTRACT PROPERTY

land's people." The party must not repeat the mistake of the past and be reactive to a constitutional debate conducted on someone eise's terms. On occasion, the party had failed to recognise that Scottish Tories were Scots who were Conservative rather than Conservatives who happened to be Scots.

He said the party's task was to breathe new life into the union. More policy should be home-grown in Scotland and policy must be right for it. Just as the British identity must not be subsumed by an overbearing EC, so the same must apply to each of the UK's countries, he added.

MULTIYORK MADE TO ORDER AUTUMN

TRADITIONAL LASTING QUALITY DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURER

Large range of extremely comfortable sofas, sofa beds and armchairs, made to order with a choice of back heights, seat depths, cushion fillings and seat springs. Our hardwood frame and steel spring construction is guaranteed for 10 years. Most models have tailored removable covers made in any of 20,000 suitable available fabrics. Or

SAVE UP TO 40% off list price on selected ranges from Plumpton House,

BRIGHTON

COLCHESTE

DERBY ...... HORNCHUR

Baker, Monkwell. Liberty, etc.

RDFRNOWFORXWAS Made for your comfort ... from the inside out

Sofas from around £600 to over £1,000

An extensive range of period style reproduction furniture in Oak, Cherry, Mahogany and Yew including tables, chairs, bookcases, sideboards, T.V. cabinets, corner cabinets, lamp and coffee tables etc. Buy from our planned quantity production runs and

SAVE UP TO 35% off List Price

E.G. Round extending Cherry table & 4 chairs £2250 offer price £1495

•
SHOWROOMS OPEN DA	ILY INCLUDING SUNDAYS
25 C-LIRCHLL SQUARE, TOP LEVEL, SCHAID HABITAT	MAIDSTONE

MANCHESTER .. 12/14 St, Mart's Gate, Bet. MASOEMISONIE ......061 839 4339 WEYBRIDGE ..... OPENING SOON IN THE KINGS ROAD & NORTHAMPTON

'I 'ne

N The Times Saturday Review this week. ▲ you'll find a 36-page Autumn Fashion Guide for men. All this season's latest looks from footwear to hairstyles.

MG re-launched.

The classic British sports car is back in production after twelve years. But with a higher price and more powerful engine will the new MG take off?

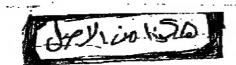

Bangkok exposed. Alice Thomson goes to Bangkok for a weekend in the hottest sleaziest city in the world and manages to get a massage with her clothes on. A good weekend's reading.

Alice Walker author of The Colour Purple' talks to Kate Muir about her new book Possessing

The Secret of Joy'. Plus Mark Jolly on football's changing image and Brian Appleyard recalls living in home town America during the height of the cold war. Also, in the Weekend Times, Victoria Glendinning's Booker judges diary.

INTRODUCING SOME REVOLUTIONARY CONCEPTS INACCOUNTING

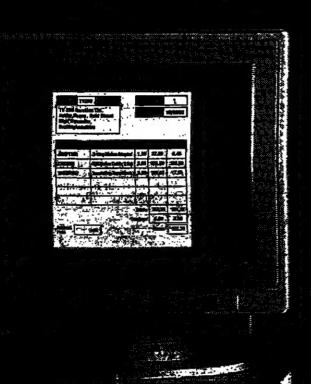

INVOICE

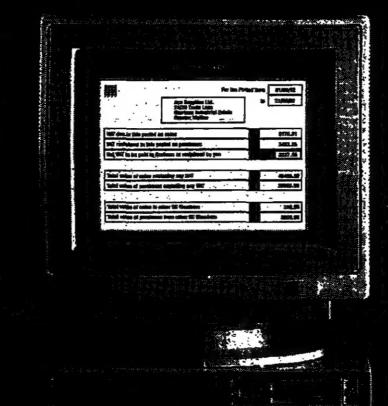

firesh

n ER

A VAT

AND A RETURN CHEQUE BOOK

A REVOLUTION IN ACCOUNTING SOFTWARE

ts such a simple idea. Yet in the reson of computersed accounting there's never been durilling quite like it. You see, conventional accounting software packages expect, you to think like a computer. Even if you're already familiar with manual bookkeeping. von re expected to re-learn routines and change your way of working, just to keep the program happy.

But now Sage has introduced a new program designed to keep you happy. It's called Sterling +2. And, as you'd expect from the world's No.1 in accounting software, it's nothing short of revolutionary.

What's so different about Sterling +2 is the way that it works. Real-life forms, such as cheques, invoices and VAT returns, are simulated on-screen - so even a complete beginner intuitively feels at home. You follow the same procedures and logic as in manual bookkeeping. (Except, of course, that all double-entry bookkeeping routines are handled for you automatically). What's more, you can use Sterling +2 in a traditional DOS format or graphically under Windows. (Both DOS and Windows versions come in the same box for a single price).

Like all Sage products. Sterling +2 offers you state-of-theart design, unrivalled value-for-money and comprehensive after-sales support. It's very easy-to-use and it performs all the functions a growing company could want. (Including features not found in packages costing two or three times more). Yet, with four products in the range to choose from you pay only for the functions your company needs.

It's this flexibility to fit in with the way you work that makes Sterling +2 the natural choice for beginners and advanced users alike. So don't get left behind in the accounting software revolution. For more information and a free demonstration disk, call Sage free on 0800 ++7777 quoting reference TT1: or send off the compon.

Please send me a free Sterling +2 dea me more about this revolutionary a
Name	Tite
Company Same & Address
Postcode	Tel. No.
Please complete and cetacu this compan to: THE SAGE GROUP PLC. SAGE HOUSE, BENTON PARK ROAD, NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE, NET TLZ. or call SAGE FREE ON 0800 447777.	SAGE GROUP PLC

THE WORLD'S NO.1 IN ACCOUNTING SOFTWARE

NHS trust hospital is criticised by inquest jury

cheerful: "I felt safe that he ". would be safe on that ward ow, criticised staffing levels at the hospital. She said one night she had been forced to stay at her husband's bedside

because there was only a junior nurse on his ward. On another occasion she walked in to find he had pulled out all his intravenous drips and had to wait 40 minutes to be told was extremely agitated on the Sunday and Monday of his death. Dennis could not accept what had happened to him and wanted to end his life but I feel there were not enough staff on the ward to deal with him. On that ward if a nurse was dealing with somebody else there was no way they could look at him or

She said she also felt it was a

The hospital has been the mistake that he was not put on subject of a number of official tions in the report by the investigators were to be fol-

the subject of an independent enquiry following the death of widow Briget Brosnan, 70, in the psychiatric unit in January

1990. Mrs Brosnan's family say they have never been given

Time has been set aside for the full facts of her death.

the case to continue today.

The Lister Hospital is also enquiries in recent years.

look after him."

the psychiatric ward.

"He had deteriorated gradually," she said. "He was very agitated most of the time and what had happened.

Lillian Chamberlin, his wid-

AN NHS trust hospital at the centre of a government enquiry into suicides among mental patients was criticised yesterday during the first of a series of inquests. An inquest jury examining the death of a patient at the Lister Hospital, Stevenage, Hertfordshire, recorded a unanimous suicide verdict and asked that an official approach be made to the North Herts NHS Trust over window security and staffing levels at the hospital. The remarks were made at the end of the first of three inquests being held separately over two days in Bancroft. Hitchen. They will form part of a government enquiry into 11 serious incidents at the hospital between April and June this year.

The patients, Dennis Chamberlin, David Lang and Laurence Dinsey, died within six weeks of each other while being treated at the hospital.

Mr Chamberlin, 54. of Baldock, Hertfordshire, plunged to his death from the seventh floor at 8.15pm on June 29. Dr Ian Calder, who carried out the post mortem examination, said he had died of multiple injuries.

He was admitted to the hospital nine days previously, after he had stabbed himself 13 times when he discovered he had an inoperable brain tumour. Despite this he was placed in a normal surgical ward after the operation for

Dr Michael Clarke, a psychiatrist at the hospital, said: "It was appropriate because of his physical condition that he stayed in a surgical ward. He would have been more distressed by a transfer, particularly to a psychiatric ward. which has a stigma attached to

Dr Clarke said he last saw Mr Chamberlin on June 26. and described him as fairly

Woman of the year: Judy Watson, left, a teacher from Weston-Super-Mare, is hugged by her daughter Hazel after winning the annual Frink Achievement Award, which encourages blind women to fulfill their potential

Jail 'loses' grave of hanged IRA killer

By RICHARD FORD, HOME CORRESPONDENT

in west Belfast. His officially unmarked grave was originally identified by the initials TW and the execution date, scratched on the wall by other inmates shortly after his death.

Weathering and develop-ments at the prison have obliterated the markings, with the result that the Northern Ireland Office is in the embarrassing position of having few clues as to the whereabouts of

The Northern Ireland Office believes the plot where all

I 6 people were hanged at the jail since 1846 is near a wall and partially covered by a run for guard dogs.

It is thought that Williams

Williams's few remains.

A RELATIVE'S request for the remains of an IRA man hanged 50 years ago has hit a snag: prison authorities can-not find the grave.

Forty people, including re-tired prison officers, have been Government officials were due to visit the hospital last week to discuss the series of brought back to Crumlin Road jail in Belfast to carry out deaths and attempted suicides. The visit by Baroness a macabre search of the Cumberlege, a health undergrounds. They have been un-able to to identify the spot where the young Republican secretary, was called off at the last minute. She had been expected to instruct Bob was buried. Ewings, the trust chief executive, that any recommenda-

"We get a different place and story every time," an official of the Northern Ireland prison service said.

Tom Williams, 19, a house repairer, was hanged on September 2, 1942, for the murder of Patrick Murphy, an RUC officer shot dead in an ambush in west Belfast. Six men were convicted of killing the officer in the Easter day attack on the anniversary of the 1916 rising.

Williams's execution was marked by controversy as the five others were given a lastminute reprieve. Among them was Joe Cahill, a leader of the Provisional IRA in the early 1970s, later convicted with four others of trying to import arms and ammunition into the Irish Republic.

Williams 1942 execution for RUC murder ambush

Sinn Fein, the political wing was buried in a coffin rather of the IRA, and the National than in quicklime and his Graves Association want to reremains are likely to be little inter Williams's remains alongside IRA killers and more than bones. A Northern Ireland Office spokesman said: "We have received an affidavit from a bombers buried in the republican plot at Milltown cemetery person claiming to be related to Tom Williams, seeking the return of the body. We are considering that." Aifie Hannaway, secretary of the graves association, said that while it hoped that the remains of Williams could be buried alongside the republican graves, the association would abide by any conditions laid down by the authorities. "We are not looking to make a political point," he said. "We would like Tom Williams buried with his comrades in the republican plot, but if the authorities say he must be buried privately in another grave, we would be

Children dislike women drinkers

CHILDREN have a very negative view of alcohol and particularly hate to see women drinking, according to a new survey that appears to confirm sexual and social stereotypes. Children are aware of the potential dangers of drinking at an earlier age than was previously thought, research-ers in Birmingham and Edinburgh have found. They have discovered that five and sixyear-olds have already developed negative attitudes towards alcohol — a finding that has huge implications for health education.

A survey of 228 children aged between five and 14 showed that the negative perception of adult drinking increased as children grew older. When five-year-olds were shown pictures of men and women drinking alcohol. they found the habit unattractive, but were unable to explain why. They reacted with stronger feelings of dislike to pictures of women drinking beer than to any

Girls aged 10-14 were far more condemnatory of women drinkers than were the boys. The older children seemed to take a "stereotypi-cal and moralistic" view of adult drinking, said Emma Fossey, a member of the Alcohol Research Group at Edinburgh University, which carried out the study.

Younger children received their impressions from parents, she said. Adolescents were beginning to receive messages about alcohol from their peers; negative feelings declined slightly at the youn-ger end of this group before picking up again in 14-year-

"Health education about alcohol should intervene during the middle infant to primary school age," she told a conference in London. "It is known that sexual stereotypes remain into adulthood. Only one girl in the four to five year-old group had anything positive to say about alcohol."

THE WANTED Columbus's letter home up for sale

Christie's will mark the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus's discovery of America by selling a first edition account by the explorer of his adventure.

One of nine first editions of the so-called "Columbus Let-ter" to survive, and probably the only one not in an institutional collection. Stephan Plannck's Latin edition of 1493 is expected to fetch $400,000 (£235,000) on November 20 in New York.

Columbus wrote it on the way home to spread the word about the New World. It was penned in Latin and printed on the revolutionary fifteenthcentury printing press.

Barrister killed

A harrister, Jane Bristow, of Smithfield, City of London, who reported property cases for Estates Gazette, fell to her death while opening a thirdfloor window at the Royal Courts of Justice, London.

Yacht reprieve

A Russian couple who docked at Warsash, near Southarnoton, after sailing 2,000 miles in a leaking yacht have been eranted a two-month stay by the Home Office to make

Train fall

A passenger who fell to his death from an InterCity train. Michael Lee, 35, of Southwark, south London, opened a window and door while drunk a Westminster inquest jury decided.

Tea junction

Members of the Tea Council who visited 80 motorway restaurants said that the best brew was poured at a Roadchef restaurant at the M4's Pont Abraham service area near Llanelli, Dyfed

Tunnel victim

A workman killed in the Channel tunnel on Tuesday by a works train was named as David Griffiths of Eastry,

AVOIDING THE TAXMAN IS HALF THE FUN. DRIVING THE LATEST SAAB TURBO IS ALL OF IT.

Power is not the sole preserve of politicians. The SAAB 9000 CS Turbo offers conclusive proof. its light-pressure turbo (our engineers have called it the 'Ecopower' system) cleanly supplies the power and response that you would expect of a much larger engine.

other crucial threshold of £19,250.

So the taxman hasn't a hope of catching up. Money isn't everything of course. Yet the SAAB 9000 CS Turbo has everything. Spaciousness, high specification, a sumptuously of performance Especially in its mid-range the SAAB 9000 CS's swift, sure and sale acceleration is delivered to you as smoothly and efficiently as a party political broadcast.

If you've never driven a SAAB, there's a treat for you in store. One that's every bit as satisfying phen morade procrace denocrac meers Chi an celders te

Mally challeng up for

OCTOBERS

Columba letter ho

Barrister

I rain fall

ministers to resign. Tension over appointments been their rivals.* 32 seats in the 50-member parliament. "October 6 was a new dawn for a new Kuwait, Kuwaiti Islamic Movement.

Patten move to broaden democracy angers China

By Michael Binyon, diplomatic editor, and James Pringle in hong kong government. He had tried to remain within the terms of the Basic Law as far as possible. The first substantive discussion will be when Mr Pattern begins a three-day visit to Peking on October 21. "If the Chinese say no, then nothing can be done," an official said. But London took heart from the fact that China

did not leak any of Mr

the legislative council.
Under the governor's proposals for increasing democracy by the back door, 21 of the 30 seats in 1995 to be chosen by "functional constit-uencies" - lobbies of interest groups in the professional and business sectors — would be elected by direct individual

"Taken together these measures would expand the fran-chise in the functional more than five times," Mr Patten said. The "simplest and fairest approach" for the nine to define them so that they cil a member to represent him

In his two-hour address, Mr.

Patten also unveiled spending plans which would enhance plans which warm welfare and services for the six welfare and services for the six

this could be paid for from future growth rather than dipping into the fiscal reserves held by Hong Kong to be left for the future Special Administrative Region government.

Democracy biscprint, page

Immchise.

as "irresponsible" proposals by Christopher Panen, the governor of Hong Kong, to broaden the base of democra-York, but officials in Whitehall were not hopeful that Peking would agree to change.
"There are elements they are not going to like. The dialogue is still going on."

The officials said Mr Patcy in the colony, and said that any plans for reform should be discussed with Peking before ten's proposals were co-ordinated with the British being announced. The Xinhua news agency, representing Peking's views, was sharply critical of Mr Patten's proposals, saying any change in the 1995 Hong Kong elections should be by mutual agreement. "It is very irresponsible and imprudent.

The Chinese side will not be responsible for any arguments caused," the agency said. Any change before 1997 could will be the 1997 could violate the 1984 Sino-British Patten's proposals.

A decision on whether the Joint Declaration, it added. Britain gave China the text of Mr Patten's address to the Hong Kong Legislative Coun-cil two weeks ago in an number of elected seats in the legislative council could be increased would have to be taken early next year if the changes were to be imple-mented. British sources said attempt to win support from Peking for changes in the Basic Law governing the colony's future. Douglas Hurd, Mr Patten's proposals had been made partly in response to dissatisfaction in Hong the foreign secretary, met se-nior Chinese officials in New Kong about the compromise reached with Peking over democratic representation in

Opposition rattles the al-Sabahs

FROM CHRISTOPHER WALKER. IN KUWAIT CITY

victory in Kuwait's first elec-TUARE It imposed new pressures on the ruling al-Sabah family to loosen its feudal-style grip on the way the state is run and its vast oll wealth distributed. include the entire working population. This would give every worker the opportunity to elect to the legislative coun-

The 21-member cabinet of Shaikh Saad al-Abdallah al-Sabah, the prime minister and crown prince, resigned yesierday, and under the terms of or her at the warkplace. This would result in the tranchise of the 30 inschools constituenties being capaded to all eligible voters in a walking population of 2 million at an experimental constituential constituentia the constitution Shalkh Jaher Ahmed al-Sabah, the emir, has two weeks to select a new cabinet of 16 ministers before the new parliament assembles. The unexpected size of the government's defeat in present only 119,000 are able to work on the constituencies of the awkward balance of the remaining ten members power between the contract with the remaining ten members power between the contract with the remaining ten members of the remaining ten m appoints the cabinet, and the parliament, which can force which in the past have concentrated power in the al-Sabah family and loyal associates, has increased because the opposition's new strength countered by ministers' night to vote in parliament, even if they are not members. A European diplomat said: "The recipe is there for continual friction between the al-Sabahs and the parliament, which contains members of merchant families that have long

The opposition will control said Nasser al-Sane, one of 19 new deputies affiliated to the

ANC stops march on homeland

From Ray Kennedy In Johannesburg THE African National Congress is drawing up an alterna tive strategy for mass action against the regime of Lucas Mangope, the president of the quasi independent bantustan of Bophuthatswana. The ANC announced yes terday that a march on the capital, Mmabatho, scheduled for tomorrow has been postponed indefinitely. But sources in Minabatho said yesterday that a ment procest is scheduled for October 24. Lawyers in Manabatho are drafting an application to the supreme court in Bophurhatswama for an interdict re-straining the homeland government from interfering with a march. At the same time, the Bophuthatswana government will serve an in-junction on the ANC which will make the entire legal process sub judice. Yesterday, the government gave itself extra powers to outlaw political protest. The Mmahatho parliament ap-

Mandela changes tack on bantustan protest while Tutu issues warning on ethnic tensions

Wide concerns: Archbishop Desmond Tutu of Cape Town giving a press conference at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, on the first stop of his American tour. He said during a campus speech that economic turmoil had fostered a surge of racism around the world proved the Prevention and Control of Mass Action Act, a statute unique in South Africa, which forbids a sit-in by more than ten people or any other type of protest gathering in-volving 100 or more. If the ANC does not hold a march on October 24, mass railies are planned to be held on all routes leading to Mmabatho on the South African side of the homeland border. Botswana is also to be asked to close the frontier in symbolic sup-port of the mass action campaign. The aim will be to blockade all access to the homeland, a tactic that could

African authorities. Such a steps" against marches form of protest would place the South African government in steps" against marches organised in circumstances which could lead to violence. a dilemma. On Tuesday, President de Klerk, smarting from criticism that he has given in too easily to ANC demands at his summit with Nelson Mandela, its president, declared that Pretoria would take "firm

He clearly meant that South African territory would not be allowed to be used to launch protests such as last month's march on Bisho, the Ciskei capital, when Ciskeian troops warning that a march on Mmabatho could lead to a replay of the Bisho massacre has been given by Major General Jack Turner, chief of the Bophuthaiswana Defence

L&T section, page 6

RANK XEROX

Japan's elders feel verbally challenged

FROM JOANNA PTIMAN IN TOKYO

IN COMMON with their array of honorific levels and contemporaries in the West, older Japanese are increasingly disillusioned with the country's younger generation.

Their behaviour today is shocking, appalling. We've lost control. They are descending to the level of beasts," said Katsuhiko Tanaka, professor of sociology at Tokyo's Hitotsubashi University.

The town's teenagers have not yet taken to mass muggings, gang rape or pitched battles in the Ginza. Their crime is more subtle their use of the language. Youngsters are skimping disgracefully on their honorifies.

Millions agree with Professor Tanaka. According to a government survey, 75 per cent believe that Japanese is spoken "in a disorderly manner" and 67 per cent find the use of polite expressions has dwindled to a deplorable level.

The art of verbal grovel ling has lubricated social relations in Japan for centuries. The language is laced with a complicated well brought up children should be versed in the nuances required to address any senior ranked between an older school friend and Amaterasu (the Sun Goddess and legend-ary mother of all Japan.

This takes rather more than the mere minding of p's and q's. Self-humbling forms of greeting must be aired lavishly. If seniority is upgraded to cover any confusion.

A new verbal laxity seems to be setting in, however. Vulgar displays of linguistic equality are replacing the incantations of selfabasement which are a peculiarly Japanese form of Gode is such high-octane homility as: "I am as poison to your honourable spirit and shall remain forever in your debt, but may I trouble you for a glance at your watch?" Today's youth prefers simply to yell "Baachan, jikan o oshiete, which roughly translates as "Oi, you old trout! Give us the time.

Rank Xerox colour. It'll impress the bigwigs.

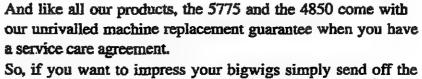

You confidn't help but notice Donna's subtle array of hairdos could you? That's because colour, compared to black and white, stands out like a blue rinse at a rock concert.

Information simply sings out, which means your documents stand out.

And here at Rank Xerox we have two newly launched machines that add colour to documents like never before. The Xerox 4850 is the world's most advanced highlight laser printing system. It can produce over a hundred shades of blue, red or green for a fraction of the price you'd expect to pay for colour.

While the Xerox 5775 digital full colour copier has a facility which allows you to add colour to black and white originals. It can, of course, add extra colours to colour originals. These revolutionary features, like all those on the 5775, are controlled from its touch sensitive screen.

coupon to us here at Rank Xerox.

TITLE: (MR/MRS/MISS)	INITIALS
SURNAME COMPANY NAME
ADDRESS

Rank Xerox The Document Company Call us free on 0800 010 766

XEROX & RANK XEROX ARE REGISTERED TRADEMARKS OF RANK XEROX LTD., RANK XEROX (UK) LTD., BRIDGE HOUSE, OXFORD RD., UXBRIDGE UBS 188

College football crowd raises campaign cheer for Clinton

EVEN the roar of triumph along the bar when the Dallas Cowboys scored a touchdown against the Philadelphia Eagles failed to halt the discussion between three students on the political choice facing America in November. One bespeciacled youth glanced up at the large television to catch the bulky wide receiver hurl the football to the ground and do an extravagant victory jig. The times they are a-changin', if not quite in a Dylanesque rebellious way, on the student campuses of this conservative state. American football is a passion here. All three universities - the state college. Chapel Hill and Duke - have sides which are fol-lowed fanatically. But even at Pantana Bob's, a popular student dive across the road from the state university, the talk was as much about polities as the prospects for the college football season.

Last Saturday 8,000 undergraduates, about a third of all students at the state university. turned up at a rally for Bill Clinton and chanted "We want Bill" as a Democrat laid into President Bush's four-year record in the White House, America's youth, traditionally one of the most stubborn groups of non-voters in a country that has generally the lowest electoral turnout of any Western democracy, has been galvanised by this election.

The campus vote is swinging to the Democrats, reports Jamie Dettmer from Raleigh. North Carolina

Pollsters are predicting that. for the first time in years, there will be a significant increase in the voting proportion of the 25 million Americans in the 18-24 age range.

In 1988, only 36 percent of this group bothered to go to the polling booths, a decrease of 5 per cent on 1984. In the previous two elections, the Republicans would have been delighted to learn in the runup to the polls that America's youth was caught up in the political debate.

Young voters had been targeted by Ronald Reagan's Republican strategists and they were a group that formed one of the keys to the Grand Old Party's plan to re-align American politics. The GOP's reward was virtually to put a lock on young voters in 1984 and 1988. Mr Reagan secured a daunting 61 per cent of the votes of 18 to 21-yearolds in his last election, and Mr Bush received more than half the votes cast by 18 to 29-year-olds in 1988 Opinion reversal and give Mr Clinton a lead among the young of 20

because I don't trust him."

Mr Clinton are less than wild about their choice. They do not see the Arkansas governor as some glittering John F. Kennedy figure who will knock down an ailing ancien regime, and if they thought he was they would probably be even more worried about him.

Nearly all the two dozen clurching Rolling Rock and Budweiser bottles in Pantana Bob's dimly lit bar said that they would vote this year. Jason Howard. 22. an economics student, was one of only three in the bar planning to back Mr Bush. But even the student from Hickory. North Carolina, hardly gave the president a ringing endorsement. "I'm not voting for Bush to support what he has done over the last four years - I'm voting against Clinton

Equally, those supporting

AMERICAN YOUTH: HOW THE UNDER 30s' VOTED IN PREVIOUS ELECTIONS

bread-and-butter issues of jobs and money

Tuition fees at the state university have risen by almost 50 per cent in the past four years. As they struggle to pay the fees, they also look at the jobs market and realise that their chances of getting a good position on graduation are slim. "People are going against George Bush because they are unhappy with the economy more than anything the managing editor of the nician. Abortion also played its part, and the Republicans firm stance against termina-

The rebirth of young people's political interest has been encouraged by strenuous Democrat efforts to attract the youth vote. Mr Clinton has tried to appeal to the young by appearing on MTV, the cable rock music television channel. and playing saxophone on Arsenio Hall's late-night talk Rainbow Coalition has targeted the young in inner-city areas in an attempt to get the vote out. The Bush response has been lame, and even more patronising than Mr Clinton's "I can be young, too" tactics. The president has been warning students at campus rallies that a Clinton administration would raise the tax on beer.

Several non-profit organisations, foremost among them Rock the Vote, have in the past few months run highly publicised voter regis-region drives among the young. Two weeks ago Rock the Vote, which is financed by record companies, put on an hour-long television show featuring Madonna, Tom Cruise, Robin Williams and Whoopi Goldberg to urge the young to register.

Republicans have decried the efforts of Rock the Vote. arguing that despite its claim to be non-partisan the organisation generally only uses celebrities with liberal views in its promotional campaigns. The Raleigh. On Monday night. in a corner of the Five One bar, students lined up to register for the election at one of the organisation's Get Out the Vote drives.

Bulling

Opera limit

Mounties wer

As Eric Clapton's I Shot the Sheriff blasted through the bar, Kara Wells, 18, in punk black and with a ring through her nose, filled in a registration form, placed a hand on a bible and swore: "I do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the State of North Carolina And vote Demo-crat," she added.

Outsider condemns 12 years of budgetary failure

Perot gives homespun lesson in economics to America

FROM ANTHONY HOWARD IN WASHINGTON

IN HIS first 30-minute paid television commercial. Ross Perot ignored all the skills of Madison Avenue and instead produced an unrepentant version of penny-plain politics. Armed with a schoolroom pointer, and with charts and graphs as his only stage props. the Texan billionaire talked from in front of a bookcase straight to camera throughout the half-hour programme.

If it was Stone Age television, the performance also possessed a strange, raw power. Mr Perot endtled his talk Jobs. Debt and the Washington Mess", and it turned out to be a no-holds-barred assault on the Republicans' stewardship of the national economy. We used to have the world's greatest economic engine." Mr Perot declared. Let's take a little time to figure out what's happened to the engine. Let's raise the hood bonnet and go to work. I can tell you before we look at the engine, an engine tune-up won't fix it. We're going to have to do a major overhaul."

Screen test: Perot giving his lecture

The script, said to have been written by Mr Perot himself. homespun philosophy. The independent candidate for the presidency ranged far and wide, from the number of American children brought up in poverty (more than 20 per cent) to the role of former administration officials now employed as foreign lobbyists thas far as I'm concerned. that's economic treason".

Mr Perot offered no solutions to the nation's problems, promising he would do that on a later occasion (he has a further half-hour booked with another network tomorrow). Instead he took his viewers on a guided tour of the American economy, reserving particular scorn for "trickle-

down economics" which, he claimed, did not trickle at all. The broadcast told an unremitting tale of national econonuic decline, taking 1980 as its intitial reference point. That was the last year, though Mr Perot was too tactful to point this out, that a Democrat sat in the White House. The names of George Bush and Bill Clinton were not mentioned once by Mr Perot. but there was no doubt where the thrust of his attack went in. Democrats professed to be delighted by the broadcast. One campaign consultant, acknowledging that it played to his party's strongest suit, called it "very helpful to Governor Clinton". An equivalent figure in the Bush camp was content to dismiss it as "a diatribe" while conceding that, since it was the first economics lesson most Americans had ever had, "it could prove to be frighteningly seductive".

Mr Perot's sole concession to audience appeal lay in the catchy subtitles he gave to each of the programme's segments. White words would come up on a dark screen bearing such legends as "We're not dumb". "Oops!" or "The Stick-up". Otherwise the broadcast, which cost $380,000 in bought time alone, avoided

A measure of the on-theground challenge still confronting Mr Peror's off-on independent campaign was to be found at a gathering of his supporters held in Washington two hours before the programme went out. No more than 30 valiant souls turned up at what until last July had been the shop-front headquarters of the Perot local electoral effort.

Predominantly seriousminded, middle-aged and middle-class, they were addressed by a former USIA official who was unable to offer his hearers any very inspiring message, confining himself to counselling them not to believe the polls.

Rock 'n' roll models: Bill Clinton and Al Gore meet Phil Valentine, an Elvis Presley impersonator, on Music Row in Nashville. While the Democratic team pressed the flesh, Ross Perot addressed voters on television

A relaxing break at a Forte hotel

few quiet days away from it all or a long weekend to pack in as much as possible, Forte hotels offer unbeatable value. Between 8th October and break will include:

22nd November 1992 your

● 3 consecutive nights any day of the week in a twin, double or single room with private bathroom. Forte Posthouse breaks listed must start on a Friday.

■ Colour TV, tea &. coffee making facilities in your room.

 Full traditional breakfast and 5 course table d'hote dinner with coffee each day. At Forte Posthouse there's a choice from the full restaurant menu.

VAT.

White Hart Hotel, Andover The Crown, Bawtry. The Victoria, Bradford, The Reebuck, Buckhurst Hifl. The Saracen's Head, Great Dunmow/Stansted. Forte Crest, Liverpool The Stradey Park, Llanelli. Forte Crest, Luton. The Chequers, Newbury. The Hurtwood Inn. Peasiake. The Royal Hotel. Scunthorpe. The Grosvenor. Shaftesbury, Forte Crest. Southampton/Eastleigh. The Pendragon Hotel, Southsea. Crest Hotel, Welwyn Garden City.

Crown, Framilios

ham. The Bull,

Long Melford. The Royal George.

Perth Ghyll Manor Hotel, Rusper

0345404040

FORTE

The Luttell Arms. Dunster.

The White Hart. Lincoln.

The White Horse, Romsey

The Angel, Abergavenny Forte Posthouse, Aylesbury, Plough & Harrow, Birmingham Forte Posthouse, Bolton, St. Vincent Rocks Hotel, Bristol. The Suffolk. Bury St. Edmunds Force thouse, Canterbury/Ashford The George, Chepstow Forte Posthouse, Corby Forte Posthouse, Epping. Forte Posthouse, Gatwick. Forte Posthouse, Glasgow. The George, Huntingdon, Forte Posthouse, Ipswich. The Royal. Llangolien. Forte Crest, London Heathrow. The Tentine, Peebles. Forte Posthouse, Ruacorn. Bear of Rodborough, Stroud.

BOOKINGS MUST BE MADE BY 10TH OCTOBER

Police and military plunder Haiti anew

FROM DAVID ADAMS IN PORT-AU-PRINCE

HAITI'S military-backed covernment is turning a blind eye while senior officers in the army and police rebuild an empire of greed on the profits of contraband, racketeering and drug money, according to local politicians, economists and businessmen.

A year after security forces overthrew the country's first democratically elected president, Jean-Bertrand Aristide, observers say Haiti is being run by "a ragtime band of mafiosi", who have reverted to the "kleptocracy" once as-sociated with the Duvalier family dictatorship which fell in 1986.

They are swimming in corruption," said Father Antoine Adrien, a Catholic priest who heads a presidential commission selected by Father Aristide to negotiate his return from exile. Senior army and police officers, including the head of the armed forces, General Raoul Cedras, and the police chief, Michel François, are said to have taken control of key public enterprises which are being plundered for personal gain.

At Ciment d'Haiti, the state-run cement factory. sources familiar with operations at the plant say military officers, in collaboration with the govern-ment-appointed director. are controlling sales to a small club of wealthy Hai-tian families who back the coup, in return for a hefty commission. Economists estimate that the officers involved are making about £245.000 a month from the Haitian politicians say MPs have been rewarded with import licences in return for sabotaging key legislation in the National Assembly over negotiations for the return of Father Aristide. The politicians are then selling use of the licences to wealthy Haitian importers for anything up to £30,000.

Father Aristide was elected in December 1990 with Aristide: declared war on corruption platform of cleaning up state corruption. Soon after coming into office he mounted Operation Nett-oyage to get rid of govern-ment corruption and wastage.

• Lima: Abimael Guzman, leader of the Shining Path guerrilla movement, and other leaders was expected to be jailed for life for treason by military tribunals yestrday. President Fujimori said.

Candidates go into purdah before the great TV debate

FROM MARTIN FLETCHER IN WASHINGTON

PRESIDENT Bush and Bill Clinton have now virtually ceased conventional campaigning to prepare for the three presidential debates beginning on Sunday which, both camps agree, should settle the November 3 election. Two new polls yesterday showed the candidates still frozen in position, the Arkansas governor 14 points ahead of Mr Bush with Ross Perot a distant third. Not one of the president's diverse assaults over the past few weeks, nor Mr Perot's re-entry, have seriously eroded that lead, and Republican strategists now see the live TV confrontations before audiences of perhaps 70 million as Mr Bush's last chance to unlock the numbers. The president flew to Texas esterday to initial the North American Free Trade Agreement with President Salinas de Gortari of Mexico and Brian Mulroney, the Candian prime minister, a move denounced by the Democrats as a glorified photo-opportunity in a key electoral state. But most of the rest of this week Mr Bush will spend in what is termed "debate prep".

John Sununu, dismissed last year as White House chief of staff, has been called back to play Mr Perot in mock debates in a specially created White House studio, and Richard Darman, the president's bud-get director, will play Mr Clinton. As part of the traditional "expectations" game, Mr Bush has repeatedly portrayed Mr Clinton as a pol-ished Oxford debater who dazzles with statistics, himself as a rhetorical burnbler but strong on principles. From today Mr Clinton enters near-purdah in Kansas

An NBC television poll showed Mr Clinton leading City, across Missouri from the debate venue of St Louis. He has videos of past presidential debates and two fat files on foreign and domestic issues. For his mock debates, Bob Barnen, a Washington lawyer, will play Mr Bush, as he did for Michael Dukakis in 1989 and Geraldine Ferraro in 1984, and Mike Synar, an Oklahoma congressman, will be Mr Perot. Mr Clinton's twin imperatives are to avoid blowing his lead through gaffes, and to increase the public's comfort with the idea of a Clinton presidency. Mr

Perot, in his latest re-incarnation, eschews all political "handlers" and plans no rehearsals. The Clinton camp has rejected a Bush campaign pro-posal that the candidates be allowed to use notes. It also countered Dan Quayle's wish to use a prop - Al Gore's controversial book on the environment - in next Tuesday's vice-presidental debate, by arguing that Mr Clinton's running mate should be allowed to bring on a potato, the vegetable that Mr Quayle mis-

Clinton an average lead of 12. The Los Angeles Times survey showed Mr Clinton is the first Democrat since Lyndon Johnson to outpoll his Republican opponent among whites. and Mr Perot is attracting even more public disdain than such controversial figures as the Rev Jesse Jackson or Pat Buchanan. Two surveys in Maine showed Mr Bush trailing even in the most genuine

Mr Bush by 46 per cent to 32. with Mr Perot on 10, while a

Los Angeles Times survey gave

Mr Clinton 48, Mr Bush 34

and Mr Perot 9. Five previous polls this week have given Mr

of his three "home" states. Mr Clinton left the campaign trail with a rare display of testiness. On a morning chat show, he protested when repeatedly questioned about 🖃 his involvement in anti-war protests while studying at Oxford in 1969-70, accusing his interviewer of "diverting people from things that will affect their lives". He also objected to the accusation that he was sitting on his lead and avoiding the press.

CONFUSED ABOUT ECONOMIC POLICY?

Read ISSUES in FOCUS. £1.95 at Smiths it will keep your and all good interest rate steady newsagents

ISSUES in FOCUS is the cross-party political monthly. Read Luff, Minford and Mitchell on ERM, Kennedy and Jakobovits on Yugoslavia and a resues infocus галge of others

UPY 100 120

Thousands flee from Serb conquerors of Bosnian border town

By Eve-Ann Prentice in london and Dessa Trevisan in belgrade

CORPSES of hundreds of Muslim and Croar fighters linered the streets of Bosanski Brod yesterday, and up to 10,000 people were reported to have fied, after the strategic northern Bosnian town fell to

K.LOBEK 8 1

firesh

Hundreds of inhabitants escaped the fighting by swimming across the Sava river to Croatia as conquering Serb forces moved into the town. The bridge spanning the river between the republics was destroyed yesterday, each side blaming the other for blowing it up. The police chief from Slavonski Brod on the Croatian side of the river said 10,000 people, mostly civilians, had fled into Croatia. There was complete chaos. People were coming across the river in boats and in barges,"

Hundreds of people from both sides perished in the battle for the town, and the

Serb victors claimed to have are surrounded by Serb taken hundreds more prisoner. The town's capture gives the Serb forces a vital swath of land which consolidates a Serb-held region of Krajina in Croatia. The capture of Bosanski Brod was the biggest military prize won by the Bosnian Serbs in the past

Smoke was billowing from the town yesterday and fires could be seen blazing in mumerous buildings in the town, including its big oil refinery. A curiew was imposed last night, according to Croatian radio, cafes closed, and the town authorities were and the town authorities were preparing to evacuate 13,500 children to safer regions.

Along the Sava corridor,

three months.

only the town of Gradacac part of Broko and the village of Orasje are still controlled by Bosnian forces, although they

Major to limit time of Desert Rat role

By Michael Evans, defence correspondent

JOHN Major is expected to set a time limit on the involvement of about 2:000 Desert Rat troops on United Nations humanitarian relief opera- 🧟 tions in Bosnia-Herzegovina. A detailed military plan for ': Britain's troop deployment to Bosnia is awaiting the prime Malcolm Rifland, the defence secretary, who has been briefed on the plan, is likely to endorse the recommendation that the troops should remain in Bosnia for a set period. The 1st Battalion, The Cheshire Regiment, the core of the British contingent, is to be deployed for six months and a replacement battalion: which. would also operate for six months, has already been earmarked for Bosnia.

A time limit is consideredprudent because the government does not want to be tied. to an indefinite commitment and because a long-term deployment in Bosnia could severely strain the army's diminishing resources. The government might have to revise the Options for Change decision to reduce the army from 156,000 to 116,000 personnel by 1995.

The military plan, which involves a drastic rethink of Britain's concept of operations in Bosnia, was drawn up after a reconnaissance party returned from the region last week. Having frequently come under fire trying to cross Serbian battlelines, the team has recommended different routes, from the southwest, not from the north, and additional combat engineers to build accommodation and dear roads. If the government approves, me initial deployment would involve more than 1,800 troops. But once the additional combat engineers consider their infrastructure work they would be able to reach home.

The original CIN plan to have the British troops based in Rulis and Doboj, north of Sargero, bronging in relief supplies along a northeastern route from Belgrade, has been scrapped. The new proposal, the supplies to be brought in to the port of Split to the southwest, with the convoys taking a twisting mountainous route of about 250 miles to Tuza. The British contingent would maintain a rear base at Split and have a forward base. probably at Vitez, northwest of Sarajevo, from which the supplies would be distributed.

Imminent approval of the plan follows a decision by Britain and its allies to offer a Nato mobile war headquarters to the United Nations to control the humanitarian effort. This means that the Americans are now expected to become involved, both at the headquarters and in providing intelligence assistance and strategic air transport for the expanded UN force. Their participation in the headquarters, to be provided by Nato's Northern Army Group in Germany, follows an offer to send a field hospital to Bosnia, the first American ground units to be deployed to the war

A Nato headquarters and US intelligence help would transform a low-profile UN mission into a properly

troops. The commander of the Serbian air force in Bosnia, General Zivorad Ninkovic, meanwhile denied that Serbiland rouse stretching from an warplanes would be Serbia across Bosnia to the grounded and said that "to consent to such demands would be equal to high treason and capitulation". The offer to ground the aircraft was made earlier this week by the Bosni-an Serb leader, Dr Radovan

> In Geneva, Haris Sîlajdzic, the Bosnian foreign minister, dismissed the offer, saying that such a ban was agreed in August and should have come into effect then. The han on flights is a provision of the London conference. It is not negotiable, it is an obligation."

A UN Security Council resolution, which might be backed up by fighter aircraft and could shift the strategic balance of the war in favour of Bosnian government forces, is expected to be adopted this

Meanwhile, heavy shelling as reported from Sarajevo as Serb forces pressed their assault on the mainly Musliminhabited Hrasno district. The fighting cast doubt on tripartite talks between the Muslims, Croats and Serbs which were scheduled in Sarajevo yesterday under the auspices of the international peace conference based in Geneva. The talks were supposed to explore prospects for de-militarising the city.

In Belgrade, war wounded in a military hospital went on hunger strike to protest at what they called official "indifference" to their plight. Tanjug news agency reported. The wounded, who call them-selves the "Association of Fighters in the War of 1990" and took part in the battles between Serbia and Crostia, said they had not received disability payments or guaran-teed minimum salaries.

In New York, leaders from five religious groups have issued a warning of a have maniterian disaster in Croaria and Bosnia-Herzegovina unless fighting comes to a stop and relief supplies are delivered before winter sets in. "Disaster may soon be inadequate to describe what the world will face in a few months from the deadly combination of war and winter. the Roman Catholic, Protes tant, Orthodox, Muslim and Jewish leaders said.

The statement was signed by Cardinal Bernard Law, Archbishon of Boson: Archhishop Ivakos, Primate of the Greek Onthodox Church of North and South America; the Rev Leonid Kishkovsky, former president of the National Council of Churches; Rabbi James Rudin, director of the American-Jewish Committee and Shaikh Abdallah Latif Ali, Family Elder of the Islamic Community.

Silajdzic ban on flights is not negotiable

in Gucci's spring and summer ready-to-wear collection in Milan yesterday Hurd begins pre-summit trek By MICHAEL BINYON, DIPLOMATIC EDITOR

DOUGLAS Hurd, the foreign secretary, began talks in Porscaleday, togain tanks in Pot-tugal yesterday at the start of a hectic round of consultations by him and John Major in European Community capi-tals to garner support for proposals Britain will make at the Birmingham summit on October 16 to revive the EC. Mr Major and Helmut will meet before the summit.

Kohl, the German chancellor,

Check chic a stylish blend of tailored elegance and peek a boo lingerie features

AVEN SAMPLE F

Yeltsin in Georgia

rumpus

Thillist Eduard Shevardnadze, the Georgian leader, discussed the conflict in Ab-khazia with President Yeltsin

by telephone in what officials

here described as "an extreme-ly sharp and frank" exchange —officialese for a blazing row.

Georgia, which accuses Moscow of fomenting the rebellion, sent troops to the Black Sea city of Sukhumi where an Abkhazian separatist attack is expected. (Reuter)

Diyarbakir: Turkey and Iraqi

Kurds agreed in secret meetings to co-ordinate the offensive to drive the separatist

Kurdistan Workers' Party.

waging a war with Turkey, from areas in northern Iraq.

Plea to Savimbi

Johannesburg: The Angolan government and the United Nations tried to dissuade Jonas Savimbi, the Unita leader, from his threats to resume the civil war. Luanda said be could join a unity government.

Geneva: Iran has invited international non-governmental aid agencies to open offices in Tehran to help Afghan refu-gees and the marsh Arabs in Seoul: Choi Ju, 39, left a note saying that the world would end this week and burnt him-southern Iraq.

self to death. (AP)

Fiery doom

Iran welcome

Turkish newspapers said.

Kurdish pact

Mr Hurd had lunch yesterday with João de Deus Pinheiro, the foreign minister, and then flew to Madrid for talks with Javier Solana, his Spanish counterpart. He also plans visits to Brussels and Athens.

No time or place has been set for Mr Major's talks with Herr Kohl, according to Dieter Vogel, the chancellor's spokesman. They will focus on the agenda for the emergency summit at what will be the first chance the two have had to repair the damage to Anglo-German relations since sterling was forced out of the exchange rate mechanism.

Herr Kohl is likely to seek assurances from Britain that it will not use its EC presidency to attempt to derail the Maastricht treaty or push for sub-European monetary system.

Lira reprieved as Amato wins vote on austerity cuts

FROM JOHN PHILLIPS IN ROME

THE fall of the lira was arrested yesterday as the Italian government comfortably defeated an opposition parliamentary motion claiming that part of the austerity package of the prime minister. Giuliano Amato, was unconstitutional.

MPs voted by 277 to 205, with three abstentions, to reject the opposition motion designed to sabotage the "delegated law package of re-forms of the national health service, the state-run pension scheme, social security and local government finance. The four-party governing coalition sees the package as a vital complement to its 1993 austerity budget, designed to bring down the deficit to meet

EC convergence targets.

After two days of heavy pressure on the lira, financial markets responded well to the progress of the Amato programme. The lira was traded at between 921 and 925 to the mark at the close on the Milan foreign exchange market yesterday, compared with 990 on Tuesday. The Milan exchange was said by dealers to be

The formal debate on the delegated law was expected to end today before going to a vote. The opposition has sought to filibuster the measure by tabling 800 amendments, but the Socialist prime minister has said he will use a confidence vote if necessary.

The opposition motion was tabled by an unholy alliance of the Lombardy League, the former Communist Democratic Party of the Left, Com-Italian Social Movement

Greens and the anti-Mafia Rete party. The government took heart from grudging support in the vote from the influential opposition Republican Party as well as from Marco Pannella, fiery leader of libertarian Radicals. The government disclosed that its cuts in the national health service will include taking 740 types of medicine off the list of subsidised prescriptions for an additional saving of 800 billion lire (£380

A government spokesman presenting the delegated law to the lower house of partia-Christian Democrats, said yesterday the intention was "to rationalise the health sector by intervening on medical prescriptions and social security contributions while respecting the principle of the equa treatment of citizens".

The lira, freely floating out side the exchange rate mechadevaluation on September 7. plunged earlier this week amid speculation the government might not be able to take its economic package through parliament. Umberto Bossi the devolutionist Lombardy League leader, who was in a truculent mood after his federalist party won 34 per cent of a local election in Mantua on September 26, provocatively encouraged its northern followers to invest abroad.

Pietro Barucci, the treasury minister, expressed relief after the lira pulled back from the psychological threshold of 1,000 line to the mark. "Italians are not listening to snake charmers." he said.

Trade union leaders have called a half-day general strike for next Tuesday to protest against the budget cuts, but have said that they will maintain essential services.

The Lombardy League victory at Mantua was a slap in the face for the government coalition, and its biggest component, the Christian Demo-cratic Party, has begun a last-ditch internal purge to try to renew its image in the eyes of voters. The Christian Democrats' party secretary, Arlando Forlani, has stepped down, and a maverick reformer, Mino Martinazzoli, is expect-

of the finer things in life The Receivers have currently closed the store to re-organise stock from this and 3 Bedding Centre Stores, ready for the Sale opening.

BY ORDER OF THE RECEIVER

62130

2608

bead and foot board (6'6" x 6'6") 5758

TN ALL SIZES

EX-DISPLAY FITTED

KITCHENS/LIVING

ROOMS/BEDROOMS &

BATHROOM

(MAKE SURE YOU HAVE YOUR ROOM

MEASUREMENTS WITH YOU)

THE RECEIVERS ACCEPT NO LIABILITY)

$23150 $7800

Traditional brass Bedstead

Treca de Paris lexury rein remote control electrically

idjusted bed with uphalstere

Swart Jones padded Draylon

Hüktz 'Imaeo' limed Ook

Hülsta 'Sections' Wall Unit in natural Cak including display

Interhabke black Astr display

Storage unit with shelving.

foldavay doors & fridge...

Scottwood 'Fantasy' hand-pointed hitchen including

Scottwood old Pine Kitchen and zhines, 'Azg' wall over, grill,

hob unit, fridge, dishwasher,

extractor, ironing board island

unit, all with "Cornan" tops ....

cabinet with lights, storage, hi-fit, storage & display unit ....

elyon "Emperor" divan sei

(50 x667).

(60° x 66°)..

2 DAYS ONLY!

A SALE OF VAST STOCKS OF QUALITY PICTURES, WITH FABULOUS DISCOUNTS ON ALI TEMS — SOME AS MUCH AS 80%! BELOW ARD JUST SOME OF THE MANY BARGAINS TO BE HAD SOFA BEDS

LONGFIELD ROAD TUNBRIDGE WELLS (CUSTOMERS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR DISMANTENG & (Just off A21 Pembury Junction) TEL: 0892 544511

2 Easy Chairs. Collins & Hayes black leather 2 seat Sofe & Chair Peter Guild 3 seat & 2 seat Sofa DINING ROOM FURNITURE Originally Side Board . Grange' Directoire extending Drum Table in Cherry linish & upholstered chairs in solid Cherr. .... 6 solid Oak Chairs upholstered £1250 back & seat ... ... ... ... ... Paul Michel Burr Elm high gloss extending Table & 8 black lacquer Chairs 00812 BEDDING Originally 10am!

eather swivel/reclining Chairs

Tetrad Cougar including Stock

eer Gold 'Lakeland' 1 seat

Maple' leather 3 seat Sofa &

UPHOLSTERY

£1255

Leamark' 50% cotton 50% polyester single Sheets each... Peter Reed pure cution Sheets super king-size per pair ..... Polyester Duvers king-size 4.5 13.5 tog super king-size each.... .... 5279

PAYMENT TERMS

Republics seek reunion with Moscow

THE Soviet Union died with not much dignity intact last Christmas, leaving its ham-mer-and-sickle flag and CCCP track suits to be sold off on market stalls. Apart : from self-deluding communists or manic pan-nationalists, few could envisage the ghost returning to life.

But as the foreign ministers of the Commonwealth of Independent States met in Moscow to decide an agenda for tomorrow's summit in Bishkek, the capital of Kirghizia, support for a revival of the union was growing among the republics' leaders. The Russian delegation has tabled a motion on closer economic legislation, Kazakhstan is proposing monetary union and combined financial policy, and Uzbekistan wants Moscow's help in securing its external border. A Russian-Ukrainian Black Sea fleet is also under discussion.

The prospect of six or seven republics forming a

Economic realities are burying the dream of independence cherished by former members of the USSR, writes Anne McElvoy from Moscow union is no longer considered unimaginable and the proposal of President Nazarbayev of Kazakhstan to promote closer integration between the commonwealth states will dominate the meeting. The CIS was considered by most leaders as a conduit for civilised divorce rather than a stable alliance. The West, too, preferred to establish relationships with the republics independently.

The poorer republics disillusionment with the commonwealth has grown quickly, and the view that the old union was destroyed too hastily at the height of post-coup fury is now shared by many leaders. The repub-hes' desire for independence

has been succeeded by recognition that it is less appealing than was imagined to be poor and proud.

Mr Nazabayev, a pragmatic former communist, is proposing a joint economic body to cover subscriber republics, an inter-parlismentary assembly and the preservation of the rouble as the single currency. "I am not trying to revive the Soviet Union and all that suggests. But while Europe is trying to find a way of integrating itself, it seems absurd that we should stand aside from such a thought," he has said.

Many liberals, including Andrei Kozyrev, the Russian foreign minister, have indicated that they favour a closer alliance with Moscow at the centre. President Yeltsin sees a revival of closer ties a means of quieting growing nationalist

The core members of a evived union would be Russia, Kazakhstan, Kirghizia, Tajikistan and Uzbekistan Its supporters see the idea as a means of keeping the influence of Islam at bay. Armenia, Moldavia and Turkmenistan are generally thought to be persuadable, given favourable economic deals and some semblance of independence.

Ukraine and Belorussia remain unconvinced. Georgia, which declined CIS membership, is unlikely to favour union. But, in common with the other republies, it is already beholden to Russia, whose central bank controls all fiscal policy. Credits from Moscow and favourable trade deals remain a powerful lever.

Hopes for Hong Kong

Chris Patten on his plans to safeguard a way of life

n June 30, 1997 British administration in Hong Kong will come to an end. So now is the time to be clear about what we want to achieve over the next five years and about the kind of Hong Kong we want to see in 1997. My aim as governor is simple: it is to safeguard Hong Kong's way of life - the way of life set out in page after page of the Joint Declaration — its free economy.

page of the Joint Declaration — its tree economy, its rule of law; its sound administration. All the things that, together, underpin Hong Kong's prosperity and stability.

Hong Kong today is booming. Its people are confident, its economy thriving. But if the continuation of Hong Kong's way of life is the best supported of Hong Kong's future prosperity, an guarantee of Hong Kong's future prosperity, an integral part of that way of life is the participation of individual citizens in the conduct of Hong Kong's affairs. The ink of international agreements and the implacable realities of history. geography and economics shape and determine the way in which we can broaden that participation. That is a fact well understood by the people of Hong Kong - better understood by them perhaps than some of those who would like the people of Hong Kong to be the heroic pawns of their own doubtless well-meaning preconceptions.

o the pace of democratisation is constrained in Hong Kong. Constrained — but not stopped dead in its tracks. Both the Joint Declaration and the Basic Law envisage that democracy should be carried forward with a Legislative Council — Hong Kong's legislature — constituted entirely by elections by 1995. The Basic Law (the constitution for Hong Kong after 1997) provides for a steady increase in the number of directly-elected seats with the ultimate aim of universal direct suffrage. Most importantly, the people of Hong Kong, whenever they are asked, indicate they want a greater degree of democracy. As governor, I have to respond to that challenge. That is why I announced in my speech to the Legislative Council a number of measures to broaden democracy in Hong Kong, make its governing institutions more effective and improve their accountability.

I have decided to separate the non-official membership of the Executive and Legislative Councils. This will end the arrangement whereby some political groups are represented on it while others are not. It will free LegCo politicians to develop their parties and programmes in the runup to the very important 1995 LegCo elections. And I am going to institute a governor's Question Time in the Legislative Council, at which I will make myself available regularly to answer questions. A new government-LegCo committee will be set up in which the government will discuss the handling of its legislative and financial programmes with members of LegCo.

ust as important, though, are arrangements for the 1995 elections. The British government has consistently emphasised that it would press the case with the Chinese for an increase in the number of directly-elected seats for the 1995 elections. The foreign secretary did this at his meeting with the Chinese foreign minister on September 25. We will continue to do so

But it is not the only way of building up democracy in Hong Kong. I am keen that we should explore in parallel how to develop our representative institutions to the maximum extent within the terms of the Basic Law. There are a number of ways in which this could be done. They include reducing the voting age from 21 to 18: expanding the electorate for the functional constituencies to include Hong Kong's entire working population: replacing appointment to Hong Kong's local district boards with direct elections: and using the elected members of the district boards to make up all or most of the socalled "election committee". This committee will have to elect up to ten members of the Legislative Council in 1995 if the Basic Law remains unchanged -- the Legislative Council which China, Britain and the people of Hong Kong hope will continue in office past 1997.

To maximise the chances of continuity in 1997 we shall be discussing these changes with China. I believe that they are in Hong Kong's best interests. Taken together, they would represent a significant step forward in participation by the people of Hong Kong in their government.

There is widespread ignorance of the nature of European law in Britain, warns David Pannick

Renneth Clarke has con-fessed that he has not read the Treaty on Euro-pean Union adopted at Maas-tricht. But careful study of its terms will not necessarily en-lighten him. or others, about its consequences. As the debate intensifies about the treaty, politicians need to acknowledge that Community law accords a lower priority to textual precision than English law. As Lord Simonds explained in 1945, in English law "a man is not to be put in peril upon an ambiguity".

The treaty commits member states and the Community to "the adoption of an economic policy which is based on the close co-ordination of Member States' economic policies.'

In areas which do not fall within its exclusive competence. "the Community shall take action, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity, only if and in so far as the objectives of the proposed action cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and can therefore, by reason of the scale or effects or the proposed action, be better achieved by the Com-

An alien legal tradition of laboriously extracting the meaning from words used but munity." No conscientious lawyer could give a confident opin-ion about the scope and effect of such provisions. Their meaning must depend upon policy deci-sions to be taken by the Euro-pean Court of Justice as and when cases are brought in years Twenty years after the United Kingdom joined the European Community, there is still widespread ignorance about the nature of the European legal system to which we belong. Supporters and critics of the treaty would be much assisted

The new Master of the Rolls, Sir Thomas Bingham, clearly identified the nature of European law in a judgment delivered in 1982. "The interpretation of Community instruments involves very often not the process familiar to common lawyers by some basic lessons about the characteristics of Community supplying flesh to a spare and loosely constructed skeleton." So. he explained, "the choice between alternative submissions may turn not on purely legal considerations, but on a broader view of what the orderly develop-ment of the Community

Indeed, when the European Court of Justice delivers judgments in Luxembourg, these do not always provide comprehensible answers to the questions posed by a reference from a national court. Lord Slynn served as a judge of the Euro-pean Court before his appointment as a Law Lord last year. He acknowledged in his recent Hamlyn lectures that "there is no doubt that practising lawyers and national judges do not always find the judgments clear or readily intelligible." Those who have an interest, professional or otherwise, in matters as diverse as Sunday trading and occupational pensions will readiconfirm the truth of this

Although, as the European Court has emphasised, "the European Economic Community is a community based on the rule of law, the European concept of law is very different from our own. No doubt the style, as well as the substance, of Community law would be very different had the United Kingdom joined up as a founder member. Community treaties. directives and regulations would be drafted with the attention to detail which parliamentary counsel bestow on domestic statutes. The interpretation of Community instruments would focus to a greater extent on the specific language they contain. The court would not, as at present, deliver a single judgment without concurring or dissenting judgments to illuminate points of difficulty and dispute.

The substantial achievements of the European Court deserve recognition. It has developed principles of Community law, such as proportionality, equality, procedural fairness, and respect for fundamental human rights. It has done so with little assistance from the basic texts of Community law, with considerable sensitivity for the feelings of member states, and with no sanction beyond the force of its reasoning and the judicial per-ception of what member states

As Isaac Bashevis Singer records his father stating of the rabbinical court judgments he handed down in Poland at the beginning of the century. "That is my decision. I have no Cossacks at my command to enforce it."

The debate about Maastricht needs to acknowledge some fun-damental truths about Community law. To examine where the commas have been placed in the relevant provisions of the treaty in an effort to identify their precise meaning is to misunder-stand the way in which Community law operates. The role of the European Court is to add spirit to the words of Community texts. When interpreting those provisions of the treaty from which the United Kingdom has not opted-out, the court will consider itself entitled, in future judgments, to assess what the concept of a community requires having regard to the social, economic and political realities of that day.

To think otherwise, whether as a proponent or an opponent of Maastricht, is to adopt the unrealistic jurisprudence of Ronnie Fish in a P.G. Wodehouse tale: "When the Law gripped you with its talons the only thing to. do was to give a false name, say nothing and hope for the best."

The author is a practising Queen's Counsel and a Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford.

The trials of Gorbachev

Don't persecute the man who freed Russia, says Bernard Levin evolutions devour their children; sometimes they go further and spit out the bones. Thus it is with Mr Gorbachev. Let us look first at his achievement, and then what followed it. Mikhail Gorbachev appeared from nowhere, determined to dismantle the entire rotten edifice of the Soviet state. So startling and vigorous was his wielding of the pickaxe that even I, who had predicted with the greatest exactitude both his appearance and his intentions fully 20 years before, could hardly believe what I was seeing - that is, a visitor from the frozen wastes of communism bearing a flame that was to warm the world from the Bering Straits to the Brand-

enburger Tor.

One day, we shall know exactly when Mr Gorbachev, who had obviously, like any Soviet citizen private or public, realised that the entire system of his country was a fraud: I imagine that he knew it as early as his student days at Moscow University. But far more tremendous must have been the moment when he looked in his mirror and (turning round, of course, in case someone had come into the room) said to himself (silently, of course, in case the room was bugged) that he was going to destroy the entire mad and murderous system and replace it with something recognisable as a civilised land. Stalin died in 1953; Mr Gorbachev had joined the Communist party the year before, and perhaps the rise and fall of Khruschev made up his mind. It doesn't really matter when and why he made up his mind; what mattered was his determination. The rest is history, which - in the way of history will get it wrong.
 The trouble with getting history wrong, though, is that so many people want to anticipate its conclusions, wrong or right. If I say "the Communist Party of the Soviet Union is profoundly evil, so the man who is the head of it must be a fortion, evil himself, the syllogism is perfect. But it is nevertheless wrong. And it is still wrong even if Mr Gorbachev had no intention of freeing the peons of the Soviet empire, and was swept along, protesting loudly that that wasn't what he was trying to do at all, but was just trying to make the place efficient. (What is more, there is a good deal of evidence to support just that conclusion.)

Hypotheses non fingo. The whole structure of the Soviet empire was taken to pieces, and the pieces were thrown on history's refuse-heap; that is what matters, even if when Mr Gorbachev said the word it was a slip of the tongue and he meant exactly the opposite. It was his hand that rocked the cradle until the monstrous baby was thrown out, and our world, for all the terrible things that have followed the freeing of the empire, is immeasurably better for it.

And is this a time and a place for the humiliations and denunciations — ominously moving towards arraignments — that he has long been suffering? The most recent of these is the shabbiest; his passport has been taken from him, and he has been barred from leaving the country. And why? Because the Constitutional Court, which is far from thoroughly constitutional and not much of a court, wants to interrogate him on his record as head of the Communist party. and Mr Yeltsin, drunk or sober, though on balance probably drunk, wants to hound him into silence. (Into silence, moreover, on "public criticism of the govemment" and on pain of "unspecified measures"; is there no word for irony in the Russian language?) Anyway, who are these people to talk? What tre-mendous deeds of defiance was Valeri Zorkin, head of the tribunal before which Mr Gorbachev is apparently to be dragged, doing when Brezhnev was alive? Was it Nikolai Ryzkhov who slept in the next bunk to Solzhenitsyn when they were political prisoners together? (For that matter, have you ever met a 70year-old German who wasn't passionately against Hitler from the very start, or a 70-year-old Frenchman who didn't risk his life daily in the Resistance?.) All we know for certain, and the truth will be established only in years to come, if ever, is that Mr Gorbachev started the pebble rolling down the hill; whether he secretly longed for the ensuing avalanche, or was horrified when it started, we do not know, nor would it be sensible to believe what he said on the subject, if only because he may not know

When wickedness is done, and is brought home to the doer, it is natural for those who suffered the wickedness to want the villains punished, nor does it have to be only those who themselves were hurt who seek retribution; I don't suppose that Hitler ever struck a Jew in his life. Punishment is a dangerous weapon, but from time to time it has to be employed, and no one could deny that the sufferings undergone by the handcuffed peoples of the Soviet empire were such that the sufferers had the right to see their persecutors charged, tried and sentenced. All the same, with the exception of Poland, none of the subjugated nations suffered more than Czechoslovakia in the long night of Soviet rule, yet when the Czechs awoke, almost the first action Vaclay Havel took was a declaration against vengeance, and as far as I know there have been no "treason trials" there.

As for Mr Gorbachev, his. hands, if not scrubbed skinless, are quite clean enough for what. he had to put up with. Every body, decidedly including his tormentors, should have known that they were sitting on ice sothin they could catch fish through it; because the coup against him collapsed so quickly and ignominiously, the earlier, real, dangers were forgotten, and the thanks and admiration he

musilli M

HISIODES

orse than scomed; taken from him like a common criminal, while more of the world's nations want to do him appropriate homage, he sits at home and thinks. How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is / To have a thankless child.

History will make amends. But why should be wait as long as that? What about the homage Could not the leaders of those nations who rightly fêted him on their territory when he went about the world ("I can do business with him", said Marga-ret Thatcher), and those who have still not seen him in the flesh - could they not ask the Russian state to let him go? After all, it is he who broke the chains, even if he did not intend to: it is he who measured the journey, he who got the pace right, he who steered the ship with the Red Flag at one end, the tsarist emblem at the other, and the skull-and-crossbones in the middle, just to remind some of those who now scorn him that they can speak and act freely because deliberately, accidentally or in a fit of absent-mindedness, he opened the gates.

...and moreover CRAIG BROWN

re you sitting comfortably? Then I'll begin. It was a warm day in the jungle. Susan Skunk was hot and bothered. "Susan Skunk is hot and bothered," sniffed Willy Woodlouse. "I wonder what is on ber mind."

"Oh, Willy Woodlouse!" emitted Susan Skunk, "why do we never get a mention in children's books? It's almost as if we didn't exist! Mice and dogs and cats and frogs have new books written about them every single day of the year! But there's never EVER been a book about a skunk or a

"Or us!" chipped in Marjorie Maggot. She wriggled around irritably on a nearby carcass, her immediate family of 230 other maggots beside her.

"It's so UNFAIR," screamed Edwina Earwig, "And I regret to say that well over half the children's books in this country are infected by this virus and, tragically, will have to be de-stroyed forthwith."

"It's the same point that Larry the Lemming made only last Monday," added Willy Wood-louse, lying on his back and doing his bicycling exercises.

"Poor Larry" exhuded Susan Skunk, "May he rest in peace." The next day, all the most unattractive animals in the jungle held a meeting to decide what to do. It was chaired by the highly-regarded husband-andwife team of Terry and Tabitha Tapeworm. After reading out apologies for absence from Mr Gore Vidal, Terry Tapeworm got straight down to business. "Comrades," he began, "for too long, we have been totally unrepresented in a children's literature which is blatantly cutist, utterly ignoring those of us without big eyes and a cuddly disposition in favour of an élite form of multinational cuties such as hedge-hogs, mice, cats, lambs, elephants, dolphins, cows -- " " — and owist Don't forget owist" shouted the militant Archie the Amoeba from the back. Moderates like Belinda But and Sally the Slug sometimes blamed Archie's extremism on his lack of

'No, we mustn't forget the answered Terry Tapeowis!" worm. The owis sent shudders down the comrades' spines. What was so bloody wise about sitting around in the dark eating mice? Yet with a skilled public relations exercise exaggerating their "wisdom", the owls had come to dominate the children's book market in recent years. - or the eagles!" added

Archie the Amoeba, to cheers. The eagles, too, always aroused great resentment. What was so marvellous about reading the small print of The Times from two miles above someone's head? Why couldn't they just buy their own copies like everybody else? Terry Tapeworm then invited Daddy Longlegs onto the platform. A veteran of over 300 conferences, he was still fighting fit, even though he only had the one leg left. He spoke of his current campaign, sponsored by Granta magazine, to bring a new realism to children's fiction, portraying animal legends as they

He read from the Notes on Contributors at the back of the present issue. "Mickey Mouse has split with Minnie and is now struggling to overcome his problem with cheese. A corpse, later identified as being part of the late Ms Tiggywinkle, was found in the middle of the Al2 last August. Donald Duck gave up a dwindling career in movies to become a tele-evangelist and is serving a 20-year term for misappropriation of funds ... " Daddy Longlegs then called for a campaign of concerted action to increase public awareness of cutism. He introduced his new public relations adviser, Kevin the Killer Shark, or "Kevin the Otter" as his lapel badge had it. Kevin spoke of promo-videos, brochures, exciting competitions and once-in-a-lifetime offers, all promoting the anti-cutist cause. Kevin, it was revealed, was working in conjunction with the famous PR, Mr Max Clifford "Soon we'll all have great new images," laughed Harry Hyena as the sun went down. "And starring roles in children's stories," giggled Timothy Yes, Max Clifford can change anyone's image overnight," emit-ted Susan Skunk. "Before he met her, Antonia de Sancha looked like an out-of-work kiss-and-tell actress. See how Max has changed her image!" And so she fell asleep, marvelling at the magic of PRs.

A class apart

ESSEX MAN - who so loudly cheered his patron saint Norman Tebbit on Tuesday - had something else to celebrate in Brighton yesterday. The creature who is giving the Tory leadership such headaches over Maastricht was marking his second birthday.

It was two years to the day since the appearance of an article by Simon Heffer, deputy editor of The Spectator, which first identified the phenomenon of Essex Man. Having left the conference hall, a posse of the species, some in off-duty Tshirts and trainers, others in the working uniform of double-breasted suit and silk tie, congregated in the bar to celebrate with lager and crisps. In between mobile telephone calls to their stockbrokers and bookmakers, the men from Basildon and Romford, Tory strongholds since the glorious days of Baroness Thatcher, toasted their political heroes. Doug Campbell, in T-shirt and jeans, said: "Norman Tebbit gave Essex man the perfect birthday present. Mrs Thatcher was always too moderate for me." Campbell, who lives in Ilford, but aspires to Chigwell, thought there was plenty of cause for celebration. "Everyone is jealous of us because we have made money. Stephen Castle, 28, an insurance broker with Lloyd's. who lives in Canvey Island, announced over his pint "We are much more sophisticated than most people think." David Amess, the MP for Basildon, whose early declaration of victory at the general election, proved that Essex Man had stayed Tory. joined the celebrations. After blowing out the two candles on the birthday cake, Amess said: "Let the intellectuals think what they like. Essex Man has had the last laugh, and he is here to stay." As to Essex Man's leading political hero, the answer was obvious: "No man can ever match her."

Simon Heffer confessed himself surprised at such wild celebrations. 'I never thought Essex Man would take off the way he did. Like everything else we write. I thought he would wrap tomorrow's fish and

Ring in the old

THE ubiquitous Sir Tim Bell, at the centre of a row over the expensive advice he is giving to St Thomas's Hospital, is also busy orchestrating Baroness Thatcher's visit to the Tory conference today.

Bell has assigned Elizabeth Bu-chanan, one of his senior executives, to organise every detail of Lady Thatcher's triumphant tour of the conference.

To the astonishment of Tory party apparatchiks, whose devotion switched instantly from Lady Thatcher to John Major on the succession, Buchanan has been working from the party's research department office at the Grand Hotel, making full use of the facilities. "I couldn't believe it when I saw her." said one official. "Here she is organising the assault from within the heart of the enemy camp".

Neil Lyndon may be unpopular with the female world at large but his greatest supporter is nevertheless his mother. So it was rather surprising that Mrs Lyndon did not make an appearance at the Times/Dillons debate "Has feminism failed?" this week. Lyndon explains: "She is extremely supportive and I actually told her not to come as I thought the evening might dis-

Stoppeth one in three NORMAN LAMONT, who today makes one of the most critical speeches of his career, is taking no chances on any Tebbit-style ambushes on the conference floor. His officials are discreetly buttonholing delegates due to speak in the economic debate to ask what they intend to say - and, perhaps more to the point, to tell them what they should not say.

Not everyone is falling for it. Patnicia Morris, who will propose today's main economic motion, was last night resisting all overtures from the Chancellor's men. In desperation Lamont's political adviser, David Cameron, was even flashing messages to her on the internal television message service at the con-

Lamont's officials are right to feel concerned about Morris. After the stage managers allowed things to get out of hand during the Europe debate, the last thing they want is more dissent from the conference floor, especially with Baroness Thatcher looking down from the platform.

Morris, a highly articulate financial analyst, and candidate at the election, says she has no intention of pulling her punches. "My speech has been locked away all week in a safe place in a brown envelope so no one can get at it." she says. "I don't want them to know what is in it in case they try to builty me to change it."

Morris is speaking from experience. The last time she contributed to an economic debate at conference, she received a call from Judith Chaplin, then special adviser to the Treasury team of Nigel Lawson and John Major. Chaplin offered to help. "That is wrong," and "I'm not sure that is quite right," she said beguilingly, and before Morris knew what was happening, she found herself delivering a speech entirely to the Chancellor's satisfaction. She won't make the same mistake today.

Norman Lamont's other speaking engagement tonight should be a much more genteel occasion. Lamont is addressing a reception of the Royal Society for the Protec-tion of Birds. He lists ornithology as one of his interests in Who's Who, and will no doubt regale the society with his favourite bird-watching story. While slaving away. at the Maastricht negotiations last. December, he happened to look out of the window, and claims to have spotted a species of rare bird

TYPHOON PATTEN

Chris Patten yesterday made the most important speech of his career not on his familiar territory, at the Tory party conference, but thousands of miles away in Hong Kong. His detailed agenda for Hong Kong's last five years under British rule is far more than a programme of colonial government. It is a calculated political gamble, on the success of which rest Hong Kong's hopes of giving lasting meaning to the "one country, two systems" formula of the 1984 Sino-British Declaration, which is supposed to protect Hong Kong's freedom, stability and prosperity after it reverts to China in 1997, and for the next half century.

()CLOBER !

(Pannick)

Mr Patten has set out to recapture the policy initiative from Peking, after a decade of defensive British manoeuvring — and to do so, significantly, from Hong Kong. In this pace-setting, he has succeeded. His strategy is, he admits, circumscribed by the ink of international agreements and the implacable realities of history, geography and economics. It sidesteps a direct legal challenge to China on the key question of expanding direct elections to Hong Kong's legislature in 1995 faster than is laid down in China's Basic Law for the post-1997 government of Hong Kong. In this, the new governor will disappoint liberal democrats both in Hong Kong and Britain. But of the democratising thrust of his proposals for constitutional change and style of government there can be no doubt. Equally challenging to Peking will be his bold programme to increase by nearly half government spending on public works, on which HK$1.8 million an hour will be spent between now and 1997. Since he arrived in July. Typhoon Patten has elbowed his shirtsleeved way through housing estates and red tape, listening hard and winning friends; the broad compassion of this new deal for Hong Kong's less prosperous will make him. a much harder target for hostile Chinese propaganda than his predecessors.

Mr Patten's constitutional reforms are couched in terms of a firm commitment to democracy, as a philosophical ideal and an essential part of economic progress. But if agonising debate on Europe the day before, they wanted reassurance, leadership and above all the restoration of their morale. Like children who had been allowed to run riot

but soon regretted the devastation they had caused, they needed the firm but forgiving hand of a parent. Only one man indicative

Michael Heseltine rose to the challenge with all the skill for which he is rightly famous. He is a thoroughbred at delivering party conference speeches, and the harder

Once Mr Heseitine reached the heart of his speech, on the importance of Europe for Britain, he knew he would face the same barracking that Douglas Hurd received the day before. Some politicians are discomforted by hecklers; other thrive on them.

Cynics suggested yesterday that Mr

Heseltine must have planted one or two in ; the audience. He was certainly quick as a reflex on his feet, ready with the devastating put-down. By the end the vast majority of the audience was with him, simply because he

This was the speech that Mr Hurd should have made on Tuesday, but could not. It is the speech that John Major should make tomorrow, but will not. Neither possesses the voice, the delivery, the passion. For all his faults, Mr Heseltine, when on form, has the gift of oratory; and a good orator can win

even an unwilling audience over to his side.

Mr Heseltine may still nurture a hope of leadership. In the first half of his speech he stuck dutifully to his trade and industry brief, with somewhat heretical references to intervention "before breakfast, before tea and perennial of the Tory conference floor, a subject broached vigorously on the rostrum, then quietly forgotten when the delegates disperse. John Patten, the education secretary, could be sure of applause at Brighton yesterday when he promised to break the

"last closed shop" of the National Union of Students (NUS). Unlike his predecessors.

however, he has moved beyond ritual denunciation to a promise of legislation banning blanket membership of campus organisations that receive taxpayers' money.

saurs. As friendly societies, they slipped through the legislative net introduced by Lady Thatcher to reform the unions, and still impose involuntary membership upon

1.5 million people. Each student's local authority automatically pays a fee to the campus union, which then announces to freshmen on their arrival that they are already members. Such an arrangement is an absurd anachronism in a society that claims to value individual choice. Mr Patten's

He must still pick his targets with care.

The NUS has invited Conservative back-bench anger by its noisy posturing and by ill-advised adventures such as the Target 70 campaign, which this year sought to unseat

70 mostly Tory MPs in constituencies influenced by the student vote. But the current leadership seems finally to have routed the disruptive fringe that used to ruin

the union's conferences, and has promised a radical overhaul of outdated policies, notably on student finance. Only a fraction of the union's annual turnover of £2.7 million is now spent on political campaigns. Too little, determination to end it is welcome.

Structurally, the student unions are dinohad beaten the hecklers into the ground.

the going, the more powerful his stride.

ALWAYS THE BUSY BRIDESMAID

The Tory party delegates met yesterday in before dinner. He had been given a subdued mood. After the eximilarating but relatively easy ride in the debate, as party his statements of principle show a politician's audacity, his tactics suggest a lawyer's cumning. In essence, he intends to move on parallel tracks: pressing Peking, on one hand, to amend the Basic Law on direct elections; and on the other, preparing to go ahead within the unamended law to make Hong Kong more democratic anyway.

The reforms are in two parts. The first, to be implemented immediately, separates executive from legislature. Faced with the certainty of outraging Peking and its supporters in Hong Kong if he took the territory's leading democrats onto his Executive Council, or of frustrating popular expectations if he excluded them, Mr Patten has cut the knot by announcing that in his "executive-led government", there will be no politicians on ExCo. Instead, he clearly aims to build up the powers of the Legislative Council, which in the past has been a poor relation of ExCo. The second reform concerns the next rounds of elections, in 1994 and 1995, and here he has offered detailed proposals for discussion in Hong Kong as well as Peking — though without hinting at a Chinese veto. Should Peking prove stubborn, he has mapped a roundabout route to democracy. This, at last, is forward planning to match Peking's, in place of a policy of reaction. Mr Patten intends to market it vigorously in Hong Kong, with a programme of public meetings and phone ins, which in themselves will strengthen democracy. Peking's immediate reaction has been to object not so much to the substance as to Mr Patten's failure to seek China's prior agreement to these innovations. To have set a precedent of asking Hong Kong's people what they want is laudable in itself, and will strengthen his hand when he visits Peking this month. Mr Patten will have made himself enemies. He has yet to demonstrate how effective his bulwarks can be made against post-1997 misrule. But in building accountability into government, in quickening the pace of debate in Hong Kong, and in strengthening general welfare, he has made a brilliant. eloquent debut members bemoaned the recession but seemed to have no stomach for another

But soon he straved from his responsibilbruising confrontation with the platform.

ities, taking on the twin themes of Labour.

and Europe. "If John Smith is the answer, what on earth was the question?" he asked - the sort of line that brings a Tory house down. Putting British interests first was the theme of the anti-Maastricht brigade on Tuesday. He simply twisted the argument:

foreign investment will bring prosperity to Britain, he claimed, only if the country is a

Whether people believed or agreed with his arguments hardly mattered. The points were delivered with such crushing force that the spirits of the audience could not but be raised. Uncertainty is what has most depressed party members at Brighton. Here has determined to press ahead with ratification of Maastricht. This meant that the President of the Board of Trade could in all sincerity display absolute loyalty to his Prime Minister, while delivering a defence of Maastricht which, given its flair, is bound to

Yet the Prime Minister need not feel too

outclass anything Mr Major has to offer.

is not prime minister." Mr Heseltine may have triumphed at the conference. Whatever his secret hopes, though, he is unlikely ever

The education secretary should not, in any case, be concentrating on the national union, which is simply a confederation of 880 voluntarily affiliated campus unions, each making per capita payments in return for a range of welfare and advisory services.

It is already the prerogative of each union to stay outside the NUS if it wishes to take its custom elsewhere, and many do so with great success. The marketplace will take care of the national union as a service-provider.

must be democratisation on the campuses.

Few students take part in college unions because they are not given the chance to decide whether they want to join. Lack of choice breeds apathy, so that a handful of apparat-chiks are left to clamber over union affairs.

Mr Patten must give students the chance to opt out of their college unions, preferably once a year. Those doing so should be given the cash reserved by their local authorities for membership fees in the form of a voucher, to spend as they wish. College unions that fail to attract sufficient numbers will

With an opt-out clause, the best of the existing union infrastructure, which has often been praised by vice-chancellors and polytechnic directors, would survive. Mr

Patten, already busy with this autumn's schools bill, now has a chance to usher student politics into the real world, and exorcise the last straggling ghosts of 1968.

By this time next year, his party's conference may be scouring the landscape for a new perennial topic.

then quickly be overtaken by rival businesses offering better services at lower cost.

The cornerstone of Mr Patten's reforms to address it with a leader's speech.

is finally getting through.

LET STUDENTS CHOOSE

Reform of student unions has been a too late, perhaps, but a sign that the message

Mr Heseltine is a happy man. Mr Major was a politician who exuded certainty.

committed member of the  ${\it E}t$

From Rabbi Dr Sidney Brichto

Sir, It was significant that Janet Daley's most sensitive article on the human reaction to the suffering of the innocent caused by the air crash in Amsterdam should appear on the eve of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atone-ment, the holiest day in the Jewish year. On this day, Jews consider the enormity of the tragedles which hit us without warning or explanation.

the world, is capable of inspiring and the concept of a suffering God. All religions should join in worshipping a God who challenges us to rid the world of evil, beginning with the most difficult task of rooting out the evil we fellow creatures.

SIDNEY BRICHTO (Senior Vice-President). Union of Liberal and Progressive Synagogues The Montagu Centre, 109 Whitfield Street, W1... October 6.

threatened. Mr Heseltine is hated by Eurosceptics even more than Mr Major himself Even his fans have their reservations. The response to his humdinger yesterday was: From Lord Williams of Mostyn, QC, That was fantastic. But thank goodness he > statement of the Lord Chancellor and the four most senior judges on wider rights of audience for barristers employed by the Crown Prosecution Service is misleading. The statement did not, as your > report indicates, tell the Bar Council that a time limit was being set on the rule that stops barristers in the Crown Prosecution Service taking cases in the CTOWN COURT.

In fact, Lord Mackay and the four judges have asked the Bar to consider placing a time limit on its rule in order to allow further consideration of the matter once the Royal Commission on Criminal Justice has reported next

Therefore, the application by the CPS for wider rights of audience has been rejected for the immediate future. Indeed, at his press conference last week, Lord Taylor of Gosforth, one of the judges who signed the statement, said that he was opposed to a state prosecution service in which crown prosecutors would take cases in the nigher courts

The Bar Council fully supports this view as we believe that advocates, independent of the state, who both defend and prosecute are necessary to uphold the integrity of the criminal iustice system.

Yours sincerely, WILLIAMS Chairman, General Council of the Bar, 3 Bedford Row, WC1. October 6.

for publication should carry a daytelephone number. They may be sent to a fax number 071-782 5046.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

1 Pennington Street, London El 9XN Telephone 071-782 5000

Tragedies that engulf us all

From the Archbishop of York

Sir. In her moving article on the Amsterdam disaster, "When tragedy Amsterdam disaster, "When tragedy engulfs us all", (October 6), Janet Daley asks a religious question: what sense can we make of it? But she refuses a religious answer, and thus finds herself trapped in the dull hopelessness of a secularism which does not have the resources to cope with such a tragedy.

It is a pity that in her glance at Christianity she picked on the doctrine of original sin which is perhaps not the most helpful insight the Christian faith has to offer in such circumstances. Her references to lob if she had followed it. reference to Job. if she had followed it through, might have led her to see that the real comfort offered by the Christian faith in the face of disaster is not primarily an intellectual explanation but a deepened awareness of God.

All human operations are vulnerable to disaster because God does not gratuitously override natural pro-cesses. But He does not stand aloof from them either. The heart of the Christian response to suffering is the belief that God also suffers, in and through the cross of Christ.

The effect of this awareness is to open up practical ways of coping with suffering in the spirit of Christ, by sharing in His own self-giving. Thus events which make no sense in cool intellectual terms can come to have sense made of them by those who believe that suffering, tragedy and death are never God's last word. Yours faithfully, JOHN EBOR: Bisbopthorpe Palace, Bishopthorpe, York. October 6.

Janet Daley's article was sub-headed 'A plane crash tests secular values to the limit". What does it do then to religious values? How can faith withstand the senselessness and the arbitrariness of such tragedies? I would argue that it tannot and has not. The God who could prevent such accidents and does not stretches our faith to breaking point.

Only a God who is afflicted in our afflictions, and needs humanity to complete His creation by perfecting commanding the faith of ordinary mortals. Christianity has developed bring upon ourselves by our cruelty and insensitivity to the suffering of our

Crown court barristers

Chairman of the Bar Council

Sir. Your report (October 6) of the joint Business letters, page 23 Sports letters, page 32

Letters to the editor that are intended

Rejection of Derek Bentley's pardon

sequences of, the criminal conviction, is the test to be applied, in deciding whether a pardon should be granted.

that of what the home secretary has called the "moral and technical inno-

If I am right, should not the home secretary be judicially reviewed for having misdirected himself in declining to recommend to Her Majesty a posthumous pardon for Derek Bent-

Sir, I cannot tell whether a degree of moral innocence can be established in the Bentley case, but certainly a degree of diminished moral responsibility is indicated by Bentley's limited level of

Sir. The two central questions raised by the home secretary's decision are whether it can be right for a secondary party to receive a greater punishment than the principal offender (which happened because Craig was too young to hang) and whether anyone

If we could consider the case in the light of these questions, and the sad fact that the law was changed, for the better, too late to help Derek Bentley, then an appropriate means of public forgiveness could perhaps be found.

should be hanged for murder.

Keele, Staffordshire ST5 5BG.

Sir. Where is the sympathy for the widow and children of PC Sidney

Miles - a family man doing his duty to protect the public from law-breaking youngsters, one carrying a gun?

That is, in my view, too severe a test.

cence" of the convicted person?

LOUIS BLOM-COOPER.

2 Ripplevale Grove, N1. October 3.

From Dr John E. Callagan

Yours faithfully,

intelligence.

Yours faithfully,

Yours sincerely.

School of Law.

Yours faithfully.

68 Main Street,

October 2.

Killearn, Glasgow.

BLYTH HARVEY.

October 2.

JENNY MCEWAN,

University of Keele.

From Mrs L. B. Harvey

J. E. CALLAGAN,

Flat 2, 25 Sussex Square,

From Ms Jenny McEwan

Kemptown, Brighton, Sussex.

From Mr Benedict Birnberg

Sir. The papers we have received following the home secretary's decision on his review of the case of Derek Bentley, for whose sister we act (reports, October 2), make astonishing reading. They include a memorandum prepared for the then home secretary, Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, by Mr Philip Allen (now Lord Allen of Abbeydale) and a case summary by the then permanent secretary, Sir Frank

Mr Allen's memorandum, after providing four precedents of accom-plices who were reprieved where the principal offender could not be executed, advised that effect should be given to the jury's recommendation to. mercy, stressing that Bentley was not the principal offender, was not armed with a gun, did not fire the fatal shot, was quite young and made no attempt to use the knife and knuckleduster found on him or to break away from police custody.

Sir Frank Newsam, who likewise advised leniency, significantly stated that "[Christopher] Craig would no doubt, judging by his various remarks, have used his revolver against the police whether or not Bentley had given any incitement to him to shoot".

In the light of the two senior Home Office officials' advice, Sir David Maxwell Fyfe's decision to allow the law to take its course, as justified in his personal memorandum which said nothing at all about Bentley's mental or physical disabilities, confirms the view that this was a "judicial killing".

In justifying his failure to recommend a pardon the home secretary has invoked an ostensible "long-estab-lished practice" of successive home secretaries not to grant pardons unless satisfied of "moral as well as rechnical innocence". Regardless of new evidence before him pointing to Bentley's innocence on the murder charge, this overlooks the fact that a pardon is part of the royal prerogative, which is unlimited in its scope. There would have been nothing to inhibit Mr Clarke from recommending a quali-fied pardon appropriate to the circumstances of this unique case.

Yours faithfully, BENEDICT BIRNBERG, B. M. Birnberg & Co (solicitors), 103 Borough High Street, SE1.

Serving the Church

From the Reverend E. M. T.

From Sir Louis Blom-Cooper, QC Sir, Since a pardon in law does not extinguish, but crases only the con-

Sir, What a pity that his college principal (letter, October 1) tries to scupper Michael Windridge's spirited, perceptive and important suggestion

(letter, September 24) that industry

Every parish would like its own minister, one or more. But not every parish, even with all its congregation giving properly and realistically, could

So let us have sponsorship - from industry, trusts, estates, private inand commerce be invited to "sponsor men in the parochial ministry.

dividuals and from large suburban congregations — to get back again as quickly as possible to the position where we have "an educated parson in perfectly possible.

Sponsors would need the patronage of the livings; and this would be no bad thing, for it would get the Church out of the stranglehold of diocesan and episcopal power-structure that is killing it more certainly than lack of people, but one may not wish this to apply to all and sundry. Furthermore, railing patients by familiar names may understandably imply that patients address their doctors and murses in similar fashion, and not all hospital adult patients in the conventional and civil manner unless they specifically request otherwise — a request which I may prefer to decline. Indeed, I believe that forms of address between adults should always be formal until negotiated otherwise. As far as I am aware, no survey of public opinion on this matter has been undertaken.

My own preference is to address all

Yours faithfully, EDWARD UNDERHILL St George's Vicarage, 327 Durham Road, Gateshead, Tyne and Wear.

staff favour this

Yours faithfully,

DAVID CROSBY

Consultant surgeon),

All in a name

From Mr D. L. Crosby

Sir, "What shall we call you?" is the question now put to many of those who have the misfortune to need admission to hospital. It is well intentioned and aims to soften the stress of a strange environment at a vulnerable time.

However, there are sensitivities at stake, and subtleties that are not addressed by a single question. Though there are many who may prefer to retain the intimacy of nicknames, forenames or Christian names until closer relationships are established, they may fear to sound stand-offish when requesting a more civil form of address such as Mr. Mrs

Also, it may be all very well to be known in some familiar way by certain

Trail of the V2

From Dr S. P. Jones

Sir, On October 2 German television showed some of the preparations made for the celebration of the anniversary of the V2 rocket. Beside the building of a large-scale model of the weapon, a medallion has been struck and a postmark designed, both showing a picture of the rocket.

Without the freedom for which Sir Arthur Harris worked, and for which so many of those who flew for him gave their lives, these celebrations could never have taken place in the face of the expressed, if belated, disapproval of the German govern-

Let us hope that those who participated in the V2 celebrations pause to remember that Werner von Braun allowed his talents to be used in support of a regime which would have suppressed with the utmost ruthlessness any demonstration of which it did

Yours faithfully, S. P. JONES. Strafford House Bride Church Lane, Tickhill Doncaster South Yorkshire. October 4.

University Hospital of Wales, Heath Park, Cardiff. From Dr Anthony G. Freeman

Sir, Professor R. V. Jones (October 2) refers to the serious V2 attack on the city of Antwerp. On the afternoon of December 16. 1944, when Antwerp was a leave centre for Allied forces serving in Holland and Germany, a dental officer and myself, an army doctor, having queued unsuccessfully outside the Rex cinema in the centre of the city. crossed a wide boulevard to the Ensa cinema opposite. During the film Gaslight there was an almighty explosion.

The Rex had received a direct hit from a V2. Dead and injured were lying in the road: 567 persons were killed, 296 of them Allied personnel, and 271 were seriously injured.

From October 7, 1944, to March 30, 1945, 2,448 VIs and 1,621 V2s fell on the Greater Antwerp area of 391 square miles. Civilian casualties totalled 3,515 dead and 5,824 seriously injured; Allied casualties were 714 killed and 1,169 injured, according to official figures.

I have always felt that the press has failed to give sufficient recognition to the fact that flying bomb and rocket attacks were not confined to Britain.

Yours faithfully, ANTHONY G. FREEMAN, Meadow Rise, 3 Lakeside, Swindon, Wiltshire.

'Folly' to revise history syllabus

From the President and the Deputy President of the Historical Association

Sir, Our council, meeting today, was surprised and dismayed to read your editorial, "And all that" (October 3). about the prime minister's comments on history in schools.

The National Curriculum in history, which is being phased in over a fiveyear period, emerged from an intense and considered nationwide debate. On March 2 this year, the prime minister's office assured the Historical Association that, in the view of Mr Major, the statutory order "restores history's rightful place as a separate subject in the school curriculum ... and places a proper emphasis on knowledge and content".

We have yet to receive the findings of Her Majesty's Inspectors about the first year of the implementation of National Curriculum history, but the evidence coming through to us from our teacher members and our recent national education conference is positive. There appears to be widespread confidence that more and better history is now being taught, and

Schools and publishers have invested massive amounts of time and money in preparing the new courses. A full review will certainly be necessary at some later point, but this would be far more appropriate in three to five years' time, when governors, parents, teachers and national advisory bodies will have far more substantial evidence upon which to base a sound judgment.

To consider any major revision now, on the basis of the ill-informed generalisations cited in your leader, would be folly. Such premature upheaval would seem to denigrate the professionalism of our historical teaching profession, and would be thoroughly damaging to the pupils in our

Yours faithfully, MICHAEL BIDDISS (President), MARTIN ROBERTS (Deputy President), The Historical Association, 59a Kennington Park Road, SE11. October 3.

Ratifying Maastricht

From Mr Michael Colvin, MP for Romsey and Waterside (Conservative)

Sir, Now that we are out of the ERM and may well stay out for more than a year, the Euro-sceptics objection to ratification of the Maastricht treaty namely, the inevitable progression towards a single currency and there-fore a federal Europe -- is removed.

So the way is open to ratify Maastricht, thus securing Mr Major's achievements for Britain in the treaty and winning the co-operation of our partners in the EC for reform of the rules governing the ERM to make Britain's membership more prac-

The prime minister should now promise that sterling will not go back into a European monetary system unless the conditions are more favourable for Britain. This promise would reassure doubters in Parliament, ensure the bill's progress in Parliament and encourage the Danes to say "yes".

Yours etc.. MICHAEL COLVIN (Chairman, Conservative Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs Committee), House of Commons. October 5.

Foreign aid reduction

From the Reverend Vernon White Sir, Your report (September 28) that foreign aid may be cut by 10 to 15 per cent is profoundly disturbing. We should give more, not less.

It is always possible to offer sophis-ticated utilitarian arguments against aid ("large amounts of money risked to benefit relatively few, who may still suffer in the long term . . . ", etc.) But we should not be seduced by such arguments. Desperate situations require risk. And better to help a few

Nor should we underestimate the "symbolic" power of aid: it signals that the suffering people of the world matter and so helps keep their plight high on our agenda.

If the arguments are cruder ("Why help others when we need all our resources for ourselves?"), then a crude analogy will have to suffice: would you really use up all your medicine to cure your own child's cold when the child next door was dying of pneumonia?

Yours faithfully, VERNON WHITE. The Rectory. Holmbury St Mary, Dorking, Surrey.

Shattered

From Mr R. H. Wright

Sir, Recent junk-mail brought me an advertisement for electric light bulbs with bullet-proof glass. Can this, I wonder, really be the outcome of consumer research in our peaceful neighbourhood, or was it but a shot in the dark?

Yours faithfully. R. H. WRIGHT, 51 Mill Street,

COURT CIRCULAR

BALMORAL CASTLE October 7: The Duke of Edin-burgh this morning attended the Inauguration Ceremony of the Birkhall Steam Engine at the Grampian Transport Museum.

His Royal Highness was received on arrival by Her Majesty's Lord-Lieutenant for Aberdeenshire (Captain Colin Farquharson of Whitehouse).

KENSINGTON PALACE October 7: The Princess of Wales today visited Mid-Giamorgan and was received by Her Majesty's Lord-Lieutenant for Mid-Giamorgan (Mr Munay McLaggan).

Her Royal Highnest this morning opened Kevin Ryan Court, Heol S.O. Davies, Georgetown,
Martiner Tudol

Merthyr Tydfil.
The Princess of Wales subsequently opened y Bwihyn, Ponty-pridd, the Continuing Care Centre for the terminally ill. Finally. Her Royal Highness, Patron, the Trust for Sick Children in Wales, opened the Children's Centre at East Glamorgan District

Captain Edward Musto, RM. was in attendance. KENSINGTON PALACE

The Marquess of Anglesey, 70; Miss Betty Boothroyd, MP, Speaker of the House of Com-mons, 63; Viscount Caldecote, 75;

Professor Garth Chapman, zoolog-ist, 75; Str Nicolas Cheetham, diplomat. 82; Professor Sir Alastzir Currie, pathologist, 71;

Lady Dalrymple-Champneys, bibliographer, 90; Sir Geoffrey de Deney, Clerk to the Privy Council, 61; Professor H.E. de Wardener, nephrologist, 77; Sir Edward Eveleigh, former Lord Justice of Appeal, 75; Viscount Exmouth, 52; His Honour Edgar Fay, QC,

84; Sir Michael Fox, former Lord Justice of Appeal, 71; Mr Brandon

Gough, chairman and joint senior partner, Coopers and Lybrand, 85; Mr Milner Gray, founder partner, Design Research Unit, 93; Mr John Hardman, former chairman,

Asda, 53; Professor Sir Richard Harrison, anatomist, 72; Sir Geof-

rey Jellicoe, architect, 92; Mr

Alasdair Milne, former director-general, BBC, 62; Dr César Milstein, biochemist, 65; Sir Mark

Oliphant, former governor, South Australia, 91; Dame Merle Park, director, Royal Ballet School, 55: the Very Rev J.M.K. Paterson, former Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scot-land, 70; the Hon Sir Peser Ramsbotham, diplomat, 73; Mr Ray Reardon, snooker player, 60; Lord Romsey, 45; M Albert Roux, chef and restaurateur, 57; Sir

Robert Scholey, former chairman,

British Steel, 71; Sir Reginald Sholl, legal consultant, 90; Mr D.R.W. Silk, former warden, Talbot, broadcaster, 84; Mr Peter

Lord of Appeal in Ordinary.

The life barony conferred upon him has been gazetted by the name, style and title of Baron Woolf, of Barnes in the London Borough of Rich-

Wood, director, 64.

Lord Woolf

Birthdays

today

October 7: The Princes Royal,

Chancellor, University of London. this morning inaugurated the Convex Supercomputing Service at the University of London Computer Centre, 20 Guildford Street. London WC1.

Her Royal Highness afterwards attended a Lunch for GAP—International Projects for Youth Exchange at the House of Lords.
The Princess Royal, Patron. British Executive Service Overseas this afternoon attended the Annual General Meeting at the Department of Trade and In-

Mrs Malcoim Innes was in KENSINGTON PALACE

October 7: The Duchess of Gloucester, Patron, National Asthma Campaign, this afternoon met Branch Members and Volunteers at the Campaign's Head-quarters at Providence Place. London N1. In the evening Her Royal Highness, Patron, the Foundation for the Study of Infant Deaths, (Cot Death Research and Support) opened the First Inter-national Cot Death Bazaar at the Commonwealth Institute, London

Mrs Euan McCorquodale was

Today's royal engagements

The Princess of Wales, as President of the Royal Marsden Hospital, will open the new clinical block at the hospital, SW3, at 10.30. The Duke of York will attend a eurtoon exhibition and auction at the Mall Galleries at 7.15 in aid of The Princess Royal, as President of the Riding for the Disabled Association, will attend a meeting at Saddlers' Hall at 10.30; and will deliver the Wooldridge memorial lecture at the British Veterinary Association 1992 Congress, Inter-national Conference and Ex-hibition Centre, Harrogate, at 3.45. The Duchess of Gioucester will attend a gala performance of Othello given by the Shakespeare Globe Trust at the Curzon Cinema, Shaftesbury Avenue, at 7.30.

Library faces budget cut

London University is proposing to cur funding to the Witt photo-graphic library in the Strand, one of the most extensive art libraries in the world (John Shaw writes). The archive is part of the Courtsuid Institute of Art and contains 1.6 million photographs of paintings based on the original collection of 400,000 images do-nated by Sir Robert Witt in 1944. The university feels it is catering for needs outside immediate academic requirements and has althis year for the Witt and the Conway library, a companion photographic collection of architecture, sculpture and John Sunderland, the Witt librarian, said: "There is a threat to cut more in future years." He said that the friends of the Courtanid Sir Harry Kenneth Woolf, a Lord Justice of Appeal, to be a Institute provided £50,000 a year but that would be insufficient if the university decided on further budget cuts.

A university spokeswoman said that talks were being held with the Courauld Institute to produce proposals for cost reductions.

First night: Sam Wanamaker, the director overseeing the re-creation of Shakespeare's Globe theatre in south London, embraces Suzanne Cloutier, who played Desdemona in Orson Welles's Othello. The film opens at the Curzon West End cinema tonight with proceeds going to the theatre

Latest wills

Lady Gillian Mary Cadbury, of Knowle, Solihull, West Midlands left estate valued at £452,253 net. She left £5,000 to St Giles' Church, Packwood, and £3,000 each "to a charity for mental health such as Mencap" and "to a charity for cancer such as the Mac-Millan Nurses".

Sir Harold John Musker, of Thetford, Norfolk, former chairman of the City bill-

BY JOHN YOUNG

A CO-ORDINATED strategy

to ensure that the complex of marshes and estuaries east of London is protected from damaging development is called for in a report published today by the Royal Society for supports hundreds of thousands of wildfowl and waders.

and is described in the report as one of the unsung wonders of the natural world. It includes the estuaries of seven rivers, the Thames, Roach,

Crouch, Blackwater, Coine,

Medway and Swale, and contains nearly 50.000 bectares of mudflets, saltmarshes and

In winter the area is home to nearly 300,000 waterbirds, including large numbers of dark-bellied Brent geese, redshanks, grey plovers and black-tailed godwits. Hundreds of thousands more migratory birds use it as a stopover to rest and feed on

Among the main threats are new transport developments.

notably the Channel tunnel their way south to Africa.

the Protection of Birds. The area designated by the society as the Greater Tharnes broking firm of Cater & Co and a racehorse owner and breeder, left estate valued at £2,703,023 net ham, for the upkeep of the fabric and graveyard. Sir James Frazer Stirling, of

He left £5,000 to benefit St

Andrew's Church, Bretten-

London, NW3, the architect, who died in intestate, left estate valued at £312,086 net. Other estates include (net, before tax paid): Mr Victor Edward Moore, of

Lancs. ....£1,657,824 Mr Harold George Salter, of Hayes, northwest London £1,236,019 Dorothy Margaret St George, of Greete, Ludlow, Salop

EB33,493

THE THAMES ESTUARY MARSHES

SITES OF SPECIES UNDER

Lord Charters of Amisfield

The Princess Royal attended a fundraising luncheon held yes-terday at the House of Lords to Building threatens river birdlife

mark the 20th anniversary of GAP
—International Projects for Youth Exchange, Lord Charteris of Amisfield was bost, Among those present were GAP volunteers who spoke of their experiences:
Miss Eriszina Eriszy from Hungsty, currently a trainer formalist at The Essex Chonicle Series Ltd). Mr. Andrew Potsides (Lord Wandsworth College, Basingstoke, English maching and community work in Ecuado), Mr. Charles Maybew (Director, MM Ltd and Archylew Film Productions Ltd. GAP wolunteer 1979/80 in South Africa and Switzerland), Miss Emmaline Envilous (R. Bedes, East Sasser, worked in a Cherhire Home in Japan), Miss Rachel Thompson (Guildford High School, worked in Rammans Community, France), Miss Any whiter (St swimm's School, Winchester, saught English in Chinal, Mr Merith Willow (Luncing College, West Susser, Laught in a monastiery for Tipetan refugges in India).

Britisht Telecom and Eurotunnel present were GAP volunteers who

Luncheons

English-Speaking Union
Mr David Thorp, Director-General of the English-Speaking Union of the Commonwealth, and Mrs Valerie Mitchell, deputy guests at a literary luncheon held yesterday at Dartmouth House. Mr Thorp presided. General Sir Peter de la Billière was the guest speaker and Mr Frank Noah.

director-general, received governor, also spoke.

British Telecom and Eurotun supported the luncheon

Dinner

Royal Society of Medicine Sir George Pinker, President of the Royal Society of Medicine, and Lady Pinker received the guests at a reception held last night at I Wimpole Street. Sir George presided at a dinner held afterwards and, with Mr Arthur Mahon, President of the Royal Society of Medicine: Foundation of New York, presented Dr Halfdan Mah-ler with the Richard T, Hewitt.

Service dinner

42 (NW) Brigade The Lord Lieutenaut of Lancashire was the principal guest at the inaugural dinner of 42 (NW) Brigade held last night at Fulwood Barracks, Preston.

Receptions

HIM Government Lord James Doughas-Hamilton, Minister for Urban Policy at the Scottish Office, was host at a reception held last night in Edin burgh Castle to mark the OECD

British Safety Council
Mr Clive Soley, MP, was host at a reception held yesterday at the House of Commons for the British. Safety Council's presentation of Five-Star Health and Safety Management Awards.

Application for appointment as QC

Advocates in private practice who hold rights of audience in the High Court or the Crown Count and who wish to be considered for appointment as Queen's Counsel are reminded that the closing date for applications is Friday, October 16. Application focus may be obtained from Room $2/02, Lord Chancelor's Department, House of Lords, London SW1A OPW (sel 071-219 5918 or 071-219 5288).

Latymer Upper School

A dinner was held at Latymer Upper School, Wo, on Tuesday, October 6, following the annual prize giving caremony. Among those present were the Head-master, Mr C. Diggory, the Chair-man of Governors, Dr J. Rdelman. Sir John Killick, GCMG.

Hertz remembered Scientists from Cambridge, Bonn and Karlsruhe universities attended a service of dedication yesterday at the graveside of Elisabeth Hertz which was recently discovered in St Andrew's churchyard, Girton, Cambridge. She was the widow of Professor Heinrich Hertz, the German scientist who identified electro-magnetic waves, foreshadowing the development of radio. He died in

Forthcoming marriages

Mr T.T.M. Agner and Miss C.M. Buoton The engagement is announced between Theodore, fifth son of Mr Stephen Agnew, of Oulton, Norfolk, and Mrs Elizabeth Close, of Ayisham, Norfolk, and Clare, younger daughter of Mr and Mrs John Buxton, of Horsey, Norfolk. Mr M.J.S. Anderson-Wallace and Miss A.T. Ross

The engagement is announced between Murray, younger son of Mr and Mrs J. Wallace, of York, and Anne, youngest daughter of Sir Keith and Lady Ross, of Beaulien, Hampshire

Mr W.M.J. de Winton and Miss A.S.A. Fearm

The engagement is announced between William. younger son of Mr and Mrs M.G. de Winton, of Stalbridge, Dorset, and Alex, only daughter of Mr and Mrs WJA Fearm of Petworth, Sussex

The Hon Christopher S. Gilmour and Miss M.C. Haynes
The: engagement is announced between Christopher, son of Lord and Lady Gilmour of Craigmillar, of The Ferry House, Isleworth, and Medi colk denshire of My and Mardi, only daughter of Mr and Mrs J.L. Haynes, of Louisa Beach, Queensland, Australia.

Mr A.J. McDougall and Miss B.N. Talbot the engagement is announced between Angus, eldest son of Mr and Mrs Duncan McDougall, of Ford, Midlothian, and Barbara, eldest daughter of M and Mme Michel Talbot, of Mer, Loir-et-Cher, France.

Mr J.C.G. Madauris and Miss M.R. Yates

The engagement is announced between James, son of Dr and Mrs between James, son of Dr and Mrs John Maclaurin, of Bearsden Glasgow, and Megan, daughter of Dr and Mrs Michael Yates, of London, SWJ.

Mr.J.E. Robses and Miss B.M. Rosevenre The engagement is announced between James, second son of Mr and Mrs Michael Robson, o Steventon, Oxfordshire, Bridget, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs R.W. Roseveare, of Ledbury, Herefordshire.

Mr D.G. Smyth and Miss M.C. McDonald The engagement is announced between David, son of Dr and Mrs A.T. Smyth, of Hampton in Arden, West Midlands, and Claire, youngest daughter of Dr and Mrs D.G. McDonald, of Sunningdale, Berkshire.

University news

The following members have been admitted by Lord Jenkins of Hillhead to the Chancellor's Court of Benefactors: Sir Anthony Cleaver; Dr Gert-Rudolf Flick; Dr Stephen Floenbeimer; Sir Paul Girolami; Mr Antony Flichens, Mr Peter Moores; Frau Maja Oetker; Dr Gad Reusing; Mrs Cynthia Rumboli; Mr and Mrs Walic Said and Mr George Scros.

Cambridge To an official fellowship: Ignatius To a Bye-Pellowship: David

INSTRUMENTAL

and the selection

- .453

466

1 Semilara - 10 Veg 90

170

1200

A STATE

1079

A STATE OF THE STA

The same

147

FR COMME

-

is an bui

-W 199 er steriff 🖔 * . 1864

17-24

Coins to be sold

About 6,500 medieval coins, found in a field at Reigate, Surrey, found in a field at Reigate, Surrey, are to be sold for an estimated £150.000 at Glendining's, the coin anctioneers, in London. The hoard, thought to have been left in about 1460, was found with a metal detector by Roger Mintey, a coin, enthusiast, in September 1990. They range in date from Edward I (1272-1307) to the closing years of the first reten of closing years of the first reign of Henry VI (1422-1461).

Telephone 071 481 4000

ANNOUNCEMENTS

rail link which is scheduled to under direct threat, and devel-

east London; the diversion dor, aimed at revitalising and upgrading of the A13 London-Southend road, and a new road crossing of the lower loss.

DEATHS

Telefax 071 782 7827

The fear of the Lord is a foun-tain of life offering escape from the stores of death. One who is strong and trusts in the fear of the Lord will be a refuge for his children. Proverts 14:26.27 RES

BIRTHS ARNOLD - On October 3rd, al

BLACK - On September 16th. at The West London Hospital CALDER - On Oriober 3rd 1992, to Clare true Cirolandi and Stuart. # daughter. Cosima Clare Louise

HEALY - On October 6th in Edinburgh, to Pamela mee Inforth; and Andrew, a daughter, Lucinda Olly la Catriona, a sister for James. JACKSON - On October 2nd 1992 to Valerie (nee Brown) and Stephen. a daughter. Ceorgina Fleanor Charlotte. a sister for Sarah. n sister for Sarah.

MENZIES - On October 2nd.

al 'the Eastern General Hospital. Edinburgh. to Geraldine (nee Eardley) and Robin. a daybler, Venetla
Rose, a dister for Miranda Days.

NEWTON - On October 5th 1992. to Robin ince 1992. to Robin ince Williams) and Citie. a son, James Henry, a brother for Christopher, OHLSON - Op October 6th. to Shawn and Richard, a daughter, isobelle Rose, a sis-ter for Jenny, Alex and Joe. PATERSON - On October 6th. to Catie (nee Billinghurst) and Andrew a son. Nicholas Alexander Billinghurst. a PRYOR - On October 6th. to Mark and Felicity mee Pycram, Phoebe Anne. MINTON - On October 5th.

IMIATON - On October Sti. to Sue and Hugh, a krely rlaughter. Carllin Hannah (Kale) Heartfelt thanks to doctors, midwines and staff.
Queen Charlotle's Hospital STAMER - On September 14th, to type and Richard, another heautiful daughter. Reberen Elizabeth, a precious sigler for Katherine.

BIRTHS

WILLES - On October 4th. Io Louise (new Talbot-Weiss) and Hugh. & son. William John Ramsty. & brother (or DEATHS

from a fall. Jane Caroline Brislow. Barrisler and Law Réporter, wife of Denais Naish. BRUNTON - On Octiber 6th.

BRUNTON Ou October 60s. peacefully at home in Odinam. Hampshire, with his family, Major David John MBE. 3rd Carabinlers 190WDG. Dearly loved husband of Margarel, father of Michael. Tony and Christine and grandfather of Dan. Simoo. Ben. Joanna. Alexander. Clare and Victoria. Service and Aldershol Cremiadram 12.30 pm Tuesday October 13th Family Rowers only. Donations if desired to Officers Association c/o Ford. Means. Ed. 2028. 319457. CARRIGEL On October 8th. at Hanks... ret: 10252: 319457.

CARRICK - On October dh. si home. Brian Butier, 9th Earl of Carrick... after long tilness.
borne with great courage Beleved husband of Cill and much loved faither of Dat id and Jay and grantifather of Thomas, Piers and Lindsay Requiem Mass at 12 noon on Friday October 16th at The Serv life Church. 264 Fulham Road... SW10 Donallons If Wished to The Royal
Marsden Hospital.

CRAWLEY - On Tuesday

wished to The Royal Marsden Hospital.

CRAWLEY - On Tuesday
October 6th 1992 Charles William, aged 93. Emeritus Fellow of Trinfly Hail.
Cambridge, peacefully al
Barnes, Husband of the late Kathleen Crawley. Loved father of Mary, John.
Thomas, Philip and William,
and grandiather of Louis.
Richard. Edmund, Ben.
Charles, Alice, Tessa, Simon, Tristan. Charlotte and Olsn.
Funeral Service al St.
Edward's Church.
Cambridge, on Monday
October 12th al 2 pm
Memorial Service later.
Family flowers only. Donations if desired to Royal Nallonal Institute for the Blind. 224 Great Portland Street, London WIN 6AA.

DEATHS

DARIELS - On October 4th, Phyllis Adah, widow of Canon A.P. Daniels, peacefully at home in Learnington Spa.

Learnington SMIFFTTHS On October 6th 1992, peacefully at home, in Higheliffe, after a valued struggle against cancer. Cillian aged 56 years. Beiox ed mother of Jolyon, Jeremy. Jame and Jonathan. Joling grandmother of Jessica and dear friend to many. Funeral Service at St. Saviours Church. Brockenhurst. Hants. on Friday October 16th at 1.30pm. followed by cremation Family flowers only please, but if so desired donations to Macmillan Unit. Christchurch Hospital c/o Diamond & Son Funeral Ofrectors. 9-11 Lower Buckland Road. Lymington SOA1 9DN.

DADD - On Monday October
Sih 1992, Christopher Vigor Dadd O.S.E. toxed and admired by Mary, Maric.
Giles and Michal (who died in 1987). Very proud grandfalher of Pippe. Toby, Caroline. Joanne. Joshua.
Chartolie and Matthew.
Funeral Service al
Granichester Parish Charreb.
Cambridge. on Monday
October 12th at 11 am. One of Christopher's favourite charilles was Papworth Hospital. Cambridge.

Daniel Servelary.

MATTHEWS - On October
Sih. at Amesbury Abhey. seed 90. Winkired Mary se MATTHEWS - On October 5th. al Amesbury Abbry. aged 90. Windred Mary Baskers Me ince Mynorsi. widow of Vivian and much loved mother of Richard and Evelvn and grandmother of Georgina. Sarah. Helen. Louise and David Fumeral at Si Peier's. Langley Burrell. Chuppenham. at 11 am on Monday October 12th. followed by strivate fremation. Family Bowers only. Dopations to her devoted nursing staff. (Jo The Secretary. Amesbury Abbry. Wills.

> 7th 1992 after a short liness Francis Joseph Blackett (Jor Mitchenson. theatre historian, at the age of 81

PHILLIPS - On October 6th, in her steep at Oakhursi Manor Nursing Home. Hügenborough, Betty Mary (née Bright) aged 86. formerly of Shipbourne and Plaxtol, widow of Godfrey, mother of John. Luctuda and Peter, grandmother of Richard. Fusieral at 5t Giles Church. Shipbourne. Rochard. Fineria at St Cales. Church. Shipbourne, Tonbridge. Keul. on Monday October 12th at 11.50 am Family flowers only All enquiries to Ord-Hame Funeral Services. 33A Quarry Hill Road. Tonbridge tel. (0732) 353746

SAMPLE - On Tuesday October 6th 1992. William Charles Hamilton Mardonald Sample: tragically while flying. Beloved husband of Bella, dear brother of Rose and Jenny Service to which all friends are respectfully invited in St James' Church. Ungerwood Road. Paistey, on Saturday October 10th at 10.30mm. Furnital Introduction Kimitrale Centelery, Kilbirnie. arriving at 11.30mm approx. Flowers or doubtons to Leukaemia and Lymphoma at 9 Wells Hospital, Dundee. 'Keep Trysl'.

cross the North Kent and Rainham marshes en route to Thames. Already some 800 hectares of sites of special scientific interest (SSSI's) are SWARWICK - On October 6th 1992, peacefully after a long illness. Richard He will be sadly missed by his family, and friends. Funeral Service at S. Peter's Church. Boughton Monchelsea. nr Makistone. on Tuesday October 13th at 11.30 am. Flowers. donations if desired the BACL Pt of 0.14. Kenyon. 49 Mariors Road. London WB GLA let; (071) 957-0757.

STARTIN - On October 6th 1992. peacefully al home. Margaret Evelyn, aged 84 years. Beioved wife of the late Captain R.A. (80b) Startin OSE AM RN, much loned mother of Jm. Ruth and Anne, loving gramp to Robert. Susan. Jane. Hermione. Richard. Nicota. Elaine and Edward and dear mother in law of Gillian. Simon and Philip. Funeral Service M. All Saints. Crowborough. on Tuesday October 19th at 11.30 and followed by private burial at Tumbridge Wells. Family flowers only. Donations if wished to CMS C/o Paul Bysouth Funeral Services. Crowborough. Isl. (0892) 655000.

STOCKWELL - On October 6th. peacefully. Lynette Gwynape (Nedlle), widow of Bert. daughter of the late F.G. and Nellie Evans of Afherion. Lancs. much loved mother of Endd and Anthony and grandmother of Thomas and Amy. Donalions to the Alzheiper's Disease Society.

TAUSSIG - On October 2nd. Arnosi, pearefully at home after a long illness. Darling husband of Pai, father of Christopher, Ernest and Paul, Private funeral, family only, in accordance with his wishes.

TOMPRINS - On October 4th 1992. After! Edward, peacetuity at home, in his 92nd year after a long and happy retirement, late of Wm Brandt & Sons, Fenchurch Streel, EC3, Loving husband of Neille, beloved fether of Geoffrey, grandfather and great grandfather. Funeral on Wednesday October 14th at 2.30 pm at St Nicholas Church, Fytheld, Ongar, Essex Family flowers only, Enquiries to W.B. Bothner, Funeral Director, tel, 102771 362149.

opments associated with the so-called East Thames Corri-

☐ Time for a Greater Thames

(RSPB, The Lodge, Sandy, Bedfordshire SG19 2DL; £5)

WILLETT - On October 4th 1992, following an eighteen month fight against cancer. Archibadt (Archiel Andhony, much loved husband of Doris and Lather of Cillian Pracefully after a short stay at Sir Michael Sobell House Hoppie. Oxford, He will also be greatly missed by his son-in-taw Sirrion and his grandchildren Anna and Katle The funeral will be held at St. Bartholomew's Church. Ducklingson, Wilney, on Tuesday October 13th at 12 noon, followed by a private family crenation. Donations if desired to Sir Michael Sobell House Co. Fisher & Townsend Funeral Directors. 81 Hight Street, Wilney, Oxfor.

WYNTER - On October 5th 1992. suddenly at home. Edward G.C. Funeral Service from Friday October 9th at 1pm at the Surrey & Sussex Crematorium. Worth 6St Richard's Chapett. No Howers please, but desattom in his memory may be went to The Notional Trust (South Downs Appeal) PO Box 101. Molisham, Wills. SN12 SBR.

IN MEMORIAM --

de FLOTOW - Baron Pascal.

Remembering loday, with so much lose and gratitude, my darling husband on the Bist anniversary of his birth. So sadly missed by his der oled wife Margaret and daughter Carroline. There is no greater grief than lor recall a period of happiness'. Dante.

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMESSION OF TENDER

DESCRIPTION OF PLEIG TENDER

NOTICE OF PLEIG TENDER

END TENDER

END TENDER

TO THE TENDER

TO TENDER

Arbreak Lobure Umited

Arbreak Houser: 2341873

Notice of Business: Travel Agents

4 At Transmit. Travel County

cation. 29. 51. Date of Appointment of Administrators: 20

September 1992. Name of Person Appointing the Joint Administrators: Night Court of Justice Joint Administrators: 0.3 Businer 8. E. 3

Wacey office holder nor. 00.334

& 00564810 of Businer Phillips &
Co.. 84 Granvesor Street, London

with 90F.

ISSLEOFAL LIMITED

tin Liquidation

NOTICE is hereby then purposed to section 106 of the insolvent of the section 106 of the insolvent of the section 106 of the insolvent of the Members and Creditors will take place at the Offices of Messen Poppiction and Applichy. 32 High Street, Manchester Ma 1020 on 11, 100 on 11,

LIFE & TIMES SECTION - PAGE 17 ANNOUNCEMENTS & PERSONAL NOTICES Tel: 071 481 4000

Fax: 071 481 9313

mation as they may reasonably require DATED into 2b day of October 1992. BY ORDER OF THE BOARD T Believed Director.

PRE PROFESSOR

FOR THE DROPE BOARD TO BE SHOWN THE PROFESSOR THE TO THE TO THE BOARD TO BE SHOWN THE BOARD THE BOARD THE SHOWN TH

PERSONAL '

APPEARS IN

BOOKING DEADLINES: ANNOUNCEMENTS: 5.00pm day prior PERSONAL 5.30pm 2 days prior. Please have a major credit card reads when placing your notice as prepayment is required. We accept ACCESS, AMEX, DINERS and VISA.

LEGAL NOTICES

EMERLOCK BROTHERS LTD NOTICE 16 HERGBY GIVEN. Durrawand to section 46(2) of the insolvency Act 1986, that a inveiling of the unsectured creditions of the bases beamed company will be held at The Old Bulkery. Lower Control Research Control Resea

Winds Water state. Auswers from page 18

(b) One who explores caves, from the Latin spelmon a cave or gretto: "The spelmker (from the Latin word spelmen, a cave) is one who hants and crawls into caves for the sport of it. The scientific name for cave exploring is spelcology." HUPPIE -

(a) A British hippy yuppie, one of a mass of yuppie derivatives in the Eighties, cf. guppie (Green & yuppie), and droppies, Disillusioned, Relatively Ordinary Professionals, Preferring Independent Employment Situations. Most of these terms are ephemera, and, indeed, merely stant words, but they Employment Summons. Most of these terms are ephemera, and, indeed, merely stant words, but they are evidence of the sense of lexical play that pervades ordinary use of language and of the importance of

SHOCKFROCK

SPELUNKER

(c) A bare-bosomed cocktail dress: "Now comes the ultimate — the topless swim suit and the shock frock or (why not come right out and say it) the bare-bosom look."

BARIATRICS

BARIATRICS

(b) The study of obesity, from the Greek barns heavy + intries medical treatment, care: "In 20 years of medical practice and bariatrics — the specialisation of treating the overweight — it's obvious to me that the average obese person is not really canable of assimilating carbohydrates properly."

Jelio Sia.

OBITUARIES

3AIEF

ched

Cutive

ounce

Denholm Elliott, stage and screen actor, died of tuberculosis aggravated by the HIV virus at his home in Ibiza on October 6 aged 70. He was born in London on May 31, 1922.

ONLY occasionally did Denholm Elliott command top billing either in the theatre or on film, but he regularly stole the show. As he grew older he took pride in being a masterly supporting actor on screen, totally relaxed and confident inside his character. which more often than not had an element of the seedy or the guilty - and sometimes boozing journalist in Defence of the Realm (1986) it was almost possible to smell the whisky coming off him. In Alan Bennett's A Private Function a couple of years earlier he personified all that was corrupt and greedy in postwar Britain.

Denholm Elliott made the best use of his face, which quite early on became lined. He once described it himself as having a ravaged look: "lived-in" might have been a politer expression. It could have been used for many characters from Graham Greene, although it rarely was. Elliott played the police inspector in The Heart of the Matter and in a few short stories adapted for television. but otherwise his only major Greene role was in The Return of A. J. Raffles, a play which did not provide one of the RSC's better nights at the Aldwych. Ellion, though, al-ways did have a good line in gentlemen cads.

The turning point in his film career was probably Alfie in 1966, in which he played a back street abortionist. The strength of this performance when Elliott was in his mid forties — often a difficult age for an actor — anchored him amidst the dirty mac brigade. Thereafter, when the script called for someone with a few guilty secrets, a bit dishevelled. somewhat down on his luck then the casting director was apt to say "Send for apt to say

He, too, a few years earlier had been down his back, drinking heavily and trying to piece together his career again. At one point, after successes in the verse plays of Fry and Eliot, he had been seen as a probable "gentleman actor" in the Gielgud tradition. It did not work out that way. He had a dismal time at Stratford-on-Avon, profession-ally and privately, complaining that pub conversation there tended to revolve around alternative interpretations of Malvolio in Act III. H. M. Tennent, the ruling West End management of the day, appeared little interested in him and the new pack of kitchen-sink actors, performing in a rather different style, were snapping at his heels.

DENHOLM ELLIOTT

In the cinema things were hardly better: early in Elliot's career Korda had put him on a handsome 15-year contract at £5,000 p.a. and then made little use of him. Denholm Elliott needed Alfie, which helped him establish a corner in the roles he was to play best characters with a glass in the hand, a strand of lank hair hanging over the right eyebrow and a few nasty secrets turking somewhere. Possibly a touch of rebellion, too.

There was more than a streak of rebelliousness in Elliott's character, much of which stemmed from his unhappy childhood. His family was upper middle class, but his father, a KC, was murdered by terrorists in Palestine. He disliked his time at Malvern College and had a few sharp things to say when the school was foolish enough to invite him back for prize-giving day. He was sufficiently disturbed to become a kleptomaniac before trying his hand as an actor at RADA surprisingly, a recommended therapy then. Even there re-ports on Elliott were not good. Wartime service in the RAF might have come as a relief he was a gunner in Group Captain Leonard Cheshire's squadron - had he not been shot down over the Baltic and forced to spend three years as a PoW in Silesia.

Confinement at least gave him a chance to prove that he could act. He set up a company drawn from his fellow prisoners and took a number of leading roles himself, rang-ing from Eliza Doolittle to Macheth After release Denholm Elliott had no doubts about his future. In his RAP uniform he auditioned for the Amersham repertory company and was engaged on the spot. His still boyish good looks won him a part in The Guinea Pig (1946) as a prefect and then he attracted the eye of Laurence Olivier, who was due to play the amorous Duke in Christopher Fry's Venus Observed at the St James's. Olivier teasing-ly told Elliott that he was really 'not quite aristocrat enough for the role of the Duke's son, but engaged him nonetheless. The two actors were to remain great friends.

More Fry followed, this time an Anouilh adaptation, Ring Round the Moon, in which Denholm Elliott took over the Paul Scofield double role on Broadway. He began to be associated with "serious dra-ma". There was T. S. Eliot's The Confidential Clerk (1954) and immediately afterwards an involvement with the avant-garde seasons Peter Hall put on, first at the Arts and then at the Phoenix. Elliott impressed in South by Julien Green, an early theatrical foray into homosexuality, and had one of his few really jolly roles as Kilroy in Tennessee Willian. 's experimental Camino Real, directed by

This work was dovetailed with considerably less demanding, but financially much more rewarding screen appearances. His debut was in a forgotten film. Dear Mr

Prohack, based on Arnold Bennen. But The Sound Barrier and a recommendation from David Lean brought him the Alexander Korda contract. On the set of The Cruel Sea he met his first wife, Virginia McKenna, although the marriage was to last only three Towards the end of the 1950s the Elliott career began to run out of steam and when the work offers did not come in he drank heavily. A season at Stratford in 1960 brought little acciaim and some dull roles. Most of Elliott's appearances in classical drama were to be in America, where he flirted briefly with Lee Strasberg's Actors Studio. It is the West End's loss that he was hardly ever seen there in glossy revivals of Chekhov and Ibsen, two playwrights made for him, although there was a mightily impressive Judge Brack (Hedda Gabler) at the Royal Court. And it was his loss that he himself never became a star or a true boxoffice draw, which was within his potential. He admitted that he was not very good at pushing others, including some of lesser talent, out of the what dismissive and cynical about himself, especially when talking with feilow actors at the Garrick bar.

His career was retrieved through the cinema. Clive Donner's Nothing But the Best (1964), with a Frederic Raphael script, led the way back in giving Ellion a meaty cad role. King Rai took him to Hollywood and proved his exceptional ability to play the flawed and even corrupt. And then came Alfie to put the stamp on the new Ellion career. Thereafter he became the regular scene-stealer, which earned him the muchquoted show business quio Never act with children, animals or Denholm Ellion". He specialised, both in the cinema and on television, in tipplers with a kind of dissipated charm and a few guilty secrets. Once when asked how he chose his scripts, Denholm Elliott replied that he opened them midway through and if he found a few characters he would not mind having a drink with in a pub then he went back to the beginning.

Denholm Ellion's re-won success, which included a useful partnership with Dennis Pouer (Blade on the Feather, Brimstone and Treacle) and quantities of other roles on TV. meant that his appearances on stage became fewer. Peter Nichols's Chez Nous, about the tribulations of the English middle class in the Dordogne, at the Globe gave him a chance again to shine in comedy. His last West End play was David Mamer's A Life in the Theatre (Haymarket) three years ago.

Denholm Ellion could be difficult. He had fits of depression and periods of elation when he would roar off in full gear on his motorbike across Europe. In a flamboyant profession he was a man who usually preferred to sit on the sidelines, glass of vodka in hand, observing others. He knew his own capabilities and knew, perhaps too that he lacked the willpower to realise all of them. He used his voice. he used his face, especially that seen-it-all-before expression that transferred so well to screen. In the past decade the British cinema has not been exactly strong but Denholm Elliott appeared in a high proportion of its best films.

He is survived by his second wife, Susan, to whom he had been married 30 years, a son way. He tended to be someand a daughter.

APPRECIATIONS

JP1100150

William Douglas Home

YOUR obituary of William Douglas Home (September 30) concentrated on his theatrical activities in the Englishspeaking world. However, 1 would like to bring to your readers' attention the importance of his career in France where his comedies are constantly performed as classics. In my research activities at the Sorbonne I studied the profound Englishness of his brilliant humour which we French people like and appreciate so much. We consider him, as American scholars do, to be the "king of light comedy" in England in the second half of the twentieth century At this moment his play Le Canard à l'orange (The Secretary Bird) is being performed in Paris at the Theatre Dauno with Michel Roux and Yolande Folliot, the Charles Baret Company is currently touring Ne Coupez pas mes arbres (Lloyd George Knew My Father) with Danielle Darrieux and Jacques Dufilho before coming to Paris, and the Parisian theatre manageress Myriam de Colombi has programmed Le Cormoran (The Kingfisher) in the coming

William Douglas Home is also particularly dear to all French people for his action during the war when he so generously sacrificed himself and his reputation to try and save thousands of useless civilian deaths in the bombardment of Le Havre.

Professor Hélène

MAY I add to your obituary of William Douglas Home an example of his gentle wit? Some years after the second world war I found myself at a banquet in Paris sitting next to the then Mayor of Le Havre. I recalled to him the drama of William Douglas Home's refusal to fire his guns at Le Havre, for which he was court-martialled and imprisoned. The Mayor was keenly interested, and asked how he could get into touch with William

I told him how, but next morning I thought I had been indiscreet, and so I wrote to William apologising for having breached his privacy.

I had a charming letter back from him saying that I had nothing to apologise for an that he did not mind at all. The letter ended, "I would be glad to meet the Mayor, yours ever, William Douglas Home, PS Do you think he will ask me to shoot?

Sir Anthony Kershaw

Mohammed Hidayattulah

IN YOUR excellent obituary of Mohammed Hidayatullah (September 26), former vice president and Chief Justice of India, you mentioned his autobiography, My Own Bos-well, which as you say is sprinkled with wit. However, we should also remember that he was a great master of English literature, a keen Anglophile and, in his five volumes of collected speeches and writings, he showed a wide interest in our literature as well as in our system of justice and our constitution He was indeed a most

PROFESSOR ARCHIBALD DUNCAN

Professor Archibald Sutherland Duncan. former executive dean of the faculty of medicine and professor of medical education in the University of Edinburgh, died in Edinburgh on October 1 aged 78. He was born in Darjeeling. where his father was a Church of Scotland mary, on July 17. 1914.

ARCHIE Duncan was nationally and internationally respected for his contributions to medicine, medical educa-tion and medical ethics. He was executive dean of medicine in Edinburgh (1966-76) and professor of obstetrics and gynaecology in the University of Wales (1953-66).

He was educated at Merchiston Castle School and Edinburgh University where he graduated in medicine in 1936. In 1939 he became a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh and subsequently a fellow of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists and of the Royal College of Physicians of

After junior hospital ap-

Anniversaries

BJRTHS: Heinrich Schütz.

composer, Köstritz, Germany,

1585; John Hoadly, poet and dramatist, London, 1711:

John Cowper Powys, novelist.

Shirley. Derbyshire, 1872;

Eddie Rickenbacker. American fighter pilot in World War

I, Columbus, Ohio, 1890;

Ellen Wilkinson, trades unionist and politician. Manchester, 1891: Juan Peron, President of Argentina

1946-55 and 1973-74, Bue-

DEATHS: Cola di Rienzi, revolutionary, Rome, 1354;

Henry Fielding, novelist, Lisbon, 1754; Pierre Fournier, engraver and type founder, Paris, 1768; Vittorio Alfieri, poet, Florence, 1803; Franklin Pierce, 14th American

President 1853-57, Concord.

New Hampshire, 1869; Sir

John Monash, engineer and general, Melbourne, 1931;

Kathleen Ferrier, contralto.

London, 1953; Clement Att-

nos Aires, 1895.

pointments he served (1941-45) in the Royal Navy as a surgical specialist and was awarded the DSC.

On demobilisation he embarked on a career in obstetrics and gynaecology. He was successively lecturer/part-time consultant in Aberdeen (1946-S0), senior lecturer in Edin-burgh (1950-53) and professor in the Weish Nat-ional School of Medicine, a post that he held with great distinction for 13 years. Archie Duncan was the first executive dean of medicine in Edinburgh and from his appointment in 1966 his distinguished contributions established the "gold stan-dard" against which similar appointments elsewhere were judged. The role of an administrator in a medical school is not a particularly easy one, but with his charm and gifts of diplomacy, tact and persuasion, Duncan established excellent relationships and successfully dealt with colleagues — and students — in the faculty of medicine, and with those in the central administration of the university, the health authorities at local and national levels, the Medical Research Council and other national bodies.

He did his homework, and always made forceful, but courteous presentations of whatever case he was supporting - and produced wellreasoned arguments against any proposal which he regarded as unfair or unreasonable.

His personal "pending" file consisted of postcards which he carried in his pocket and the appropriate one was extracted and used as a memoryjogger when he had a planned or chance encounter with a colleague. It was pleasant to discuss problems with him he was a good listener and wise counsellor and always seemed to have time, even under extreme pressure of work, to spend with those who sought his help and advice.

Duncan played a significant role in the central, as distinct from the faculty, organisation of the university, and his outstanding contribution was recognised by the conferment on him of the honorary degree of Doctor of Medicine in the Medical Research Council, member of the General Medical Council and as associate editor of the British Medical Journal of Education.

He served in many capacities, including: honorary president of the British Medical Students Association; member of the Chinical Research Board

After "retiring" in 1976 he contributed in a number of fields: as consultant editor of the Journal of Medical Ethics and joint editor of the Dictionary of Medical Ethics, as vice-chairman of the Lothian Health Board; as a member of the Edinburgh University Court; and as chairman of the Scottish Council on Disability He carried out a personal enquiry into measures of quality assurance in medical care in the UK, US and Europe for the Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust and was a shortterm WHO consultant in the Western Pacific.

During recent years, Duncan suffered from failing health, but continued to take an active interest in medical and university affairs, and maintained contact with those with whom he had formed enduring relationships. Archie Duncan is survived by his wife. Barbara Holliday. whom he married in 1939 and who contributed much to

Islam builds a future from past

By MARCUS BINNEY, ARCHITECTURE CORRESPONDENT

THE world of architecture offers many prizes but none have proved so discerning and interesting as the Aga Khan awards for Islamic architecture. The 1992 awards, presented in Samarkand last month by the Aga Khan, are remarkable for highlighting humble examples of self-help as well as ambitious public buildings and restorations.

Nine projects share the $500,000 award. In Tunisia an Association de Sauvegarde in Kairouan has restored ramparts mosques and mausoleums and foresees the repair of all streets squares and private houses in the Medina. New uses include a school for deaf children, offices and craft centres.

In Istanbul a National Palaces' Trust has opened the palaces of the Ottoman sultans, nationalised under Ataturk, to the public. These include Dolmabache, a Vicand an early eighteenth century royal pavilion in a garden overlooking the Golden Horn.

In Indonesia a writer and former Catholic priest have transformed a squatter settlement at Yogyakarta slated for dearance with traditional stilt structures in brightly coloured local materials.

In Syria the three Muhanna brothers (two architects and an engineer) have created an alternative to modern cement block construction reviving local arch and vault forms for new schools.

While much of Turkey's Mediterranean coast has suffered from uncontrolled development, at Bodrum the architect Turgut Cansever has created a holiday village of simple well proportioned stone villas custom-built for Turkish families.

Most ambitious is the Pan-

African Institute in Burkina

torian extravaganza of 1856 Faso in West Africa, built entirely of stablised mud brick with decorative patterning and arch vaulting that could pass for a work of John

Other · prize winning projects are in Egypt, Jordan and India. This is the fifth cycle of the tri-annual awards. Piers Rodgers, secretary of the Royal Academy who acted as an assessor for an earlier cycle of the awards, said: "It is the most professionally run prize I have ever encountered. Every contender is assessed both for architectural merit and for usefulness to the community. Buildings must have been handed over at least two years before so any shortcomings would be apparent."

The Aga Khan initiated the awards to show that Islamic tradition could provide as valuable models for new buildings as the latest designs from

Germans rediscover their history from air

By Norman Hammond

THE new freedom to fly over Gmund, a former naval pilot what was East Germany has led to the discovery of hundreds of previously unknown archaeological sites.

According to James Pickering, one of Britain's leading aerial archaeologists, there are many parallels between British sites and those in the former DDR, especially west of the Elbe between Madgeburg and Dresden.

Among the discoveries are a number of "henges", banked enclosures with the ditch inside the bank and thus not defensive in function. Dating mainly from the later neolithic around 3000-2000 BC in Britain, such enclosures are thought to have been foci of ritual activity.

Most of the recent discoveries have been made by Otto Braasch, of Schwäbisch who Mr Pickering calls "unquestionably the most successful aerial archaeologist ever". Herr Braasch's annual flying hours and photographic output are more than those of all Britain's airborne archaeologists put together, Mr Pickering says, although his techniques are basically those

Most of the newly photographed East German sites seem to be prehistoric, including avenues of post holes and alignments of pits. Among the largest sites are oppida, Iron Age towns lying within extensive defensive earthworks. Similar sites are known in England at Wheathampstead, Hertfordshire, Stanwick in North Yorkshire and Colchester in Essex as the probable seats of pre-Roman rulers.

pioneered here in the 1930s.

university reforms.

participation and representation on university governing bodies and for reforms in disciplinary procedures and methods of examining.

It also recognizes the new adult status of students, and says that universities and the role of students within them should be correspondingly "modified and modernized". One expected re-sult is sweeping reforms of rules and regulations governing the lives of students.

The agreement, covering the 37 universities in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, follows negotiations during the summer between the NUS and the Committee of Vice-Chancellors on a declaration issued by the union in June demanding reforms in universities and colleges. A separate agreement is to be announced for the seven universities in Scotland.

remarkable man, to whom our country as well as India, owed a great deal.

William Barrett

WILLIAM Barrett (obituary. October 5) was an inspiring lecturer. During his period at New York University, Washington Square College, when I was a student, he taught the Philosophy of Literature and showed how great novelists and poets were the precursors of philosophic movements. Semesters were devoted to T. S.

Eliot and James Joyce, One afternoon in spring, much to our pleasure, he strutted on to the lecturer's platform, declaiming without the text, "April is the cruellest month..." He also taught that philosophy was largely dependent on human temperaments and, therefore, that all philosophies were "true".

Those in his classes will always remember a tall confident man who made philosophy come alive for them.

Rabbi Dr Sidney Brichto

ON THIS DAY Oct 8 1968

This was the Year of the Stuaent when authority seemm to be in full retreat. At Oxford, allowed to "entertain members of the opposite sex in their lodgings" later than 11pm.

> Students' demands met by reforms

By Brian MacArthur

Leaders of the National Union of Students won a triumph last night when university vice chan-cellors put their signatures to an unprecedented joint statement outlining a national plan for

The statement, issued on the eve of the new academic session, meets student demands for

In London last night. Dr D.G. Christopherson, chairman of the Committee of Vice-Chancellors. described the agreement as an sketch" than a blueprint.

The agreement says that stu-dents' views on curricula and courses, methods of teaching, major organizational matter and issues concerning the planning and development of univer-

Secondly, student participation should be provided for in disciplinary procedures, which should be consistent with principles of natural justice. On the sore point of examinations, the statement says that methods of assessment should recognize the "very varied" abil-ities of students and should be acceptable to the public and employers. The vice-chancellors join the NUS in welcoming the Govern-ment's decision to accept the Latey report's recommendation that the legal age of majority should be lowered to 18. The statement recognizes the change ties which univer sities have borne on student welfare and towards parents. The NUS is negotiating an agreement on similar lines with the local education authority concluded by next month at the Oxford proctors' bar lifted The proctors at Oxford University have changed their rule forbidding undergraduates to osite sex in their lodgings after 11 p.m. The deadline is now midnight, after which permission for entertaining must be obtained. This is one of a number of changes in a new booklet on conduct and discipline.

Undergraduates can now live within six miles of the city centre, instead of three. The ban on carowners parking in the centre of the city has been lifted and the proctors instead appeal to undergraduates to help to prevent congestion by avoiding the area on weekdays.

Another rule which has disappeared is one forbidding the distribution of leaflets. The memorandum gives full details of the appeal procedure against any punishment imposed by the proctors.

lee, 1st Earl Attlee, prime minister 1945-51. London.

Lamont launches attack on spending

Continued from page 1 has been able to argue that the loss of the mark anchor for the pound and the resultant risk of higher inflation has made it even more important to hold down planned expenditure over the next three years. On existing plans, the govern-ment will have to borrow £32 billion next year. Most City analysts expect a much higher

Peter Lilley, the social security secretary, yesterday refused to rule out a range of possible savings, including the abandonment of manifesto commitments to uprate pen-sions and child benefits in line with inflation and increases in national insurance rates.

John Patten, the education secretary, hinted at his contribution to the Whitehall economy drive by saying on BBC Radio 4 that he would save "scores of millions" by closing unpopular schools.

Michael Howard, the environment secretary. Virginia Bottomley, the health secre-tary, Malcolm Rifkind, the defence secretary, and John MacGregor, the transport secretary, have the toughest fights on their hands.

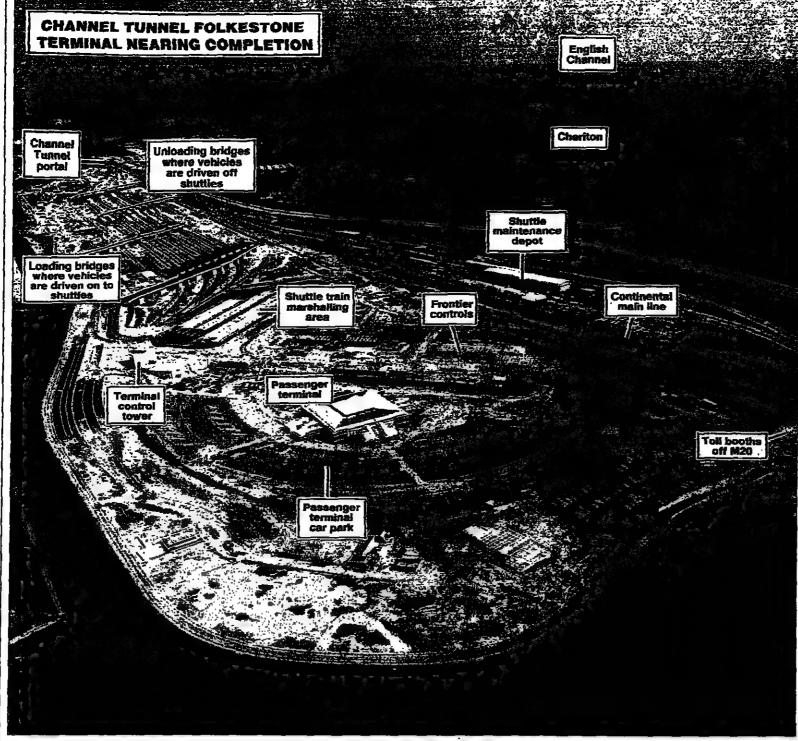

Mr Howard, who wants an extra £2 billion to ease the switch from the poll tax to the council tax next spring, is under pressure to make cuts in his housing and inner cities programmes. The price of Mrs Bottomley's extra £500 million for the community care reforms will be cutbacks in cash for health authority budgets.

Mr MacGregor admitted defeat yesterday in his efforts to protect the £4.5 billion a year road building programme. Planned bypasses will be delayed or scrapped. He is also fighting a last-ditch battle to save the Jubilee line extension in the face of an apparent reluctance by Mr Howard to commit himself to moving thousands of his civil servants to Docklands. Without this pledge, the bankers behind the project are refusing to release £180 million in today's prices as the private sector contribution to the scheme. Transport officials are to try to persuade the banks to go ahead without government help, estimated to be worth E60 million, but they are pessimistic about their

The fate of the project could be decided at a meeting of

Sterling recovers, page 19

A trip to France under the sea

By Michael Dynes, transport correspondent

IN SPITE of a second delay in the launch of Channel tunnel shuttle services until December next year, all main construction work on the British and French terminals has been completed.

Work has now begun on the 14 toll booths that will provide access to the 420-acre site from exit 12 on the M20 in Kent. Having entered the terminal, motorists and haul-iers will either proceed to the passenger terminal building, for duty free, bureau de change, shops and restaurants, or drive direct to British and French Ironizer controls. From there, passengers will be directed to the marshalling area where they will receive instructions from bllingual staff on which train to join. They will then drive through a side door, via the two loading

The journey through the 31mile tunnel will take 35 minutes, during which passengers will be able to leave their cars to stretch their legs. There will not, however, be any on-board restaurant facilities or duty free services. Smoking will be prohibited and the rule will be enforced by closed-circuit television cameras and Eurotunnel staff patrols.

By Philip Howard

A. A. Dated two cass

b. Mixed fruit ole c. A woollest slipper SHOCKFROCK

b. An explorer of caves

a. A kind of Heavy Metal dance

AA ROADWATCH

works information, 24 hours a day, dial 0836 401 followed by the London & SE marie, roadworld C. Landon (within N & S Circs.).

G. London unturn N & S Circs
M-ways/roads M4-M1
M-ways/roads M1-Dartford T.
M-ways/roads M25-M4-M23
M-ways/roads M25-M4
M25 London Orbital only.....

tional traffic and readwork

AA Roadwarch is charged at 36p per minute (cheap rate) and 48p per minute

TIMES WEATHERCALL

ent Survey Sussex
corset Hards & IOW leven & Cormedi Vits, Gloucs Avon, Some serba Bucks, Doon
seds, Hards & Essex
Norfolk, Suffolk, Cernios
West Mid & Sin Glaren & Gwent.
Brings Hardish & Worse.
Central Midlands.
East Middands Lines & Humbernide
Dyled & Powys
Gwynedd & Cheyd
N W Encland

point & Elitightands.

b. Silver-bearing quartz

c. A bare-bounded dress BARIATRICS a. Heavy drinking b. The study of obesity Wall exercises at acrobatics appropriate code.

ionhem Ireland

SPELUNKER

HUPPY а. А һі́рру уырру mum of one an hour during the night, every day of the Eurotunnel had originally planned to announce the cost a Channel tunnel journey by next month. But building delays mean the fares will not now be known until the new year. Nonetheless, officials insist that shuttle prices will be competitive with those of the

A separate service for foot assengers will be provided by British, French and Belgian railways between London, Paris and Brussels, using the Shuttles are planned to run continental mainline which every 15 minutes during peak runs alongside the Eurotunnel periods, declining to a mini-

Patten's democracy lecture upsets China

Continued from page 1 idea. It is, for instance, an essential element in the pursuit of economic progress. Mr Patten said that without an independent judiciary, enforcing laws democratically enacted, businesses would be vulnerable to arbitrary political decisions, "a sure recipe for a collapse in confidence and a powerful deterrent to investors from overseas".

Martin Lee, leader of the United Democrats, Hong Kong's biggest liberal party, criticised Mr Patten's proposals, saying that the legislative council's powers fell well short of those of western legislatures. "You are beginning to have what could be described as a benign dictatorship," he

The colony's legislature allows only a limited element of directly elected seats. Most are filled by appointment or by elections from selected business and civic groups. Liberals argue, though without pro-ducing evidence, that the surest way to keep the post-1997 government free of undue influence by China is to have a fully elected legislature.

Democracy plan, page 11 Chris Patten, page 14 Leading article, page 15

Conference sketch

Men who linger on the pulse

A pulse and that pulse can be steadied — or quickened - by a speech. Many speeches try to quicken pulses but fail; many try, but fail, to steady them. And there are some — a few — that succeed in one purpose or the other. But it is very rare to succeed in both. To calm and at the same time to excite within the compass of one oration is a singular achievement. To leave your audience both galvanised and comforted is a real triumph. Only Moses, and Michael Heseltine, can do

He did it yesterday. I arrived after he had started. I swear that representatives' nostrils were flared. After-wards, people in the bar outside — quite ordinary people from Cleethorpes or Learnington Spa — were walking as if in a trance, the pupils of their eyes dilated like minor prophets who had seen a vision. Silently they exchanged the glances of a scouting troupe in the woods who together have just witnessed a comet.
"How was it for you?" my Guardian colleague asked

Heseltine's was not the only speech of the day. There was Kenneth Clarke's. The home secretary had hoped to quicken pulses; but how far can you get with declara-tions like "community sentences will be the sort which have an effect!" We await a home secretary who dares promise community sen-tences which don't.

Mr Clarke tried to rouse himself to indignation dur-ing a passage on "the prob-lems posed by new age travellers and ravers" but, puffed cheeks and shiny features emerging from a striped shirt strobing in the TV lights, plus tie with psychedelic swirts. Mr Clarke looked more like a middle aged dad trying to be a raver, than their

There followed a bendidening passage on the bumble-bee. No doubt this is, as Mr Clarke told us, just a code name for some sort of police operation, but his testimony to renewed police efficiency, followed by his report of bumblebee arrests, struck the wrong note.

Where law and order are concerned, grass-roots Tories have an unerring nos for a closet nice-guy. They conference has a maybe all at sea over the money supply, the EC, or they can sniff out a law and order wimp at 50 paces. Their instinct is to destroy. Mr Clarke can punch the air all he pleases but, though he looks like a bruiser, he's actually a thinker, and representatives are not fooled. They don't want a thinker. He was rewarded with a crouching ovation.

Then there was Norman

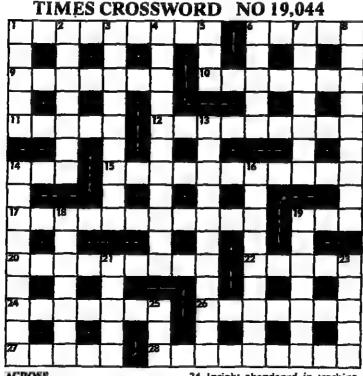

Tebbit, who spoke again yesterday at a hotel called the Old Ship, though that is not how some of the cabinet are pronouncing it. During the European debate on Tuesday, Tebbit had quick-ened the whole conference's pulse. But he had quickened the pulse as do six pints of snakebite — the punks' favourite drink consisting of equal measures of bad lager and cheap cider. It makes for a quick rush of blood to the head, and a terrible taste in the mouth next morning. Yesterday there was a distinct sense of "Tebbit hangover" in the air. Representatives remembered the howls and cheers of the night before, and were ashamed.

Oddly, that Tebbit speech has done Mr Major good. It has focused Euro-dissent into an image. and on to an individual, which the party fancies greatly, but does not wholly trust. How many representatives, as Tebbit assured his PM that he would have his support in all that was right, thought Lord Melbourne once expressed: "I don't need fellows to support me when I'm right. I need fellows who support me when I'm wrone.

Then came Mr Hurd, who steadied pulses with a solid defence of the Treaty. And then Heseltine, who put the wind up them with talk of the cost of shunning the EC; then rouse them with his defence of Major; then amuse them by turning the tables on his hecklers in a speech drafted with the heckles already in place; then reassured them with his tales of industrial glory. And now comes Lady T. I wonder whether the rapturous reception she receives today will be quite as rapturous as last year? Pulses have

MATTHEW PARRIS

ACROSS

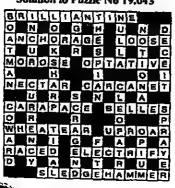

- 1 Desire for public transport in 2 Odds on cash being provided for a burlesque [5].

  9 He's left the redemption money in the bar [7].
- 10 Where hops are dried in the Golden State by the sea (7). 11 Small animal an Athenian character kept at home (5).
- 12 Powerful sea bird is well below par (8).

  14 Vessel taking peacekeepers across river (3).
- 15 E.g. Westminster clerk is un-usually tricky fellow (4,7). 17 Musical theatre employee possibly creating a bang (11).

  19 Work follows — fine and dandy
- 20 Account or short story about desert deliverance (9). 22 Write for another? That's the spirit (5).

Solution to Puzzle No 19.043

24 Insight abandoned in teaching 26 City margins we finally surpass

27 Return and surrender (5). 28 Record studied for sound - it's a disgrace! (9), DOWN

 Woodland god to some extent displays a tyrannical streak (5).
 Dress again in regal turnout (7). Almost condescend, being spoilt.

to be settled comfortably (9). Observation about character in part of the railway carriage (11). 5 Fabulous bird takes up French 6 Found a bituminous substance in the street (5). Point of view a student in Oxford University accepted (7). 8 Set of transparencies, initially from one old railway journey (4-13 Surpass a comedy actor's popular books (4.7). 14 Not fit for hunt, he lay injured 16 Not even guerillas are troops of this sort (9). 18 Ask for popular papers (7). 19 Highwayman in need of a corn-plaster? (7).

21 Island youth — one included in an epic poem (5).
23 Negotiate terms for a school one included in outing, perhaps (5).

25 River rising in this sleepy land

(3).

Concise Crossword, page 17 Life & Times section

WORD-WATCHING c. A mounted Boer guerrilla

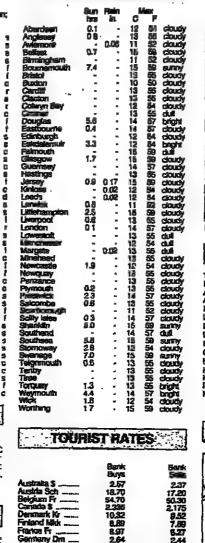

WEATHER Apart from light rain over northern and western Scotland, most of Britain will be dry today. It will be cloudy, however, with the most sunshine over southwestern parts of England and Wales. Later, rain over Shetland will spread to central Scotland. Northern Scotland will become windy. Outlook: patchy, light rain will spread south across the country tomorrow, but many areas will stay dry; on Saturday, most places will be dry with sunny spells.

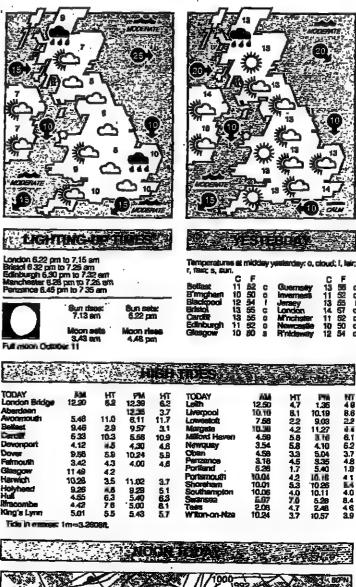

Yesterday: Temp: max 6am to 6pm, 15C (59F), min 6pm to 6am, 11C (52F) Humiday-6pm, 78 per cent Rain. 24hr to 6pm, 18 Sun: 24hr to 6pm, 2.8hr. 8ar, mean sea level, 6pm, 1.025 I milibars, raing, 1,000 milibars = 29 53m

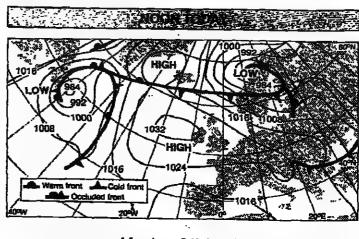

HIGHEST & LOWEST Tuesday: Highest day temp Littlehampton, East Sussex, 15C (59F), lowest day max: Buston, Derbyshee, 10C (50F); highest rantali Folkestone, Kent, 0.23m; highest sun-shine Bournemouth, Dorset, 7 4hr. MANCHESTER

GLASGOW Yesterday: Temp: max 6am to 6pm, 13C (55P) mm 6pm to 6am, -1C (30P) Ram 24ta to 6pm, pil, Sun. 24ta to 6pm, 6 8ty

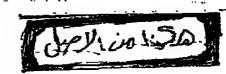

8ank 500 2.37 17.20 50.30 2.175 9.52 7.89 12.30 0.925 2.15.00 2.57 18.70 2.335 10.32 8.89 8.97 2.64 337.00 2.305.00 2.305.00 10.62 2.31 182.00 182.0 France Fr
Gentlery Dm
Greece Dr
Hong Kong S
Hong Kong Kong S
Hong Kong Kong S
Hong Kong S
Hong Kong S
Hong Kong Kong S
Hong Kong S
Hong Kong S
Hong Kong Kong S
Hong Kong Kong S
Hong Kong Kong S
Hong Kong S
Hong

CTUMES NEWSPAPERS LIMITED, 1992, Published and printed by Times Newspapers Ltd at 1 Virginia Street London E1 9xN, telephone 071-782 5000 and at Knowsley Park Londontrial Estate, Ridling Road Pressus, Mersuyside, 134 9HT, reiephone 051-546 2000. Thursday, October 8, 1992. Registered as a ice sheigh

BUSINESS TRAVEL 26-30 ACCOUNTANCY TIMES 31 BUSINESS TRAVEL 26-30 BUSINESS TRAVEL 26-30 BUSINESS TRAVEL 26-30 BUSINESS TRAVEL 26-30 BUSINESS TRAVEL 26-30

SPORT 32-36

ישביו מנוצאט א

THURSDAY OCTOBER 8 1992

BUSINESS EDITOR JOHN BELL

TODAY IN

Keith Vaz has campaigned for BCCI creditors who could see the first compensation payment of 10 cents in the dollar being made next summer Pages 21 and 23

GREEN SHOOT

Britain's annual economic growth could improve to almost 2 per cent in 1993 because of withdrawal from ERM Page 20

TOUGH GOING

Grampian Holdings found the going tough and saw profits fall in the first half of 1992. but is holding its dividend at 1.7p Page 22

NO DEADLINE

European legislation to impose a deadline on debt payments to small companies has been delayed for fear of irritating members Page 20

ACCOUNTANCY

Accountancy Television has made its debut, but Robert Bruce wonders if the programmes will succeed commercially Page 3 i

Pound strengthens as markets look to Germany

By COUN NARBROUGH ECONOMICS CORRESPONDENT

THE pound was lifted sharply by the upwind of the rising dollar after the Federal Reserve signalled no change in the discount rate and market attention switched to lower

German money market rates.

The Bundesbank, which last Friday openly declared its intention of keeping German money market rates slightly below 9 per cent, is bent on convincing foreign governments and international markets that the turning point has been passed on German interest rates, with only downward moves now in prospect. Market speculation that the Bundesbank is readying for an early cut in its lombard and discount rates to which held on to most of its overnight gains bring them closer into line with market rates, aroused City hopes that Norman Lamont, the Chancellor, might take advantage of the stronger pound to pare base rate by half a point during the Conservative party conference.

After dashing market expectations of a discount rate cut, the Fed refrained from open market operations, clearly flagging that it was not ready to lower its Fed funds target either from the prevailing 3 per cent. With the shift of transatlantic rate expectations the mark eased back on a broad front, which allowed the dollar to advance sharply to above DM1.4400, against DM1.4275 on Tuesday, Sterling.

throughout the day, eased to DM2.4607 at the official 4pm London close, still almost a plennig up on Tuesday. By 5pm it had climbed to DM2.4833. Against the dollar, the pound held broadly steady for most of the day, ending at $1.7190 at the 4pm ciese, up a cent from Tuesday. The trade-weighted index finished 0.3 higher, after peaking at $2.5 at noon. Dealers attributed part of sterling's gains to further unwinding of short positions after the currency's upward surge on Tuesday. But they remained wary about the pound ahead of today's speech by Mr Lamont at Brighton. If disappointed by the policy content, currency dealers could mark the

The Bundespank's campaign to underline that German interest rates have already dropped snarply, which comes in response to widespread criticism of Germany's tough policy stance, has been accompanied by warnings that money supply data for September will show a big rise.

Bundestrant: officials have sought to highlight the distorting effect large-scale intervention by the Bundesbank in September would have on the money data. This was seen by Frankfuri economists as an attempt to allay fears of any fresh tightening.

The Dutch, Belgian and Swedish central banks all announced interest rate cuts currencies after recent turbulence. Growing hopes of a cut in European interest rates enabled the stock market to continue clawing back Monday's 103 point fall. But the FT-SE 100 index lost some of its earlier gains to finish 28.7 up at 2,517.1. It stretches the index's lead during the past two days to 70.8 -- still 32 points shy of last Friday's closing levels.

Government securities continued to benefit from continental buying amid signs of switching to longer dated issues. Prices in longs closed with rises of £12.

> Hope for growth, page 20 Stock market, page 22 Comment page 23

East Midlands joins bid for British Coal

By Patricia Tehan

EAST Midlands Electricity said it had joined the consortium formed by the Union of Democratic Mine-workers to bid for British Coal, though it had made no significant investment.

Meanwhile, as pressure on the privatisation schedule grows, British Coal is believed to have picked next Wednesday to announce the closure of British Coal is expected to name 20 pits to be closed and give indications that another ten closures are to come once contracts with National Power and PowerGen have been signed. The announcement is expected the day before the National Union of Mineworkers meets to discuss industrial action over the job losses that will result from East Midlands yesterday confirmed that it had joined forces with the UDM after talks between John Harris, its chairman, and Roy Lynk, the UDM's director general. Advisers said the company's involvement was still exploratory exercise". Other members of the consortium include Sir David Whyte, former deputy chairman of National Freight Corporation; Dr Dickson Mabon, minister of state for energy in the last Labour government; and George Guise, former director of Consolidated Goldfields and an adviser to Lady Thatcher when she was prime

The consortium is being advised by corporate financiers at Kleinwort Benson. The original adviser was Lloyds Merchant Bank and the consortium has also consuited Schroders. Kleinwort was brought on board in August Mark Wood, a Kleinwort director, said the consortium planned to bid for all or part of British Coal, though it would prefer to see the coal industry run as two equal parts, reflectopencast mining.

"At this stage," he said,

"without an outline structure for the industry in a privatised world, there has to be some flexibility. Until the coal contracts are announced, the commercial basis for the industry is also uncertain. He described the consor-trum as "an alliance of industry parties stating an intention". The consortium is unable to negotiate finance until the size and shape of the industry are clearer, but Mr Lynk has said that £500 million could be raised.

The UDM opposes privati-sation, but feels that it is inevitable. It aims to make the best of the situation and protect as many of its mem-bers' jobs as possible.

Mr Wood said: "The consortium is a starting point. It is a flagship. One cannot have a pre-conceived idea about how a consortium bid approach is going to work. The UDM is responding to something that is being imposed, protecting the interests of its members."

The UDM has also had talks with the British Association of Colliery Managers, which has spoken offaunching its own bid.

The association favours a privatisation of the company as one entity. "That is the only way in which this business will have long-term viability."

John Meads, its general secretary, said yesterday. Until the government took a decision on the shape of privatisation, it was premature to talk of a bid.

British Coal is believed to have reached agreement with the Treasury over a redundanpackage for more than cy package for more than 25,000 miners who will lose their jobs when the pits are

The terms are understood to match those of a scheme introduced in March 1990, and which ended in March this year. They laid down that redundant miners over the age of 30 were to receive lump sums of between £2,500 and £10,000, on top of their other redundancy terms. The scheme in operation since March provides up to £27,000, depending on a miner's earnings and length of A British Coal spokesman refused to comment.

The signing of five-year coal supply contracts with the electricity generators has been delayed by objections from the 12 regional power supply are unable to sign a deal until they have reached agreement with the supply companies over the volume and price of coal-generated power these

Joining forces: John Harris, chairman, says his company is linking with the UDM

Relief for Lloyd's in report on Gooda

BY JONATHAN PRYNN

A LONG-AWAITED independent report into the £700 million losses suffered by Gooda Walker names at Lloyd's makes sweeping criticisms of the Gooda Walker underwriting agency but stops short of condemning Lloyd's regulatory role in the affair. market sources said.

The 3,400 Gooda Walker names yesterday received letters from David Coleridge, the chairman of Lloyd's, telling them that copies of the 1,500page report will be dispatched

Lloyd's council members were given a summary yester day. One said the report would give names some jolly good ammunition to sue agents" but "did not find anything too damaging about the society" Gooda Walker had been a commercial failure "of monumental proportions" Lloyd's procedures were "no more to blame than the DTi was for MMI going down".

Leading Goods Walker
names who have been briefed on the report describe it as "dynamite". One said the report was "extremely censorious of at least one of the underwriters and of the members' agents involved".

The four main Gooda Walker syndicates lost £476 million in 1989 alone and have brought financial ruin to thousands of Lloyd's names. Gooda Walker losses make up the largest component of the £2.06 billion total loss for that

In July last year, Lloyd's set up an independent loss review body, chaired by Kieran Poynter, a Price Waterhouse partner, to investigate the circumstances of the losses.

THE POUND

US dollar 1.7190 (+0.0045) German mark 2.4607 (+0.0098) Exchange index 82.0 (+0.3) Beni- of England official close (4pm)

STOCK MARKET

FT 30 share 1847.3 (+33.1) FT-SE 100 2517.1 (+28.7) New York Dow Jones 3178.46 (+0.27)* Tokyo Nikkei Avge 17111.74 (-156.36)

INTEREST RATES

London, Bank Base, 9% 3-month interbank, 9-8°2% 3-month eligible bills, 8%-8°4% US; Prime Rate 6% Federal Funds, 3°4,3°4 3-month Treasury Bills, 2.63-2.81%* 30-year bonds, 97"x-97"x*

CURRENCIES

COMPLICATION
London: £ $1.7168 £ DM2 4833 £: SwFr2.1666 £ FFr8 3865 £ Yen206.27 £ Index. 82.0 ECU: £0 795521	New York: $: $1 7170" $: DM1.4419" $: SwFr1.2632" $: FFr4.8915" $ Yen120.00" $ Index. 60.8 SDR, £0.851808
	£. SDR1.173973

COLD

London Forex market close

London Fixing: AM $349 50 PM $550.15 New York:

NORTH SEA OIL

Brent (Oct) .. .. $20 35/bbi ($20.25) RETAIL PRICES

RPI: 138 9 August (1987 = 100)

Canary Wharf line changes

By Angela Mackay

CANARY Wharf's administrators will be asked to abandon their proposal that makes private sector contribution to the extension of the Jubilee Line into Docklands dependent on the government becoming one of the project's tenants. Even though cuts in spending are expected to force the government to abandon its commitment to put E1.5 billion towards the Underground extension, any hope for the scheme depends on the administrators and the banks dropping their demand for 2.000 civil servants from the environment department to be transferred to Canary Wharf

Last week, the administrators from Ernst & Young gave Lord Wakeham, chairman of the government's committee on Canary Wharf, a final proposal that linked a contribution by the scheme's banks with the government relocating 2,000 staff.

Sources close to the banks said last night they would be extremely reluctant to abandon linkage between the in-vestment in Jubilee and the environment department taking space in the project.

"There has to be an additional income stream to encourage the banks to make the private sector contribution which was originally supposed to be paid by Canary Wharf's founders, Olympia & York," the source

There has been widespread speculation this week that the proposed extension to the Jubilee Line will be cancelled as part of a draconian public spending round.

A final decision is expected to be made next Thursday by a cabinet committee that includes Lord Wakeham, Michael Howard, environment secretary, and Michael Portillo. chief secretary to the Treasury. Companies involved in the construction industry reacted angrily to a proposed scrapping of the project.

Frank Kennedy, executive director of Wimpey Group, the construction company, said it would be a "senseless and savage decision for London and the South East economy.

"Over £100 million have already been spent on the scheme. Prices for work are lower than they will ever be and the future of Docklands ... depends on this link and thousands of jobs in the construction industry are relying on it," Mr Kennedy said.

Spending cuts, page 1

Lyonnaise sells stake in Anglian

By MARTIN WALLER

LYONNAISE des Eaux Dumez has cut its last tie with the British water industry by selling its 8.99 per cent stake in Anglian Water.

The French company has taken a £34.5 million profit on the stake, bought immediately after the December 1989 privatisation. Anglian shares fell 13p to 417p; the other water companies were also marked back

Cazenove and Warburg Se curities bought the 26.5 million shares at 4 i Op and placed them with institutions at 415p. Lyonnaise, which emerged from a merger of Lyonnais des Eaux and Dumez, one of France's big-gest construction groups, sold stakes in Severn Trent and

On balance, secrecy is the bottom line

the corner.

nervously at the press.

THE Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales opened its council meetings to the public for the first time in 112 years yesterday - with a call for greater Moorgate Place, home to the ICA since 1880, has seen many strange goings on in its time. Asil Nadir, former chairman of Polly Peck, crept in the back door early one morning in 1990 to meet his creditors. But there has never been anything quite like this. The ICA, stung by criticism that it has been 100 secretive, decided to bite the bullet and allow journalists - heaven forbid! into its council chamber.

This was to be the first

Plaistowe: on form

council meeting since August. Just before 10.30am, the doors swung open; reporters, who had fantasized about this moment for years, took up their places in the "gallery".

shirts and brushed your teeth actually, a row of chairs at the back. On each wooden desk extra hard," he said. "At b o'clock last night they rang up there was a white notepad, a sharp red pencil, a tumbler to say they had a previous appointment." A great roar and a green bottle of mineral water. The label on each rose from the chamber. But bottle stated: "Composition not everyone agreed with the new spirit of glasnost. in accordance with the results of the officially recognised Proposed changes to the system of electing a viceanalysis". This had a familiar president met with a mixed ring, to those at ease with audits. Spotlights lit the room response, and secrecy won the and a clock ticked quietly in day. The release of personal statements by candidates Suddenly, through the should be restricted. The names of nominators should doors, came the accountants. They wore dark suits and not appear on the voting papers. Council will review its spectacles and carried briefdecision to publish the numcases. One or two blinked ber of votes cast.

As masters of ceremonies The council broke for lunch. go, Ian Plaistowe, ICA president, was in flying form. "I Journalists were not invited. notice you've all put on clean

Accountancy Times, page 31

BUSINESS PLAN

Save at least 200 hours of frustration on Lotus 1-2-3°, Excel°, Supercalc 5°

with MBA BUSINESS PLAN®

Writing a business plan can be time-consuming and frustrating, not to mention a costly

Now, thanks to MBA Business Plan, you can avoid that process. We have developed a range of different plans for Trading, Service, Manufacturing and Professional businesses. Four levels are MBA EASIPLAN 3 hour entry level plan for small businesses.

MBA BUSINESS PLAN Versions 3 & 3D More power and flexibility, plus stunning new features like: SmartTools · Customise your plan with single management system for the largest public and private sector organisations. Over a quarter of FT 100 companies, and thousands of businesses worldwide use MBA

MBA Tracker - Actual v forecast reports.

MBA CORPORATE The ultimate forecasting and

For a FREE full colour brochure, send the coupon below to us by post or fax, or phone us.

Business Plan.

क 0272 21 55 55 International +44 272 21 55 55 13 Gt George St, Bristol BS1 5RR. Fax 0272 22 77 49 quote: TIM003

now as easy as "filling in the blanks". Lotus Magazine

Price From £79.00

on	Tel
arry	No. of staff
ss

Pound devaluation will boost growth to 2%, forecast says

By Colin Narbrough, economics correspondent

THE benefit from the devaluation of the pound that followed Britain's withdrawal from the exchange-rate mechanism will boost annual economic growth to almost 2 per cent next year after a contraction of 0.9 per cent this year, according to Oxford Economic Forecasting (OEF). Its latest analysis of international prospects, published yesterday, predicted that gross domestic product would be 0.4 per cent higher next year than indicated in OEF's predevaluation forecast. The growth assessment for 1994 has, however, remained unchanged at 2.8 per cent. This would be followed by renewed deceleration to an annual 1.9 per cent in 1995.

The revised outlook assumes short-term interest rates will be cut to an average 8 per cent next year from 9.8 per cent this year, but would not fall further until 1995. The move to 8 per cent is expected in the current quarter.

Assuming the gain in British competitiveness since last month is preserved, OEF sees the pound holding in a range of DM2.55 to DM2.65 for the next two years. Instead of the continued depreciation of the pound that many City analysis expect, OEF's forecast assumes some recovery.

Sterling was yesterday trad-

EC drops plan to help small firms

FROM TOM WALKER IN BRUSSELS

THE European Commission has dropped plans to set deadlines for payments to small companies. Although such rules might have saved thousands of businesses from going to the wall in the recession, the commission's small and medium-sized enterprises directorate has been told to redraft the plans. It is feared they might have irritated member states.

"It's a victim of subsidiarity," a British official said. The UK government has never supported legislation on payments, arguing that en-forced deadlines would do as much harm to small businesses as good.

Studies by the commission have shown that late payments to companies are common throughout the EC. Analysing data from Dun & Bradstreet. the business information company, on more than 1.1 mil-lion inter-company payments between April 1991 and March this year, the commission found that 48.8 per cent of payments to suppliers were late; 20.9 per cent were more than 30 days late. The com-mission defined "late" as anything over 15 days beyond the contracted period.

Britain had a worse record than any of the other EC countries analysed by Dun & Bradstreet - France, Italy. and

Netherlands. It was found that there were few rules in the EC governing payments, except in France, where perishable goods have to be paid for within 30 days. Most countries, though, have deadlines, backed by penalties, for public procurement contracts. Late payments were generally due to poor management practices, structural changes in groups of companies and a decline in the sense of moral obligation to pay. Even in Germany, which lays particu-lar value on social "correctness", the commission found evidence that payments were increasingly delayed. An official in the EC's small and medium-sized enterprises directorate said that a decision on whether to publish the findings could be made today. If published, the study would simply be a "discussion paper" and would be taken further only if member states showed any interest. In the current climate, it seems as good as Officials of the directorate had originally hoped that after publication of a "green paper", the commission could have brought forward proposals for legislation. This could have covered credit periods and sanctions on large companies that delayed payments to small ones dependent on their orders.

CHOCKETA IGTICAR AUT PA

ing above DM2.45. OEF expects the pound to re-enter the ERM at a central parity of about DM2.60 in 1994. Inflation, as measured by the retail price index, is foreseen slowing further to an annual 2.9 per cent next year, from 3.7 per cent this year. But deferred inflationary pressures are expected to turn up in higher inflation in subsequent years. Annual inflation is forecast to pick up to 3.9 per cent in 1994 and 4.8 per cent

The boost to the economy is foreseen as coming mainly from lower interest rates boosting domestic demand. The effect of the lower pound in raising exports is expected to be somewhat weaker. OEF notes that its economic model suggests that if lower sterling was not accompanied by lower interest rates, devaluation would have virtually no effect on activity, given the greater uncertainty on economic policy.

Consumer spending, after a fail of 0.4 per cent this year, is expected to rise 1 per cent next year and 2.3 per cent in 1994. Exports are forecast to grow at an annual 5.4 per cent next year and stay above 5 per cent for the following two years. Although devaluation is expecied to worsen the trade deficit in the short run, the medium-term view is for an improvement

OEF forecasts a £21.2 billion current account deficit for this year, narrowing to £16.1 billion next and £15.4 billion

Although Britain's breakout from the tight monetary grip of the Bundesbank is expected to provide a psychological boost at home, the international environment is not seen to offer much help. The European economies are expected to remain sluggish next year, with Germany and the Benelux countries only managing 1.5 per cent growth.

America's recovery is also on hold, or even starting to stall, in OEF's view. A modest recovery is still considered likely next year, supported by American exports, even if domestic demand remains weak. Only Japan is now seen to be in better health than it was in OEF's previous analysis thanks largely to the government's generous fiscai

Selling non-complementary operations: Mick Newmarch of Prudential

GA buys leading role in Canada

By Jonathan Prynn, insurance correspondent

GENERAL Accident, the composite insurer, is set to become Canada's leading direct general insurer after buying Prudential Corporation's Canadian general insurance operations for C$165 million (£77 million).

The deal will give General Accident an 8 per cent share of the fragmented Canadian market and will greatly boost its presence in Quebec province. The three subsidiaries that make up the business being sold are being bought at a discount to net assets. They currently trade under the Prudential name but will be rebranded to reflect the new ownership, said Barrie Holder, general manager of GA. The Canadian companies write predominantly personal lines, matching General Acci-dent's existing operations in that country, which is its third biggest market.

The business being bought has net assets of C$181 million. Prodential is taking out C$25 million of assets through a distribution, reducing the final acquisition price

C$140 million. Mick Newmarch, the chief executive of Prudential, said: "Having made a decision to continue in direct general insurance worldwide only where it complements our life and pensions activities, we had no need to retain the Canadian general business, even though it has had a long record of profitable growth." Mr Holder said that the Canadian insurance market was at the peak of its cycle and that profits next yea were likely to be lower, although he added, they would still be "first class results."

Turnover up at Burn Stewart

BY JON ASHWORTH

BURN Stewart Distillers, the Scotch whisky group that came to the market in November 1991, increased pre-tax profits 26 per cent to £10.3 million (£8.23 million) in the year to end-June. Turnover was 10 per cent higher at £41.95 million [£38 million): Earnings per share were unchanged at 13.2p. There is a first dividend of 3.33p. Profits are in line with forecasts made at the time of flotation. Price cuts, along with a decline in sales of more expensive aged whiskies, have been offset by the increased use of cheaper whiskies laid down as new fillings in earlier

Part of the proceeds of the flotation were used to cut bank borrowings, resulting in a lower interest charge of £2.13 million £3.21 million), Gearing has been reduced from about 283 per cent to 36 per cent and interest cover now

BUSINESS ROUNDUP

Burg

sill rule

INON

Goodman Fielder sells to Heinz

GOODMAN Fielder Wattie, the Australasian food group, has sold its Wattie Foods division to HJ Heinz, the American food conglomerate, for A$428 million [£179.8 million]. Goodman Fielder had planned to float Wattle Foods this month, raising a minimum of A$350 million. The sale to Heinz, however, offered the group "better value for money" according to Michael Nugent, Goodman Fielder's chief

The sale to Heinz, chaired by Tony O'Reilly, follows Goodman Fielder's purchase on Monday of Uncle Tobys, another well branded food group. Wattie produces a broad range of grocery products, most of which hold leading market shares in New Zealand and are exported to Japan. Australia and the rest of South East Asia. Wattie has annual sales of about US$400 million that will be added to HJ Heinz of Australia, Heinz's subsidiary in the region, which boasts annual sales of US$170 million.

Frankfurt shake-up

GERMANY was on the brink of the biggest shake-up of its securities trading system yesterday, with the Frankfurt bourse set to agree the creation of a central German stock exchange. Plans to centralise trade in Frankfurt aim to put the city on a competitive par with London and Paris. Rolf Breuer of the Deutsche Bank board is expected to assume the chair of the new Deutsche Boerse's supervisory board, which will embrace the Frankfurt stock exchange, the Deutsche Terminboerse futures and options exchange and dearing

US demand lifts oil price

OIL prices rose yesterday led by growing demand for heating oil in America. Oil industry figures released after the American market closed on Tuesday showed a drop of 1.64 million barrels in heating oil stocks last week. Colder autumn weather stimulated the demand. As heating oil rose on the New York futures market it pulled up crude oil futures in the United States and Europe, traders said. Light crude oil futures for November delivery on the New York Mercantile Exchange rose 12 cents to $21.93 a barrel.

BCE wants to borrow

BCE Holdings, a distributor of snooker, billiards and pool products and operator of amusement arcades, is trying to borrow against its executive pension scheme in an attempt to reduce borrowings. Shareholders are being asked to approve a plan by the executive pension fund to buy certain properties and lease them back to the company at current values. BCE is back in profit for the first time since 1988. There was a pretax profit of £34,000 in the year to end-March, compared with a loss of £622,000. There is no dividend (nil).

Ramus to sell stake

RAMUS Holdings, a ceramic tiles distributor, is selling a controlling stake to Guoline Holdings, a Malaysian group. Ramus, which made a pre-tax loss of £3 million £400,000 loss) in the year to end-June, hopes to raise £3 million through a subscription by Guoline Holdings for 6.5 million new shares, giving Guoline a $7.5 per cent stake. If the subscription does not proceed, Ramus has said that it will cease trading. Shares in the company were suspended on September 16 and are expected to resume trading tomorrow.

Jobs hope after sell-off

JOBS gloom turned into hope yesterday for at least 150 exemployees of Conder, the construction group that went into receivership two weeks igo. Price Waternou announced the sale of the group's three main businesses for £2.5 million. Conder Projects, the building contractor where 160 jobs went, has been sold to The Miller Group which will re-employ between 90 and 100. Kier Group has bought IEI. ventilation designer, and will take back 60 to 70. Conder Structures is likely to recruit after its sale to Melton Medes.

Aid for Irish exporters

THE Dublin government launched a Ir£50 million (£53.4 million) aid package for Irish export firms battling with the 13 per cent drop in sterling's value against the punt in the past three weeks. Desmond O'Malley, the industry minister, announced weekly payments to companies of IrE50 per employee. The fund is to run until next March. Officials said 30,000 Irish jobs were threatened, mainly in agriculture, clothing, engineering and furniture manufacturing. A third of Ireland's exports go to Britain.

Ipeco climbs at halfway

IPECO Holdings, the aircrew seat manufacturer based in Southend-on-Sea, Essex, increased pre-tax profits by 5 per cent to £1.8 million (£1.7 million) in the six months to June 27. Turnover was £10.1 million (£8.7 million). Earnings per share were 4.42p (4.14p). The interim dividend is 1.3p (1.2p). Difficulties within the airline sector have had a neutral overall impact on Ipeco. The company has won a contract to supply crewseats to the Lear 60 corporate jet and has cash reserves of more than £3 million.

Joint venture for Clyde

CLYDE Petroleum has launched a joint venture with ÖMV, Austria's biggest company. OMV will own 55 per cent of the venture, called St James's Oil & Gas, and will fund exploration of eight oilfields for which Clyde holds licences up to a maximum of £15 million. Once that ceiling is reached, either OMV will continue funding or Clyde will put money in. OMV, in which the Austrian government has a 70 per cent stake, will manage St James's but Clyde, which is based in Ledbury. Herefordshire, will be represented on the board.

The following revised rates of interest will apply from 8th October 1992

SURREY BUILDING SOCIETY

_	*		4	9
s	UPER PLU			= 44
278,090 OR MORE	10.00	9.76	7.45	7.32
225,000 OR MORE	9.00	8.81	6.72	6.61
CIO,000 OR MORU	7.86	7.71	5.86	5.78
ESOQ OR MORE	6.91	6.79	5.15	5.09
PLUS 3% BONUS ON IST YEAR'S SAVINGS	TES	9.00		_
	MONTHLY		2.42
E25,000 OF MORE	8.25	7.95	6.13	5.96
£5,000 OR MORE	6.82	6.62	5.07	4.96
215,006 OR MORE	INSTANT 7.75	7.61	5.79	5.71
15,000 OR MORE	6.86	6.75	5.12	5.06
1506 OR MORE	5,59	5.51	4.17	4.13
en or work	2.23	2.22	1.67	1.66
SF	ECIAL PL	JS ACCES	$
2500 OR MORE	6.46	6.36	4.83	4,77
SUPER PL	US OVERE		IARITIES
ESSO OR MORE	7.68	7.54	_	-

200	1.00	7.34
	THESE SHARES AT	RE CLOS	EU ISS	UES		•
	fectual la Description	CHAT	(R055	MET CARN:	MET PA-%
	(Minimum balance E500 — 220,000 resultium)	-	6.68	_	5.01
ĸ	SUPER ACCESS (NEnimum balance 2500) 1st issue	4.67	4.62	3.49	3.46
	2nd leave	4.26		3.18
	3rd last/6	4.06		3.03	3.01
	PAJO UP SHAPES	2.23	2.22	1.67	1.66
Ş	7 DAY NOTICE SHARES (Minimum balance £500)	5.42	5.35	4.05	4.61
T	SPECIAL ACCESS (Minimum balance $500)
	let fasue	3.79
	2nd lasue	3.58	3.55	2.68	2.66
V	SUBSCRIPTION SHARES		4.22	-	3.16
Y	(Minimum balance $20,000)	7,31	7.18	5.45	5.38

12 Massetta Roed, Horiey, Surrey M16 70%. 1: 5283 771525. Fax: 0283 A20622.

Halstead raises dividend

BY PHILIP PANGALOS

JAMES Halstead Group, the floor coverings to rainwear maker, is raising its dividend after lifting pre-tax profits 5.1 per cent to £8.04 million in the year to end-June. Trading conditions were "extremely severe" and demand was flat. the group said, although turnover edged up to £58.9 million (£58.3 million).

As indicated at the interim stage. last year's decision to close Belstaff International. the maker of motorcycle equipment, rain and casual country wear, resulted in an extraordinary charge of £2.93 million.

Earnings climb to 37.71p (36.12p) a share. The final dividend is raised to 7.5p (7p), for a total of 12p (11.25p). A one-for-one capitalisation issue is proposed.

The company, which has a robust balance sheet with no net borrowings, expects further progress in the current year. The shares advanced 21p to 481p.

Computer People Group cuts payout

By PHILIP PANGALOS

DEPRESSED market conditions on both sides of the Atlantic pushed Computer People Group into the red at the half way stage and forced Britain's largest recruitment agency for computer staff to cut its dividend.

The company, which also supplies information technology consultants in Britain and the United States, suffered a loss before tax of £135,000 in the six months to the end of June, against a profit of £669,000 in the corresponding period last time. Revenues fell by 14.2 per cent to £29.9 million, while operating profits collapsed to £5.000 (5762,000). Computer People was hit by a further decline in the British recruitment business, slowerthan-anticipated reductions in overheads and no increase in American consultants on assignment since January.

The results also include operating costs of £493,000. including £228.000 of running costs on a property disposed of at the end of last month, which have now been

Rupert Bayfield, the chairman, admitted that the firsthalf results were disappointing, but sounded a note of optimism on the company's uture prospects.

He said the company has entered the third quarter with a much higher business base than at the start of the year, both in Britain and the United States, although margins are still under pressure. Richard Pinder, finance director, said current business levels give optimism for a return to acceptable profitabil-ity. After first-quarter losses, he said the group was profitable in the second quarter and continued to be so in the third quarter, while overheads have been reduced and business levels are rising.

Gearing climbed from 52 per cent to 60 per cent. There is a loss of 0.73p per share. against earnings of 3.53p a share last time. The interim dividend is being cut to 0.65p

Qantas triples annual profits ahead of privatisation

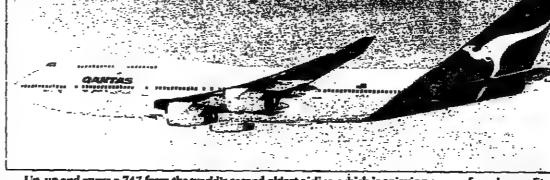

QANTAS, Australia's international airline, yesterday reported a threefold leap in profits for the year to June 30 but said the next year would not be so

The state-owned airline, which is to be privatised in a public flotation in 1993, also said the money raised would reduce its debt and allow it to pursue new routes in Asia. Bill Dix. the chairman, told a news conference: "It'll be tougher to make a profit this year. But we are confident we're going to stay quite profitable."

Net profit tripled to A$137.3

million (£58 million) in the year to June from A$44.3 million a year ago. Mr Dix said: "Low yields, largely brought about by destructive competition, coupled with ongoing effects of a world recession, will continue to impact adversely on airline performance in the current year." Qantas

Up. up and away: a 747 from the world's second-oldest airline, which is enjoying a year of soaring profits merged with Australian Airlines, the government-owned domestic carrier, on September 14.

Three groups — British Airways, Singapore Airlines and a consortium of Brierley Investments and Air New Zealand - are now inspecting the merged Oantas books prior to making a bid for a parcel of shares by November. Foreigners are restricted to a 35 per cent stake.

The government plans to float the merged airline on the Australian bourse, and Ralph Willis, finance minister, said this would not occur before March. The flotation might depend on the state of the equines markets, he said. In its August budget, the government assumed proceeds from the sale of about A$1

Mr Willis, speaking in Parliament, said the trade sale might not go ahead. The government is not locked into a trade sale. If the bids are not good enough then we can reject all of them and make the whole sale through a float."

Mr Dix said the privatisation of the airline, the world's second oldest, would help out its A$6 billion debt and allow it to pursue growth in Asia. That's where the highest growth rates are." he said when asked about expanding operations in Asia. "Additional points in Japan, entry to Osaka ... we'd be looking at that." Any expansion would be likely to involve more frequent flights on existing routes or new destinations in countries it already services, rather than wholly new operations, Mr Dix

John Ward, Qantas chief executive, said aircraft from Australian Airlines may start flying to Papua New Guinea, Fiji and New Caledonia over the next year and could also start operations to some of the nearer points of Southeast Asia.

UP 100 120

CBI urges firms to use recession in war on wages

By Patricia Tehan

BRITAIN'S bosses believe the recession is providing firms cut costs and improve their

THE TORING

TOUNDUP

Howard Davies director eneral of the Confederation of British Industry, urged firms to decentralise more pay decisions, shift wage review dates and benefit from low inflation by introducing more two-year pay deals.

Mr Davies told employers attending a lunch for Scottish. members of the CBI in Glasgow yesterday that the eco-nomic problems of the country presented a "unique opportu-

Pressures on pay created by high inflation have eased with less attention being given to wage comparisons, he said.

The CBI is sending a pre-sentation on pay and perfor-mance to British companies. It says: "Conditions are good, better even than last year, for controlling pay. This helps to make the idea of going rates for pay awards irrelevant."

The CBI believes employers imising value from a leaner workforce in the year ahead. Continuing his attack on public sector pay rises, which are running ahead of private sec-tor deals, Mr Davies said: This is totally unacceptable when there is such a clear need to control public spending. The government must play its full part in the fight against inflation by ensuring there is no rise in its overall pay bill." His call came as one of Britain's biggest unions re-vealed job losses in manufacturing are spiralling higher and challenged the CBI to sit down and discuss proposals for a non-inflationary package to stop and reverse the destruction of jobs and businesses.

A survey from the Amal-Electrical Union shows there have been more than 39,000 redundancy announcements in manufacturing in the last three months, bringing the total this year to 94,000.

Bill Jordan, president of the AEEU, described the rambers as a grim list of industrial devastation and jobs despair. Mr Jordan said the union's proposed package "must be put to this government, for as their party meets in Brighton today to discuss unemployment they clearly have no

The union's previous survey, which covered a four-month period, showed 22,642 job losses. Despite the high figures, the AEEU said its latest survey underestimates the true

Gavin Laird, AEEU general secretary, said: "This survey catalogues an autumn of despair, with the nation gripped by the gloom of accelerating job losses. Ever-rising unemployment is an indictment of glect of British industry. The growing dole queues are compounded by the government's total lack of economic

The survey shows London and the South East was worst hit, with 6,085 redundancies, followed by the West Mid-lands, with 6,054. Northern Ireland suffered least, with from the Engineering Council, which represents Britain's 290,000 chartered engineers, incorporated engineers and engineering consultants, shows their pay is staying ahead of inflation and catching up with other professions. The council's 1992 survey creased 28.6 per cent since 1989. This is 2.4 per cent average earnings index and 7.2 per cent more than the rise in inflation. Their average pay has reached £31,768, against

pares with the average £35,000 accountant's pay incorporated engineers and done even better, with average earnings rising 31.7 per cent

£17,825. This is 10.3 per cent higher than the rise in inflation. director general, said the inreflect the fact that more and more companies are beginning to appreciate fully the value of engineers and the role they play in the process of wealth creation, and are now paying them salaries which over the last three years to £23,483 from the previous

Engineers pay increa have been 1 per cent higher than other profe since 1988.

recognise the value of their Strike out: Richard Carr, left, and Duncan Moss, finance director, report falling profits at Allied Leisure

Allied Leisure slides to £2.2m

By PHILIP PANGALOS

DEPRESSED spending, as the recession continued to bite, took its toll on full-year profits at Allied Leisure. Pretax profits at the ten-pin bowling and nightclub group fell 28.8 per cent to £2.21 million in the year to July 16, despite a 25.8 per cent rise in turnover to £27.4 million.

Richard Carr, Allied's chair-man, said: "Business is remarkably tough, but the first eight weeks of the current ear have been buoyant. Turnover from Allied's 14 Megabowls amounted to £17.2 million (£15.2 million). boosted by first-time contributions from new units. Like-for-like turnover fell 12 per Nightclub operations broke even. (£300,000 profit). The closure of the loss-making Theme Bars led to a £3.07 million extraordinary charge. Earnings per share fell to 5.26p (12.2p), but Allied has honoured its commitment to hold the final payout at 3.25p. giving a 4.75p (same) total.

The best laser printers in the world.

You'll notice that we haven't added a modest "probably." Because if you want the best in laser printers, the Hewlett-Packard LaserJet is undoubtedly it.

Today, over 5 million HP LaserJet printers are sharpening company images around the world, producing sturning results time

What keeps these remarkable 14-16 ppm range way ahead of the competition is clever new ideas. Like HP's Resolution Enhancement Technology. It ensures lines so sharp, curves so smooth and blacks so black, that documents look as though they've been typeset.

The HP LaserJet III family also uses HP's PCL5 advanced printer language. This latest generation language allows new, fast vector graphics and a range of scalable fonts that enable you to turn even the most mundane document into a thing of beauty.

An ingenious new development is a unique range of HP JetDirect network printer interfaces for the HP LaserJet III, IIID, II, IID and IIISi to give direct high speed connection to the most popular networks. These give you fast throughput and the flexibility to position the printers anywhere on the network.

HP LaserJet printers are the best. And with one year on-site warranty, there's no "probably" about it.

Call Hewlett Packard on (0344) 369222.

The possibility made reality.

Court will rule on BCCI in two weeks

By NEIL BENNETT, BANKING CORRESPONDENT

THE Luxembourg district cent of the bank, not 57 per court will decide on October cent as stated. He disputed the 22 whether to approve a $3 suggestion that the governbillion compensation scheme for creditors in the collapsed Bank of Credit and Commerce International Judge Maryse Welter said she would publish her judgment in two weeks, after a stormy court hearing during which BCCI creditors and the bank's former chief of finance called for more generous compensation from the Abu Dhabi government, BCCI's majority shareholder.

Last week, Touche Ross, BCC1's liquidator, announced that more than 93 per cent of BCC1's creditors supported the compensation plan, which is expected to repay them between 30 and 40 per cent of their losses. The accountants hope to make an initial payment of 10 per cent next year.

The compensation scheme, if approved, will pool all the bank's remaining assets together with a cash injection of up to $2.2 billion from the Abu Dhabi government. The money will be shared equally between an estimated 310,000 creditors worldwide.

During the hearing, Masihur Rahman, BCCI's former finance chief, claimed the Abu Dhabi government had, in reality, owned 100 per suggestion that the government had lost $2.2 billion to BCCI. "I never saw such a huge figure in the books. They are totally liable for the losses,"

Mr Rahman added that he believed the compensation scheme would only produce a payment of 15 per cent when ne money was actually paid. Meanwhile, Keith Vaz, the Labour MP for Leicester East, urged the court to delay its sion until the publication of the Bingham report on the BCCI closure, which he said was due on October 19. Mr. Vaz hopes the contents of the report could force the Bank of England to offer compen-

The compensation scheme has already been approved by courts in Britain and the Cayman Islands, but has always been strongly opposed by the banks' creditors' committee which has urged the Abu Dhabi government to improve

In reply to their continuing opposition, Georges Baden, a Touche partner, condemned BCCI's committee of creditors as unrepresentative and personally motivated.

Banking riddles, page 23

Austin Reed forced to wear red by recession

By MARTIN WALLER, DEPUTY CITY EDITOR

THE imprecedented recession on the high street has sent Austin Reed, the manufacturer and retailer of tailored clothing, into the red for the first time since the great depression of the 1930s.

A taxable loss of £430,000 in the 28 weeks to August 8 compares with a profit of £639,000 last time, and the half-way dividend is cut by 1p

The reduction follows a cut in last year's final payment, the first such for 40 years from Austin Reed, which is 40 per cent owned by the Reed

Barry Reed, the chairman, said the company had been quite pleased by trading in late August and September, but the market had collapsed again amid the turmoil as the pound came out of the exchange-rate mechanism last month. "Trading is still patchy, and it is too early to judge the outcome for the full year," he said.

Total turnover fell from £35.6 million to £28.7 million, but £5 million of this and £500,000 of the downtum in profits came as a result of the sale of two manufacturing businesses, offset by a consequent £400,000 of savings on interest payments. Like for-like retail sales were 3 per cent lower in the first half. Retail costs were held at last year's level despite heavier spending on promotional activity.

Manufacturing turnover fell by 11 per cent, half of this because of the closure of a factory. The business was also hit by weakening export mar-kets and difficult trade in

Hewden Stewart builds tower of cash

HEWDEN Stuart, the plant hire group, is a textbook example of a management which is using the recession as an opportunity, rather than as an excuse to wail and gnash its teeth.

The company realised two years ago that demand for tower cranes was about to plummet and has since reduced its fleet by more than half, to 80. Crane sales have boosted profits and transformed a debt burden into a cash pile. The cash, which is expected to rise to £10 million by the year-end, is protecting the company during the reces-sion and makes it ideally placed to take advantage of an upturn in demand when it finally comes.

Hewden's far-sightedness is reflected in figures for the half year to July 31. Pre-tax profits fell by 16.5 per cent to £6.73 million, but this is a minor miracle when demand for tower cranes has all but vanished. A £469,000 interest charge was replaced by £301.000 of interest earnings and cash flow was strong enough to enable the group to increase the dividend by 0.01p, to 0.875p.

Hewden continues to reduce its tower crane fleet by selling to Europe and the Far The division lost £500,000 in the half year, compared with a £1.8 million profit last time. There is little sign of any upturn in demand. but further sales should reduce losses in the second half.

The group is using its strong cash flow to expand the rest of its equipment fleet. Hewden spent £13 million in the half year on mobile cranes, compressors and the like. Equipment is on sale at bargain basement prices from other plant hire companies that have gone into receivership or are struggling to reduce debt. Hewden's pur-

Brave smile: Bill Hughes, Grampian chairman, had to report a 41 per cent fall in first-half operating profits chases will accelerate once likely to fall to £12 million, down from £15 million last time. Construction companies with futures as secure as Hewden's are thin on the ground, so the shares, at 80p, are trading on a justifiably high p/e ratio of 18.

Grampian

GRAMPIAN is keen to shake off the mini-conglomerate tag, and a set of figures as comprehensively dire as the interims shows why. Best known as a maker of footballs before that business was sold.

the company now depends on four core divisions: pharmaceuticals, sporting goods, retail and transport. All have suffered severely in the Grampian's attempt to move into human pharmaceuticals failed when its bid for the Macarthy business came to nothing almost a year ago, and the company remains focussed on the animal market. That has suffered from a glut of imported chickens and salmon and a relaxation of government regulations on sheep and cattle dipping. Efficiency benefits held halfway profits at last year's level, and the group remains a niche player in that market. The retail side made its usual seasonal loss, but the main damage came from golfers' reluctance to splash out on new clubs. The Mitre football business has been sold - it contributed only £10,000 to profits in the last four months under Grampian's ownership — and sporting goods saw trading profits slump from £1.1 million to £160,000 half-

Taxable interim profits of £10.9 million contain an £8.3 million exceptional gain from Mitre, at the operating level, profits fell 41 per cent to

way. There was no sign of £2.45 million. lan Hilliker, at County NatWest, expects £8.1 million pre-tax for the full year, clean of exceptionals. That would put the shares, after yesterday's 10p fall, on about 11 times 1992 earnings, with a maintained dividend less than twice covered. Precious little reason to chase in today's market.

Allied Leisure

EVEN Richard Carr, the forceful chairman of Allied could do little to contain the damage from falling consumer spending, as people who ventured beyond their front doors continued to

on margins meant a 29 per cent slide in pre-tax profits to £2.21 million in the year to July 16, despite a 26 per cent advance in turnover to £27.4

The relatively low-ticket nature of the group's ten-pin howling alleys and nightclubs failed to provide a sufficient cushion to the economic squeeze. The number of people visiting 'Allied's 14 bowling centres held up well but average spending fell, and fine weather in May and June dinard profits by $500,000 dipped profits by £500,000. Nightchubs broke even, having made more than £300,000 last time, and there was a £3.07 million extraordinary charge from the closure of the loss-making Theme Bars.

Allied had a buoyant start to this year, boosted by the introduction of the modish Zapp-Zone interactive laser games at eight of the Allied is maintaining the final dividend at 3.25p, giving an unchanged 4.75p for the year and a befty historic yield of 17.6 per cent. However, next year's dividend will definitely be cut: Mr Carr is alking of a "more realistic" dividend policy for the future and a payment covered at

Analysts expect current profits of between £2 million and £2.8 million, putting the shares on a projected forward multiple of around seven, while a reduced dividend of about 3p still gives a yield of nearly 10 per cent.

The shares, which have almost doubled in the past six weeks, ended at 36p, up 4p, but still way below this year's high of 90p. Allied's recovery hinges on economic upturn and lower interest rates. Those without an economic crystai ball would do well to avoid the shares.

Bargain hunters edge Dow higher reversed small losses to post equally small gains in midmorning activity as early weakness brought out buyers. The Dow Jones industrial average, which had declined to 3,171, was up 7.83 points at 3,186.02. Gainers had a slim lead over decliners. "It's going to be tough to get a reading on the market," said Tom Luker, head of trading at Nikko Securities. Many participants are off due to the Jewish holiday, and volume was expected to be light.

The Federal Reserve's decision not to reduce American interest rates put pressure on bond prices. The US Treasury 30-year bond was off 19/32 at 105 22/32, yielding 7.52 per

While the Dow is likely to move ahead over the shortterm in a rebound from the past week's losses, it will have difficulty between 3,180 and 3,200, Mr Luker said.

☐ Tokyo — Shares lost earlier gains and closed lower after program selling struck in the last half hour of trading. The 225-share Nikkei average was per cent to 17,111.74, with an estimated 230 million shares traded. The broader first section Tonix index was down a marginal 0.04 points to 1,299.09. Toranobu Sugai, of Lehman Brothers, said: Overseas markets and Friday's options settlement remain sources of uncertainty."

☐ Hong Kong — Early losses were reversed, helping shares to finish higher on Governor Chris Patten's maiden policy speech as bargain hunters used it as a reason to buy. The Hang Seng index was up 35.91 points to end the day at 5,589.03. "The index regained some 75 points in the afternoon session after the governor started talking," said Michael Ng, a dealing manager at Sassoon Securities.

Frankfurt - The German share market sidestepped more bad news in the car sector to end higher in lively technically driven trading.
After recent weakness the recovery took the Dax 30-share index 15.75 points higher to close at 1,436.05.

Lower sales add to slide at Renishaw

By PHILIP PANGALOS

A COMBINATION of lower sales, continued high spending on research and development, and investment in new product development, led to an 18.1 per cent decline in full-year profits at Renishaw.

The maker of precision metrology and inspection equip-ment saw pre-tax profits slip to £9.09 million in the year to end-June, against El I.1 million last time, on turnover down 3.5 per cent to £44 million. More than 90 per cent of group turnover is represented by sales to over-

Renishaw has been affected as many of its customers have seen very large falls in de-mand for their own products. However, the company said that overall turnover was largely maintained, although there were declines in the United Kingdom, Italy and

Despite the continuing difficult trading conditions, which show no sign of any economic upturn, the company is confident on the longer-term outlook and hopes that new and recently introduced products will provide additional growth

Earnings fall to 13.1p a share, down from 16.1p a share last time, but the final dividend is maintained at 4p a share, giving an increased total dividend of 6.5p (6p) for

The shares firmed 3p to

STOCK MARKET

Hopes of cheaper money bring back the buyers

ALL eyes in the Square Mile were firmly focused on the pound as it continued to extend its rally against both the dollar and the mark.

Brokers and fund managers in the stock market are hoping that sterling's apparent new lease of life, following last month's devaluation and subsequent fall from grace, will provide the signal for a cut in both British and German interest rates soon. The stock market could hardly hide its giee at the prospect of cheaper money as buyers, who have been noticeable by their absence during the past few days, began to venture back into the market. This was reflected in turnover levels which rose to 545 million shares, helped by several stable placings.

Fund managers will be hoping the Chancellor can restore investor confidence when he outlines the government's new economic policy at the Conservative party conference in Brighton later today. But the FT-SE 100 index failed to maintain its early pace, closing 28.7 up at 2,517.1 having been been almost 39 points higher earlier in the session. Despite the gains of the past two days, the index has still to recover the remaining 30 points of Monday's 103-point fall.

Anglian Water was a flat market, falling 13p to 417p after Lyonnaise Des Eaux Dumez announced it had sold its entire holding of 26.5 million shares, 8.99 per cent. to Cazenove and Warburg

CONTINENTAL investors

continued to pour money into

Bund market in the belief that interest rates are set to fall in European investors have been big buyers of gilts for the past three weeks concentrating their interest on the short end of the market. Yesterday, they were again targeting the ultra-short end, but also taking the view that the longer end of the market is starting to look over-sold. Many are showing signs of switching into the five and 10 year area.

Among shorts, convertible

10 per cent 1996 ended the session four ticks better at E10431/32, while at the other end Treasury 84 per cent 2017 was a full E2 up at £9217/12. On the futures market, the long gilt was almost El up before settling £'2 higher at £9512 as 35,000 contracts were completed.

the short-term.

FRENCH RIVAL SELLS STAKE IN ANGLIAN Oct Nov Dec Jan Feb Mar Apr May Jun Jul Aug Sep Oct

Securities, the broking houses, at 410p. By the close of business a total of 61 million shares had changed hands, indicating that they had been placed with institutions, at around 415p.

The rest of the water companies also came under pres-sure with Northumbrian are expected to make grim reading in spite of a £90 million pension fund clawback. Some analysts are fore-Racal Electronics, which started trading in its new form on ed its profit forecast for the current year by around £40 million. Lucas Industries fell 4p to 88p as talk of a bid from rival Siebe was discounted.

Full-year figures on Monday

Monday at 131p following the Chubb demerger, rose op to 138p, compared with a declared asset value of 177p. Henderson Crosthwaite, the broker, has been a big buyer, attracted by the cheap prospective p/e of 11 and low debt levels.

falling 8p to 495p, North West 8p to 434p, Severn Trent 412 p to 392p, Southern 4p to 405p, South West 7p to 425p. Thames 9p to 432p. Welsh 10p to 454p and Yorkshire 7p to 457p. GKN suffered a late fall of 10p to 359p on claims that casting pre-tax profits of only £5 million, compared with ES3.6 million.

Warburg Securities has slash-

The Prudential Corporation continued to make head-way with a rise of 10p to 269p after announcing the disposal of its Canadian operation to General Accident for C$165 million (£76.7 million). To

General Accident has issued 13.5 million new shares. GA said the deal would improve its geographical coverage and integrate with its existing Ca-nadian operation. General Accident finished the session 5p better at 510p. There were also gains for Commercial Union, up 2p to 513p, Guardian Royal Exchange, 2p to 145p, Royal Exchange, 3p to 180p and Sun Alliance, 11p Budgens, the supermarket chain, slipped 2p to 36p after the group warned shareholders at the annual general meeting that the recession had resulted in significantly greater price competition during the summer months. The price of fresh fruit and vegetables have also fallen sharply.

The news from Budgen took some of the shine off the other food retailers, with Argyll firming 3p to 335p, after touching 338p, Tesos 5p to 216p. after 218p. and Kwik Save 6p to 655p, while J Sainsbury finished un-changed at 457p after 459p. Asda managed to shrug off an early setback, climbing 2 2 p to 362p on talk of renewed American buying. By the close of business 8.6 million shares had been traded. Bid speculation in Owners Abroad, the holiday group, appears to have evaporated, with the price falling 62p to 70½p. The group says it re-ceived an approach last month which came to nothing.

MICHAEL CLARK

Cable Wireless ..... Abbey National ...... 308p (+13p) Standard Chart ...... 476p (+31p) Flec Data Proc ..... SG Warburg ..... 510p (+11p) Tate & Lyle ..... Highland Dist ......... 211p (+10p) Unigate ..... 251p (+11p) Scot & Newcastle ... 416p (+10p) Whitbread 'A' ......... 416p (+10p) FALLS: Blue Circle .... . 137p (+11p) 192p (-10p) RMC Group .... ICI .... . 397p (+13p) . 1060'ap (-14'ap) . 485p (+20p) J Smurfit ...... ....... 214p (-16p) Closing Prices Page 25

Shirescot Shirescot Warrants Tepnel Diagnostics (120) 174

RIGHTS ISSUES

Aviva Petroleum N/P (27)

BOX No. BOX NO. DEPT P.O. BOX 484 VIRGREA STREET WAPPING E1 900

THE TIMES

BUSINESS TO BUSINESS

APPEARS EVERY FRIDAY TELEPHONE DAVID GERMAN 071-481 1982 or FAX: 071-782 7828

your child's education... It's one decision that can't be left to chance

When it comes to

유명하였고 THE SUNDAY TIMES EDUCATION 92

9-11 October 1992 Business Design Centre Islington London

For a full information pack including a timetable of seminars, a full listing of exhibitors and details of

Design Centre call

how to get to the Business

The Independent Education

071-782 6390

Frezer Mart Financial Services are spousaring the crecks.

'92 information line on decision about your child's fature. Even if you have never considered independent education before, the exhibition aims to provide an involuable information service on all aspects of the independent sector.

That is why Independent

Education '92 is the ideal starting point for making a

Come and meet over 250 boarding and day schools from all over the टक्कारा प्राप्त

SEE what choice of schools are on offer under one roof saving you valuable time and effort

MEET directly with Headteachers of schools and discuss your queries DECIDE on the options which best suit you and your child

MEET financial experts who will be offering FREE advice on how to plan ahead for your child's education

GAIN practical insights from the FREE seminars and workshoos.

News International Exhibitions Limited P.O. Box 495, Virginia St, London El 9XY IN ASSOCIATION WITH AS ISIS

BRITISH FUNDS

SHORTS (under 5 years) LONGS (GVCT 15 years)
Tress 9% 2002 92% 92%
Tress 9% 2002 92% 92%
Tress 11 1/16 2003-07 1127% 11/16
Tress 9% 2006 96% 96% 97%
Tress 9% 2006 96% 97% 11/16
Tress 9% 2006 12 95% 97% 11/16
Tress 9% 2006-12 65% 97% 11/16
Tress 9% 2006-12 65% 97%
Tress 9% 2012-15 84% 97
Exen 12% 2012-15 84% 97
Exen 12% 2013-17 120% MEDIUMS (5 to 15 years) INDEX-LINKED

TREAS FOR 1997

Each 1996 1997

Frach 1996 1998

Each 1998 1998

Frach 1998 1998

Frach 1998 1998

Frach 1998 1998

Frach 1998 1998

Conn 1999 1998

Frach 1998 1999

Cond 99 2000

Frach 1998 2000

thung,

STREET

Silver linings in the clouds

Tor the second successive day, sterling railied.

There was none of the familiar feeling in the markets that the pound was racing over the edge of an unfathomable precipice that dominated sentiment last Friday and on Monday. Speculators were showing little stomache for a further assault on the pound and do not wish to be caught short when the music stops. That may be quite soon. There are at least four factors deterring the bears.

Later today, the first sketchy outline of an economic policy will begin to emerge from Brighton. The bare bones will be fleshed out at a Treasury select committee hearing next week and the technical details will emerge even more fully in the Chan-cellor's Mansion House speech three weeks from now. Markets may not be overly impressed. It will not be a freshly minted novel policy to dazzle us with wit and originality. We are much more likely to see a variant of the old anti-inflationary strategy beefed up with heavy public spending cuts, semi-targeting of broad money and perhaps lower interest rates. However much this may seem familiar, it should reassure markets and deny them the chance to send sterling into free-fall on the grounds that a policy vacuum exists

The second bear repellant is a growing feeling that Germany's economy is at least easing back and if not exactly headed for recession then at least in a phase when lower interest rates become a near-term likelihood not just a long-term hope. When this feeling intensifies, sterling will be well positioned for further interest rate cuts or likely to gain ground against the mark, and perhaps even both.

Thirdly, dealers are facing the longer term reality. that devaluation will speed Britain's painfully slow climb from recession as the projections from Oxford Economic Forecasting suggested yesterday. Prognostications from City scribblers, academics and business economists are all likely to be less gloomy

Finally, sentiment is noticeably improving. As the CBI's Howard Davies stressed, conditions are excellent for stabilising or even freezing pay levels, perhaps within the framework of two-year deals or longer. Even in industry, talk of opportunity is beginning. Nigel Rudd, of Williams Holdings, is by no means alone when he points out the enormous export prospects arising from a pound about 16 per cent below its ERM central point. There are great chances to win new orders and market share. The foreign exchange markets, blinkered and inward looking though they may be, will increasingly take all

Avoiding risk

t is heartening that the Bank of England and Apacs have identified a vast and previously L unforeseen risk in the payment clearing system before it had a chance to wreak havoc on financial institutions. The source of the risk was the Clearing House Automated Payment System, or Chaps, which handles the larger interbank payments of £2 million or more. Until two years ago, banks built up huge exposures to each other through Chaps every day, which would be settled at the end of business.

Then, when Midland's financial problems were at their height, the banks began to consider what would occur if a major institution was smable to settle its Chaps liabilities at the end of a day. They concluded that such a failure could trigger a domino effect that would threaten the whole country's financial system. Now the Bank of England has announced a scheme to reduce the risk further by introducing real time settlement by 1995 and a particularly nasty risk has been cleared up.

BCCI highlights the riddles of international bank regulation

Touche Ross, the

liquidator, is likely to take several more years to close the files on the failed bank, as

William Kay reports

ompensation for the credi-tors of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International came a step nearer yesterday as a court hearing in Luxembourg opened to consider the acceptance of the $1.7 billion-plus offer from the government of Abu Dhabi. The offer from the government, enting the majority shareholders of BCCI Holdings, is conditional on courts in Luxembourg, Grand Cayman and England authorising the liquidators in those territories to sign the agreement with Abu Dhabi. Luxembourg insisted on hearing what creditors had to say first. Last week, almost 94 per cent voted in favour of the compensation offer and the court is expected to approve it. The move is the latest step in the $10 billion liquidation of BCCI, which has taken nearly 15 months so far but is expected to last several more years before the hundreds of thou-sands of documents involved can finally be stored away in the vaults of Touche Ross, the liquidator. However, the main activity is over. The liquidation, led by Brian Smouha, a Touche partner, has as good an idea as it is going to get of how much money is available for creditors. Nearly all those creditors who wish to come forward, have been traced: the corruption inside the bank had largely been matched by the illicit purposes to which some of its customers put their accounts. Hence their reticence.

Touche originally estimated that there would be 310,000 eligible creditors in the liquidation, but only 50,000 took part in the Luxembourg vote, which suggests that less than 150,000 will ultimately share in any proceeds from the bank.

A favourable court decision means Touche should be able to repay those creditors between 30 and 40 per cent of their losses, from the Abu Dhabi government's cash injection and BCCI's remaining assets. The first dividend, of 10 cents in the dollar, is likely to come next summer.

Touche and the various international authorities are now coming to the point where they can begin to take stock of BCCI, in terms of white implications it holds for future conduct and supervision of international banks and liquidations.

The difficulties have been highlighted by the revelation that the Serious Fraud Office to investigate allegations, said to be in the report of Lord Justice Bingham into the Bank's supervision of BCCI, that BCCI employees bribed Bank offici-als. The Bank has also been accused by a US Senate committee of hindering the closing down of BCC1.

The Luxembourg ballot is a good example of the inconsistencies rid-

Signs of failure: creditors of BCCI will be lucky to get 40 per cent of the assets back dling the present system. Abu Dhabi has offered between $1.7 billion and $2.2 billion towards creditors' claims, which are expected to reach $10 billion. The figure may rise as more claimants rearrange their affairs to enable them to step forward.

The English and Cayman courts nodded through the plan. Luxembourg insisted on hearing what creditors had to say. But there are many thousands of creditors who had to be contacted, in dozens of countries, at their own expense, since ultimately all the costs of the liquidation come out of their pockets:

That has itself become another cause of contention. Touche's bill is over £40 million, and could be much higher by the time it folds its tents. Keith Vaz, the Labour MP for Leicester East who has acted as a rallying point for many British Asian BCCI creditors, said: "Nobody can because they will not release their full list of costs. I am not saying that Touche should not be trusted, but there is no reason why their bills should not be examined." Mr Vaz wants the House of Commons industry select committee to enquire into the liquidation of BCCI, to draw up guidelines for all to see When such points are put to Touche, George Westropp, the firm's public affairs partner, sighs and pulls out a well-worn sheaf of facts and figures showing where much of the money has gone. These show that staff in the Touche-Ross/DRT International network have been working on BCCI in 50 countries. So many descended on Abu Dhabi that they were able to negotiate a bulk discount with the Inter-Continental Hotel.

ritics have argued that the costs are so high partly because Touche insisted on sacking all but a handful of BCCI staff and staffing the branches with their own people, several hun-dred of whom happened to be available at short notice. But Mr Westropp is quick to point out that this was essential because nobody knew how far the fraud extended.

we found when we went in was in an even worse condition than we had expected. The assets which had been seriously eroded by losses over the years had lost further value as a result of the closure of the bank."

What is worrying is that even a firm of Touche's clout has had a hard time obtaining information about BCCI's assets, particularly in Third World countries which can ill afford to kiss goodbye to deposits worth the equivalent of several hundred million pounds. Only a handful of insolvency practitioners could be considered for a liquidation of BCCI's breadth and depth. The number was cut down even further by the involvement of at least two other major international firms, Ernst & Young and Price Waterhouse, as auditors of the bank - a crossover that is always likely to occur in really big collapses.

So BCCI raises three broad insolvency questions. First, how can national insolvency rules be co-ordinated to give liquidators the right to obtain the information assets they need to ensure creditors receive as much of their money as possible? Second, how can a supervisory system be erected to monitor the liquidators' performance and verify their bills? Third, what can the authorities do to ensure that there conflicts of interest, ready to take charge of a failure in the vital early days following a collapse? These were some of the issues being considered in Prague last month at the annual meeting of the association of European insolvency practitioners, AEPPC.

Neil Cooper, of Robson Rhodes, chairman of the international committee of Britain's Society of Practitioners of Insolvency and a councillor of the AEPPC, accepts that an international accord is a long way off. But he added: "Cases like BCCI and Maxwell lead to a massive change in awareness, as judges in more countries become confident that we are not going to prejudice the rights of creditors under their jurisdiction."

Mr Cooper points out that harm-onisation of insolvency practice is going to require harmonisation of laws on such areas as contract and employment. And supervision of indîvidual industries will have to be tightened.

On the banking front, the Basle Committee on Banking Supervision has spent the last few months revising its code of conduct to try and prevent another BCC1 happening.

The committee, comprising the central banks of the Group of Ten leading economies, is meeting in banks. Among other topics they are discussing a set of proposals designed to combine home-country control and host-country control in an at-tempt to provide some degree of beltand-braces security.

means that an organisation's country of origin or head office has supervisory power. Host-country control gives similar jurisdiction to the formed. These concepts have been used effectively for several years to break jams threatening to impede the European Community's single european market.

Once those overlapping powers are in place, the Basie committee wants the relevant authorities to have the right to obtain information and to impose restrictive measures necessary to satisfy its prudential concerns ... including the prohibition of the creation of banking estab-

These proposals would certainly make it harder for a new bank with doubtful credentials to be set up in a new territory. But Third-World countries are again likely to be refuctant to agree a scheme which will make it harder for their national banks to earn foreign currency. Meanwhile, the European Commission wants to raise the stakes even higher by introducing a single passport for EC banks, enabling them to open throughout the Community.

That will place tremendous respon-sibility on the ECs weakest supervisors not to allow a fool or a villain through its corner of the net. The danger of a lapse will increase as EC membership spreads east. The alle-gations about bribery of Bank of England staff underline the impossibility of designing an unbreakable system, but that makes it all the more the right to roam. Ultimately, the incompetent or crooked banker can still hide behind the best defence of all - national pride. If he can get his host country to endorse his company, attempts to prevent expansion abroad become bound up with diplomatic niceties. No more effective trap for the unwary has been invented.

Healthy exchange

AT A time when everyone else in the industry is sitting tight, it is suddenly all change in the pharmaceutical sector. Robin Gilbert, long the lone healthcare star at James Capel will leave the firm before the end of the year - without, as yet, a job to go to - to be replaced by a team of three. The three men in question are Didier Cowling, from Nomura, and Peter Smith and Martin Hall, from UBS Phillips & Drew. "Healthcare represents 10 per cent of the UK market and we have reached the conclusion that we really need to have a team rather than an individual." says James Capel spokeswoman Marjone Sammel. Robin is someone who prefers to work on his own and with a smaller firm he will do very well. It is all very amica-ble." Nomura has simultaneously expanded its coverage of the sector, replacing Cowiing with two analysts, Mark Clark and David Grogan, both from Warburg. They will work alongside Norwegian Erling Refsum. A delighted Nomura spokeswoman said: We have been looking for a team for a while and they finally signed on Tuesday."

Channon catch

NOMURA International, delighting in the fact that it is now expanding, at a time when most western firms are contracting, has added yet another head to its payroll, in the equity derivatives department. After admitting that he was an individual it had been couring for many months, the firm yesterday announced it had recruited Gary Channon from Goldman Sachs, who will join as an associate director in that department with responsibility for European deri-vative trading and European programme trading. The firm explained its new expansionary mode by pointing out that the Tokyo market had fallen, the warrant market had simi-larly fallen away and that 18 months ago a decision was taken to diversify away from Japanese products. Tim Keating, head of equity derivative products, said: "This is another step towards our aim of creating a broad-based equity derivatives operation delivering value-added structured products to our customers."

Blues for Green

WHEN Laurence Keen dealer Beryl "Bebe" Green and her new husband Raymond Gayler return from their honeymoon later this week they will discover that their wedding celebrations are far from over.

After being inadvertently re-named Bebe King in this column yesterday, Green's many City friends are now planning a special rhythm and blues night in her honour. "It looks as if her nickname is about to get even longer," laughs long-time friend Elizabeth Sullivan, once a fellow blue button with Green on the Exchange floor.

Feint hopes

ONE group with few hopes of Norman Lamont's big speech today are members of Britain's blighted construction industry who made a sad bunch at the Tory party conference yester-day. The Building Employers' Confederation, which usually takes a stand in the hall, proclaimed itself too povertystricken to pay the entrance fee and resorted instead to driving up and down outside in a double-decker bus. Meanwhile, the five big firms - Wimpey. Trafalgar House Construction, Taylor Woodrow, Wilmot Dixon and Kyle Stewart which usually take individ-ual, stands gathered instead under the joint umbrella of the Chartered Institute of Building. All five were expectantly awaiting the traditional prime ministerial visit and were dismayed when John Major passed them by. "We were told it was for security reasons but Margaret Thatcher always made a point of talking to us." said one affronted senior construction man. "We were hoping for some good news on house building. This is a really bad omen. The only cabinet minister who talked to us was

Kenneth Clarke."

CAROL LEONARD

Travellers are safe with Abta

BUSINESSILETTERS

The Association of British Travel Agents

From the Director General of the Leonard Cheshire Foundation Sir, Alec Reed's excellent article (Accountancy Times, October 1) is a very well reasoned critique of the illogical and outdated state of the accoun-

Charitable

review

tancy and tax rules for chari-ties, large and small, old and new. The time for a review is Such a review need not be, as is so often assumed, counter-productive to a gov-ernment whose need for fiscal revenue sadly seems to be on the increase. Rather it should reflect as much on the needs of the truly charitable as upon the abuses of those who cover their self-indulgence under a charitable cloak. The 1992 Charities Act has grasped the nettle, but with a very thick glove. An opportu-nity missed need not be an opportunity lost. Yours truly, JAMES STANFORD, Director General, The Leonard Cheshire 26-29 Maunsel Street, SW1.

Homes and jobs

From Mr John Moir Sir, The article on home ownership and price increases in the bombed-out property market (September 23) does not make enough of an issue of unemployment. Interest rates can fall to 2 per cent or less, but people will not com-mit themselves if they do not have job security. The market will not improve until people can rely on being in regular employment. All other factors are irrelevant. Yours faithfully, 131 Honeywell Road, SW11.

JOHN MOIR.

Central Bank of Ireland Bank of Ireland did fulfill a three subsidiary companies in North East America. Apart

Travel from January 1, 1993, it will remain a condition of membership of ABTA that a tour operator complies with the financial protection re-

All retail travel agent mem-bers of ABTA are also bonded against their own financial failure and the protection of-quirements of that directive.

From the chief executive of Sir, The letter from Mr William Heath (October 1) on the protection offered by the CAA to travellers in fact only gave part of the story in response to Mr Lerner's earlier suggestion of client accounts.

The CAA licensing system provides financial protection against the financial failure of a tour operator with an airlinebased package holiday programme. The Association of British Travel Agents (ABTA) provides a parallel bonding system for overseas package holidays based on surface transport. All tour operator members of ABTA are therefore bonded for their overseas package holiday programmes. With the implementation of the EC Directive on Package fered for travel arrangements other than package holidays is detailed in an ABTA notice displayed in their offices. When he next thinks of booking a holiday. Mr Lerner should recall the ABTA record on repatriation and financial protection and ensure that he books through an ABTA retail travel agent with an ABTA tour operator member. Yours faithfully, JOHN DUNSCOMBE, Chief Executive, ABTA, 55-57 Newman Street, W1.

Oldest Irish bank

From Mr Oliver Kehoe Sir, I refer to your editorial headed Punt Pressure on September 29. You refer to the decision by

Bank of Ireland to raise short term facilities by 3 per cent and in fact this should read role as central banker similar to the Bank of England until 1942 when this function was taken over by the newly formed Central Bank of Ireland. Bank of Ireland is Ireland's oldest financial institution, being established by Royal Charter in 1783 and unlike its cousin in Threadneedle Street, entered joint stock banking with the other commercial banks in the 1820s and currently has an extensive network in Ireland, the United Kingdom and from the foregoing, I agree entirely with the substance of your article. Yours faithfully, OLIVER KEHOE (Manager) Bank of Ireland. 33 London Road. Kingston upon Thames,

Brain power

From Mr David Watt Sir, May God preserve us from more Whitehall brain power devoted to helping industry (September 28).

It would be better the mandarins of Whitehall applied collectively for a voluntary winding up order before the remaining manufacturing businesses in this country are faced with enforced receivership. Yours faithfully, DAVID WATT.

Brook House, Burn Close, decades.

the coupon.

Over 55? Why not enjoy a tax free income?Life may begin at 40, but tax free income for you begins at 55 for 20 years.

That is, if you have invested in the right place. You see, we have a plan which gives you tax free income from investment funds which have already been taxed at source.

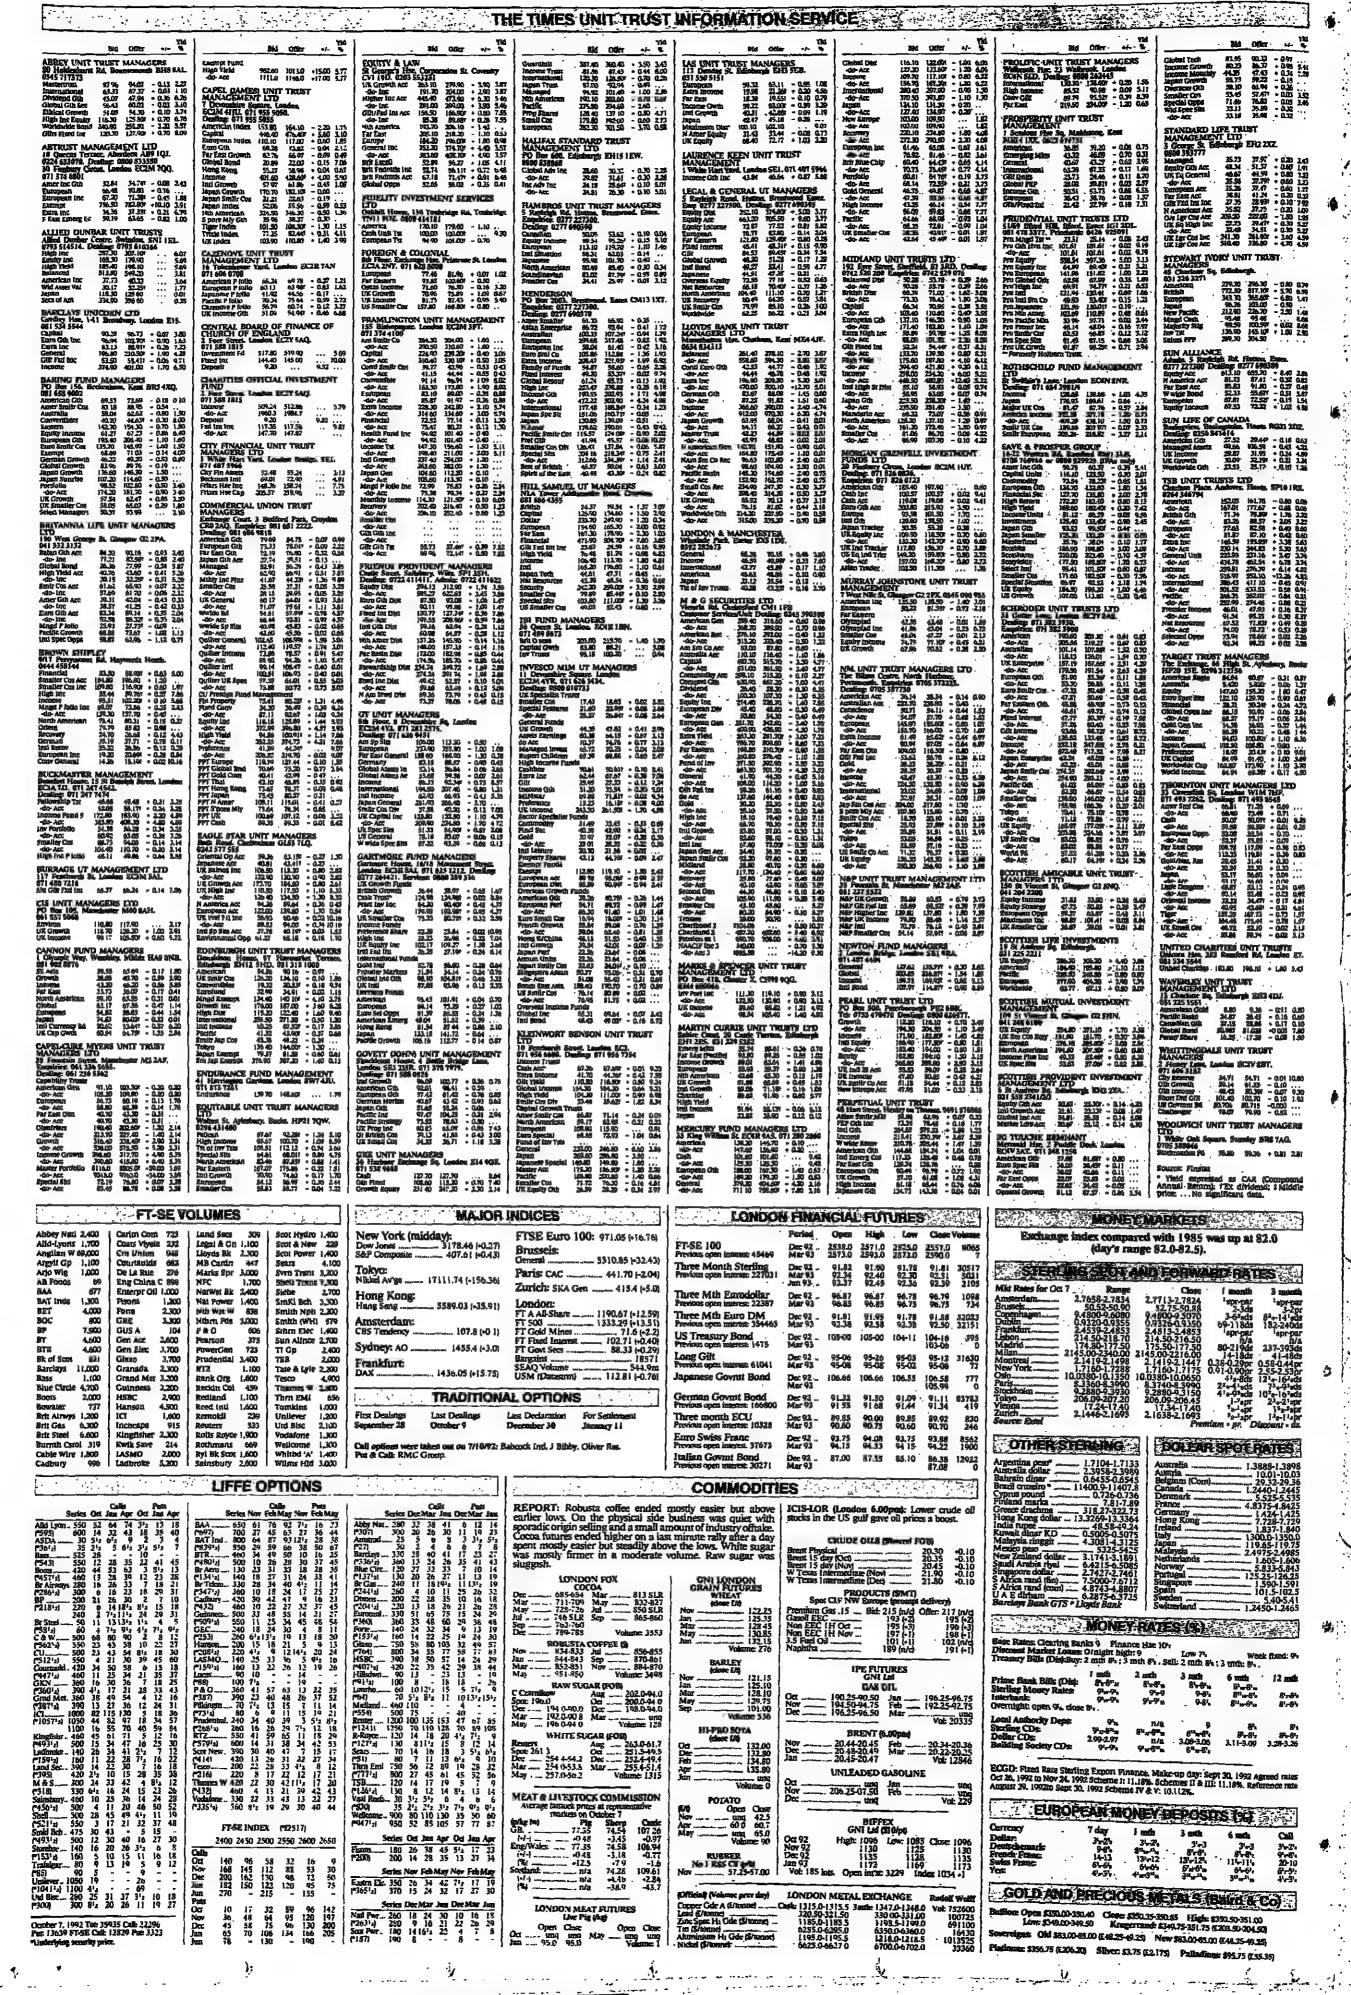

This is particularly good news for those of you retired or semi-retired with lump sums of £10,000 or more and wanting to maximise income in a tax efficient manner, without losing control of capital.

And your capital can appreciate without personal Capital Gains Tax with the fund bearing the liability instead. In fact, we can also arrange that the proceeds of one particular plan are paid free of Inheritance Tax

Talk to to your heirs. Surely this is Towry Law worth looking into. It's for independent no more bother than a building society financial advice A FINIBICA MEMBER account. We are one of Torery Law Financial Planning Ltd the largest indepen-FREEPOST, Newbury RG13 1BR. dent firms of personal . Please send me your new guide on Financial Independence and Security in Retirement with do's and don'ts". financial advisers in the U.K. offering Age Self. specialist help for 55 years. There is no am retiring at age .. charge or obligation for our services, and there is much to be gained by sending in For written details PHONE FREE ON 0800 52 11 96 For information (offers hours only) (relephone-Windsor 0755 868244. Lendon 071-285 1755; Edinburgh 071-286 2244, Gaugem 041-284 5554 Levels 0532 44601. Reflect 0332 277-25 or Riemandium 021-454 4544.

Toury Law. Advising private clients on personal financial planning for over three

47/100 SO

	1992 Price Ng Yis Pie Ng Yis Light Low Company by + div % Pie	Close		1992 Price Ne Yid	TITALES 23
Portfolio Plus	433 181 Mayer Int 200 5 163 116 114 14 9 Miletin Gos 6		es rally extended October 5. Dealings and October 16. SContango day October 19. Settlement day	251 255 -40-lead 232 1 + 3 a.6 202 266 219 -40-Small 231 + 1 4.0 2.3 504	Plus The Newtonier Limited
From your Portfolio Plus card check your eight share price movements on this page only. Add them up to give you your overall total and check this against the delily dividend figure. If it matches you have won ouright or a share of the delily prize mouse, stated. If you win, follow the claim procedure on the back of your card. Always, have your card available when claiming. Game rules appear on the back of your card.	18   18   18   18   18   18   18   18	calculated on the previous day's clo- price/earnings ratios are based on mid	October 5. Dealings end October 16. §Contango day October 19. Settlement day multied on two previous business days. Prices recorded are at market close. Changes are se, but adjustments are made when a stock is ex-dividend. Changes, yields and title prices.	2750 2250 -do-Sat Dis 2790	DIVIDEND £2,000 Claims required for +44 points Claims should ring 0254-53272
stated if you win, follow the claim procedure on the back of your card. Always have your card available when claiming. Game rules appear on the back of your card.	23 - 3-Qualitation 40 - 12 20 64 34 55 137 67 Ratice and 28 + 3 60 9.5 w 545 51 517 67 Ratice and 28 + 3 60 9.5 w 545 51 517 67 Ratice and 28 + 3 60 9.5 w 545 51 517 61 61 Ratice and 28 9.1 + 2 250 9.3 212 100 61 Ratice and 71 † 4.2 8.1 9.5 220 125 Ratice Group 20 - 5 6.4 4.3 13.2 48 28 Strike Para 30 54 98 90 Strape & Fisher 60	310 M Tendi Sua 97 - 3	11. \ Mart 4 State \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \	153 80 D0 Warrauts   129	1992 Price Net Yid High Low Company 10 -4 div % P/
No Company Group Gain or India	77 53 Sheriff Hidges 60 15 33 16.7 85 61 Shorme 61 -4 32 11.4 Sec 272 188 Smart(0) 197 - 1 79 54 71 15 65 Sharreto - 7 03 57 24	20	19   32   Rischird Turys   15           101   5   Ricardo Rad   68   5   71   12   486   36   Rodyson   471     92   26   646   81   50   Richard Garde   50   1   44   11.7   2   502   396   Rode   458   6   12.4   16   18.3   69   5   Richard Star West   54   2.9   72   1   1   1   1   1   1   1   1   1	234 194 SLAIMTEN INV 194 7.5 5.1 22/ 5.0 178 47 Scottish 166 7.5 5.1 23/ 29 127 100 Scott Amerikaan 1187, 17, 49 27.3 7.5 675, 69 60 Eastern 569, 1 1.4 3.4 39.5 7.3 167 123 40 Marce 154 2 39 34 36.2	82 26 Trition Europe 29 0. 172 131 Woodside 159 +1 2.1
2 Raine Ind Building Rds . 3 Grainger Property . 4 Persimmon Building Rds . 5 Disons Grp Drapery Strs	206 124 Tay Homes 141 52 50 5.8 140 34 Tay Homes 141 52 50 5.8 140 34 Tay Homes 141 52 50 5.8 140 34 Tay Homes 140 52 50 5.8 140 34 Tay Homes 140 52 50 5.8 140 46 18 18 Tones Himbs 21 64 25 65 187 Tanish Pathins 127 v 84 84 180 4	467 JUS Mechanism to 462 9.0 27 15:	179   126   Incompare   150	75% of Secs Tay of Sect 67 • 1 3.2 6.5 22.3 4.3 102°. 187. Selective Asset 68 • 2 0.8 1.3 62.8   20 9. Sphere Inv 12 34.4 3.4 90 70 TR For Ests 92 • 1 64 190	PAPER, PRINT, ADVIG
6 Smiths lad Industrial 7 T & N Industrial 8 Remokil Business Serv	St	200 20 Melys 26 61 30 13 107 40 Melys 26 61 30 13 117 40 Melys 100 -7 12 39 104 111 2 25 Melys 100 12 39 104 27 27 28 Melys 20 40 145 34 177 278 278 278 278 278 278 278 278 278 2	25   46 Br Steel   Sp. 4.4 Br S. 25   26 September   15 Septembe	B.3 97 70 TR Parcine 85 0.4 27 14-TER Property 15. • 1.14 12.7 443 37 37 18 TR Technicos 22: • 5 1.2 10.4 11.2 44 15.3 • 66 TR Smir Cox 11.3 • 2 3.7 4.4 33.1 10.1 277 22.6 Tecnnic Bar 266 • 4 7.2 17.3	440 365 Abbott Mead 369 8.4 3.0 18. 3 'Actis Group 1
10 Mrston Thmp Breweries 11 Wimpey G Building Rds 12 BPB Ind Building Rds	19   Westeld   12   12   13   14   14   15   15   16   16   17   17   17   17   17   17	108 77 Minimay Enter   91   1	204 222 BrVita 202 4.1 15.3 653: 460 -40-16: 567 - 2 2.3 66.55 605 409 Brvitan HIII 478 - 5 36.23.1 522 367 Security Sept 462 - 1 4.4 14.2 14.2 12.5 77 Browniewe Bod 81 40 66 9.3 88 587 Security Sept 770 - 2 31 52 12	Lig 637 39 Trangementon 45 • 1 23 • 88 175 51 789 84 Trange Double Cp. 28 • 431	122 60 Bernel 95 -1 40 5.6 22   246 147 ClA Gp 225 3.7 2.2 14   48 3h City of Lone 41 3.1 10.3 9   40 4 Clarke Broopera 4-,
13 Flickson Chems, Plas 14 Gen Ausident Insurance 15 Racal Elect Electrical 16 Bespak Industrial	BUSINESS SERVICES	66 43 Feek 45 34 H3 130 190 135 Feganty 135 121 120 125 120 125 120 125 120 125 120 125 125 125 125 125 125 125 125 125 125	77 13 Business Techae 14	LEISURE	41 6 Crossin Coone 6 60 30 Delyn Ricaging 65 14 4.3 12/ 140 90 Delyn Ricaging 65 45 6.7 12/ 744 52 Delyn Ricage 53 40 10.1 13 174 9 Elswick 1112 22 9 66 45 Ricago and 6 3 1 9,1 72 259 21 Regusion bad 242 + 2 12.5 69 14.
17 Fine Art Dev Drapery,Strs 18 Invrgordn Dist Breweries 19 Perkins Food Foods	533 345 ADT 285	1867   7124   40- Lipp are   200   100	39	10 243 150 Anglia TV 150 † 7.1 13.5 La 217 135 inut a W 'A' 150 † 10.0 8.4 7.9 L9 1050 785 Boorsy Hwis 190 † 20.0 3.0 14.3	54 25 Bilders 46 L2 III. 48 41 Fibra 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
21 Low (Wm) Roods 22 Allied-Lyons Breweries 23 Br Aerospace Motors Air	263 206 677 270 69 34 553 280 178 Barbour Index 220 7.1 44 61 30 17 Busines 17 07 55 341 145 113 8rt Data Met 120 40 113	35 25 200254 40 27 90 79.5	53 31 Claybithe 38 25 8.8 146 73 Sing Parahare 75 63 . 7. 140 95 Claybon Son 120 30 13 37 18 Shirikes Metala 23	15 28 Borthingham ing 37	263 138 More O'Ferrall 136 * 13.2 12.8 8.2 597 28 NMC Group 28 1.2 5.7 7.4 117 50 Other Hidgs 50 * 9.0 7.4 86 58 Osborne & Links 60 4.3 9.7 7.1 189 123 Costom 159 5.2 4.9 9.2
24 Bradford Property 25 Cussins Building, Ris 26 Calor Gp Olis, Gas 27 Kwik Save Foods	12	5 3 TOS Chronits 75 - 5 16 183	247 186 Community E 196 65 44 131 M2 Spetting and 117 56 64 M	00 539 405 Complets Go 428 114 14 114 114 114 114 114 114 114	754 484 Sappi 497 +10 7.5 94 144 P. Serifa 114 7.1 41 3 Shandwick 9, 7.1 42 Shrinon (Normal 28 1.2 8.3 5.4 1 7.1
28 Electrocomputs Electrical 29 Tiphook Transport 30 RHM Foods 31 Welkom Mining	$7 7 Corp Serving 79 13.2 2.5 Aa. 22.5 Bart 58 13.2 2.5 Aa. 22.5 Bart 58 13.2 2.5 Aa. 22.5 Bart 58 12.5 Bart	6 3 TDS Chromise 7: - 5	250 180 Creighton Ma. 95 70 42 113 23 10 TIS Ranges 13 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 55 12 20 167 Ti Group 167 7 - 1 33 33 TIS 200 1695 Disna 2 35504 - 65 221 70 Takare 20 13 10 20.	77 336 239 First Leiszer 268 5,7 2,6 (4.5 ) 25 250 GWR Gpa 705 4,6 (1.8 24.6 ) 170 91 Geamplan 151 5,5 4,9 10,6 (1.8 24.6 ) 2 85 Greenwich Couna 5	105 211 Strength (1951) 214 -16 0.7 7.1 19. 10 Tryfor Neison 144, 1.4 31.1 185 80 Usher Walker 100 1 6.0 6.0 16.1 66 43 VTRA 65 3.4 10.1 11.2
32 Greene King Breweries 33 Wolvrimpin D Breweries 34 Etam Duppery,Sns	## 21 Gardner (OC) 36	381 9 Whatfales 9, 287 186 Wholesale Rgs 186 11.7 10.8 133	110 5 Dundes (DO)-6 3	3   121 44-10 mers Abrd   704 - 64   12 a.1 4.3 5 31 19 The Pelican Gp 23 1.0 5.0 7.9 7 64 10 Prism Leisanes 10 7.6 6.3 8 61 19 Quadrian Grp 22 4.0 24.2 3.3 1349 22 Eadlin Ordes 285 4.3 3.1 38 18.0 1349 22 Eadlin Ordes 285 4.3 3.1 18 18.0 1350 22 Eadlin Ordes 285 4.3 3.1 18 18.0 1350 22 Eadlin Ordes 285 4.3 3.1 18 18.0 1350 2350 2350 2350 2350 2350 2350 2350 2	4 1 Warrier Chet 1
35 Llayes Banks, Disc 36 Lex Service Motors, Air 37 Boots Industrial 38 Lambert Shoes, Lith	18   3-12p   3-12p   12   12   12   12   12   12   12		16   10   EFGs   12   -1   -1   -1   -1   -1   -1   -1		PROPERTY
39 Ald Leis Leisure 40 Rameo Off Industrial  © Times Newspapers Ltd. Total	9 4 Prime People A 4. 19.5 35.6 L5 46 3.0 115 370 REA 150 40 41 150 40 41 150 160 117 Reliance Seco 160 117 Re	401 273 Bast Midlands 370 - 7 17.1 6.2 7.4 279 265 Bastern Elect 296 - 4 15.7 6.1 7.4 2717 143 Rydro-Elect 290 - 9 15.5 9.7 412 282 Landon Elect 290 - 9 15.5 9.7 413 Midlands Elec 401 - 5 17.2 9.7 6.4 417 287 Midlands Elec 401 - 5 17.2 9.7 6.4 418 326 Norreth 422 - 9 15.2 9.7 6.4 419 286 Norreth 400 - 6 17.2 9.8 6.9 419 286 304 Wastern 366 - 7 17.4 9.4 419 286 304 Wastern 366 - 7 17.4 9.4 419 286 304 Wastern 366 - 7 17.4 9.4 419 287 Southern Elec 386 - 5 16.6 9.4 419 288 304 Wastern 366 - 7 17.5 9.6 419 120 Southern Elec 386 - 5 16.6 9.4 419 286 304 Wastern 366 - 7 17.5 9.6 419 120 Southern Elec 386 - 5 16.6 9.4 419 286 304 Wastern 366 - 7 17.5 9.4 411 270 Southern Elec 386 - 5 16.6 9.4 419 286 304 Wastern 366 - 7 17.5 9.4 411 270 Southern Elec 386 - 5 16.6 9.4 411 270 Southern Elec 386 - 5 16.6 9.4 412 281 187 Rizkinski Pywr 284 - 9 9 9.4 4.6 9.1 412 187 Rizkinski Pywr 284 - 9 9 9.4 4.6 9.1 412 187 Rizkinski Pywr 284 - 9 9.5 1.4 6.9 41 187 Rizkinski Pywr 284 - 9 9.5 1.4 6.9 41 284 185 Rizkinski Pywr 284 - 9 9.5 1.4 6.	2000   1000   Decimber 9  1054   645   7.8   107   1002   865   Uniferer   1002   -22   18.9   2.4   16.2	3 93 62 TV-time 70 7 29,1 43 5 20 134 Theorem 90 135 75 7A 33 6 118 52 Tustenker Sec 19	37. 11-Abica Groups 11-4  56. 28 Altied Lor 43 3.5 168 234  70. 25 Arcadian 62 3.7 16.8  121 34 Assis 47 f 2.0 5.7 16.8  141 64 Avorside 9 • 2 8.7 7.2  2480 1877-0CE4 2000  170 266 26000 220 18.0 7.6 11.3  45 26 260000 25 18.0 7.6 11.3  46 26 2600000000000000000000000000000000
Please take has account any minus signs  E1.000 MATCH THE SHARES	12 15 February 17 + 6 14 13 24 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12	684 297 Sechoard 400 = 6 17.2 9.8 7.4 477 33.3 Sub Valez 456 = 2 19.4 9.7 3 419 388 Sub Valez 566 = 5 17.4 9.8 7.3 411 270 Southern Elec 576 = 5 17.7 9.8 3.3 7.7 406 331 Technika Paper 584 - 7 9.8 1.4 4.5 9.1 288 188 ForestGen 276 = 2 9.3 4.5 8.5	1) Permuneta ) 25 10.4 2.7 160 Wagon Ind 418 - 2 17.0 5.2 lb.d 51 30 Permun 30 2.5 10.4 2.7 76 45 Weber Growthk 12 13 7.9 12.1 181 38 Pick Indiane 40 49 6.5 166 1167 Wassat 174 1.5 20.4 405 143 Piscons 200 4.7 2.7 3.9 14.3 34 15 Winford Widged 13 1.5 20.4 143 Piscons 44 11.7 157 4.6 158 Web 2.8 11 10.9 2.8 145 145 145 145 145 145 145 145 145 145	2 20 2 Introduct 37	160 108 Bradford 139 + 5 4A 4A 12.5 36 13 Bredero 15
If you have ticked off your eighth share is our Match The Shares game today, claim your prize by telephoning 0254 53272 between 10.00am and 3.30pm (see the Sanday Times for full details)	12   12   12   13   14   14   15   15   15   15   15   15	FINANCE, LAND  41 30 Affen Rims 20 05 23 44 66 44 1990 46 30 80 43 18 18 43 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18	99 45 Pouzz Group 197 65 21 740 9.1 39 35 Wellstam 287 22 30.3 8.9 75 42 Presch (Transm) 45 15 10.7 15.3 460 300 Whenton 410 1 8.7 2.8 14.3 485 289 Prest Group 457 20 0.6 22.3 259 250 Whenton 250 13 10.3 111 64 GR21 hax 66 73 15.0 16.1 34 15 Whenton 15 12 17.3 60 444 281 GR31 259 -10 20.5 7.5 7.3 10 10 15 Whitenon 15 40 13	1777111111	400 100 Chesterfield 180 182 137 313 80 9 Cky She Essy 16 14 1 40 8 Charte Nichalls 8 0.3 19 22 8 Charter
	CHEMICALS, PLASTICS	362 299 Caledonis 286 164 8.4 14.8 1780 1290 Cheesiis 1290 1 25.0 25 10.5 10.0 10.0 10.0 10.0 10.0 10.0 10.	144   98 Generator   124   1.2   8.2   3.1   3.79   222 Williams Hidd   222   4.3   2.3   6.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5   1.5   2.5	137. 7.Angio Pic Raya 9	44 Danes Exames 1 - 4 28 &J 15.6 76 30 Debenhon Twen 41 28 &J 15.6 10 1 De Mongan 2 25 &J 25 &J
Four winners shared the Portfolio Plus prize of £2,000. Mr K Stringer of Parbold, Lancs; Mr B Mullan of Chelsea, London; Mr O Borley of Addlestone, Surrey and Mrs R Schoffeld of Derby.	200 168 Alized Capleids 180 • 2 3.9 2.8 13.4 64 64 63 Amerakan 644 • 22 12.5 3.5 86.1 87.5 6 Amerakan 644 • 22 12.5 3.5 86.1 87.5 6 Amerakan 644 • 62 12.5 3.5 86.1 87.5 6 Amerakan 645 • 685 17.4 800 201 ETP 224 • 8.4 5.3 18.6 12.0 201 ETP 8500 Description 224 • 8.4 5.3 18.6 12.0 201 ETP 8500 Description 224 • 8.4 5.3 18.6 12.3 1	135 107 Fronty Stems 102 5.7 7.5 10.8 64 44.17 5 5 1.7 154 135 148655163 25 1.7 154 135 1486 135 14	280 102 Gounste 20 400 730 1a 213 280 345 Green States 25 1040 5-3 10.9 126 45 Green States 4 85 7,0 114 12 45 Green States 4 85 7,0 114 12 45 Green States 5 84 + \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \ \	38   15 Cram Rais   10   1.5   1.5   1.7   1667   30   1.5	138   100   Events Of Lends   14
1002 Pilot Net This PVE	65 35 Cathol Gp 39 23 83 9.5 179 122 Chanting (77) 25 7.2 7.8 16.0 165 371 Countains 448 +12 15.0 19 11.7 266 342 Cathol 448 +12 15.0 19 11.7 266 342 Cathol 448 +12 15.0 19 11.7 271 100 2776 48 Beauter 188 73 4.9 13.4	38 34 Resembles 34	1297    10   10   10   10   10   10   10	376   144 Durdent   145   -1	114   Dy-Greycom   13   4   2   2
BANKS, DISCOUNT, HP	M 7 Serie Coper M Co M2 M 6 Serie D 47 42 120 M = 42 120 M = 27 15 Heistend D 47 42 120 M = 1	#80 375 Zepidas #4 +1 3.6 42 152 344 250 Templin Obrit 340 #46	WHEN THE CHIPS ARE	5 47 Genwr Tin 44 2 2 23 10.7  222 125 Genwr Tin 10 2 2 2.3 10.7  427 297 504 Exignaria 37 - 1 33 - 11 2 Creenwich R W 32 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2	22 62 Loto Morros Sec. 74 - 1 3.6 6.8 11.5 3's 14 Lots & Mostro 3
20	100	357, 1067-Apper Expens 12124 - 8	DOWN YOU'LL BE GLAD OF OUR INSURANCE EXPERTISE.	2811 120 Hantung 138 - 1 149 3.0 66 5 100.00 5 5 100.00 5 5 100.00 5 5 100.00 5 5 100.00 5 10	411 100 MERC 272 0 8 200 93 92 6 6 3 Mchaerney A 3
24   25   25   25   25   25   25   25	140 130 Poresitr 125	194 121 Juntiles Strat 140 + 3 32 84 84 85 125 1 + 2 60 5.9 = 1991 284 145 1 125 1 + 2 60 5.9 = 1991 284 145 1 125 1 + 2 145 6.3 16 145 1 12		77 17 LOTADE 19	46 27 Moorried Est 35
1650   912-Ohnee Manh   12879   -127	DRAPERY, STORES	FOODS  69 302 All Peol 421 +10 440 8.1. 67 224 AND Green 30 + 2 2 2 1 77 8.4	WE 4	200 US Read-Contin 149 - 1 12.5 2.1 221 148 Read-Contin 149 - 2 2.7 16.3 13124 428 Restardy 900 8.1 16.1 410 US St Extens 240 • 6 196. 3.1	M3 20 Princer Corp 23 + 2 1L9 2.5 111 54 Prince Security 76 + 5 1.7 6.6 [7.1 150 15 Princerly Trans. 19 + 1
64 13 First Net Fig. 22	109 23 Archer   109   21     3.1   4.3   =   205   190   Argen vic   227     46   27   16.1   190   190   227   228   100   Argen vic   220     48   1.0   17.3   228   180   Argen vic   220     48   1.0   17.3   228   180   Argen vic   220     48   1.0   17.3   228   180	409 382 All Feed 428 +10 40 8.1. 40 285ASDA Group 365 + 27 21 7.7 6.4 85 37 Albert Piber 26 37 138 3.5 97. 227 Angel 266 5 47 39 13.9 97. 12 Arbity Group 15 13 21 147 102 Assoc Palacon 122 70 7.7 22 148 148 Resize 6 148 81 7.4 7.3 305 200 Burr (AG) 285 84 25 14.6 117 78 Resize 6 49 49 24 25 14.6		100 29 SUINCEUMIN 12 44 4.0 44 4.0 44 4.0 4600 1500 Vani Inneh 1762*, +665*, 12.6 3.0 124 160 Weston 1762 * 6 1649 5.0 99°, 224 Weston Arms 29	40 12 St Montement PTP 15 0.5 4.9 9.0 40 21 Saville 25 8.0 16.0 62 42 Shallesbury 44 8.0 16.0 9 3 Shield 4
460 346 Lispris 440 + 5 1627 $3 1449 547, 40 Loro Sani Mt. 81 27 72 11.3 945 280 Non Angli Mt. 202 + 2 63 11.3 182 281 Non West 207 + 4 17.3 63 666 952 418 Provident 594 - 1 20.0 62.2 13.3	166 86 Neuromays 146	27- 10 Recision and 19	OU	2255 750 Wessern Deep 800	34 57 Stought Existes 102 + 1 4, 12, 18,5 18,7 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18
F   25   Res Res   29     0.5   21     1.5   2.5     1.5   2.5     1.5   2.5   4.6   1.5   4.5	18   Cartino W   182   1	39   Rente   300   -7   57   19   64   65   18   64   65   65   65   65   65   65   65	YOUR INTERNATIONAL INSURANCE	MOTORS, AIRCRAFT  125 90 Airliow Straum 90 0.1 0.1 127 96 Appleyard 62 7 73 16.1 63.0 175 120 Bierbiley Mir 176 8.2 7.3 6.5 163 115 Bestron 130 6.0 6.3 347	33   B   DK Land   1
204 137 do 66 W 1725 * 1 46; 64; 67 68; 67 68; 67 68; 67 68; 67 68; 67 68; 68 .	05 27-Deviant 20 0 02 24 33 286 179 Deone Grp 208 4 4 40 19 227 46 33 26 19 27 28 19 19 Deone Grp 208 4 4 40 19 227 18 10 19 14 324 Gp 15 49 70 30 18 19 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18	445 SE Delegy 440 6.3 rt.3 94 D Denety 6 31 6.3 rt.3 16 2 Partingled 257 35 28 le.8 16 2 Partingled 8 41 94 11.1 93 73 Pyths 75 11 10.0 93 73 Pyths 75 31 10.0 940 240 Georg 50 11 10.0 11 10 Pyths 75 11 10 Pyths 75 11 10.0 11 10 Pyths 75 11 10 Pyth	BROKING PARTNER CE HEATH  183 HOUNDSDITCH LONDON ECRA 7AH TELEPHONE: 071 234 4000	163   115   BOSTOCO   120     6.0   6.3   34.7   779   160   374   445   52.0     2.9   778   323   Caffyrs   255     1.5   4.6     2.9   139   130   Central httre   101     4.0   4.1   4.5   4.6     4.6	SHOES, LEATHER
BREWERIES  712 São Affect-Iguais ### + 6 20.0 45 14.0 655 677 Bass 546 + 9 44 12.0 197 146 Boddington 172 86 $1 10.9	289 No Eram 244 + 3 66 35 21.5 44 3 36 87 Pice Art. Day 266 + 2 11.6 3.7 156 4 16.0 3.7 156 4 16	12	55 29 Hampson Ind 26 2.3 8.9 10.0 546 402 Com Union 513 + 2 23.6 6.1 2444 1847-Manson 2007 + 91 11.0 7.0 12.6 51 19 PAT Union 510 + 2 23.6 6.1 227 138 Harris (Patris) 215 6.2 3.9 15.0 554 256 Gen Accident 510 + 5 26.7 7.1 157 104 Harriso Casidi 12.2 1 9.0 9.1 22.8 166 106 GRS 145 + 2 7.0 477 212. Hearth C E 200 - 33.4 11.9 9.8	128   SS Davinger Verm   160	99 42 Residam 77 1 24 44 28 9 439 263 Lambert 77 2 1 25 49 84 111 76 Petterd Garnar 77 13 24 64 41 19 Strong & Pather 19 LO 7.0 13 103 90 Style 95 -3 21 35
143 112 Burtoned Rev 115 44 52 5.2 5.2 5.9 184 Decembe Red 221 - 7 5.2 3.7 13.1 107 68 Eddridge P No 71 26 49 66.3 64, 47 Paters Breating 48 1 27 8 446 361 Pater Sin No 81 47 2.5 144 165 127 Chieb Merce 173 47 2.5 144	12   12 Cademilla Cp   21     1.8   10.4     2200   1200   CIS   1958     2.8   13.5   10.1   12.0	701 SH Kwit Sow 688 + 6 147 10 H.3 286 10 H.3 286 10 H.3 286 11 7.9 286 10 H.3 28 17 7.9 286 10 H.3 28 17 7.9 28 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18	41 17 Ray (Montales 5 1	31 10 Jacks (fem) 11	TEXTILES  411 BZ Allied Text 399 [23 44] H2 72 46 Sections (A) 46 1 47 [30 -
$11 360 Gened Met 384 + 69, 11,3 39 (2.1 cm)   (25 313 Greenells Grp 384 + 69 14,0 4.1 (2.5 cm)   500 405 Greenel King 461 + 4 11,6 34 11,7 (3.6 cm)   644 490, Gulmers 300 + 3 28,0 2.8 14,5 (3.6 cm)   645 Harry Rumm 300 37, 14,5 (4.6 cm)   646 135 Heavitere 145 39 30 28,8 (4.6 cm)   646 135 Heavitere 145 39 30 28,8 (4.6 cm)   647 145 145 145 145 145 145 145 145 145 145	33 13 Berlages 19	48 F9 Netherbur FAA 22 0.7 45 9.2 186 122 Netherburg FA 22 0.7 45 9.2 186 127 Netherburg FA 22 3.2 3.8 18.4 185 45 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 5.8 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.6 11 4 Peckles Food 67 + 7 4 A.3 3.	133   Righ-Point   154   7.5 8.9   258   160   Linyd Thomp   277   5.6   1.6   1.5   1.6   1.6   1.6   1.5   1.6   1.5   1.6	288 169 Pendragon 206 60 3.9 18.4 173 113 Perry Gp 113 1 92 10.6 20.2 180 6 Quicks Group 111 -1 3.0 3.6 20.5 176 120 Roll-Rayer 127 -2 7.2 7.5 20.5 176 120 Roll-Rayer 117 -2 7.2 7.5 20.1 180 180 Venty (Reg) 114 40 47 18.4 120 95 Westhand 113 40 4.7 7.3 1	52 25 Bolton Gp 25
CT   SS   -do - Ar   DF   CT   CT	273 ig2 Liepes Chem 206 + 8 41 26 105 125 905 ART - 116 + 1 43 155 146 285 Nords Spenorr 318 + 1 30 202 441 379 Menzies Ostroy 382 + 2 100 35 146 136 136 Menz Bro 122 50 55 223 187 57 Next 189 + 1 0 7 10 207	#62 307 Safesthory J 457 82 326 18.1 6 6 32 Sentry Pirms 47 1.0 2.3 11.0 10 10 175 Strms Food 176 1.2 8.5 7.4 40 2.55 Take & 13/4 342 412 112 4.4 9.4 326 1945 Testo 26 f * 9 6 3.3 9 90.3 20 152 Thorntons 165 1.6 2.9 13.3 13 FORESTA 105 1.4 4.1 12.0	17   67   Respital Crp   11   47   340   271   199   Producestial 2244   480   1.0   55.2 3.3   778   58   Respita   480   1.0   55.2 3.3   201   153   Respita   180   46   1.0   55.2 3.3   278   180   Respita   180   46   1.0   55.2 3.3   278   278   180   Respita   180   46   1.0   5.0   5.7   278	NEWS, PUBLISHERS	221 180 Davenon 207
473   405   Manthew Chris   413     12.2   5.1   13.7	15   17   Other (6)   20     10	286 192 Unique 281 +611 153 5.1 27 400 222 Uni Biscuiss 200 +6 153 6.9 10.2 18 12 Unique 16 04 3.3 9.8 287 205 Wisson & Phil 225 154 7.5 10.1	486 317 Johnson Match 486 - 6 46 28 169 (20 30 404 Prieselly 396 1.3 42 20.1 173 442-30.1 184 185 185 185 185 185 185 185 185 185 185	106   73 Adsone   86	77 In Armon 9 62 -1 10 22 189 224 Lamon 102 15 14.5 466 510 Leefs 464 -1 87 2.8 17.5 41 la li Lyles (5) 99 44 60 10.2 85 68 Parkhand W 64 20 1.9 47 63 English T0 * 3 34 66 Li J.9
28 48 Yang Group: 189 • 3 • 2 • 5 13.4 488 347 Whithman W. 456 • 450 169 5.4 11.4 1456 1159 do * 8 1165 16.9 1.9 12.0 600 514 Welvinopan D 534 • 6 10.3 2.6 15.0 548 453 Young W. 513 14.5 3.8 20.9	13	#HOTELS, CATERERS  23 16 Abrelon St. Ha 16 14 3.0 E2. 25 22 112 Rose 154 4 9 9 16	1135	788 513 Euromoney Po 760 225 39 301 200 155 Hagnes Pub 197 60 41 83 211 140 Readine 185 1 100 22 206 185 145 Rome Counts 145 82 75 274 147 71 147	71 30 SEET 42
BUILDING, ROADS  75 60 Abbry 64 1 21 233 26 9 Abbrigation 11 28 231 28 54 Alleria 60 38 11.1 64	25 Vivet 27	262 112 Foire 24 + 9 9.9 26	12	770 285 Independent 365 $2 (3.1) 180 289 Johnston Press 344 $5 2.1 6.2 225 186 Metal Bulleto 224 74 44 18.1 125 40 Mirror Cop 1010 04 185 507-News Corp 1010 04 185 57 Person 30 39 10 8.8 4679 287 Person 30 39 10 8.8 4679 287 Person 30 45 10.1 530 340 Partscath Studd 528 8.8 2.2 46.6	TOBACCOS
182 53 Amee 65 9 3 10.2 5.5 27 27 Anglis Sec 8	ELECTRICALS	6 3 Engli Hotelsis 38	316   1577   100   100   170	3   Princedales   1,	E74 608 BAT 828 +14 33.6 53 25.7 644 480 Rothmens 2 581 +6 10.2 24 13.6 TRANSPORT
309 193 Betheap 251 11.0 5.8 666 30 14 Bethetach 24 345 186 Betheley Gp 237 -1 5.0 2.8 17.4	197 136 ACT Group 193 -2 4.5 18 15.5 231 195 Academ 223 58 3.5 17.3 27.	INDUSTRIALS  198 LIS AFF Indis 18 -2 61 86 553 460 AAF 513 +2 163 42 163 265 133 ADM 135 65 65 94 16 76 AFF 15 49 94 118	42 31 MY Estellings 35 0.5 1.9 41.9 53 28 -00- Eng bml 32 1.2 5.0 4.9 198 171 Ancherisms 180 • 1 4.2 1.0 17.6 90 61 -00- Far East 74 • 1 0.6 1.1 7.8 197 197 197 197 197 197 197 197 197 197	62 34 Unit Groupe 34	440 211 Assoc Br Pons 227 +10 6.0 3.9 9.3 743 531 BAA 200 +7 14.5 2.8 15.0 315 219 Br Alrwsys 287 +1 10.1 4.7 9.6 162 59 Clarkson (77) 63 +1 10.1 4.7 9.6 101 11 Device Newman 28 +
100   50 Bell Blue   52   1   208	202 219 Besies Harnes 25 9.2 5.5 -	156   75 APV   765   -15 Se 94   13.8   165 SD ASW   78 90   14.8   165 SD ASW   78 90   14.8   159   15 Advest   117 7.0   8.4 = 3   397   253 Advest   36 7.5 2.9   10.9   115   38 Advista W   79 3.6 6.1 42.7   22. 135,Addied Radio   195	99 77 Manig Bronzer 71 110 1.9 57.1 51 35 E7M Inc T3x 36 1 4.8 18.1 6.5 747 15 Marring 21 0.3 1.9 50 45 -60 - Div 7 48 115 27 Marring 21 0.3 1.9 50 45 -60 - Div 7 48 115 27 Marybonne 96 42 5.8 8.2 267 7199 Edinburgh 216 • 2 8.0 5.0 26.4 39 31 Marybonner 35 1 1.6 16.3 133 107 Elecuric Gen 118 • 3 3.1 1.5 37.6 701 150 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 106 66 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 19.2 77 65 English Sext 73 110 107 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 194 10 Medicine 194 10 Medicine 194 • 2 1.5 1.0 194 10 Medicine 194 10 M	18 8: Abertieen Peia 8:	141,
80 38 CALA 22 1 23 7.3 = 210 190 CRR 190 CR 190 CR 190 CR 190 25 4.6 10.7 10.2 20 Costation 22 1 1 1 4.7 1 8.6 10.7 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.7 10.8 10.8 10.8 10.8 10.8 10.8 10.8 10.8	4575 18070 Berlindda 2100 -150	43 389 alumner 410 11.0 36 125 62 20 Abrs 21 22 140 60 61 1.1 30 13 Amber Ind 90 120 60 11.1 33 13 Amber 10 90 120 60 11.1 35 13 Amber 10 90 10 7.3 52 1	177 99   Meissea   64   64 6.7   202   182   Remiting Amer   192   2 8.9   2 10   43 46   25	48 B Beweisey 12 0.6 6.9 65 By Byrand 22 - 1	249 90 Messey Docts 243 • 2 6.0 3.3 13. 25 266 216 NPC 259 • 6 6.2 3.3 196 357 170 Ocean Group 259 • 10 14.3 8.3 10.3 55 269-7 a O Did. 56 6.7 1 27 8.3 55 269-7 a O Did. 56 150 · 4.9 4.15 267 Powel Duffyn 342 • 9 22.6 8.8 15.6
66 23 Cress Nicholsten 37 + 1 60	662 489 Chile Winniers 580 +15 13.2 3.3 M.2 147, 7 Chinetic N	40: 25-Aumour 30: 14 64 14 64 15 68 125 Ash & Lacy 123 64 71 99 35; P.Ass Pr Eng 2* 00 30 125 73 20 97 30 Asm Rabber 422 165 52 209 175 163 Asm Palage 150 57 57 180 483 Bandbe 755 * 240 55 194	31 18 Nesperson	667 660 Burmah Captri 616 1 • 7 200 5.2 k.l 75 21 Cafin Brargy 12 • 1 ·	117 % Sessona 112 -2 42 50 79 79 27 TUP Europe 33 -1 74 62 87 37 TNT 37
135 68 Freeman Gp4 102 30	465 379 Demino 389 -1 62 21 ISA 66 46 Downley Milks 48 25 69 ISA 1925 750 Demika 925 -3 94 14 1928	163 107 1884 125 7.5 8.0 16.1 17.5 18.0 16.1 17.5 18.0 16.1 17.5 18.0 18.1 18.1 18.1 18.1 18.1 18.1 18.1	49 10 Card Into 177 12 13.3 190 134 -8c Pacific 166 1 + 1 1.7 14 155 136 PCT4 146 7.0 6.7 12.7 111 79 -de-Smallier 85 + 15 1.7 2.7 4.2 51 48 Pacer Systems 48 78 72 205 122 GT Report 135 f 1.1 754 147 94 Pendiand 140 + 2 2.2 2.1 20.1 109 49 Gent Cons Cap 61	17-5 Firstands 185 - 5 1.3 811 105 5 Firstands 7 # 1.3 81 105 69 34 Good Pet 45 - 1 1.2 37 8.5 13 1 5 Gu Western Res 17 - 5	WATER
12 11 Line (s) 23 25 97	1915 730 Drucke 915 -3 94 14 1918 313 223 Electronament 291 +4 72 12 1728 55 26 El Deits Pri 498 499 42 11 1348 67 28 Electron House 12 23 38 121 157 7 Emets 91 23 38 121 158 51 FKI 82 +4 23 37 177 318 227 Expedit Elect 501 +8 53 24 184	207 365 5TR 430 + 8 16.5 4.6 16.9 171 11.5 5W1 169 - 2 6.7 5.5 = 170 314 patrock 334 + 3 34 12.5 4.2 7. 3.1045 (28) 34	58 39 Parastrook 56: 71 82 218 150 do-Strategy 166 • 3 67 54 207 147 09 hopping 112 10 23 = 319 26 Geocaritar 209 - 1 61 27 209 104 201 201 201 201 201 201 201 201 201 201	146 77 Barriy O & G 97 + 2 L0 L4 30.4 17 7 Nett Bereg 13	448 307. Angilan Water 417 -13 19.3 6.2 2.9 514 26 Northernstan 495 -8 20.3 5.5 5.8 63 327. North West 644 -8 19.6 6.0 7.6 6.2 6.2 6.2 6.2 6.2 6.2 6.2 6.2 6.2 6
90 17 throat Johnson 46	40 15 PERSONAL #	45 11 human (65) 11 20 254 62 41 hayner (Charlet) 42 13 43 134	299 200 Powerstein 299 . 0.0 30 80.2 75 665 108 UK Smill 75	185. 7: New London 7:	67 324 Thannes Water 422 - 9 19,2 19 8,3 491 377 Weish Water 454 -10 24,4 6,3 5,2 533 366 Wesser Water 515 19,5 5,0 7,5 493 136 Yorkshire W 457 - 7 19,5 5,7 7,7
205 180 Marsours 185 1 7.0 5.1 12.9 205 180 Marsours 185 1 7.0 5.1 12.9 144 57 Marity 78 1 4.2 7.2 19.7	13 7, Fernant 64 1	255 446 Respect 501 * 5 790 24 200 5 8 8 11 112 RBbpt 79 220 1 * 2 Rbs 6 5 8 4 1 4		198 100 Presides 100 58 58 51 51 51 52	ource: Pinsian  USM, wPrice at Suspension: LEX dividend: XEx- crip: 12x rights lister: LEX all; VEX capital  Baribution: = Figures or report awalied: No  gotificant data.

BUSINESS TRAVEL

Executive travellers want more for less

spend £18 billion a year on business travel and related expenses as they search Britain, Europe and beyond for the contracts and deals which could keep them afloat in the teeth of the recessionary gales.

Despite the belt-tightening that is the inevitable consequence of falling consumer demand, few could afford to ignore the potential benefits which can come only from face to face meetings with clients. Surveys indicate that although expenditure on business travel is dropping down by about 5 per cent so far this year - the number of people travelling on business has remained almost static and may already be on the increase. Between 1990 and 1992, the total amount spent on business travel and related expenditure dropped from £20 billion to £18 billion.

There is still a long way to go, however, in enabling companies to maintain the level of important business travel while reducing its cost, as business travel managers from the major companies such as American Express. Thomas Cook, Wagon-Lits and the 40 members of the Guild of Business Travel Agents are constantly telling their clients and the thousands of firms which still do not have a formal travel policy.

It is estimated that only 52 per cent of British travel companies now have a written travel policy document, although 43 per cent have a travel manager and 80 per cent an appointed travel agent. Overall, 80 per cent of British managers now consider it important to monitor their travel costs and to negotiate corporate discounts. but that still leaves a surprising one in five who apparently do not care how much they spend on business travel or will not change their old habits and hierarchical views about "perks" for senior staff.

The travel business is evolving more attractive and economical packages to woo and keep customers

during the recession, writes Harvey Elliott

British company directors, for example, are still the most status-conscious in Europe. American Express discovered in a Europe-wide survey last year that 35 per cent of British company directors were enti-tled to first-class air travel, compared with only 19 per cent in France. Sixty per cent of British senior managers flew in business class, compared with only 42 per cent of their German counterparts.

The top directors in Britain also demanded the best from hotels, with 79 per cent staying in four or five star accommodation, compared with only 33 per cent of French directors at the same level. The British were beaten, says Amex, only by the Swiss. 87 per cent of whom demanded the highest standard available.

Already there are signs that this is changing and more business travellers are "trading down" - choosing cheap-er hotels and especially economy flights. A new survey now reveals that only 12 per cent of British board directors fly first class on short flights, and 23 per cent on long flights. While this is of particuar concern to hoteliers and to the airlines, whose all-important yield is being undermined by the trend away from business-class and first-class travel. it is clearly better for the balance sheets of companies which have to send executives

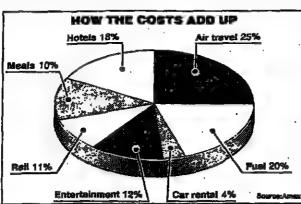

"Many British companies have found that by a combination of setting down clear travel policy guidelines, using appropriate payment methods and careful buying of travel services, they can out costs without lowering the quality of the service to the traveller," says Jim Jamison, vice-presiTravel Management Services.
"But there are still thousands of British companies that are not benefiting from the savings such actions bring."

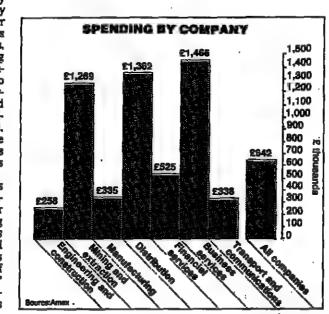

Air travel accounted for the largest share of business expenditure last year - 25 per cent or £4.5 billion - and the vast majority of industrialists believe this will go up faster next few years. Already 37 per cent of business travel expenditure goes on foreign travel, worth £6.7 billion a year. Service companies, such as advertising agencies and public relations firms, are the highest spenders, averaging £1.47 million per company last year, compared with engineering and construction £258,000 each. As the recession has especially affected engineering and construction. these companies are likely to spend even less over the next few years.

Business travel expenditure is unlikely to increase until the economy improves, and that could easily indicate another couple of static years for business travel," says Bill Kirk-wood, head of sales and marketing at Thomas Cook travel management, "There will be more people travelling, but that will not create an increase in expenditure as the trend is towards travelling less expensively and making the travel budget work harder."

His company now guaran-tees to find the cheapest fare available on any particular route within the traveller's criteria. It has also targeted smaller companies, those spending less than £600,000 a year on business travel, by using Thomas Cook's purchasing power to obtain the best deals from airlines, hotels and car-hire companies, providing a full travel manage-ment service and detailed accounts. This way, it claims, it can reduce travel costs by at least 10 per cent without reducing the standards of flight or accommodation the homas Cook is not alone in constantly forcing airlines, hotels, car-hire companies and even restaurants to push down their charges. This again brings problems for the airlines, hotels and car-hire firms which have become used to executives providing the bulk of their profits. So they in turn are looking at ways of improving efficiency, reducing their own costs and exploring new ways of maintaining their yield. Many large hotels, for example, had until this year resolutely set their faces against giving discounts. As a result occupancy has fallen.

Now they are having to use ever-more sophisticated marketing and yield management techniques to attract customers, Mid-priced hotels are booming in comparison to the larger, luxury market, by pro-viding all the facilities demanded by a businessman without the frills which so often provide additional com-fort with no noticeable benefit to the business traveller. Hotels of all sizes are increasingly learning to make readily available the facilities demanded by women busidemanded by women bus-ness travellers, who now make up 17 per cent of the market, while even the smallest are joining with others to create marketing groups linked by sophisticated computer reser-vation systems to enable them to pass clients on from one to another.

However deep the recession becomes, it is clear that businessmen and women will continue to travel. They will want comfort, efficiency, modern communications, speed and the highest possible standard of service. And above all they will want to pay less than they Loyalty on the wing Many are the ways to entice

American Airlines and Virgin have very different incentives for regular passengers the frequent

flier, says Steve Keenan

Having won the custom of a frequent filer, the airline has to keep it. While punctual flights and good service regularly top category of membership, with polls as the key criteria, the prospect of a free gift is even more rewards. "You can identify the most frequent fliers and entice them proving a useful tool in retaining custom. A frequent-flier

A irlines like people who fly frequently. They regularly spend money on tickets and are probably on business trips. And if the company is paying, there is a good chance that the customer will be flying Chub or First retain their custom.

come into its own in Europe

ted Airlines have rapidly expanded into the UK and Europe, bringing their reward schemes with them and forcing their European rivals to Świssair and Iberia both launched schemes six months ago, Air France followed in the summer, and Lufthansa will join the club next year, once legislation banning such programmes in Germany is repealed.

Never has the frequent-flier scheme enjoyed a higher pro-file. Success is bringing some airlines increased shares of the most lucrative market in the world: regular business travel across the North Atlantic.

The equation is simple. The more frequently the traveller flies, the more free miles he or she receives. And those who travel furthest enter a higher to by with you again and again. says Brian Laterriere, who is European sales plan-ning manager at against Airlines scheme allows the airline to identify its top travellers and woo them with bonuses to Such schemes began in America in 1981, when Amer-British Airways senior man-ager Richard Mound adds: lcan Airlines pioneered AAdvantage but the idea has

You don't want to waste money giving benefits to people who do not actually fly give incremental levels of service to our frequent fliers." By definition, travellers lose out by belonging to two or more schemes, splitting their flights between them. Hence the rush to sign up new members now. There is a limited opportunity, so it is important to get people in now," says Mr Laterriere.

British Airways launched its

"Latitudes" programme last ear. It was no coincidence that this came at just the time that American and United bought the US-UK networks of TWA and Pan Am respec-tively, so gaining entry to Heathrow. In March BA also launched its Executive Club in America, which now has 35,000 members. The British "Latitudes" scheme has been renamed Executive Club too.

and has 325,000 members.

Some dirinted co-operate in areas where flacy are not in direct competition. For example: BA travellers to Africa and the Middle East can now earn AAdvantage points, while AA travellers in the American domestic market can earn stitudes points.

With both Virgin and British Midland having intro-duced schemes — "Freeway" and "Destinations" respectiveiy — Britain is well ahead of other European countries in responding to American carri-

Aside from cultivating its most inceative customers, the used in other ways. For exam-ple, double, triple or even six-fold awards can be offered to boost sluggish seasonal or new routes. Virgin is currently of-fering 40,000 miles to new their first "upper class" trans-atlantic flight, enough miles to fly again on any of Virgin's five

American rounes. The schemes offered by the major airlines are remarkably uniform and predictable. The exception is Virgin Atlantic, which has never been slow to break the aviation mould. Among its offers are hot-airclubs, flying lessons, power boat racing, golf tuition and photo safaris, as well as the usual free flights. Marketing director Chris Moss claims that "the last thing heavy fliers want to do is get on another plane. Our rreeway scheme was born because we found that while people are attracted by the idea of a free ticket, they have quite a different view when

The Specialists to Spain and Latin America.

From Heathrow, Manchester and Dublin.

Daily departures direct to 6 destinations in Spain with onward connections to a further 23 destinations in the rest of Spain, as well as 19 cities throughout Latin America. Combining a first rate in-flight service with one of the best on time records, Iberia provides the best and only way to travel to Spain and Latin America.

071 437 5622 (7 days a week) • 021 643 1953 • 061 436 6444 • 041 248 6581

IBERIA B

Hotels are learning that women want more than frills and gimmicks Making room for

oudmouthed Lotharios propping up the hotel bar are just one hazard awaiting today's unsuspecting soio female business traveller She may also have to contend with the toffee nosed maitre d' who reckons that every un-chaperoned female is on the game, the barman who thinks it is alright to make a pass over the salted nuts, and the porter who utters an ear-splitting "Room 212, was it, love?" within earshot of the newlyarrived party of French rugby players.

The hassies and headaches faced by lone women executives have been tirelessly documented in recent years. While some have yet to be resolved, most have at least now been recognised by com-mercially-minded hoteliers. aware that they ignore the needs of female guests at their Research shows that practical extras are worth a hundred time more than feminine frills and gimmicks to today's welltravelled female executives. They would sooner have a chain on the door than roses, chocolates and pink decor.

While most leading hotels have now managed to provide skirt hangers, well-lit mirrors, hairdryers and secure doorlocks, scarce features five years ago, many have failed yet to address the more subtle needs of female guests. There is considerable scope for the businesswomen restyling of intimidating bar areas, building of more inhouse fitness facilities (statistics show that women are less likely to go out at night than men), toning down of macho brown leather decor and provision of lighter meals than the standard meat and potatoes.

"Women have told us time and again that they do not want to be singled out, just treated equally, says a Washington spokeswoman for Marriott Hotels & Resorts. "Their concerns are of a more practical nature than feminine decor. They are concerned about having to negotiate dark corridors and the need for fulllength mirrors."

Marriott and other top chains have tackled the probiem by adding room features designed to make the stay smoother for guests of either sex. These include a wider range of soaps and skincare toiletries, sewing kits, multiuse hangers and spyholes in doors. Tables designed for single diners - complete with reading lamp, notepaper and magazines — have also proved

Holiday Inn. which expects female clientele to make up 'Crest rooms at all of its

ing programme aimed at improving service and en-hancing security for solo female guests.

prompt attention in reception, bar and restaurant areas, a choice of room location, and the option to have external telephone calls screened. A 24hour helpline is available for otel designers also acknowledge that women now make up an estimated half of all otel designers also acknowledge that business traffic in America and more than a fifth in Britain. Yesterday's officiouslooking rooms with steel lamps and tobacco-brown swivel-chairs have given way to pastel rag-washed walls, country-house fabrics and soft sofas, features that make both sexes feel more

Britain's Forte Crest chain has bucked the trend away from conspicuously branded products aimed at women, and confidently markets Lady comfortable.

zines and a dedicated range of toiletries.

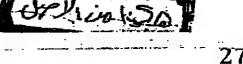

Practical extras include an adjustable make-up mirror, iron and ironing-board unit, smaller hangers and a spyhole and deadlock on the door. Newly refurbished rooms are fitted with an L-shaped desk/dressing table with a flip-up lid concealing a mirror, dual-speed hairdryer and desk-tidy ideal for storing tollatries. toiletries

Staff have also been trained to remain discreetly attentive to the special needs of unac-companied female guests They are seated at the side of restaurants rather than in the middle, offered reading material in bar areas, and escorted to their rooms.

Take-up rates are high, says the chain — and not just by women. "Men often ask if we have a Lady Crest room free," Graham Craddock, Forte Crest marketing manager, says. "Whether it is the bigger beds, the decor or the chance to read women's magazines from cover to cover we are not quite sure. It is not that they are all great big softies. It is just that at the end of the day men probably want much the same from their hotel room

MARION COTTER

Revisit America. Free.

When you're in America on business, have you ever wondered what it would be like to be off-duty? Free to explore the Land of the Free as it were. Virgin Atlantic would like to give you that opportunity, free.

Simply book yourself a return flight on Upper Class, our award winning business class before March 31st 1993 and we'll now issue you a free confirmable Economy Class ticket to any of our US destinations. This ticket is bookable at any time* for you, a friend or relative to use at a later date.

Of course, you probably don't need any such inducement to sample the service that has consistently been voted 'Best Business Class across the Atlantic.' The free limousine transfers, six-channel arm-rest T.V.s, fully reclining sleeper seats and guest dishes by Raymond Blanc should be sufficient to persuade you to fly us to New York (JFK - Newark), Miami, Boston, Orlando, L.A. and Tokyo.

But if our offer to take you back takes your fancy call 0345 747 747 for full details and your free ticket pack. *Pree ticket offer is only applicable to first trip before March 31st 1993 and is subject to availability.

The Freeway to the USA

atlantic

Relaxing: a film dispels the boredom of a long flight

Work and play on the journey

Competing airlines are providing entertainment and even phones

ful sleep and loathe the idea of flickering screens and cabin muzak. For them, headphones offering canned silence free of engine drone will soon be

Virgin Atlantic became the world's first airline to provide individual television screens for all passengers on widebodied jets last summer. Its fleet of B747s is equipped with and mid class, and seatback units in economy. All have six channels, featuring films,

music, comedy, sport and children's programmes, together with a Skyshow presented by Jonathan Ross.

Virgin offers in addition 12

audio channels providing music ranging from Japanese pop to New Age. Cathay Pacific is also setting the pace for inflight programming. Every B747 in its fleet is being equipped with the aerials and software to receive

American carriers intending to install personal videos include American Airlines, which has fitted screens in seat

consoles with armrest controls

Programme producers expect more use of computer

the BBC World Service.

in first-class cabins.

Business travellers now fly in 600mph movie houses showing thrillers, spaghetti westerns, conedy films, cartoons and cinema classics. Leading air carriers are offering options that enable passengers to catch up with the television scaps, play space invaders on a 40-game video tray table, tune in to an hour of Bach or watch live news bulletins.

Airlines already supplying their business-class travellers with as much champagne and truffles as they can consume are turning to seatback video libraries and four-page audio meous to win customers.

Even these impressive investments will be dwarfed by the sums to be spent during the next ten years. Before the end of the decade, air passengers will probably be able to press buttons on their personal consoles to call for drinks and duty-frees, check share prices, hire cars at their destination and order flowers.

and order flowers.

Telephones, already offered on transatiantic flights, could be joined by laptop computers on hire and access to fax machines for the workaholic.

Surveys by the World Air-

Surveys by the World Airline Entertainment Association confirm that about half of all passengers watch video programmes during their flight Business travellers fayour news, followed by comedy sport and documentaries edy, sport and documentaries.

The airlines realise that some passengers want a peace-

The battle to offer the best being spent by competing airports, says

Harvey Elliott

flicials at Birmingham airport could hardly contain their excitement last month when British Airways announced it was to begin scheduled international flights from there in March. Bob Taylor, the managing director, says: "Having responded to the needs of the Midlands business community in establishing the case for direct transatiantic services, we now depend on those same people to support the route by using it regularly."

Business travel from airports is now big business and vital to their success. To attract businessmen to the regions, airports such as Manchester, Leeds and Birmingham have spent millions developing new terminals and installing the latest navigation equipment to ensure a quick and smooth passage for the business passangers who now use the main London airports.

Naturally, perhaps, the London airports are battling to retain and, if possible, increase their market share. In January Heathrow introduced three new car parks for the business traveller. They are intended for the executive staying away for three days and are closer to the terminals than the long-term car parks. Frequent mini-coaches provide a rapid transfer to the check-in areas. Heathrow is so confident that this will be made to work by APCOA. Pink Elephant and Park & Fly. the three competing operators. that it pledges that if transfer takes longer than 15 minutes customers will receive a day's tree business parking or a £10 games. "We envisage passengers playing each other individually and in teams," says Nell Myners, a producer with the market leader Inflight Productions.

airport shop voucher. Heathrow wants check-in and security to take no longer than 20 minutes and guarantees that airport shop prices will never be higher than those in the high street.

MARION COTTER | Heathrow has a

The right connection: the train link to Victoria is one of Gatwick airport's attractions for the business traveller centre, which moves to new and bigger premises in the Queens Buildings in April. Bureaux de change will operate 24 hours. Travelex is already in Terminals 1, 2 and 3, and Thomas Cook is to open its second office in Terminal 4. Exchange rates will not vary by more than 1 per cent from high street bank rates, and fixed commission will be no more than £15. In the year ending March 1992, 42 million passengers used Henthrow, the world's busiest international airport. Of these, 28 per cent were British-based business travellers, and 23 percent were foreign business travellers.

At one time sirlines and passengers complained that BAA ignored their demands. Sir John Egan, the chief executive, has now set out the new policy: "We are seriously committed to being a world leader in standards of customer service. BAA is very firmly a customer-driven business, and all our activities are in response to what our customers tell us they want."

Gatwick is trying to raise its profile among business travellers, particularly those in its catchment area who would find it easier to use the airport yet fly from Heathrow. About 20 per cent of Gatwick's passengers are on business, attracted perhaps by the rail link to Victoria and the range of nearby hotels offering business and conference facilities.

Next month, Gatwick starts "Fast-Track", giving priority treatment to travellers in first and business class. The service will offer dedicated security and passport control, desks at Traveler and Thomas Cook bureaux de change for collecting pre-ordered foreign currency, and "Fast Track" check-out tills in duty-free shops. Gatwick hopes passengers will save up to 30 minutes on short tips and 45 minutes on the long hauls.

atwick is also close to completing improvements to its domestic facilities, costing about £1 million, which will provide larger gate lounges for Air UK, Dan-Air and Aer Lingus.

The airport has linked with leading travel agents to give incentives. Wagons-Lits, the business travel specialist, will provide anybody booking flights from Gatwick with:

Free upgrades from standard to first class on the Gatwick Express.

● A free Apex ticket with Dan-Air when booking a Class Eline return flight.

Free car valet and parking with all Virgin Atlantic Mid-Class flights.
Free accommodation at the Gatwick Hilton when flying

Continental Arrines first or business class.

• Free hotel room upgrade when staying at selected Best Western Hotels in European destinations:

Free use of BA club lounge with all BA full-fare world traveller tickets.

● Free car-hire upgrades with Europear... ● A £5 saving when spending £30 or more at Gatwick duty-free and tax-free shops.

Stansted is competing by offering a 20-minute check-in time, a short-stay car park, coach and railway stations three minutes from check-in, and a half-hourly service to and from London.

BA spends £100m to pull the customers

Dritish Airways is spending £100 million on "Club World", a campaign to woo business travellers, Harwey Elliott writes. The airline has seen a drop in its yield—the amount spent perpassenger—as companies have ordered executives to travel economy ruther than business class.

The airline aims to prove it can offer a service so good that business travel managers will be willing to pay the extra to ensure that their staff arrive in good shape.

Airline offers comfort to people escaping the office

More than £70 million of the money will be spent on improved seating and entertainment, new lounges and a complete refurbishment of the interior

When Club World was introduced five years ago it set new standards of comfort and service but has now been copied by almost every rival airline. BA believes that business people in the 1990s want to use their journeys to escape the stress of the office. The airline has therefore changed the Club World scats so that passengers can sleep in comfort.

For those who do not want to sleep, there is a new eight-channel video system providing a constantly updated selection of films.

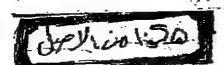

Airport lounges have been redesigned, to provide a hotel-like atmosphere.

The Swedes have grown in the ir own backyard.

(We can now take you to Umea, Lulea and Maimö.)

Transwede now connects to three new destinations in Sweden. And unlike some other carriers, you arrive on the airline you took off with. With us, you change aircraft at Stockholm, not airlines. So you carry on experiencing a standard of service way beyond anyone else. Transwede. We're growing bigger by staying better. Call your travel agent or 071-706 2778/2520.

TRANSWEDE

From karaoke kits to faxes, hotels are relying on technology to entice guests, Marion Cotter reports

A song at bedtime

frenetic capital have the ultimate way to unwind at Tokyo's New Otani hotel. They can simply head upstairs with mike, backing music and lyric sheets to croon
My Way and The Green,
Green Grass of Home to the bedroom mirror.

Wooing travellers through the front door with the promises of personal karaoke kits may sound a touch bizarre, but it illustrates how hotels worldwide are harnessing the latest technological tricks to stay ahead of the pack Dual-line telephones, dedicated computer modems and in-room faxes are fast becoming de rigueur among market leaders keen to capture a bigger share of the business travel trade. Ten years ago, a mint on the pillow and a basket of bath-room toiletries said it all. Now, electronic knick-knacks have succeeded such niceties as the 1990s' hotel extras with cachet, and in-house gadgets, rather than creature comforts, could soon dictate where the bulk of the business goes.

Bedside remote controls now enable guests to switch TV channels, turn up the temperature, scroll through multilingual breakfast menus and draw the curtains without stirring from under the sheets. In-room work stations have already become the hallmark of today's pace-setting properties. Far Eastern hotels are not surprisingly in the vanguard of the high-tech hotel revolution. Dynasty Club guests at the New World Harbour View in Hong Kong can now play a laserdisc video while tapping into their laptop PCs or dashing off a fax. Every room is fitted with a Teletext system capable of relaying messages in several languages to other guest rooms, as well as showing up-to-the-minute travel and airline information.

At the nearby Kowloon hotel, an in-room electronic business system acts as the monitor for desiston word-processors.

reports, messages and city

In the lobby is an even more valuable piece of high-tech gadgetry: a computerised directory which prints out the address of the customer's next meeting in Chinese characters, ready to hand to the cab

Hotels in Eastern Europe, once the butt of many a derisory joke from guests obliged to cart around their own soap and bathplugs, are now equipped with some of the latest technology, as West-ern chains scramble to gain a foothold in what looks set to be the biggest growth market of the 1990s.

ush-button satellite TV. in-room computer modems and business centres able to translate contracts at the drop of a hat are quite common in the luxurious new crop of joint-venture properties coming on stream in Moscow, Prague and Warsaw. Hotels in Western Europe are not being left behind in the race to install the latest computer wizardry. Newly refur-hished rooms at Forte Crest's network of 28 UK hotels have modems for laptop PCs, auto check-out facilities and free satellite TV. Copthorne plans to double the size of its European portfolio by 1995. The chain's new Stattgart hotel, due to open late next year, will boast an 1,800-seat auditorium in addition to a 2,000 sq metre sports com-plex, and executive rooms fitted with the latest user-friendly technology. Technology is also being used to tighten hotel security. Digital safes, video watchdogs and electronic key cards reprogrammed for each guest are now in use in many leading properties to make visitors less vulnerable to break-ins.

Whether tomorrow's hotel guests tire of pushbutton living and will start to yearn for good old-fashioned home comforts remains to be seen.

Do not disturb: a fully-equipped office in a business suite at the Copthorne Tara hotel in Kensington, west London

Unlike holidaymakers, business travellers must find their own insurance

hen you book a holi-day, most travel agents will automat-ically offer you an insurance Make it a policy to get cover

policy. With some tour opera-tors, the insurance may even be obligatory. Regular busi-ness travellers rarely encounter such determined efforts to sell them a policy. Whereas agents provide around 90 per cent of holidaymakers with insurance, most specialised busi-ness travel policies are sold directly by insurers or brokers.
Pickfords Business Travel is one of the exceptions among travel agents. It sells around 400 specialist business policies a year, either to individuals or to companies holding ac-counts. Both Hogg Robinson and Thomas Cook used to sell cover individual trips are availnow offer only the standard able from brokers.

travel to the US at least 15 times a year between them, its Annual Protection Plan at

But most specialist business there was no market for it. policies, like that offered by Larger companies make their Pickfords, are annual policies own arrangements with insureither sold to companies along ers, or self-insure, and smaller with all their other insurance businesses are just as happy with a high quality all-round arrangements or sold to individual employees to cover them for the whole year. travel policy for each trip." said Bob Clark, insurance manag-Crispin Speers & Partners er at Thomas, Cook. estimates that if five employees

If a business traveller is not satisfied with a normal holiday travellers do not have to worry about insurance every time they go away," said David Stirling, a director. Annual policies are either adjustable or non-adjustable.

£520 would save them money. The other advantage is that and premiums usually depend on the geographical zones covered. With adjustable policies, policyholders estimate the number of journeys beforehand and then pay more or receive a rebate when the total is calculated at the end of the year. Non-adjustable policies either have a pre-arranged limit on the number of jour-

Taking trains to market

Rail managers are turning to promotions to reverse their losses

nterCity, the national passenger network, is confronting one of the most formidable marketing challenges faced by rail managers, as it struggles to make ends meet during the worst eco-nomic downturn since the Great Depression. It is now having to explore new ways of enticing passengers back on to the railways, in a desperate attempt to halt, if not reverse, the accelerating tide of Fighting the recession suc-cessfully, at least as far as InterCity is concerned, has become a matter of commer-cial survival. With InterCity's operating surplus slashed to £2 million, down from the £49 million registered last year and income expected to fall by a further £50 million by the end of the current financial year, managers are going to have to pull off some pretty motional schemes if the network is to remain in the black for the fifth successive year.

With little room left for costcutting, it is clear that most management effort will focus on rail travel promotions designed to bring about substan-tial increases in both business and leigne travel.

With the introduction of the winter timetables on September 28, InterCity launched a direct mailshot to the estimated 200,000 business executives on the company's database. This gives details of an offer that business executives will find hard to refuse. By buying a first-class ticket, passengers will be entitled to a voucher enabling two people to travel first-class for the price of one at the weekend. In addition, InterCity will be giving away complimentary copies of the latest John Grisham novel. The Firm, in an effort to highlight the comfort and relaxing nature of rail

From November, InterCity plans to boost the appeal of rail travel by extending the range of offers to include discounts ANA NICHOLLS | on hotels and theatre and opera tickets, in the hope of generating extra business. The package of travel incentives will be accompanied by a series of television advertisements made by Saatchi & Saatchi, aimed at a wide national audience.

In touch: many trains are equipped with telephones

Also to be extended — for a further 12 months — is the InterCity-Boots promotion, which offers customers spending £5 or more in Boots shops a voucher enabling two people to travel on longer-distance journeys for the price of one. Unveiling InterCity's new plans to boost rail travel, Chris Green, the network's managing director, said last month: There are limits to how much we can achieve by cutting costs while delivering a high-quality rail network. But InterCity is determined to fill empty seats and win back lost income."

The package of promotions embraces a variety of extra travel incentives, including upgraded catering facilities, tele-phone ticket sales, and additional staff to help passengers at key stations. Some observers see in all this an attempt by InterCity managers to sharpen their entrepreneurial skills before embarking on a management buy-out under the government's rail privatisation plans.

MICHAEL DYNES

the reason

Four major tasks confront airline companies in air travelling today: Reliability... Precision... Service and Comfort.

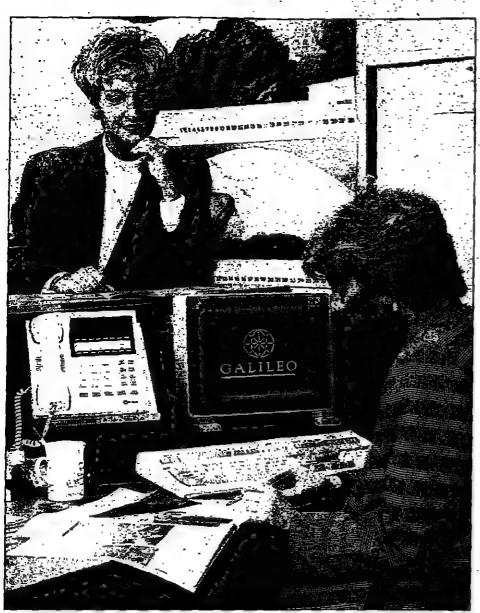

At Turkish Airlines, we believe that we are well equipped with all the necessary factors to meet these challenges carefully. And what's more; we're full of goodwill...ambition and enthusiasm to be one of the best airlines in Europe.

With this goal in mind, we are constantly in the process of improvement...introducing new services like the Company Club program and Business Class programs where we offer first class service. Our Frequent Flyer program has already become highly reputable among our passengers.

Our wide-spread network owns a large and young fleet of modern Airbus (A-310) and latest Boeing (737-400) which enable you to reach 68 destinations from Turkey to the world... and from the world to Turkey. We provide non-stop flights as well as perfectly coordinated connections to over 250 cities around the world. Whatever your destination is; you can always find a suitable and convenient schedule to make the most of your day. Turkish Airlines is on the move and maybe that's one of the reasons why more and more people are flying with us lately.

Tickets react smartly

On line: the introduction of automatic tickets will benefit passengers and the airlines which will be able to cut turnaround time for aircraft

Delays at airport check-ins should soon be cut, reports Steve Keenan anid developments in "smart" airline tickets are under way to ease the passage of executives through congested airports. The tickets should save 50 minutes on a 747's present turnaround time of four and a half hours.

The number of automated tickets has consistently risen in recent years: some 76 per cent of the 15 million issued in Britain last year were printed out by a computer-reservation system. The other 24 per cent were hand-written. But while automation makes transactions quicker for the travel agent, it has not helped the customer to get on a plane any faster. Next month, however, this should be revolutionised. Britain's biggest computer reservation system, Galileo, will start testing the Automatic Ticketing and Boarding Pass (ATB 2) through a business travel agency outside London. The ATB 2 is similar to a standard ticket but has a magnetic strip on the back. At check-in, the airline will scan this and, as fewer key-strokes will be required, check-in time should be reduced by about 12 seconds. This may not sound much, but it is a considerable saving when there is a big plane to fill.

The first waving of the ATE

The first version of the ATB ticket has been widely used in America, but Britain is the first country to test the new type. British Airways has led the field. Its Eurohub airport at Birmingham is the world's first to be fully geared for the ticket's introduction. While Galileo will launch the ATB 2 to travel agencies, BA has already been issuing it in its own reservations offices. The airline has also set itself a schedule of introducing the equipment in its terminals worldwide. Paris was linked in June, followed by Heathrow's Terminal 4 in July. Other airports and airlines will coulciby follows.

BA and Galileo staff are working side by side on the project. Carl Holton, Galileo's UK Head of Marketing, said: "This system will replace current tickets, but the key benefit should be to enter the airport terminal and get on a plane sooner. That will only happen, however, where airlines deploy ATB-readers."

ATB-readers."

For IATA agents and airlines, the system is all about improving service and stream inning the accounting systems. Only airlines or IATA agents can issue tickets, and the two work closely together, linked by the computer reservation system. The majority of Britann's 3,500 IATA agents are linked to a computer reservation system, and of the three main such networks Galileo is by far the most common in agencies.

With worldwide passenger numbers expected to double by 2000, there is a constant wish to make access to flights easier, without sacrificing security. Already technicians are working on fingerprint, voiceprint and even retina identification.

In safe hands: the St John Ambulance Aeromedical wing provides repatriation for the ill

Avoid the health trap

Heading for foreign parts? A few basic precautions can ensure that a trip is not spoilt by illness verybody knows the health precautions to take before travelling overseas — or do they? Even regular travellers fall prey to overconfidence. Inoculation and similar prophylactic measures are now available against diseases including polio, tetamus, typhoid, hepatitis, cholera, yellow fever, tuberculosis and rabies, all of which are endemic in some areas.

Family doctors and health clinics can provide immunisation free or at prescription cost, but they may charge a fee if it is for an overseas visit. How often boosters are needed varies: cholera vaccines, for example, offer protection for six months, while an anti-tetamus jab will not need to be repeated for ten years.

In 1990, according to official figures, nearly 1;500 people in England and Wales contracted malaria, and three died of it. Yet most of these cases were preventable. Various smit-malaria tablets can be bought in pharmacies, but as the mosquito parasite has shown drug-resistance, so advice on which to take has changed. Precautions must continue for a month after returning homes.

returning home.

A free government booklet.

Health Advice for Travellers, contains a wealth of advice and can be ordered from the Health Literature Line (0800 555 777). Information is also updated daily on Prestel, page 50063. The booklet contains an application for form B111. This deals with the entitlement to free or reduced-cost emergency medical treatment in EC states. Other treatment is on the same terms as for nationals of the country, as long as the stay is less than 12 months.

Medical Advisory Services for Travellets Abroad (Masta) maintains a computer datahase and provides up-to-date information at fees starting at £5 for simple immunisation and malaria advice. Information is sent by post or fax, with payment by credit card (tel: 071-631 4408).

For an annual subscription of £32, Masta will keep an individual's immunisation record on computer and send reminders when necessary. For £850 a year, company subscribers can have on-line access to be database 24 bourn

Vaccination and medicines apart, basic hygiene and common sense reduce risks

a day. Data storage costs £20 extra per person.
British Airways Travel Clinics, which give personal callers advice and immunisation, are a franchise operation run by a joint company set up by Masta and BA, called Bamsta. Clinics, many of which operate on Saundays and in the evening are franchised mainly to GPs, private hospitals, health care groups and health authorities. To date, Bamsta has 31 clinics. For details telephone 071-831 5333 (but medical advice is not given over the phone).

Bamsta clinics also offer companies a central billing system, for which there is no joining fee, so that employees need not pay individually for vaccines.

Vaccination and medicines apart, basic hygiene and common sense reduce risks. Keep arms and legs covered in the evening when mosquines are at their biting best; use repellent and mosquito nets. Avoid ice in drinks (although some better-class hotels make it from bottled water). Bottled water is safer, as long as the bottle is sealed. Water starllising tablets are obtainable from most is fac

Aids has highlighted the dangers of contaminated blood and unsterilised needles, although hepatitis B is transmitted similarly. A number of sterile packs are available. At £13.50, for example, Masta's medical equipment pack includes syringes, needles (including dental and drip needles), suhare, skin closures, dressing, swabs and blood group label. Its emergency dental pack (£7.85) also has a sterile needle for anaesthetics.

Travel medical insurance schemes are intensively competitive and offer varying degrees of cover, including air ambulance and repatriation. Here, the small print is important. Cover can be bought independently from travel agents and health insurance companies, or as add-ons to existing UK health insurance, which may offer limited cover overseas. Most subscribers to Bupa and, Private Patients' Plan are covered for emergency repatriation. Both, however, have a competitively priced travel plan to "top up" normal covers.

British embassies and consuls can give advice on local hospitals and doctors. For the seriously ill or injured, an emergency telephone number is included with insurance policies. Those who return home apparently healthy but then develop unusual symptoms should always tell their doctor where they have been.

PAT BLAIR

1 4 1

Now when you fly Malaysia Airlines First Class you can choose who sits next to you.

When you purchase a First Class* return from Heathrow to Malaysia or Singapore with Malaysia Airlines, you can take someone else along free.

Someone you know will lend an ear. Not bend your ear.

This exceptional offer includes the first two nights' accommodation for the price of one at Kuala Lumpur's newest and most exclusive hotel, the Istana.

It's our way of ensuring that you relax and enjoy all the comforts of First Class travel and accommodation.

The offer runs for travel commencing October 1st 1992 to March 31st 1993,

by which time the outward journey to Kuala Lumpur or Singapore must have been taken.

Passengers must reserve their tickets at the same time and travel out together but may return separately.

Malaysia Airlines flies daily nonstop from Heathrow to Kuala Lumpur with convenient connections to major destinations in the Far East and Australia.

Now with our two for one offer, Malaysia Airlines First Class has to be your first choice. For more information call your favourite travel agent > or Malaysia Airlines on 081 862 0800.

"Valid on full fare tickets purchased in the UK only.

Even greater choice from SAA.

South African Airways have introduced additional flights from the UK including an extra service from London Heathrow and direct flights from Manchester to provide you with even more choice when flying to South Africa.

You can now fly from as little as £3,902 (First Class return), £1,835 (Business Class return) or £590 according to season (Super Pex Silver Class return) on SAA's direct services to Johannesburg, Durban or Cape Town with special 50% discount spouse fares in Gold and First.

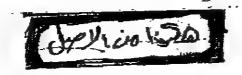

Once you've arrived our great connections to 27 destinations throughout Southern Africa and the Indian Ocean Islands and our special hotel and car hire deals mean that SAA really are No.1 for service and value.

No one knows Southern Africa better

For wave details call your travel agent or your neasure SAA office: 251-259 Regent Street, London WIR 7AD Tel: 071-734 9841. 1 St. Ann Street, Manchester MZ 7LG Tel: 061-834 4436. 14 Waterloo Street, Binningham B2 5TX Tel: 021-643 9605. 85 Buchanam Street, Glasgow G1 3HF Tel: 041-221 0015.

No.1. No Wonder

ACCOUNTANCY TIMES

ASB faces hard race against the incoming tide of takeovers

The Accounting

Standards Board is facing a busy autumn keeping up

THE Accounting Standards Board is about to start its long hot autumn, when a string o controversial directives, drafts and papers will finally dispel the remaining air of harmony that has surrounded its activities. Far from pushing companies and auditors too fast, however, the new accounting authorities will be hard pressed to maintain the pace of reform fast enough to cope with the expected new spate of Accounting practices are al-ready a significant factor be-hind the offers that have suddenly enlivened the stock market. Those immediately raised are high on the board's

Shares in Trafalgar House, the construction engineering conglomerate, languished as much because the City came to distrust its accounting policies as over its underlying trading difficulties. When Hongkong Land launched a render offer Land launched a tender offer for shares, Trafalgar's board revealed that it had been negotiating with the Financial Reporting Review Panel since February over its auditor-approved accounts for the year to

It was criticised at the time mainly for the treatment of writedowns on property valtaken on the balance sheet, but not through the profit and loss account. To complicate matters further, current assets must be written down to the lower of cost and market values whereas investment valua-

with company bids end September 1991.

tions can take a longer view. Ranks Hovis McDougall, the target of a cash offer from

Plenty to say: David Tweedie, chairman of the Accounting Standards Board enthusiasts for putting the value of brands on its balance sheet, including home-grown These intangible assets made up 58 per cent of shareholders' funds in RHM's last accounts. At the other end of the same takeover bid, some commentators have suggested that one of the attractions of RHM to Hanson is that it could raise reported profit quickly by writ-ing down the "fair value" of assets acquired, in the timehonoured, and generally practiced, ways of acquisition accounting. David Tweedie, chairman of the ASB, will have something to say on all these issues between now and Easter. The first big event will be the issue of FRS3, the new profit and loss account standard, at the end of this month.

The guts of the draft directive that first saw the light in FRED! have remained intact, though some amendments have been made and the final version has yet to be approved.

misleading simplicity of earn-ings per share. Many City folk still hanker after a single number to use in all manner of ratios and statistical manipulations, bringing a late suggestion that the accounting figure might instead be called net income.

Introduction of a compul-sory statement of overall gains and losses could be just as sig-nificant. This dilutes incentives to treat the p/l account more kindly than the balance shareholders' funds. FRS3 is unlikely to become compulsory for year-ends before the middle of next year, but should immediately become the norm. The timing of voluntary take-up is critical since myriad companies big and small that report on the calendar year will have "ex-traordinary" items this year as a result of the recession. Next to be rolled out should be a draft standard on sophisticated financial instruments, sorting out what will be treated as debt and equity. Just before or after Christmas, the exposure draft on off-balance sheet finance should finally be published, complete with compromises emerging from the debate on the treatment of securitisation, where the board's original ideas conflicted with international bank solvency

The ensuing standard, unlikely to be operative much before the end of 1993, will build on the tighter definitions of subsidiaries in FRS2 and will respond to the alarming revelations of off-balance-sheet debt or obligations emerging, for instance, from ailing property companies.

The trickiest issues will be and then only at the first stage on the way to reform. A discussion draft attempting to close the black hole of acquisition accounting will propose much tougher rules for provisions against assets of acquired companies. Separately, the board will propose removing the choice between merger and acquisition accounting techniques. Around Easter another initial paper on good-will and brands should peer nervously into what promises to be hostile daylight. But these are unlikely to lead to compulsory standards before spring 1994, so accountants have plenty of time to be creative if , as is likely, there is a surge of bids next year.

Fast forward the blue-blanket video

ne of the great advantages of the video recorder is that if you manage to record a programme not only have you not missed it, but you also don't have to watch it either. Two birds are killed with one stone. You gain the freedom of choosing when to watch something but, more important, you are also guilt-free should you decide never to watch it.

Quite where this leaves the weekly "Busi-ness Account" programme from Accountancy Television is hard to see. For the first time the financial core of business which most business television programmes ignore has it own slot. But if you failed to tape the second of the week-ly programmes on BBC I in the early hours of today then that's it. You've missed it. As from next week the hour's-worth of news and training is scrambled and unless you come up with a large amount of cash and subscribe you will now have missed your chance. The idea of a weekly hour of accountancy training programmes being commercially successful is difficult to grasp. Most ac-countants spend a lifetime trying to avoid training. And most accountants also avoid videos. At least one of the people extolling the value of Accountancy Television on its preview tape happily says in private he has yet to watch the golfing video his wife gave him last Christmas. But the professional accountancy bodies, the BBC and BPP, the business training group, think otherwise. Especially the accountancy bodies. The English ICA has chipped in £350,000 in a year it pleaded it was going bust during its subscription battle with members. The certified accountants have put in £250,000, the management accountants in £250,000, the management accommans £100,000 and the Scots and Irish ICAs £25,000 apiece. For a profession that is usually fairly canny with its cash that is a lot of training videos. In public they will tell you the research suggests a huge untapped market. In private they argue they had no choice. If the service was a success and they hadn't been big investors their members would have given

This gives problems for the programme producers. The accountancy bodies have never had a hands-off approach to their media offshoots. There have been times at the English ICA when if a president thought his wife's recipe for bread and butter pudding was of wider interest, then Accountancy would be under pressure to publish it. There are signs this process has been brought to bear. When the preview tape was shown at the certified accountants' annual conference last month there was uproar. No one argued over what was shown. What they wanted to know was why not one certified accountant had been asked to strut his stuff before the cameras. So it came as no surprise in the first full programme to find the top story in the news section was what David Bishop, the certified's president, had said about the future of the small company audit at the conference. And they got to be top of the bill in the list of consortia members in the credits as well.

The other problem is how far the pro gramme can resolve its dilemma between news, which is fun and is sexy, and training modules, which is how people can justify paying anything between £750 and £10,000 a year to watch it. The training sections are good and are just what training partners in the large firms will love. It backs up everything they believe in. Sadly for Accountancy Tele vision no one has ever let training partners get a hold of a firm's budget. There is also competition here from the established service provided on a rather more manageable monthly basis by The Accountants' Education Channel produced by TEN, the television education network. The due to accountancy on television and its commercial salvation is probably to be found in the most notable wide-screen portrayal of an accountant in the cinema's history. This was Gene Wilder in Mel Brook's The Producers. Wilder played the terrified and terribly straight accountant gradually falling into the fun of a huge scam being perpetrated by his new employer on backers of an improbable theatrical venture. At times of high stress, Wilder's accountant character would gibber quietly to himself while clutching a small piece of material referrred to as "my blue blanket". This was his security blanket. Accountants like them. More than 11,000 people have requested brochures about Accountancy Televison. About 60 per cent were in industry. These are people in small companies who provide their board's only source of advice on finance and accountancy. And they are terrified of not knowing the score on whatever the latest accounting wheeze is. The result may well be the training video as blue blanket. And like so much in this field it will be bought to be filed rather than used. As I said, the whole point of videos is not watching them.

The author is Associate Editor of Accountancy Age

Stranded on the road to a Euro standard

EUROCRATS in the European Commission are not the only denizens of Brussels disorientated at the possible derailing of the Maastricht

Staff at the Federation des Experts Comptables Europeens (Fee), that represents 300,000 accountants in western Europe, are also wondering what happens next.

From its offices in the Rue des la Loi. Fee traces its origins back to 1951 and prides itself on being more Europeanminded than most John Heggarty, the Irish secretarygeneral, emphasised: "There's nothing anyone can teach us about commitment to the European ideal." Ideals are one thing, reality is another and as Mr Heggarty con-cedes: Twenty-seven years after the signing of the treaty of Rome, a common market for accountancy services has still not been achieved."

An important part of Fee's. job is to be a conduit for accountants in member states to the commission itself. But that conduit often has to cope with downpours swirling in different directions. So the events of last week have not helped. With subsidiarity now the key buzz word, it looks as if the moves Fee wanted on common standards and a common approach to qualifications will be given low

"Let's just say we'll be making less hasty progress," Mr Heggarty said. "We've got 12 could have the result of widen-

As an example of this, he suggests the drive towards the "independent auditor" (i.e. separating auditing from management consultancy services), that seemed likely not so long ago, will now be promoted with much less vigour.

the Community itself. "There's a lot of mad ideas

Fee claims to be a useful sounding board for the EC in its review of accountancy matters. "We're a consensus body." Mr Heggarty said. "That is why we are treated seriously." Unfortunately, running Fee can sometimes be as frustrating a job as running different regulatory systems and the status quo is certainly not a single market. What's happened in the last few days ing the regulatory-gap between countries."

come from places other than Brussels, you know," Mr Heggarty said, "and my experience on the single market is that bad ideas drive out good". Not so long ago, for example, there was a notable internal row that left everyone in Fee with egg on their face. Keen to promote good accountancy practice in eastern Europe, the EC invited Fee to put together a training and education programme for Bulgaria. With 2.4 million ecus (£3.03 million) on the table.

Fee set to work with a will. Unfortunately, rivalry be-tween British and French accountants over whose methods should be adopted caused the project to stumble. While Fee officials tried to pull their warring members apart, the commission looked on with growing impatience. In the end, the commission announced that it could stand no more of this wrangling and, to Fee's deep embarrassment, cancelled the contract.

Fee's officials are now licking their wounds over the Bulgarian debacle. The withdrawn money is likely to be spent elsewhere and eastern European accountancy practice has had a serback. In the meantime, Fee is anxious to push on with mutual recognition of qualifications turning the concept to reality with emphasis on pro-viding cross-border accountancy services.

EDWARD FENNELL

AETIERS...

When audits are superfluous

From Mr Peter Taylerson Chartered Association of Certified Accountants has three times recently voiced in your columns the necessity, on grounds of public protection, of statutory audit of small companies. He says "those who choose to have the protection of limited liability should accept this consequence. He continues to ignore the cost, during audit, of ensuring compliance with sections of the companies acts which are in practice irrelevant to noncommercial companies. Many of these have incorporated not to gain the protec-tion of limited liability but to become a legal person able to keep an enduring interest in land while having constant membership changes. They include residents' associations, allotment societies, sports clubs and flat-owners' co-operatives that own a freehold and maintain the building. This number must vastly increase when leasehold reform is extended under the present government's programme. Their auditors have plenty of more important tasks in the development of commerce and their members' pockets are un-necessarily tapped to pay for these otiose responsibilities. Nobody except these many but unco-ordinated companies seems to care or notice. Over to Mr Bishop and the DTI.

Yours faithfully. PETER TAYLERSON, Little Dene Maintenance Ltd. Little Dene, Lodore Road, Newcastle upon Tyne.

ACCOUNTANCY & FINANCE

AMBITIOUS GRADUATES

PROFESSIONALS

Aged 21+ required by expanding company based

in Mayfair. 920,000 OTE -

Management Opportunities Only career minded people may apply

Call: NEIL BARNETT OIL

071-287-2777 (Mayfair)

Operational Audit Senior – Europe

ROBERT

BRUCE

Progressive career development role in technology driven multinational group.

Based Northern Home Counties £ Negotiable + Car

Parker Hannifin Corporation is a technology driven U.S. multi-national manufacturing group with annual sales exceeding $2.3 billion. It is a worldwide leader in its specialist field. The group has grown both organically and by acquisition and currently has 55 operations throughout the wider European region. International operations are centred in the UK which serves as a base for its highly effective operational audit team.

Reporting to the Manager of Internal Audit - Europe, and working in a complex environment, this position will have responsibility for planning and executing operational audits and special projects throughout the region. The Audit Senior will also be expected to develop lines of communication and maintain a knowledge of developments in the various European operations.

Applicants must have previous exposure to manufacturing and be commercially aware

ACA's who have recently qualified in a big six environment or ACCAs/CIMAs with relevant experience. Fluency in a European language is desirable, although a conversational ability and willingness to develop language skills further is acceptable. Confidence and personal credibility are

This opportunity offers extensive European travel, excellent commercial experience and career development into a variety of operational roles.

For further details and to arrange an interview, contact our consultant Tim Sandwell at Barclay Simpson Associates, Hamilton House, 1 Temple Avenue, Victoria Embankment, London EC4Y 0HA. Telephone 071-936 2601.

GPG jumps the gun

COMPANIES are usually attacked for failing to apply accounting standards. GPG. the former Guinness Peat group, where Sir Ron Brierley is in charge, has been rapped over the knuckles by the Financial Reporting Review Panel for anticipating the abolition of extraordinary items. It unilaterally implemented FRED1 last year. The Panel says: "the substitution of the proposed requirements of an exposure draft for those of an existing accounting standard is not acceptable", but will take no action as FRED I is at last about to turn into a standard. You guessed it. GPG'5 net extraordinary items were positive, so anticipating events more than dou-

ANY CHAETER ISINESS

bled the company's reported smaller building societies to pre-tax profits and earnings

Merger fever ANYONE wondering when the long expected wave of building society mergers is going to break need look no further than to Kidderminster, Worcestershire. David Cory, an expert on the subject, has been taken on by the local offices of Clarke Whitehill. "There have been more take overs than mergers so far." says Cory, 47, who joins from Burman & Co, a small part-nership in Redditch, and is well known in Midiands business circles. "I don't think there is much pressure on merge in the short term. It is

On to a winner

THE market for financial services and investment business arising from the accountancy and legal professions could soar from £150 million to £2.5 billion a year. So says Tony Granger of the London Consalting Group, who has pub-lished a guide for accountants and solicitors looking to get ahead. Only 6,000 out of 14,000 UK firms are authorised to conduct investment business and Mr Granger says an average 300-client practice could add £1.5 million to its bottom line by advising on personal and corporate financial planning. The guide is endorsed by Godfrey Jill-ings. Fimbra chief executive.

Time keeper

CYNICS who think accountants live for schedules and paper-work need look no further than Don Williams, a trainee with Stoy Hayward in London. Williams, 22, took part in the Barcelona Olympics as a member of the British hockey team. And if he did not return with a gold medal, he at least has something to show for his efforts: a wad of filofaxes. Team members were given a lecture by TMI, a training consultancy, on managing their time, and Williams is rarely seen now without a bulging diary.

JON ASHWORTH

Required for fast growing foods manufacturing company 40 miles outside London. The successful candidate will be a qualified accountant with considerable experience of producing management accounts and full financial accounts, ideally within a manufacturing environment. The post holder will be required to liase wih the Company's auditors and to take full reponsibility for management of the Accounts Department. The Financial Director is a vital member of the Copmany's executive committee and will thus play a full part in the future growth and success of the Company. Enthusiam and general business acumen are essential qualities for this post. An MBA degree would be highly desirable. Salary according to experience.

FINANCIAL DIRECTOR

Apply to Box No 4050

FINANCIAL CONTROLLER £25-£28,000 (Kent)

Market Leading Co require a Qualified with indepth systems experience and strong supervisory skills. You ne responsibility for mar accounts preparation. Along with the implementation of systems & controls, your commercial experience gained within a manufacturing environment will allow you to take an active part in marketing strategy.

Call Carel Councily at Selected Accounts Personnel 081 466 1616 (24 hrs R. Cons)

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON EXAMINATIONS & ASSESSMENT COUNCIL

Finance Officer

This challenging post is in an organisation with an annual turnover in excess of £22 million, which was formed by the amalgamation of two existing examining bodies. The Finance Officer will be expected to play a leading role within the organisation and be responsible for the provision of financial management and advice on policy at a senior level together with setting up new systems for accounting and financial control.

Applicants for the post should have a relevant accountancy qualification, several years' experience, including some at a more senior level in a commercial environment and possess drive, initiative, enthusiasm, good communication skills, and the ability to deal effectively with staff at all levels.

Salary on the scale £21,676 - £25,719 (under review) per annum plus London Allowance of £2,134 per annum.

For further information please contact Miss J. Slater, Personnel Officer, Stewart House, 32 Russell Square, London WC1B 5DN, telephone 071 331 4004, to whom letters of application together with a curriculum vitae should be returned by 23 October 1992.

SPORTS LETTERS

The price of violence

From Mrs P. Tucker Sir, The participation of Vinny Jones in a video giving advice on DIY soccer thuggery (report, October 1) offers the Football Association a heavensent opportunity to take a very public stand against violence on and off the pitch. Jones should get not a fine, not suspension, but a life-long ban from playing professional football in this country.

There would undoubtedly be many objections. His club would complain that it was being penalised for something it did not authorise; others would say it was much too heavy a punishment for a few foolish words. But this video has attracted considerable publicity. It encourages would-be football thuggettes to believe that anything goes, so long as you're not caught. It shows how little football stars care about getting into trouble with the FA. Finally, Jones is not just a stupid lad who talks too much: his fouls and violence are notorious and repeated and he is not merely unrepentant but boastful about it.

The advantages of making an example of him are that others who might be tempted to behave like him would be aware that they, too, might suffer exemplary punishment and would be less likely to take a chance on it; dubs would take account of a footballer's record of misbehaviour when considering how much (and even whether) to pay in transfer fees and might look to impose heavy contractual pensuspended or banned; and the notion that talent alone allows you to behave as impertinently and badly as you like would be sharply slapped down. So will the FA make a real example of Jones? I wouldn't bet on it. Yours faithfully. P TUCKER. 7 Cedar Terrace. Hartley Wintney,

From Mr N. Haugh Sir, I feel very sorry for Vinny Jones. He has merely demonstrated on video some behaviour comparable to that which John McEnroe has been get-ting away with on court for years, near here and elsewhere. Which of the two has brought his sport into greater Yours faithfully. NORRIS K. HAUGH.

Hampshire.

SW20.

Sports Letters may be sent by fax to 071-782 5046. They should include a daytime telephone number.

Defeat betrays several football weaknesses

From Mr D. Warner Sir, David Miller's report on Manchester United's failure at a penalty shoot-out conclusion to a football match of such importance again brought the question of how to finish satisfactorily such games.
In Mr Miller's idea of playing extra-time until a team scores, he suggested that a player be removed every five minutes. I would suggest that at the end of the 90 minutes play, each team's players who have received cautions during the game should be removed. Then, should there be no conclusion, a "half-time" he introduced at 15 minutes and players removed. Losing four players would not be uncommon and then, should another two-per-side be removed after 15 minutes, a seven-a-side game on a full-size pitch would surely provide a winner within 15 minutes. DARREN WARNER,

From Mr M. A. Thomas Sir, David Miller (October 1) quite properly lamented the inferior technical skills of English football players and pointed to the unmistakable truth that many players do not even know which part of the ball to kick to make it behave in a particular way.

Very few English coaches provide any instruction on how to kick a ball. As a Yorkshire schoolboy in the early Seventies, I attended coaching courses for the regional and county under-19 teams. They were all excellent in their ractical coment, but I seldom saw any attempt to improve ball skills either by individual tuition or collective practice. The attitude was, and remains, that practice does not make perfect, that some are born with skill and some are not. And so English footballers do not practice; they 'train" to make themselves fit and strong for the battles ahead. They regularly finish training at around lunch-time and thus waste thousands of afternoon hours during their careers when they could be learning how to coax the ball rather than belt it. Sadly, there is little prospect of change. Despite the stark exposure of our technical inferiority at the European championships, I note with dismay body, has asserted effective control over international football competitions without dispute. Uefa's authority and discipline has been exercised many times in recent years.

each time without dispute as it is recognised as being the

the EC bureaucracy in Brussels to consult with Uefa and establish exactly how they have managed to create such an authoritative undisputed role for themselves, as this knowledge would undoubtedly be invaluable to the EC in helping to create a similar role for itself in the political and economic sphere. Yours faithfully.

PAUL CAVE.

NEFER ALAIA

11 Gordon Road,

Carshalton Beeches

Surely, it would be useful for European official body.

that a central part of Graham Taylor's plans to prepare for the World Cup qualifying matches is to get his squad together for fitness appraisals. Apparentiv, he was disappointed at the level of fitness of some of our players in Swe den. Personally, I was disappointed at the performance.

Might I suggest to Graham Taylor that the real lesson of the European championships is that we have to be better with the ball, not embarrassed by it. He should concentrate on improving the players' first touch of the ball and their shooting, dribbling and passing. Then perhaps we might see England players who are not frightened of the ball and we might even see them shoot from outside the box.

If we really want footballers to be comfortable on the ball, then the lead has to come from the top. We need an England manager to publicly encourage skill and invention above fitness and tactics. I doubt that it will be Mr Taylor. Yours faithfully MARK A THOMAS. 4 Ash Mount, Doncaster Gate.

Tactical ploy

10 Bull Road, E15.

From Mr P. Denza Sir. Uefa's decision to award the Leeds v Stuttgart match to Leeds 3-0, because of an excess of foreigners in the Stuttgart squad, sets a dangerous precedent and introduces a new tactic to European

From now on, a team winning a first leg by four goals need only name four foreigners in their squad for the second leg to guarantee a 3-0 defeat and hence progress to the next round. Yours faithfully. PAUL DENZA 85 Redlington Road.

From Mr P. Cave and Mr N. Alaīa Sir. Once again Uefa, the European football governing

Vote of thanks

From Mr A. Robson Sir, Your racing correspondent is unjustified in saying that the lack of an explanation for the Maktoum decision not to buy at this week's Tattersall sales is 'inconsiderate, to say the least October 1). Although the Maktoum brothers have invested heavily in the British bloodstock industry over the last few years, this does not mean they are obliged to make public their reasons not to buy this week. (even if it is a protest at the government's unbelievable impotence in dealing with the crisis in British racing today) for, as major owners, they should be entitled to some privacy. What is regrettable in racing today is that the Maktoum brothers receive precious little thanks for the benefits they have brought to racing since their involvement began in the early Eighties. Yours faithfully, ALEXANDER ROBSON,

Two solutions

From Mr J. Dutton

Sir, In the report of a 281b 40z fish (October 2) which, if it is not deemed to be a salmon, could break the rod-caught sea trout record by 51b 12oz, the element of initial doubt about its proper classification may come as a surprise to fishermen familiar with 'Salmon Fishing' in the Lonsdale Library series. Eric Taverner there describes two ready ways of distinguishing between the species. First, since the salmon has protruding knobs at the rear, it can be held up by the tail, whereas a sea trout will slip from the grasp. A second indication is that a salmon normally has 11 scales between the adipose fin and the lateral line of the fish, whereas the sea trout normally has 14.

There is, in 'The Fisherman's Bedside Book" (a fascinating account by Roy Beddington of fishing for the giant sea trout of the River Em in Sweden) the sentence "... within a fortnight, Gavin Clegg has landed the world's record sea trout of 29ths", and in the same work there is mention of another 29-pounder caught in the Orkneys in 1942, but this was apparently not sufficiently authenticated. Yours faithfully, JIM DUTTON. Cockerhurst Tyrrells Wood,

SCHOOLS SPORT

Accurate Downes top of his form

By Carrie Digerron

TIM Downes, the Ellesmere College scrum half, is a man with golden boots. Such is his accuracy that he has been entrusted with 17 kicks at goal in the past five matches and he has put every one over for a personal tally of 56 points. Jim Mostyn, the master-in-charge of rugby at the Shropshire school, said: "We beat Rydall 22-15 and Tim kicked 17 points, some of them coming when we had been pulled back from a 13-0 half time lead to 19-15. He is not a big powerful kicker but practises a lot and strokes the ball over. His distribution is good and he has got us out of a lot of trouble."

Such is Downes's confidence that in the game against Rydall two of his goals were scored from 50 metres out and the ball was still rising when it deared the bar.

Sevenoaks have discovered the posession does not guarantee success after losing 10-7 to Judd School, their local rivals. Mike Williams, the master in charge of rugby at Sevenoaks, enthused about the amount of ball his pack were winning which he rated as the most for four seasons.

Despite the fivent adventurism of the backs, however, Sevenoaks were limited to one long-range try scored by Tom Mannering and the Judd stole the honours with a converted try and a penalty.

Uppingham have benefited from the return of goalkicker Ed Starkie, who missed the whole of last season with a leg injury. They began the new campaign with a 25-0 win over Bishop's Stortford, lost a close match at Rugby 12-10 and last weekend drew 3-3 with Haileybury.

Those last two results carne after an attack of impetigo spread through the forwards and led to the second-team pack being given a chance. The Windsor Boys' School first team have gelled after a round-the-world tour; after four games they are unbeaten but it is the seconds who have really made an impact, scoring 216 points in their first four games and conceding none. Westminster School will hope that a tour can help their team. In just over a week they head for India, where they will play five games in ten days, finishing with a game against Combined Indian Schools at the Polo Ground in

on the Olympic ideal

he Olympic Games are all played out, corrupted and discredited? Just try proposing that here in this little Norwegian town that will host the 1994 Winter Games and is already gripped by Olympic fever.

Every day, in the centre of the town, set on a hill amid mountain farmlands above Lake Mjosa, a T-shirt is auctioned, embossed with the number of days remaining before the Games. Last Wednesday, there were 500 days to go. The T-shirt fetched a record £2,100. The aura attached to the Olympic ideal, the uniqueness of the event never mind the damage from com-mercialism and drugs in recent years, was amply demonstrated in Barcelona and will again be in Lillehammer. So proud are the people that the 200 lapel badges issued on the occasion of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) executive board meeting here in 1991 are now fetching £500 on the street. The Games are transforming this town without, so far, harming its picturesque streets and tranquil Scandinavian approach to life. The sum total of environmental damage so far is the loss of half a dozen private gardens at homes adjoining a new road to the ski jump and Nordic skiing arenas — a road that was scheduled before the award of the Games in 1988.

In an environment-conscious country, attention to detail has been extreme. The ski-iumo runs, for example. in what is a national sport here, have been moulded into the mountainside above the town so that they do not protrude above the treeline. The huge landing apron.

Norwegians go to town which can accommodate 40,000 spectators, will be the stage for the opening and closing ceremonies. The surrounding granite walls are a masterpiece by one of the world's most unusual sculptors, a lone man driving a mechanical shovel who places the individual stones. fixed by gravity alone, with an artist's eye.

The bob and huge runs, a £21 million investment for such a minority of competitors - one which the IOC must surely reconsider. are so carefully moulded into the forest that they are invisible half a mile away.
The ammonia cooling system is leak-proof, protected within underground concrete conductors. The speedskating stadium, at the nearby town of Hamar, was withdrawn 20 yards from the lakeside for the protection of water fowl. And there is acress for the disabled.

At a time of unemploy ment, the Games have created an average 2,000 jobs a year for six years and permanent employment in facility after-use for more than

The £43 million telecommunications centre will become a 1,000-student university. the 1,500-square-metre press centre a housing for light industry. Some may say it is a mixed blessing but the town has its first discreet multi-storey car park, though the main shopping streets remain pedestrian-

There are three new ho tels; the total requirement is for some 32,000 beds, and although 14,000 visitors/-

two and a half hours away, 16.000 beds will be within haif an hour. Trains will run every ten minutes from Oslo and all private cars will be excluded from the town during the Games, with a shuttle bus service provided.

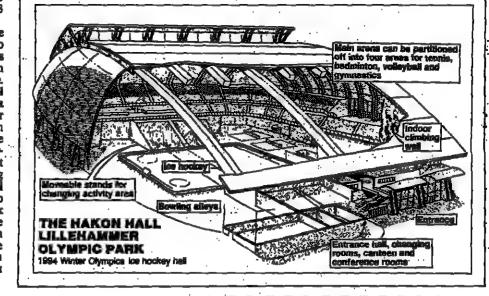

ro Harlera Bruniland, Norway's pre-mier, led the Olympic bid, and so important does the government consider the venture that Lillehammer has an expenditure guarantee of £700 million, even though income not expected to exceed £450 million

Cultural expenditure in-cludes a 750-seat concert hall, a new art gallery, a history exhibition and a Lutheran church.

The Games will bein only as a winter sporting base but in tourism and as a conference centre," Ole Sjetne, whose leadership won the bid, says. Next year already shows 45,000 "convention-night" hotel reservations, and the tourist council is considering a freeinstruction incentive for Nordic ski bolidays.

The showpiece development is the remarkable Hakons Hall, due to open in January, It is a unique £23 million multi-sports indoor stadium, with a canacity of 10,000 and capable of stag-ing ice hockey, basketball, bowling, tennis, indoor climbing, squash, and even a pop concert. Measuring 140 yards by 115, it has a soaring wooden-girder roof that is an engineering

All this, and created by the Olympic movement. Barceiona and now, it would putting the cynics to flight.

ACCOUNTANCY & FINANCE

49 Egerton Gardens,

LEADING SHAREHOLDER VALUE COMPANY EXPANDS

The Alcar Group is a provider of valuation and business planning software, corporate finance education and consulting services. With over 1,500 corporate and banking clients worldwide. Alcar is the recognised leader in the implementation of the shareholder value analysis approach and related software products. Alear now seeks to recuit three professionals for its London office servicing clients in Europe.

In each case, applicants are expected to have excellent presentation and interpersonal skills. Fluency in a second European language would be a distinct advantage.

The successful candidate will be responsible for the identification, and delivery, of credit analysis

ACCOUNT MANAGER - BANKING SERVICES

corporate valuation and bank planning software solutions to financial services clients. He or she should be able to demonstrate relevant experience of bank credit procedures and the use of DCF techniques. Academic qualifications will include a good first degree and preferably so MBA or accounting accreditation. Competitive performance related salary and bonus with equity opportunity. SENIOR ANALYST

The selected candidate will be responsible for the provision of analyses and implementation assistance in support of consulting projects for corporate clients, including banks. Also, he or she will be expected to design and deliver software training for new clients. Experience in DCF analysis and of European accounting regimes is required. The successful candidate will be computer literate and able to model proficiently. Candidates should have a good first degree, preferably having attained a masters degree in finance. Competitive salary offered commensurate with age and experience.

EXECUTIVE SUPPORT

The ideal candidate will be numerate and educated to advanced level. He or she will enjoy the challenge of working in a small office environment and be prepared to work unsupervised and use their own initiative, DTP, spreadsheet, word processing knowledge and good secretarial skills are essential. Competitive salary offered commensurate with age and experience.

Please send a comprehensive letter of application together with a curriculum vitae to:

The Alcar Grosp Limites I there t Here 19A Cavendish Source London, W1M 9AB

LONDON AUDIT MANAGER 236K+CAR+BANK BENS Extremely profitable international investment bank requires an AUDIT MANAGER to plan and schedule work for their cur manus menument to praint and screeding work for their European region and manage an audit team. Ideally a graduate ACA you should have extensive audit experience in a banking environment and be able to demonstrate a strong interest in todays financial market. Excellent career progression into roles in Credit, Treasury, Consulting or Line Management. Ref: 1440

Contact Carole Weedon on 881 877 1121 for tell job description or send in your ov in strictest confidence to: ACCOUNTANCY OPPORTUNITIES
6th Floor
73 Upper Richmond Road
London SW15 23Z

Specialists in Internal/Computer Andit recruits

REGIONAL INTERNAL AUDITOR

Major PLC wish to recruit exp'd Auditors, min 3 yrs. Candidates will have, or be working for manufacturing type national organisations. Aged 30-45, M/F, full D/L. Security/ loss investigations will be required, so Expolice, customs, forces backgrounds are ideal.

Call Ted Shak 081 539 9953 Select Security Reruitment.

BERKELEY MORGAN INDEPENDENT TRAINEE BROKER

OTE £22,000 As one of British's flatest growing and most dynamic alapendent brokerages we currently have openings in our

London, Leeds and Flort office

ncounted applicants will be 23+, ambitious, one and able to furive in a pressure environment nes no cer offer tell training and an excellent 🔾 Call the recruitment officer out LONDON 671 936 2486 LEEDS 0532 434911 FLEET 0252 626263

PQ MANAGEMENT ACCOUNTANTS

(NW Keet)

Control of the state of the stat

Call Carol Connolly at Selected Accounts Personnel 081 466 1616 (24 hrs R. Cons).

Research Librarian

Working long hours within a busy Research environment of a large international finance Company, the main focus of this position will be to provide, develop and maintain a wide range of Company and industry research for staff in London, Europe and Asia. The position will also involve the supervision of other members of library staff on a day to day basis as well as on a more specialised basis such as the supervision and running of Laser-D U.S. Securities and Exchange filings. The ideal candidate should be a graduate with at least five years experience in the industry. They should have extensive experience of Datastream and be proficient with several types of international databases such as Dialog, Datastar and Investext, in addition to PC spreadsheet skills. An excellent knowledge and use of external agencies, contacts and sources of market research/statistical material in both the United Kingdom and Europe is essential to this role. In addition the candidate should be highly numerate, have strong analysis skills and be proficient in account reconciliation methods.

Please send a CV and written details to Box No. 3863.

EIGHT OF THE BEST

An excellent entry point into progressive world-wide Blue-Chip group for a graduate, fully qualified ACA, from a top 10 firm with major international pic audit experience. Technically strong with good PC skills, you will be aged 24-34 ambitious, motivated and confident. RMANCIAL CONTROLLER

An established Brokerage company, entirely institutional clients and a world presence requires a fully qualified ACA with SFA reporting experience to take control of their entire finance function including compliance, reporting, management accounts, payroll sic. A strong, lively personality needed as there is plenty of contact with the dealing floor.

FINANCIAL ANALYST

30.060. TIMENTIAL ANALYST

Approved the chip Pic is seeking EXCEPTIONAL young ACA's to join their Planning / Analysis team. You must have Commercial experience, a 2:1 degree, First time passes and a proven track record. Would suit a high-flyer looking for a second move into a small highly skilled team.

AUDIT MANAGER

AUDIT MANAGER

Based in Johannesberg, reporting directly to London, this major Pic seeks a qualified South African Trained Accountant to head up their African audit team. The position will involve travel to various African countries. Plenty of scope for career progression within this world-wide group. (This is not an Ex-Pat salaried post.)

EUROPEAN OPERATIONAL REVIEW

Reviewing business operations throughout this multinational company. Traveling to 12 European countries. Working as part of a small team you be aged 26-32, a Graduate qualified CPA/ACA or similar with 2-5 years multi-national experience (preferably High-Tech), have a good knowledge of US GAAP, be fully PC literate and fluent in English and one other European language.

RISK MANAGEMENT

We are acting for several clients who are

We are acting for several clients who are seeking to enhance both their internal and external FX risk management capabilities. You will have extensive knowledge of all FX products and derivatives, possess a strong personality, and will probably be a qualified accountant.

COMPANY SECRETARIAL POST
PUBLIC PRACTICE
212-214800
Based in Guildford/Kingston, an excellent opportunity exists for someone with Blue Print software experience.
PUBLIC PRACTICE
NORWICH
212-216,080 A Big 6 firm of Chartered Accountants seeks a graduate with public sector auditing experience. Relevent CVs only

Please contact James Ingram er John Mergae, Dealorder Recruitment, 42 Kingswey, London, WC28 6EX. Tal: 671 485 3555 (Fax 071 405 3568).

CORPORATE REVIEW. INTERNATIONAL BANKING

c£27,000 + banking bens

We are seeking people with energy, drive, and initiative who wish to develop a career with one of the world's foremost banks.

Corporate review for our client is a dynamic and high profile function, which is considered an integral part of their camplex business. The ever changing and diverse unture of their financial products demands a highly professional, independent, and scarching analysis of their junious

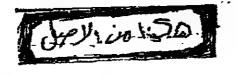

Members of their corporate review team must be expable of imaginative research and consultation on a wide range of banking activities both in London and overseas. Recommendations and findings are personally presented to business managers requiring team members to be always both confident and credible.

To be considered for these positions you must be a recently qualified graduate ACA from a big 6 first or an experienced internal anditor with an excellent track record in a financial services environ

In return for your committment and ability they can offer exciting exceed development along a variety of operational paths.

For further details, or to arrange an interview, please contact Tim Sandwell, Barcley Simpson, Hamilton House, 1 Temple Avenue, Victoria Embankment, London EC4Y 0HA. Telephone 071 936 2601. (evenings 081 741 7146). YOU COULDN'T TALK TO BETTER QUALIFIED SEOPLE.

 BARCLAY SIMPSON -071-936 2601

Double Echo has strong credentials

Newmarket, is entitled to feel confident of winning today's most valuable race, the Allied Dunbar Handicap at York, with Double Echo.

Last time out his useful fouryear-old was a highly credit-able third behind Mellottie and Double Entendre in the Coalite Handicap at Doncaster on St Leger day.

Although Mellottie did not win the Cambridgeshire he still ran well to finish eighth. particularly as the going had turned against him overnight. Double Entendre did even better by snatching third place on the line.

A winner at Brighton in

2.00 Black Mischief.

3.00 Double Echo.

GOING: GOOD TO SOFT

2.00 JOSHUA TETLEY STAKES (2-Y-0 filles: £6,248: 61 214yd) (3 runners)

2.30 AINSTY SELLING HANDICAP (3-Y-0: £4,386: 1m 2f 85yd) (7 runners)

Long Introductor: Stractures 7-6, Dooble Sherry 7-2.

Lecester (1m 4, pood). COSMIC FUTURE 231 2nd ol 4 in Marcus Thomps in a grandion race of Nedfingham flor firms out (1m 21, good). BODGHE BOPPER 11 3nd of 17 to

BETTING: Evens Black Mischiel, 2-1 Startes Morning, 5-2 Great Step

JAMES Bethell, following last March. Double Echo also Saturday's Cambridgeshire at performed well on today's track early in September. That was his first race strice contesting the Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot 11 weeks earlier.

On that occasion he was a close fourth behind Peter Easterby's consistent five-yearold Forever Diamonds, who is now 3lb worse off. Like Double Echo, Forever Diamonds has also upheld in his two subsequent races. Top weight today will be shouldered by En Attendant whose tame effort at Ascot a fortnight ago was all the more disappointing in view of the way that he had won his two previous races.

THUNDERER

4.30 Marius.

DRAW: 6F, LOW NUMBERS BEST

RICHARD EVANS: 3.00 FOREVER DIAMONDS (nap). 4.30 Merius.

1991; SNOW FOREST 8-13 S Cautien (15-8) J Bioming 6 can

FORM FOCUS

BREAT STEPS best Wild Pricess 11 in a 17-numer matrier at Redcar (71, soit). BLACK MAS-CHEF (located Feb 19, cost 54,000) orbits a heaf-sister, by SE Stan Sector to a winner to the stater, by Sales, to Entered Fearm a wiscor of three arces at up to 1m 114yd. Data woo over 5f as a

(5) 4-4000 TROVE 30 F.(3) (D Cooper) Mrs N Marcusley 8-7 Dean Minkform, 60
(3) 53-6205 DAMAGNED WEDDING 13 (Q) Pales C Miller) N Gustom 8-7 W Curson, 83
(1) 050002 COSMIC PUTURE 17 (8-7) (A Alf) S Woods 8-4 W Woods 90
(2) 242303 800002 BOPER 12 Pales G Roustons-Charly M Self 8-7 F Nortion (3) 95
(7) 163305 EDEC OF DARROWESS 41 (D.(4) Selfs S Boston) J Nilse 7-12 D Handson (3) 95
(4) 36353 SHADANZA 10 (B Grainger) A Stringer 7-7 J Quistom
(6) 200 DOUBLE SPERRY 24 (B Lon) R Withhilm 7-7 D Wildow (7)

ONDIO STIERY. 1981: VERMONT MARIC 9-0 & Combino (6-1) Lord Hooliggion 16 and FORM FOCUS

DIAMOND WEDDONS-1141 8th of 15 to Boogly to a backlean at Haydock (Tim 44, good to sold). Previously, 41 2and of 18 to Incom in a handloop of Electer (Tim 24, soid).

COSMIC FUTURE 251 2and of 4 to Marcus Thomps in a graduation seek at Matinopharm learn thomps in a graduation seek at Matinopharm learn thomps in a graduation seek at Matinopharm learn thomps in the color of the Callo in a claimer at Handloon (Tim 34, soid).

Salection: DIAMOND WEDDONG

3.00 ALLIED BUNBAR HAMONCAP (£7,765; 71 202yd) (13 numers)

307 (13) 000110 EN ATTENDANT 14 (D.E.G.) (Store of S Newton) 3 Finatery 4-9-10. S Regional 95 302 (12) 60300 ARANY 20 (D.S.) (No. 7 Kahran) M Templins 5-9-9 P Robinson 98

SETTING: 3-7 Boogle Bopper, 7-2 Edge Of Devicess, 4-1 Statema, 9-2 County Folium, 11-2 Dam 10-1 Trave, 25-1 County Sherry.

Our Newmarket Correspondent: 5.00 Amaam Amaam.

21 GREAT STEPS 12 (D.S) (N Blyth) E Weymas 8-18. BLACK MISCHEF (I. Marinopoules) H Cocil 8-8. SINFRISE MORNING (R Sangstar) P Chapple-Hyan,

2.00 Black Mischlef.

2.30 Edge Of Darkness. 3.00 Forever Diamonds.

that form by finishing second

MICHAEL PHILLIPS

Nigel Tinkler, who became a proud father for the second time earlier this week, will have cause for a second cele-bration if Call Me I'm Blue wins the Tetley Bitter Nursery, as well he may following that victorious debut at Redcar 13

While the race in question was only a seller, Call Me I'm Blue could not have been more impressive, storming home unchallenged by five lengths.

Today's opposition is of a

3.30 BRITISH GAS N E APPRENTICE HANDICAP

401 (6) 0-20350 CDBASTOCK 1.3 (CD.F.9) (Date (Bhoodstock) Life N Trinder 5-10-0 S Wysme (3) 402 (8) 4-D6020 HBLIZHH 34 (D.F.6) (Miss L Boden) R Bashman 4-9-12 H Bashman (3) 405 (17) 948216 - 8BLY BLIZHH 31 (B.F.F.S) (P. Smort) at Tompsion 3-9-17 S Makey 404 (19) 13 CUTLENF 85 (F) (Lord Novembrie Western) W James 3-9-17 K Rester

FORM FOCUS

BILLY BLAZER best TAKE BY STORM (16 better cit) 20 8th cit) 13th in an 8-monter handicap of Ayr no persistrate start (1m St. soft), with PFREDIN (3th better cit) 13 3th and COMSTOCK (5th better cit) 44 13th of 15 to Goody in a handicap at 8 to Belliustis in a apprentices, handicap of Ascot (1m 4, spot). First 30 5th better cit) 141 11th, WHSTE WILLOW best Suzz Canall 38th in a 3-monter enables ascion at handicap at 8 to Benefit in a 15 th seed of 10 15 th seed 27,373: 01) (1) TURRERS).

42101 SELVERLOCKS 20 (D.F.S) (Mass B backury) bliss 8 Half 9-7. M Controvion 85 01104 TAJON 33 (D.BF.F.S) (H.A.Haldsonn) D Montay 9-7. Dec M Carson 92 1 TEN TO SEX 118 (D.D.P.) (Mass M Montay 9-7. Denn McKoown 98 0220 PEACEPUL REPLY 19 (P Barl) F Lue 8-4. Past Eddary 90 23306 MULTIV BROWN 58 (J Lancon-Brown) S Marion 8-2. F Norton (S) 80 001002 BRCHWOOD SUN 24 (F) (6 Swint) R Hollinchwed 8-0. W Ryan 91 2330512 MR SUTICH 5 (D.F.) (6 Harridge) M Channot 7-13. J Chain 98 1 CALL ME TM BULE 13 (D.S) (6 Spirits) N Trovier 7-13. K Darley 98 593418 PLASTNA 8-7 (S G) F McMontay J Benry 7-13. B Carter 85 540712 EGG 20 (D.D.BF.S) (Miss N Berror) T Berror 7-9. J Faveling 94 11030 GREANEL, 20 (F) (D McCarse) Decrys Smith 7-8. Other Misson 198 22 Miss N Berror, 10 Res. 10-1 Tarell, 12-1 others.

BETTANS: 7-2 Cast Ma The Stars, 5-1 Egg, 13-2 Mr Butch, 7-1 Ten To Six, 10-1 Tajoli, 12-1 others. 1891: PH.DE FLYER 6-5 I. Plugoti (18-2) J Barry 9 am

FORM FOCUS

SUMENLOCKS best EBG (16) better off) (4) to a 13-number source yet Ayr (6), soft), with GRINDELL (50) better off) (6) 7%. TALDE 5%4 4th of 15 to Look Who's Here in a number at Haydock (6), soft), with EBFCHWOOD SUM (16) bester off) (6) 77 8h; TSH TO SIX best Whose's The Desce 34) to a 8-number of Replica (6), good).

Salies of Replica (6), good).
Salies of Replica (6), good).
Salies of Replica (6), good).

3-1 Marks, 7-2 Memerates, 9-2 Care The King, 5-1 Ganel Dancer, 10-1 Conspi 1921: PRST RIGHT 7-11 Date Glocas (8-1) it Williams 19 can

FORM FOCUS

CURRE THE KINS bear Pessionsky 11 in a 10-temper reaction at Hernitiges (1 to 65)4, 5000, CONSPROL MINESPACE 244 5th of 12 to Devily is a 00US 50 6th of 8 to Starman in a mussary of Newbory (7) 66/yd, good), MARIUS bear Aldemay Prisco 11 Selections MARIUS

BETTINIS: 18-8 Bin Advanci, 9-4 Arceinn Ameers, 11-4 Doctors, 12-7 Amerys, 16-1 Wampile, 20-1 offices. 1991; ASB 5-0 D Helland (N-2) J Restim B on

FORM FOCUS

AMAMAN M Sul of 15 to Cropton bit a septem at Newcastle (1m, beavy). DOCTOOR 161 septem at Lingdeld (7t, good). AMARSEE 7151 7th cl 13 in Datas Farly in a maidee at Doccaster (1m, good to farm). WARSPITE 168 last of 17 to good to farm, WARSPITE 168 last of 17 to good to farm, WARSPITE 168 last of 17 to good to farm, WARSPITE 168 last of 17 to good).

3 AMAAM AMAAM 21 (8P) (Stalle Afrond Al Mittieus) J Gestin 9-0. 8 Castino 83

0 AMARKEE 27 (Ales D Woods) M Riggin 9-0. K Party 87

2 BRI ARWAD 8 (A Mezzi B Harbury 9-0. S Raymond 8-0. K Falton 9-3

0 DEMURIER 38 (Resupest de Montality, Juristy Plagmand 9-0. K Falton 9-3

2 DOCTOOR 17 (F Salman) W Servis 9-0. A Manus 9-3

BECIRGE DELINGHAM (Mis P Harity P Harits 9-0. W Paper 9-0

WARSPITE 7 (Liefy Howard de Welden) P Wesleyn 9-0. R Cochress —

4.00 TETLEY BITTER HURSERY HANDICAP

4.30 GREEN HOWARDS CUP CLAMMING RACE

5.00 ERF SANCTON MAIDEN STAKES (2-Y-0 coits & peldings: 24,347: 71 202yd) (7 tunners)

3.10 FORWARD SUPPORT GROUP HANDICAP

(2-Y-0; £5,435; 1m 205yd) (12 runners)

(2-Y-0: £7,375: 6f) (11 runners) .

BETTING: 4-1 Billy Blazer, 5-1 First Sid, White Wildow, 6-1 Codinal, 8-1 Tale By Shorm, 10-1 private 1991; VENTURIST 4-9-6 F Horton (5-1 )-lee) J Gosdon 12 ms much higher quality, but it is entirely possible that Call Me I'm Blue has been underrated by the handicapper.

I like Billy Blazer for the British Gas NE Apprentice Handicap. He was such a commendable second to Duke Of Eurolink on his last trip to York from Newmarket, where he is trained by Mark Tompkins.

At Haydock, Sunderland Echo is napped to win the Forward Support Group Handicap for Mary Reveley and John Lowe. Niggling problems prevented him from running between the end of May, when he was fifth at Doncaster, and early But when this useful three-year-old did finally reappear he won in style at Hamilton, where he was ridden by Lowe. Later he also scored at Redcar in a race confined to apprentices.

Inchesilloch, who began his season by winning over a mile-and-a-half at Haydock, can give a repeat performance in the Standard Life Handicap, while the Farrells Flyer Maiden Stakes can go to Vaigly Great's younger half-sister, Vayavaig.

She caught my eye at Kempton recently when finishing third on her debut in the race won by her betterfancied stable companion, Mithl Al Hawa.

TESTEDAYS TESTED York

Going: good to soft
2.00 (Si 214yd) 1. LYFORD CAY (D
2.00 (Si 214yd) 1. LYFORD CAY (D
1. LYFORD CAY
1. LYFO

CSF: £11.60 Timer 32.688ec.
2.30 (8) 1, DRUM SERGEANT (M Roberts, 6-1); 2, Crystal Heights (R Cochrane, 7-1), 3, Verdent Boy (Jaki Houston, 33-1), ALSO RAN: 5 fav Pageboy, 6 Sr Bouda, Superbrave (Shi), 9 Doldhis Ovaton, Amesa (6h), 12 Timer-na-Heish, 14 Stack Coral, 16 Lott Boy, Deby Do (4h), 25 Sobs Guest, Kans-A, Belister In Me, 33 The Right Time, 50 Bold Ceti. Fletchmin, 68 Lightning Decision, 19 tan. Sh hd, 2, 194, sh hd, 3, J Parkes at Mation, Tota: £5.90; £2.70, £2.50, £19.50. DF: £19.40, CSF: £9.95.5. Time 19.40sec. No bid. Fletchinni was withdrawn under orders after collapsing in the $talfs. orders after collegang in the staffs.
3.00 (5f) 1, BUNTY BCO (S Sendera, 6-1);
2. Never So Sure (L Piggott, 11-2);
3. Gondo (K Falson, 7-1). ALSO RAN: 4 hav
Taufan Bit, 7 Never in The Red (4rt), 9
Absolution, 12 Super Rocky, 14 Languedoc
Sirly, 14 On The Edge (6th), 16 Tigan, 20
Prince Bellori. 11 ran. NP: Mass Movie World. 14k, rk, 2, rk, 11, 8 McMehon at Tamworth. Tote: £5, 70; £2,00, £1,80, £2,70
DF £20,10, £5; £35.55. Thoset: £213.90.

News Science 2, 20 (in 21 BSyd) 1. MAJED (Demin Minimal, 3-1): 2. Linguic Wass (M. Probins, 3-1); 3. Vallance (Paul Eddery, 5-1). ALSO (FAN: 5-2 bay Cold Shower (Sth.), 7. Westholme (4th), 8 nan 141, 51, hd, nk. Mirs G. Reveley at Seithum. Toke: E3.60; £1.80, £1.50. DF: £4.50. CSF: £10.98, 2min 20.47sec.

4.90 (1m 5i 194yd) 1, ALLEGAN (Pet Exidery, 1-12 lav); 2, Paugeron (M Hills, 7-1), 2 ran. Diet. H Ceoli at Newmarkst. Tote: £1.10. No time returned.

E1.10. No other resurrise. 8.00 (8) 1, 80VIST SBCRET (M Roberts, 15-8 fee); 2, Reshman (W Carson, 4-1); 3, Lois Warts (P Robinson, 11-2), ALSO RAN; 85-40 Lameoratis (4th), 10 Asrigore (5th), 5 ren. 3, 41, 219, 3, B Hardoury at Naumarisal, Tota: 22.00; £1.20, £1.50, DF: £2.30, CSF: £8.88 Timin £1.56ee0 Jackpot: £29,817,40 Piacepot: £50.10

Haydock Park

Going: good to acti 2.10 (bi) 1, ARTISTIC REEF (W Cemon, 1-2 fev), 2, Silcs-Clast (T Quinn, 3-1); 3, Absolutely Nuts (B Raymond, 18-1) ALSO

Absolutely Nuts (8 Reymond, 18-11 AUS)
RAN: 6 Threepones (4th), 4 ren. 5, IA; 1MI,
9 Eden at Newmarker, Tota: £1.30, DF
£1.60, CSF: £2.45, 1min 2 12sec.
2.40 (im 30yd) 1, HEATHYARDS BOY (W.
Ryen, 10-1): 2, American Coffee (W.
Gerson, 5-2 /r fav.), 3, Mountein Willow (L.
Deston, 7-2), AUSO RAN: 5-2 /r fav. Joyen
(4th), 6, Americanness (5th), 20
Persontraux, 35 Cay Ughter, Stephanentes
(9th), 8 ren. 1MI, sh. rid, 31, 181, 2%L R Hollanshed at Upper Longdon. Tota:
£12.50; £2.00, £1.10, £1.60, DF: £25.10
CSF: £32.68, 1min 49.54sed.
3, 10, 65 1, MY, RHUSY, RMS (6m)

E12 50: E200, £1.10, £1.80 °DF: £25.10 °CSF: £32.68. Imin 49.54ss0.

3,10 (60) 1, MY RUBY PBMG (Gm McDonnal, 20-1); 2, Gentle Hero (T Curinn, 16-1); 3. Denusseatem (J Willemms, 10-1) ALSO RAN: 6 £ fav Youre Or Mine, Fascuration Water (4th), 13-2 Nordan Raider (3th), 7 Isoder, 9 Breezy Day, 10 Ammon, 11 Jahangir, 14 Windpower, 18 Love Legend, Cesteree Lad, Veloce (6th), 33 Easy Does & 15 ran. 34, hd, nk, sh hd, 1½ D Laing at Lembourn. Tota: £24.50; £5.30, £5.30, £5.30, £5.40. DF: £368.40 CSF: £281.61. Tricant. £3,084.42; im Résec.

3.40 2m 45yd] 1, MY CHARRA (B Crossiery, 8-1); 2, Hd; Star (J Lowe, 6-1); 3, Aude La Selfe (F Norton, 7-1). ALSO RAN. 9-4 fav Neodwood Murpet, 9-2 Smitingastrangers (5th), 13-2 Lord Hastie (4th), 11 Just My SR, 30 Coloridge (8th), 50 Moonlight Shift, 9 ran. 51, 114, 21, 334, 41. P Beven at University. Tote: £10.50; £290, £250, £220. DF. 256 40 CSF: £49.99. Tricest: £319.10. 3mm 44.12sec.

4.10 (1m 21 120yd) 1, LiGHT HAND (8 Mutwey, 2-1 favr); 2, Mardeses (N Kennedy, 13-2), 3, Spray of Orchids (D Hersson, 5-1). ALSO RAN: 5 Magnaflocht, 13-2 Persian Fleece (6th), 14 Soversign Niche (4th), 14 Always Ready (5th), 20 Golden Ancore, 30 Statis, Barge, 10 can. 31, nk, sh hd, 5, 11, M Tompkers at Newmarket. Tote: £270, £14.6, £100, £210, £3.71, £3.52, £25.525ec.

4.40 (1m 21 120yd) 1, STAPLEFORD LASS (W Woods, 20-1). 2. Palsacoants Sunset U E1.40, E1.60, E1.70 F: 28.70. CSF: E1.40, E1.60, E1.60, E1.60 S. Zmin 25.32sec.

4.40 (1m 21 120yd) 1. STAPLEFORD LASS (W Whook, 20-1), 2. Palsacegate Sunset (J. Carroll, 9-2): 3. Challenger Row (W Ryan, 25-1); 4. Hissia La Vista (T. Churn, 12-1). ALSO RAN: 4 fav Merry Mermand, 5 Hush Baby (8th), 6 Blue Sombrers, 11 Hot Storm, 12 West End Gri, Bohemisn Ousen, 16 Summers Dream, 20 Red Cent, Lettermore, Strephon (5th), 25 Peak Filmess, 33 Snug Surpose, Ladv Argent 17 ran. 194, hd, sh hd, 34, 241. S Woods at Newmarkst. Tote: 23.10; E1.80, E1.50, 26.50, 22.30. DF E108.10, CSF: E111.15, Trucest: £2,140.30 zmin 23.45esc. No bid S.10 (1m 30yd) 1. BLUE BLAZER (B Raymond, 11-4); 2. Johns Art (J Lowe, 12-1); 3, Kryptos (A Munro, 8-1), ALSO RAN 8-11 fau Dragon's Teeth (4th), 14. Bhad (5th), 25 Sudden Son. Bornoh (6th) 7 ran. 2, 4, 11, 101, 44, B Hanbury at Newmarkst. Tote: 230.16 1min 47.978cc

Towcester

Going: good 2.20 (2m hdks) 1, Saintly Lad (G McCourt, 12-1); 2, Church Star (50-1), 3, Quet Hot, (3-1), Lootey Range 5-2 fav 15 ran, 5, 3, P Cundel, Tota £12.00, £2.90, £17.10, £1.90 DF (1st or 2nd with any other); £5.30 CSF, £408.49.

DF (1st or 2nd with any other): £3.30 CSF. £408.49.
2.50 (2m 110yd ch) 1, Andicroney Chief (B Powel), 15-8 isw), 2, Glenshame Lad (11-4), 3, Red Fing (4-1), 9 ren. 11, 201. D Gendolfo. Ticle. £2.80; £1.20, £1.50, £1.80 DF £5.80. CSF: £7.69 After an objection by the second to the winner, result stood 3.20 (2m hdle) 1, Lussly Light (M Pitman Fo law), 1, Lussly Light (M Pitman Tole: £1.90; £1.40, £2.20, £2.70, DF. £7.10. CSF. £10.42.
3.50 (2m 6l ch) 1, Canon Class (Mr I Jenks, 5-2); 2, Mister Feathers (11-4); 3, Four Revers (7-2, Tribal Pauler 9-4 faw, 4 ran. 4), 101 D Nicholson Yote: £3.80, DF: £4.50. CSF. £12.01.
4.20 (3m 11 ch) 1, Tort (N Mann, 10-1), 2, Righting Jessics (5-2), 3, Anne de Pomme (10-1), Sheakapenny 6-4 faw, 7 ran. £1.40; £1.02. CSF. £2.80. DF: £2.50. DF: £2.50. DF: £2.50. DF: £2.50. DF: £2.50. DF: £2.50. CSF. £1.50. (11-5), Sheakapenny 6-4 faw, 7 ran. £2.40; P. Daston. Tota: £11.70; £4.00, £1.90. DF: £2.50. DF: £2.50. CSF. £2.80. Tota: £1.70; £4.00, £1.90. DF: £2.50. CSF. £2.80. SF: £2.80. CSF. £3.80. E1.50. CSF. £3.80. Placspot: £103.70

☐ Tenby, ante-post favourite for next year's Derby, is one of

Moffatt underlines promise with fine victory on Majed

MAJED took Saltburn trainer another 7lb claiming rider. Mary Reveley's tally this year to 62, by far her best score on the Flat, when capturing the Goodramgate Handicap at York yesterday.

Darren Moffatt seized the initiative with over a furlong to race and resisted the challenge of Michael Roberts on the top weight, Linpac West, by halfa length.
It was a sixteenth career success for Moffatt. He rode his first winner on Southwell's all-weather track last winter before joining Reveley's yard last March and has emerged as one of the apprentice finds of 1992. Roberts, the champion jockey elect, still had a successful

Drum Sergeant in the Micklegate Selling Stakes and the newcomer Soviet Secret in the Spurriergate Maiden Stakes. Bunty Boo gained a third meeting, moving onto the 193

mark with a 19-1 double on triumph this year in the New-ington Hotel York Racegoers Handicap in the hands of Sebastian Sanders.

Maurice Camacho and Nicky Connorton, on the mark at Redcar on Tuesday with Avro Anson, took the Walmgate Nursery with Dutosky. The winner had a battle royal with the Willie Carson-ridden Ribhi before edging ahead in the last 50 yards to score by one-and-ahalf lengths.

Roberts: increased tally

The stewards held an enquiry into apparent interference at the furlong marker, and found that the runner-up had interfered with the winner. But they were satisfied that it had been accidental, had not improved Ribhi's final position and ordered the placings to stand.

Carson, who had flown to York after riding in the first two events at Haydock, covered his travel expenses when Artistic Reef landed the odds in the Walnut Gradua-

Grant Eden's sprinter has been knocking at the door against better opposition, and readily asserted his class to beat Silca-Cisa by five lengths. The winning trainer's wife, Stephanie, said: "This will have been a confidence-booster, and now he goes for the Bentinck Stakes at Newmar-Light Hand and Sean

Mulvey recorded a third victory at the Lancashire course this term in the apprentice

WINCANTON ...

2.15 Mr Vergetta. 2.45 Copy Lane. 3.15 Mr Tittle Tattle. 3.45 Philip's Woody. 4.15 Trusty Friend. 4.45 Star Of The Glen. THUNDERER

2.15 Shannagary. 2.45 Elegant Touch. 3.15 Mr Tittle Tattle. 3.45 Philip's Woody. 4.15 Farm Week, 4.45 Tomahawk.

GOING: GOOD (GOOD TO FIRM IN PLACES)

2.15 OAK CONDITIONAL JOCKEYS HANDICAP CHASE (£2,782: 2m 51) (6 runners)

15-8 Stancagery, 7-2 Wellingson Clocaster, 5-1 Mr Vergetin, 6-1 Court Reper 8-1 Height Di Futt, 14-1 Watersmeet Down.

2.45 SHAFTESBURY CLAIMING HURDLE (3-Y-O: £2,057: 2m) (14)

11-8 Elegant Touch, 3-1 Allimec Nooris, 4-1 Copy Late, 7-1 Regal Print, 8-1 Sel-Hongabill, Musichil, 10-1 Debits Indomity, 14-1 Leich Croller, 20-1 others.

3.15 HATHERLEIGH HOVICES CHASE

1 SP-1 RASLAN ROAD 9 (C.F.9) Mrs P Duffield B-11-7 P Holley
2 /30- ALEGEYE 329 (SP) R O'Sallous 6-11-0 D O'Sallous (3)
3 SP-4 AS COOD AS GOLD 20 (6) 7 Jones 6-11-0 D O'Sallous (3)
4 U4-P BEAN DREAMS 19 (6) M Maggeridge 7-11-0 R Somet
5 203- CANDSCAR 180 (8,6) Ledy Horize 7-11-0 R Sentet
6 /AP- COLUMBEL KRISCH 282 R Chempon 6-11-0 M Richardis
7 PP-U MOAT LESEND 10 D Greig 7-11-0 M Richardis
8 DR1- MR TITTLE TATTLE 188 (3,F) X Bulley 6-11-0 A S Brillis
10 P-PU CHASMG GRLD 22 A Dum 6-10-9 Poter Hobbs
1-4 Revise Road, 7-2 Concesso 13-2 Alembre 8-1 Mr Tible Tests 10-1 As Good
1-4 Revise Road, 7-2 Concesso 13-2 Alembre 8-1 Mr Tible Tests 12-1 As Good
1-4 Revise Road, 7-2 Concesso 13-2 Alembre 8-1 Mr Tible Tests 12-1 As Good 4-6 Regias Road, 7-2 Canoscao, 13-2 Alegbye, 8-1 Mr Tible Teide, 12-1 As Good As Gold, 14-1 Red Amber, 25-1 others.

3.45 WINCANTON HOVICES HURDLE

4.15 PORTMAN HANDICAP CHASE (£3,622: 3m 1f 110yd) (5)

1 112 TRUSTY FRIEND 154 (D.B.B) J Etimota 10-11-10 ... A Magains 2 1337 FARM WEEK 551 (F.G.S) 6 Baking 10-11-1 ... R Guest 3 U-25 PEDPLES CHOICE 5 (D.P.) N MICHAEL 7-10-0 ... Baking 4 3441 GREY TORNADO 14 (F.B) MRS S Williams 11-10-1 ... B Michael 5 /A-P PATS MIKSTREL 8 (8) R Caempion 7-10-0 ... M Richards 12-8 Trusty Freed, 7-2 Farm Week, 5-1 Paople's Choice, 6-1 Gray Torredo, 14-1 Pais Miratral.

9-4 Philig's Woody, 11-4 Master Palls, 6-1 Cyous, 7-1 Cloper One, 8-1 Himlel, Meiblaut, 10-1 Pipelle Woode, 12-1 Seaside Ministral, 16-1 others.

4.45 ORCHARD HANDICAP HURDLE

9-2 Star Ol The Gien, 5-1 Good For A Loan, 5-1 Golden Gusuer, 8-1 Car Holly Brown, Torminaria, 16-1 Chesspools Bay, Will Jasses, 12-1 others

COURSE SPECIALISTS TRAINCRS: Mrs. J Parmer. 20 winners from 50 nomins. 40 Pbs. 44 Pipe. 27 from $2.29 Oh; J Edwards, 4 from 16, 25.04; Airs J Radas, 7 from 51, 13.7%; N Henderson, 5 from 44, 13.6%, R J Holder, 6 from 52, 11.6% JOCKEYS: P Scudimbre, 25 winners from 55 ndes, 37.9%; R Danisody, 23 from 127; 22.8%; D Marphy, 4 from 19, 21.1%; H Denes, 9 from 57, 15.6%; B Bradley, 5 from 43, 14.0%, P Holley, 8 from 59, 13.6%.

3.50 BRIDGNORTH MOVICES SELLING HURDLE

[21,302: 2m 5i 110yd) (13)

1 1163 THE SLACK MONES 8 (V.F.B.) M Pipe 4-12-0 M Permit 2 074-4 BORN WITH A VEL 14 M Williams 5-11-2 M McFarland 3 483- EMPFORS WARRING 10F C Broad 6-11-2 A Flannigon (7) 4 GOLDEN MAJUANDO 846F Florible 6-11-2 A Flannigon (7) 4 GOLDEN MAJUANDO 846F Florible 6-11-2 A Flannigon (7) 4 GANGER MARINER 532 D Wintle 6-11-2 A Flannigon (7) 43-4 TESRICARELEMA 5 W Chy 5-11-2 Deale Cary 8 P-4R SEARCY 10 Miss 5 Wilson 4-11-0 G McCount 9 07- DEEP DELIGHT 225 R Edwis (7) 4 W Mission (5) 40 4-03 LYNELLY 19 G Price 6-10-11 W Marson (5) 40 4-03 LYNELLY 19 G Price 6-10-11 M W Mission (5) 11 U-06 MALLYAN 29 P PRICERS 5-10-11 M W Mission (5) 12 U-06 Mission 6-10-14 M W Mission (5) 13 U-06 MALLYAN 29 P PRICERS 5-10-17 M W Mission (5) 13 U-06 MISSION 7 C Pophem 6-10-11 L Harvey 13 0006 TOUGH TRUCKY 14 M S S Wishered 4-10-9 M Williamson 5-4 The Rask Mont. 6-2 Searcy 11-2 Empercy Warnor, 5-1 Lynelly, 10-1

2-1 Sanbridge, 11-4 Market Leader, 7-2 Stippery Max, 5-1 Achibibula, 12-1 Pims Reman, 16-1 Rwitz Touch, 25-1 Renocco.

1, SUC. 2(11) (12)

3 STH HAMON DOWE 27 (F) H Price 5-11-2 D J Burchell

2 BROMMOCH BLL 424F J Congrave 7-11-0 D Bullegher

3 ROP - ENTERTRANSENT PARK 146 (F) B Praces 5-11-0 Early Lyons

4 OO - GEN-TECK 175, James 5-11-0 A R Bellancy

5 OP MERRET 21 H Prachey 6-11-0 A RO Stokell

5 6351 ALST CARCINGT 36 (5) P Leach 7-11-0 W Marston (5)

7 OP SALESMAN 12 J Bookey 5-11-0 W Marston (6)

9 O ASTERIX 15 J Brackey 4-10-12 W McFattand

10 OP PEN 163 C Coviley 4-10-12 M Williamson

11 OO - OPPEN 163 C Coviley 4-10-12 Jany Devices (7)

12 I and V Dev 7-2 Just Carcin 20-1 W Williamson

12 OURSH-ANGE 8 K White 4-10-7 J Marston Boxes (7)

4-7 Handy Dove, 7-2 Just Cracker, 10-1 Whit's Bounty, 16-1 Asianto, Boys Rocks, 20-1 offers. COURSE SPECIALISTS

TRANCESS: S Christian, 5 winners from 18 numers, 27 8%; M Proc. 17 from 71, 23 9%; R Proc. 4 from 20, 20,0%; R Lee, 10 from 52, 19 %; D Michielson, 10 from 53, 18 9%; G Harn, 3 from 18, 16 7%; JOCKEYS: W Marston, 4 winners from 7 rides, 57,1%, B Possell, 7 from 21, 33 3%; D Gallagher, 3 from 12, 25,0%, D Bernaled, 3 from 19, 15,5%, J Laddier, 8 from 53, 14 5%; R Denwoody, 8 from 62, 12 9%

Pearce claims title

Lydia Pearce's record 12 wins this season has assured her the 1992 Forte Lady Amateur Jockeys' Flat turf championship. With three races to go, Mrs Pearce has established an unbeatable 126 point lead over her nearest

4.20 INVERSHIN HANDICAP CHASE

4.50 LUDFORD NOVICES HURDLE

(£1,302; 2m) (12)

rival, Diana Jones.

LUDLOW

MANDARIN 2.20 Romota Nijinsky, 2.50 Capital Punishment, 3.20 Chucklestone, 3.50 The Black Monk, 4.20 Market Leader, 4.50 Handy Dove. THUNDERER

2.20 Romola Nijinsky. Capital Punishment. 3.20 Chucklestone. 3.50 Searcy. 4.20 Slippery Max. 4.50 Boys Rocks.

GOING: GOOD (GOOD TO FIRM PATCHES)

2.20 BBC HEREFORD AND WORCESTER CLAIMING HURDLE (£1,590: 2m) (12 numers)

5-4 Romola Mijnsky, 7-2 Morthern Mation. 9-2 Jamestown Boy, 13-2 Prodigel Miss, 12-1 Flight of Song, 16-1 others.

2.50 RADNOR MOVICES CHASE (£2,034: 2m 4f) (10)

1 2P-4 CAPITAL PUNISHMENT 2" Mrs F Wahryn 6-11-7 B de Haan 2 100-11 FRISCO GTV 22 S Christian 6-11-7 Mr M Rimedi (7) 3 3RP - HELMAR 240 (S) F Jordan 6-11-7 Mr M Williamson 5 -1PS SEE NOW 36 (F.S) Mrs A Knight 7-11-7 N Williamson 6 -1PS SEE NOW 36 (F.S) Mrs A Knight 7-11-7 Lawrence 5 202- VICTIGRY WIND 283 T Morton 7-11-7 A Ramnigan (7) WINDOOEN SEAR 6 Barlow 9-11-7 S J O'Mell 8 022- TUFFRIT 6GORGE 152 J Pickering 5-11-5 D Bridgweiter 9 024P 0APPING 13 (B.G.S) A James 8-11-2 R Belarny 10-40 GMA'S CHOICE 47 (F) P Prichard 6-11-2 A Wahl 5-2 Capital Punishment, 7-2 Frisco City, 4-1 Tuffinal George, 5-1 See Now, 8-1 Old Road, Victory Wind, 14-1 others.

3.20 RADIO SHROPSHIRE STAYERS HANDICAP

1 3S-4 PRIBUTER PRINCESS 17F (0.F.G) G Ham 6-12-0 B Powell
2 3-20 MASTER DANCER 8 (6.S) M Barchard 5-11-3. Miss S A Briot.
3 49P- COSMIC DANCER 170 S Woods 5-10-11 A Carroll
4 291-4 CHUCKLESTONE 8 (F) J King 9-10-4 J R Knerangh
5 4312 BRANO STAR 8 (F) P Long 9-10-2 W Ministon (5)
6 34PO NUNS JEWEL 7 (F.G) J Bradley 6-10-0 V Statlery (5) 2-1 Chuddestone, 5-2 Biano Star, 9-2 Master Dancer, 6-1 Premier Princess, 10-1 Cosmic Dancer, 14-1 Nans Jouel.

Saintly Lad stars in return

A HORSE with a bit part in professional loser in the film-the television series Trainer ing. But, on his first outing track yesterday. The 10-year-old Saintly

Lad, who has broken down Church Star. three times, stepped off the set of the BBC series to win a real the races in Trainer and has race at Towcester.

earned a starring role with a under rules since November triumphant return to the race- 1989, only needed to be pushed out to win by five lengths from the 50-1 chance "He has finished last in all appeared in an episode of one Racing Post Trophy at Doncaster on October 24.

Trace at Towcester.

Saintly Lad, handled by Ieeves and Wooster and the recent Red Rock cider advert," Cundell, has been used as a Cundell reported.

SELECTION IN INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

0891-168+
ALL RESULTS 168
ALL COMMENTARIES 268

OBST 168RESULTS 101 201 301
HAYDOCK PK 102 202 302
WHICH CHION 103 203 302 PUNCHESTOWN 120 220 320 GREYHOUNDS | 122 | 222 | 322 RACELINE

306 (11) 307 (9) 308 (7) 309 (5) 310 (1) 311 (4) 312 (2) 313 (3)	40-1086 KALY 49 46-1001 SALDA 9 46-1001 SENSETO 48-0400 SENSETO 48-0400 EBAYA 3 283048 DOUBLE 522-122 FOREVER 222-158 SHAFFAA 18-00-00 CASHTAL 211100 MEULWA 2 Forever Diamonds.	(D.F.S) (P Ban) (D.S) (F Teores 22 (S) (S IOseb 22 (S) (H Al-Maio 92HO 28 (G) (M (DIAMONOS 8 ( F 12 (B.S) (N G) DAZZLER 1691 33 (D.F.S.S) (M 5-1 Double Ech	oj B Wolden-1-8-1( oj H Cacit 3-8-8 oscil A Arastonia op J Lanj J Beebell op J-6-23) M H Ba say P Swin 4-8-6. (O,F.S) (B Todd) N ostbarnista Legaza I o, 13-2 Shida, 7-1	1 (6er)	ulipi, 10-1 other
		FOR	M FOCUS			•
bandicap al	ANT best Causley : Severity on pen d to Brin) TAMEM it is a handkap at it best Themester 19 best Themester 19 bis brage in a hand 1, with SALDA (3b) talked-off isst. SAL haud in a 7-tu rn, helwy). DOUBLE		ant 14 to Mel (27) good to Six to 15 to Six di). Hermantol of SHAFFAA (4b beser ble when not nitroer had at not), of ShaffaA (5c)	iotie in a. Sendica ra). POREVER DA i Shower in an app (Tim 21, good). Pr sing in a femilicap (Ta) vorsa etg. (Ta) vorsa etg. vil) 3441 88s. MBI besting Tisdicap as Ripori for As FOREVER DIAME	Miles from and flag	TO DE STATE OF THE
			SPECIALI	STS
TRAINE J Gosden H Cecle P Cole E Weymet M Bell R Armsko	22 27 11 3	39 21 14 21	JOCKEYS S Cauthor 1.4 F Norton 1.2 Pinel Edder 1.4 J Quinn 1.4 M Roberts 1.2 W Carson	. 47	Rices 5, 207 22.7 24 20.8 90 15.7 20 15.0 205 14.5 227 14.5	' [
10 g 10 7 10 10 g 10 g 10 10 g 10 g		Vale.
MANDAF			THUND			.,
2.10 Lea 2.40 Vay			2.10 Les 2.40 Van
3.10 SUN	avary. NDERLAND I	ECHO (na	p). 3.10 Ka	y's Lad.
3.40 Inch	rcailloch.		3.40 Mir			•
4.10 Rep	iledge. nbrea Snip.		4.10 Re 4.40 Se
RICHARI Our New	DEVANS: 4.4 market Corre IY ZANNA (n es Private Ha	espondent (ap).	: 2.10 Lead		/AIG.
GOING: GO	GOD TO SOFT	DRA	w: 5F-6F, HK	H NUMBERS	BEST S	SIS
2.10 (2-Y-0: £3	STANDARD L 1,231: 1m 30yd Lead Noti	) (5 rumaers	STAKES ) Ceril S-8	y 8-8	Pat Eddery Bay Kalicutay W R Swinborn	: is

2.40 FARRELLS FLYER MAIDEN STAKES

E2,742: 6f) (19 FUTINETS)

O AMERICAN SWINNER 40 (Luple Dunams) P Haris 9-0.

S A SERET WEAPON 17 (T Limp) J Existen 9-0.

OB DISCO BOY 20 (3 Branton) 8 Michiston 9-0.

EVER SO LYRICAL (Previley Postess) P Haris 9-0.

SEREFAL LIPIC 21 U Rose) P Nationary 9-0.

ORDERSONG 7 (6F) (Smith Motorassech) J Gooden 9-0.

O OLIESSONG 7 (7 Lee) F Lee 9-0.

SABO THE HERD (Max D Trompson) M Prancol. 9-0.

SOULE AGH BAY (Preciley Dozen) P Haris 9-0.

ALAMEL (Flad Al-Tajlo) M Thomson Jaces 8-9.

O MELLE HER BAY (Preciley Dozen) P Haris 9-0.

ALAMEL (Flad Al-Tajlo) M Thomson Jaces 8-9.

O NELLE HER 27 (Max M Tollonnel) A Ealley 8-9.

SOULE AGH BAY (Preciley Dozen) P Haris 9-0.

SABO THE HERD 21 (Max D Tollonnel) A Ealley 8-9.

SOULE AGH STORM 17 (D McCarlo) D Michain 8-9.

WAYNALIA RATIN (J Lane) R Hardinstand 8-9.

COURSE SPECIALISTS

37.5 34.5 30.9 26.7 25.8 25.0

JOCKEYS

Pai Eddary
M Hills
L Dezari
Hi Day
W R Swedom
T Ogina

(2-Y-0, £2,742: 6f) (19 runners)

B Josef M Carol J Gosden M Chambo M Thansa M Bell

-

134

Mitchell Platts, golf correspondent, charts the fall and rise of an Open champion returned from the wilderness

Wiser Norman addresses back nine of his career

from the outback, humbler and hungrier. The Australian recently gained his first win for 28 months, and he hopes his appearance in the Toyota World Match Play Champ-ionship, which starts at Wentworth today, will prove his star is back in the ascendancy.

Norman, 37, has been the victim of several outrageous twists of fortune despite win-ning more than 50 tournaments, including the Open Championship at Tumberry in 1986. But there were times when he brought about his own Waterloo, Times, too, when he was less than charitable about some of his peers, and times when friends, as well as critics, claimed the psychiatrist's couch might bring more comfort than the practice range. His lowest ebb came at the Western Open in June last year, when he con-trived to lose a five-shot lead with nine holes to play.

In the Canadian Open last shots ahead with five holes to play, but the champagne was put back on ice when he was taken to a play-off. He eventually beat Bruce Lietzke at the second extra hole.

"What happened in Canada was the tonic I needed," he said. "I can honestly say I've never been as nervous as I was in Canada. I was shaking like a leaf, so much so that I could hardly grip the putter.

"I know a lot of what happened to me was self-imposed. I didn't want to work; I wanted to take a sabbatical. Then I tried to change my swing, which I shouldn't have attempted. But whenever anyone asks me what was the best year of my life, I am going to say 1991, because it was by far my worst. "I think you have to experience the negatives, the really had times, to fully appreciate the good times. I've learned how to handle people, as well as situations, better and I've learned more about myself. "I found out I had more friends than I thought. It meant a lot for me when Bruce

First round First (Course) J. Stumen (US) v V Singh (Fiji) J. Woosnam (Walea) v N Suzuki (Japan) B. Faxon (US) v G. Normen (Aus) A. Forsbrand (Swej v M. O'Meara (US)

S Ballesseros (Sp) v Sturmen or Singh J-M Olazábal (Sp) v Woosnam or Suzuld N Price (Zim) v Faxon or Norman N Faldo (Eng) v Forsbrand or O'Measa

[Lietzke] said to me in Canada, Welcome back, it's great to have you back, only seconds after I had beaten him. I had over the years perceived a sense of envy out there, and I now believe that I misread a lot of people."

Norman rejects the theory that he tried to change his swing to imitate Nick Faldo. He said that he thought he could improve his game by trying something new. Essentially, he was attempting to eliminate his bad shot, the one which veered violently to the "If you're playing poorly with your natural swing, you can still get the job done," he said. "But when I was trying to work on a new swing, and not playing well, then, boy, it felt like the whole world was falling in on me. I was trying to flatten the swing, to make angles, and all that stuff, and think about "I've always had a natural. free flowing swing. We've all got a bad shot, but in trying to eliminate mine I found the ball was going right, left, low, high, all over the place. It was ugly golf."

there was too much for me to

Norman made his U-turn in Houston last October. Bruce Harmon, the son of Claude Harmon, the 1948 Masters champion, suggested he-go back to what he did best. Harmon told him to grab a two-iron, stand right over the ball and hit high and hard. Norman hit five shots in a row that were perfect.

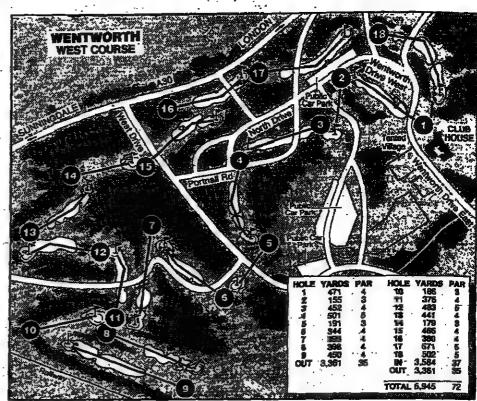

He now talks of being ready to play the back nine in his career. "I want to play hard until I'm 46," he said. "I want to win more tournaments, other majors, sure, but yourattitude is different. I will not be placing so much pressure on myself to win; it is not a life or death situation."

Norman has played eight times in the World Match Play Championship, and won three times. He will not mind the West course playing to its full length, as it is after recent rain, as he begins his challenge against Brad Faxon, of the United States. ian Woosnam should have little difficulty in moving past Norio Suzuki, of Japan, as Severiano Ballesteros, Nick Faldo, Nick Price and José Maria Olazabal, the four leading seeds, sit out the first round. The other two matches today promise to be more competitive. Vijay Singh, of Fiji, plays Jeff Shiman, who won the US PGA championship in 1988, and Anders Forsbrand, of Sweden, meets Mark O'Meara, another American. O'Meara won last week in Japan.

London rugby union club on move

Saracens intent on finding new home

By PETER BILLS

SARACENS' much delayed plans to move from their Southgate home could come to fruition the season after next, but the club believes a move with new facilities will cost a minimum of £2 million.

To find a suitable site, the dub seems certain to leave the Emfield council area. Saracens have been holding discussions with Hertsmere council which embraces Bushey, Elstree, Radlett and Potters Bar. The ground would be as close to the M25 as their present site.

In announcing their plans this week, the club made little attempt to hide the bad feeling that exists between them and Enfield council. John Heggadon, the dub president, said: "Hertsmere have been most welcoming and helpful, which makes a refreshing change after the difficulties we had in dealing with Enfield borough council.

"We are in the early stages of negotiations, but both par-ties are optimistic of finding a suitable site. We have repeatedly been led down blind alleys by Enfield council. It seems they just don't want us. "Thousands of man hours

PHILIPPE Sella, the French captain, has ruled himself out of his country's first international against the touring

South Africans on October 17

Sella, who had minor surgery on his right thigh this week, expects to be out of action for at least two weeks and might also have to pull out of the second and final international on October 24.

"I won't play again until I'm completely fit," he said. "I'm disappointed but I have to think of the rest of my because of a thigh injury.

Trent Park with which it appears Enfield knew all the time that we had little chance of proceeding. Those energies and funds could have been better used."

The club paid architects £7,000 for drawing up plans for development on the pos-

Saracens want to start from scratch, building their own facilities and erecting floodlights. None of this is possible at Southgate. They estimate the full cost, if a site can be found, might reach $4 million.

Heggardon believes it is essential the move is made soon. "Our growth as a club off the field has not matched the progress the team has made on it. We finished London's top club in the Courage League last season but the facilities where we are simply aren't good enough.

"We badly need to find a new home that can allow the club to develop and fulfil its outstanding potential."

☐ Ian Hunter returns to the Northampton side for their Courage Clubs Championship first division match

Sella misses tour game coach, said: "We were relying on him and his absence for the first Test is a

> Marc Cecilion, the No. 8, is likely to be named as captain the team could go to another experienced international centre, Franck ☐ Wasps, the Courage Clubs Championship leaders, are awaiting a decision on when Rob Andrew, returning from playing in France, will be available. They are un-changed for their match at Rugby on Saturday.

damaged a knee cartilage in the first week of the season.

Hunter, the Northampton full back, has been training three times a day since stitches vere removed two weeks ago

"I'm fine and I have sold England I'm OK," Hunter, who has been selected for the national squad to play Canada on Saturday week, said.

"A lot of people are surprised I am ready to play again but I have had a professional attitude with the healing process, which is why I am back so quickly. If there is any risk that my knee is not right, then I would wait - I don't want to do anything

The England back-row forward, Tim Rodber, who also missed Northampton's unexpected defeat at London Irish last weekend, has recovered from a pulled hamstring and is expected to play against Bridgend, the Heineken League club, have dismissed their team manager. John Lloyd, the senior coach, Ian Stephens, and the backs coach, Geoff Davies, The first division side has won only one of its first five games this season. The former Wales hooker, Lloyd, joined the club in 1962.

Richard Loe, the New Zealand prop forward, goes before a hearing today over allegations that he gouged an opponent in a match last

The New Zealand Rugby Football Union hearing will have an atmosphere reminiscent of a lynching after the attention the case has attracted. Few people have missed the slow-motion television replays of the Waikato v Otago first division final, in which Loe appeared to use his fingers to rake the face of the Otago full back, Greg Cooper.

Coming to grips with capitalism: Scherbo, who made his name in Barcelona, pauses on his American tour

Olympic gymnast joins dash for dollar

Chapel Hill, North Carolina: Vitaly Scherbo, a product of the Soviet Union, is adapting quickly to Western ways.

"I have a lot of guts," the gymnast from Belarus said.

"That's why 1 got six gold will get it." Scherbo, 20, was brought up under the Soviet system for marturing gymnasts. After his success in the Barcelona Olympics, there was no state system to return to and he leapt into capitalism. He is on a 23-city tour of the United States with other champion

"I am not nervous," he said through an interpreter. "I feel like I was born here, like a fish in water. If I will know a little bit more English, it will be even much better."

His goal? "Millionaire," he said, grinning. Scherbo envisions himself in a television commercial. but he is not sure which product he would endorse, since commercials and many of the products are new to him. He knows some products, though. His favourite cars are Mercedes, Alfa Romee and BMW. His favourite food "anything McDonald's". Scherbo travels with his wife, Irena, 20, who is expecting a baby in March. They want their child to be born in the United States. One day they want to live in California Scherbo said he had forgot ten his old way of life. The president of Belarus, promised Scherbo a larger apartment and a new Mercedes after thieves broke into his apartment in Minsk But

Scherbo intends to produce what he needs for himself. He also plans to compete for Belarus in the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta. "I am sad," he said about years spent training with Soviet team-mates. "Before you always could predict how competition would finish and who would win, but now as a result of the breakdown you don't know anything. Everyone goes sepa-"Now it's all gone and it's a little bit different," he said. "I understand money, banking. I need to work and it's no problem." (AP)

YACHTING

Donovan musters challenge

BY BARRY PICKTHALL

TWELVE days into the British 🥒 Steel Challenge, and the ten-strong fleet of identical yachts, led by the Paul Jeffes-skip-pered Interspray, remain remarkably close.

The fleet is now farmed out over a 360-mile area south of the Canaries, but Interspray had a lead of just two miles over British Steel II yesterday, while the last placed yacht, Rhone Poulenc, was only 86 miles further from Rio de Janeiro, the first stopover in this 28,000 mile adventurous circumnavigation.

Within the fleet, positions are changing continually. During the last three days. Heath Insured, skippered by Adrian Donovan, has enjoyed a remarkable run down the African coast to pull through from eighth to third, and lie leader. Another to find the right winds has been Pride of Teesside, which led the fleet out of the Solent, but fell back to ninth on Monday: Yesterday, however, Ian MacGil-livray and his crew were back up to fourth, having recovered more than 140 miles during the past four days.

The fleet is now on target to cross the Equator on October 17 or 18 and the leaders are expected to reach Rio by October 28. October 28.

LEADING POSTITIONS (at 14:00 GMT yesterday, with miles to Filo de Jeneiro): 1, Interspray (P Jeties), 3:332 miles; 2, Brisish Steel 8 (F Tudor), 3:334; 3, Heath Insured (A Donosan), 3:355; 4, Pride of Tessede (P MacGilloway), 3:362; 5, Group 4 Securitins (M Golding), 3:351; 6, Nuclear Electric (J Chittenden), 3:355; 7, Coopers à Lybrand (V Charny), 3:355; 8, Hobralu Leger (P Goss), 3:378; 3, Commercial Union (W Sutinsriand), 3:378; 10, Filome-Pouland (J O'Tricool), 3:362;

☐ Chris Little's Beneteau 45 production yacht, Bounder, was named yacht of the year yesterday by the Royal Ocean Racing Club. Little and his crew won the Morgan Cup Cowes to St Malo and Channel races, as well as finishing second in the Hartlepool Renaissance Round Britain race.

Cherry's view, page 2

FIXTURES...

Pierre Berbizier, the French

7.20 unless stated
PONTINS CENTRAL LEAGUE: First division: Liverpool v Roberham (7.00); Manchester City v Lecester (6.45). Second divisions: Eventon v Huddesslad (7.00);
Dicham v Maddessland (7.00). NEVILLE OVENDEN COMBINATION Plast division; Windbledon v Bostol City. FA CHALLENGE CUP: Second qualifying round: Third replay: Bemarton Heath Heath Research Boots Rept. OTHER SPORT

EQUESTRIANISM: Horse of the Year Show GOLF: Toyota World Match Play Champ-ionship (Wentworth) ionship (Wenaworth) SPEEDWAY: Homeline League First di-vision, (pswich v Arama Escapi (7.30), Swindon+ Oldoid (7.45)

THE ****TIMES SPORTS SERVICE

RACING Call 0891 500 123 Call 0891 100 123

GOLF Reports and scores from the Toyota World Matchplay Call 0839 555 550

RUGBY LEAGUE

Lindsay plots national growth as RFL head

MAURICE Lindsay's ruthless brand of dynamism, which helped transform Wigan from penniless has beens into rugby league's richest and most successful club, was yesterday appointed to the task of stamping a national identity on the game (Christopher Irvine

Lindsay will set out, from November 1, as the new chief executive of the Rugby Football League (RFL), with an expansionist policy with little room for dead wood.

Traditionalists will quiver at his philosophy that the sacrifice of some struggling clubs may be the price of extending the game beyond its northern heartlands. Already this season. Scarborough has collapsed, Blackpool has been put up for sale and Swinton is set to call in the administrator.

After fashioning an impressive record in 12 years on the board at Wigan, Lindsay, 51, preaches financial reformation. There would be no neglect of clubs, Lindsay said, but the advantages of a leaner structure were overwhelming.

doesn't mean that contraction has set in and expansion has stopped. With hard work on our part and an economic upturn, we might be in a stronger position, with a better platform for real expansion."

London and the North East are Lindsay's main targets for conquest. Should the game not take off nationally within the next decade, he concedes that he will have failed.

Lindsay will look to steer: different course to that of the urbane David Oxley, his pre-decessor, who accepted the supposed restrictions on rugby league's progress caused by a general public preference for other sports. Lindsay's force of personality and abrasive business edge — he is an on-course bookmaker - will sharpen up rugby league for an all-out assault on national status. ☐ David Myers, the Great Britain winger, listed by Wigan at £120,000, is likely to rejoin Widnes in a swap deal with Panl Atcheson, the full

BASKETBALL

Cadle strikes optimistic stance

Limoges: The players of Guildford Kings had had a week to recover from the disappointment of allowing their European Cup opponents Limoges to daw back an eight-point deficit (Nicholas Harling writes). By tonight, Kevin Cadle, their coach, will know if their recovery is

The joint respective champions of France and England start the second leg of the second round tie level at 72-72

with Cadle saying defiantly: There is no question that we can beat this team but in some ways starting level might be the best thing that can happen

Two games against comfortable opposition in the Carlsberg league first division at the weekend enabled Cadle to work on his squad's weak nesses. "Last week, in the last few minutes we let them get in too many second shots," he

His players seemed not to know how to cope when the French club employed a zone defence. If that happens again tonight, it will be revealing to see whether Guildford innroduce Julio Politi, their Argentina-born forward, who sat out the first leg.

Cadle believes that with Alan Cunningham's departure, Guildford have lost some toughness. "No one has managed to take that toughness role," he said.

TENNIS

Close result gives Jones some hope

chance of success produced a scare for the United States in the Maureen Connolly Brinker trophy in Memphis, Tennessee (a Special Correspondent writes).

The five women in the under-21 team challenge went down 6-5 in the three-day event. on Saturday, but the close score delighted Ann

A FIGHTING performance Jones, the captain. "This gives by a Britain team given little us a lot of hope for the future of British tennis," she said.

The American squad was led by Amy Frazier, ranked twentieth in the world. By contrast, the highest British player, Shirli-Ann Siddall is No. 223. The Americans have with 17 victories in 20 years. Yet the British team embodjed much of the spirit of "Little"

Mo", the nickname of Connolly, the grand slam winner in 1953, who died of cancer at the age of 34, after whom the contest is named. Britain showed, as Ian King, the LTA president, put it, a certain "fire in the belly". The most impressive of the British victories were the singles defeats of Audra Keller at her home club by Siddail and

SQUASH RACKETS

Macfie's training pays handsome dividends

Vancouver: Senga Macfie, the elder of two talented sisters from Richmond, Surrey, may have reached the turning point of an inconsistent career by defeating Rebecca O'Callaghan, the Irish No. 1, 9-4, 9-5, 9-0 here in the second round of the women's world open championship (Colin McQuillan writes). Mactic, 23, who is benefiting from the first sustained training period of her life, emerged from the qualifiers in her first senior world championship, for which she was ranked eightieth. She now faces Robyn Lambourne, of Australia, the fifth seed.

Such progress for a qualifier is unprecedented in the women's game. Even Danielle Drady, the Australian, who was world No. 2 until injury struck a year ago, was unable to progress so far from the qualifying tournament, losing 10-8, 10-8, 9-3 to Fiona Geaves, of Gloucestershire.

Results, page 35

Saltergate is humble stage for record

Rush joins Hunt at the head of Liverpool charts

By Louise Taylor

for some history-making on Tuesday night. It was at Chesterfield's tiny ground that lan Rush equalled Roger Hunt's scoring record for Liverpool with his 286th goal in the club's colours.
Rush's strike was Liverpool's fourth goal in a 4-1 Coca-Cola Cup second-round win against the third division side that had rocked the boat by holding Liverpool 4-4 at Anfield two weeks previously.

Trevor Hebberd had given Chesterfield an eighth-minute lead only for Liverpool to answer back with goals from Don Hutchison — his third of the tie - Jamie Redknapp and Mark Walters before Rush the show with his contribution.

Alan Shearer took his tally to 15 goals in 13 games for Blackburn Rovers this season as they beat Huddersfield

SALTERGATE was the stage Ewood Park, and 5-4 on Huddersfield, who are managed by Ian Ross, a close friend of Kenny Dalglish, the Rovers manager, are bottom of the second division but had held Blackburn 1-1 in the first

Nevertheless, Rovers looked to be well on the way to completing a formality when they went two up through Shearer and Roy Wegerle on Tuesday. That all changed when Gary Barnett, Iwan Roberts and Steve Ireland put Huddersfield ahead. Shearer equalised to send the tie into extra time, with Mike Newell scoring the winner after 107

Queens Park Rangers had an even trickier passage into the third round at Grimshy Town where they won a penalty shoot-out. This second leg tie finished 2-1 in Grims-by's favour, leaving the aggre-

Nayim earns treble in rout of Watford

NAYIM, the Morrocan mid- it off for the Greeks with his field player, scored three goals on his comeback to the game yesterday when Tottenham reserves defeated Watford 10-0 in an Ovenden Papers Combination match at White Han Lane.

John Hendry also claimed a treble and the club captain, Gary Mabbutt, still unable to force his way into first team plans after injury, weighed in with one as Spurs showed they have plenty in reserve. ☐ Greece beat Iceland 3-1 in a European under-21 championship group five qualifier in Reykjavik yesterday, after leading 1-0 at half-time. Nikoalaos Mahlas opened the scoring in the fourth minute for Greece and Christos Kostic put them further ahead in the 73rd minute. The visitors conceded penalty and Thordur Gudjonsson gave the Icelanders some hope when he scored from the spot. Kostic rounded second goal in the 88th minute.

Remaining metches: October 13: Russia v Icasand, October 27: Russia v Icasand, October 27: Russia v Icasandourg, November 10: Greece v Hungary, (1993) February 16: Greece v Lusembourg, March 30: Hungary v Greece, April 12: Lusembourg v Russia, April 27: Russia v Hungary, May 19: Lusembourg v Icasand v Russia, June 15: Icasand v Russia, June 15: Icasand v Russia, June 16: Icasand v Hungary, September 7: Hungary v Russia, Icasand v Lusembourg, October 12: Lusembourg v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Greece v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Creace v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Denet 26: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Denet 26: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Greece v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Greece v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Greece v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Greece v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Greece v Greece, October 28: Hungary v Lusembourg, November 18: Lusembo ☐ England's under-18 side were beaten 2-0 by their French counterparts in Boulogne-sur-mer yesterday. Philippe De Azevedo, al-ready signed up with Olympique Marseille, put the French ahead in the 25th minute and Lille's Antoine Sibierski added the second five minutes from the end of a match played in front of 7,000

BADMINTON

gate score 3-3 and the Premier League club survived by winning the shoot-out 6-5.

Chris Kiwomya completed the first treble of his career as Ipswich Town brushed Wig-an Athletic aside by 4-0 and 6-2 overall. There was an upset at Plymouth Argyle though. Peter Shilton's second division side defeated Luton Town, of the first, 3-2 on the night and 5-4 overall.

Nottingham Forest are interested in Guy Whittingham and the Portsmouth forward, who scored his twelfth and thirteenth goals of the season at Fratton Park where Blackpool were sunk 2-0 and 6-0 on aggregate.

Mark Bright claimed the night's first goal, scoring after only 23 seconds for Sheffield Wednesday at Hartlepool United. It finished 2-2 at the Victoria Commend but Wednesday Victoria Ground, but Wednesday progress by a 5-2 aggre-

Bolton Wanderers collected their first win in eight games against Wimbledon at Selhurst Park, where Tony Philliskirk, with his third of the season, scored the game's only goal. But Bruce Rioch's second division side bowed out 3-2 overall. Afterwards, Joe Kinnear, the Wimbledon manager, had to be restrained by his coaching staff after heated exchanges with a group of disgrunded Wimbledon supporters.

The match attracted a crowd of only 1,987 - sparse even by Wimbledon's modest standards. Kinnear said: 'This place is a morgue. I was upset with two idiots in the stand who had been having a go at a couple of my young players.

"Of course, it is frustrating playing here. We are probably better playing away because being at home is no advantage

Steve White, of Swindon Town, scored the 200th goal of his career in a 3-2 win over Torquay United, which put Swindon through by a handsome 9-2 aggregate. Glenn Hoddle, the Swindon playermanager, and Dave Mitchell were the other home scorers.

Slow but sure: Andrew Davies and Miniature Quickstep leaping to victory at Wembley

Davies clear as champion young rider

By Jenny MacArthur

ANDREW Davies, an 18year-old from Cardigan, had an impressive win on the sixyear-old, Miniature Quickstep, in the young riders' championship on the opening day of the Horse of the Year Show at Wembley yesterday.

The competition, sponsored by Chaigley Horseboxes, had a difficult opening round — "a bit strong for the under-18s." Davies remarked - which produced only three clear

In the jump-off, Rebecca Ockendon-Day on Silver Cinder and Guy Goosen, the favourite, on Electrik II both had fast times but collected

Davies, the winner of the junior European championships, needed only a slow clear round to win. Miniature Quickstep, who was bred to race but proved too small, duly obliged with a faultless round - nearty five seconds slower than Goosen. Davies, who was also among those placed equal fourth with four faults in the first round on his second horse Marquis D'Elvange. Despite his youth Davies is no stranger to Wembley. He was runner-up in the national grade B championship last year on Master Scot, and the previous year won both the junior newcomers and the junior foxhunter on Classical

This week he has qualified for five classes including the mpic Star Spotters on Sunday in which he will ride silver medal at this year's Gothenburg, his silver medalof the BEIB British novice championship on Bitteswell Facilight, merely competing at Wembley was the fulfilment of

The 40-something grandmother from Leicestershire has been trying to qualify for quite a few years and finally succeeded in June after winning the regional novice final at Cheltenham.

"When the red curtain opened and I heard my number being called I thought: This is fabulous — I've lived all my life for this."

The sense of occasion was not lost on her five-year-old mare, bought from Ireland a year ago by her husband. spite going first in the six-horse jump-off — many of which were more experienced horses - their fastclear round remained unbeaten. Irwin, whose 20-year-old daughter. Amanda, came with her to Wembley as her groom, will take the mare into Newconier competitions next year in an effort to recapture her Wembley dream.

RESULTS. Chalgiey Horseboxes Young Riders Champoniship. 1. Manature Cuchstep (A Dawes) 6 in 39.44 C. Becink iii (G Godsen), 4 in 34.53 3 Silver Conder (R Otherdon-Day), 4 in 35.03 BBB Birdsh Novice Championship: 1 Batterwell Factight (A twent) 6 in 28.32 2 in With A Chance (F Hamsont 6 in 28.33 2 2 in With A Chance (F Hamsont 6 in 28.33 3 Fulshaw Carbon Copy (G Huddon) 6 in 31.12 BBPS Children's Riding Pony of the Year (12.25hi 1 Crayton Penny, Boyal (J Woods), (13.25hi 1 Cuson Datton (A Alexander), (14.25hi 1 Whatton Domino (P Tromas) Kelih Lusford Cob of the Year Lightweight. 1, Mr and Mis Rawding 9 Hillenny Marble (S Rawding), 2, Mrs J Finch's Portman (R Cilvert 3, Mrs M Gardner's Jano Miss J Gardner's Benedict (R Gardner) Heevyweight: 1 Mrs H Guitaria Supened (R Cilvert), 2, Mrs E Coomber's Pluto (E Coombert, 3, Baileys Horse Feeds' Orbit (L Russell) The 128 Centimetras Grand Prix, 1 Linte Chooper

IN BRIEF

UP/100150

Mansell swings into golf action

Nigel Mansell, the world For-mula One motor racing champion, will play in the South Australian golf championship after his last race of the season. The tournament starts at the Royal Adelaide course on November 12, four days after the Australian grand prix. It will be the second tournament attempted by Mansell. who plays off a handicap of two.

Mansell failed to make the cut in the 1988 Australian Open at Royal Sydney after rounds of 75 and 87.

Swift recovery

Boxing: Wally Swift, who feared he would have his right wrist in plaster for three months after losing the British light-middleweight title to Andy Till last month, has been told that he is suffering from a bad sprain, not a fracture.

Henry Akinwande, from London, will meet either Francesco Damiani, of Italy, or Magne Havnaa, from Denmark, for the European heavyweight title vacated by Lennox Lewis at the Albert Hall on November [1. ☐ Sumbu Kalambay, of Italy, will defend his European middleweight title against Steve Collins, of Ireland, at Verbania in northern Italy on Oc-

No easy passage

Athletics: There will be no preselection for the world crosscountry championships, to be held in Bilbao in March. The British Amateur Athletic Federation said yesterday that hopefuls must compete at Corby on February 6 in an inter-counties event.

□John Ngugi, from Kenya. the five-times world crosscountry champion, has entered the Great South Run at Portsmouth on Sunday.

Emergency landing

Equestrianism: Exercise Bloodhound II, the annual autumn Nato manoeuvre, was interrupted at Enschede yesterday to allow horses for the Dutch three-day event championship at Bockelo to be landed after gales prevented them from crossing by ferry from Harwich or Dover.

Out of the saddle

Cycling: Louise Jones, the Commonwealth sprint chamtired from racing. Jones. 29. now intends to coach new tal-

Troke ends sparkling career She also played for England in dozens of friendly interna-

THE retirement of Helen Troke, which was announced yesterday, brings to an end years, her body and mind are the career of one of the finest badminton players in British history. With standards rising reluctant to take any more. elsewhere in the world, particularly in the Far East, it is unlikely that another Briton will emulate her successes: two European titles, two medal and a sprinkling of open titles around the globe. Troke was dedicated, athletic, hard-working to a fault. quiet, unpretentious, and so wrapped up in the business of becoming a top badminton player that it may surprise some to learn she has decided to stop at the age of 27. She would have liked to continue until the world championships Birmingham next year, the centenary year of the Badmin-

Atlanta: Sid Bream drove in one run and scored twice and John Smoltz gave up four hits in eight innings to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 5-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first game of the best-of-championship yesterday.

seven National League

Smoltz, who beat Pittsburgh on a six-hit shutout in the final game of the 1991 play-offs.

extended the Pirates' scoreless streak to 29 innings before yielding an eighth-inning

series

Commonwealth titles, world

bronze medal, Uber Cup silver

By Richard Eaton ton Association of England. But after playing on the international circuit for 12

Indeed, but for injuries, which were not surprising given the amount she competed and the extent to which she pushed herself in training, Troke might have come closer to her aim of becoming world

At her best, which was when she was aged 20 and 21, there were only three or four Chinese players who could safely say they were better than her. Yet the Southampton woman achieved this level without special shot-making talents and with obvious technical defects. Her hallmarks were a steady length, tenacious movement. a solid smash, and particularly well disguised variations from the round-the-head position.

BASEBALL

Atlanta secure first play-off success lead-off home run to José Lind. The relief pitcher, Mike

Stanton, hurled a scoreless

ninth inning after Smoltz reported rightness in his arm.

Smoltz struck out six batters and walked three in the game.

burgh in all three of his postseason starts against them. He may start two more games if Atlanta took a 1-0 lead in the second inning, thanks largely to a fielding error, and extended their advantage to 3-

the series goes the distance.

Smoltz has beaten Pitts-tionals which others sometimes considered a tiring hindrance. She earned 118 caps, surpassed by only one other Englishwoman, Gill Clark. "I am full of praise for someone who was such an exceptional servant for England," Ciro Ciniglio, the Eng-gave Troke her first cap at the age of 15. Troke was proud of having qualified for badminton's Olympic debut two months ago, but the tough tournament schedule this required land manager, said. Ciniglio exhausted her. She had little left in Barcelona and was badly beaten by Tang Jiuhong, the world champion. That helped her make up her mind.

Troke also plans to marry soon and wants to start a family. She deserves the rest.

0 in the fourth, aided by

The series is a rematch of last year's play-offs, when the West division champions, the Braves, beat the Pirates, from the East, four games to three.

Four of those games were decided by one run. Pitching dominated, with four shutouts, and Atlanta held Pittsburgh scoreless over the last

22 innings. The Braves went on to lose the World Series in seven games to the Minnesota

Twins. (Reuter)

another Pittsburgh mistake.

Appleyard wants rise in standard

By SYDNEY FRISKIN

PHIL Appleyard, the president of the Hockey Association, yesterday called for an improvement in the standard of the national league, which is generally believed to be inferior to that of Germany and Holland.

He was reporting to the council in his capacity as chairman of the Great Britain men's hockey board on Britain's performance at the Olympic Games in Barcelona. 'It is fair to say that our world ranking is about fifth, but something is being done about it," he said. Affirming that discussions had already taken place on management and coaching structures, he called for support of the forthcoming "road show" to be conducted by John Hurst, assistant manager, and Mike Hamilton, assistant coach, at Reading. Cardiff, Edinburgh and Coventry. Opportunity will be afforded at these places for people to ask questions and make suggestions.

Appleyard was appointed to the Council of the International Hockey Federation (FIH) last weekend.

The Royal Bank of Scotland indoor finals night at Crystal Palace on January 22 will not be televised on BBC Grandstand. In order to ensure the continued support of the sponsors, negotiations are in progress with other television networks.

FOOTBALL

NEVILLE OVENDEN COMBINATION:
First division, Totenham 10 Westord 0
Fusham 3, Swindon 0 Second division:
Carolli 1, Bristol Rovers 1
UNDER-18 INTERNATIONAL MATCH:
France 2, England 0 (all Boulogne-Sur-Mer France)

France)
BOODLE AND DUNTHORNE ISFA CUPFirst round: Brentwood 4 Firmbodon 1
Schools marches Bury GS 3 Thomleyth
College 1 Fored 1 Reption 0 Lancing 2
Charterhouse 0 Hulme GS, Cidham 4, Boilton 1 St Cuthbert 9 4, Rutherland 0, Strewsbury 3
ENDITIES GAS TEORNY, Dog.

Shrewsbury 1
ENGLISH BRITISH GAS TROPHY: Don-caster 3, Marrogare 0, Stough 5 South Donel 2, Southampton 0 Aldershot 3 Walsall 5, Newcastle 0
TALLAN CUP, Third round, Poggia 0, Inter Milan 0
EUROPEAN UNDER-21 CHAMPION-SHIP: Group live qualities: Groece 3, Iceland 1

Late results on Tuesday

Late results on Tuesday

COCA-COLA CUP: Second round, second teg. Backfurn Rovers 4 Hudder-field Town 3 (set agg 5-4). Chesterletd 1, Liverpool 4 (agg 5-9). Commbly Town 2, CPR 1 (aer agg 3-9). Commbly Town 2, CPR 1 (aer agg 3-3). CPR 4 (on 6-5 on pens): Hartiepool United 2. Sheftled Wednesday 2 (agg 2-5). Extraction Cry 1. Circlair Palaco 1 (agg 2-4). Peterborough United 2. Lecester City 1 (agg 2-3). Permouth Argyle 3. Linon Town 2 (atg 5-4). Ponsmouth 2, Blackpool 9 (agg 6-0). Swindon Town 3. Tompus, United 2 (agg 9-2). Wimbledon 0. Botton Wanderers 1 (agg 3-3). GM VALDHALL CONFERIENCE: Dagenham and Redbindge 5. Woking 1. Famborough 2, Merchy 1. Famening 2. Starlord 0. Northern 1. Almonam 2. Starlord 0. Northern 1. Almonam 2. Storgh 1. Championship Shield: Wiccombe 3. Colchester 0.

B AND Q CUP- First round, Artroanh 3

EUROPEAN UNDER-21 CHAMPION-SHIP Group qualifier: Sweden 6 Bulgana

PONTINS CENTRAL LEAGUE. First divi-sion; Sprigev (), Leob 5 Hors County 2 Manchesse Unived (), Sundersand 1 Wol-verhampton 3 Second division; Pon Vale 1 Coverny 3, Presion () Lenty, 5 KONICA WELSH LEAGUE CUP: Preim-nary round: Alan Lido (). Balon Forty 2 Holywell 2 Connan's Ouax 3 Postponed: TNT GOLD CUP Quarter-finals Grusaders 1 Bancor 5 Dishlery 0 Ballymena 2 Glenavon 1 Cidiomala 2

DIADORA LEAGUE First division; Billencav 0, Hirchin 2 Second division; Egham 1 Ruisilip Manor 3 Hernel Hemp-stead 3, Newbury 2 Hungerland 1, Wor-thing 1 Ware 2 Tittary 0 Third division; Brackinet 0 Flackwell Heath 4 Camberley

FOR THE RECORD

Petersfield 1 Epsom and Ewell 0, Thame 1 Heritord 1, Timg 1, Fingstury 1, Royston 0, Leighton 1, Collier Row 3, Northwood 2 Clapton 0 Cup: First round: Aylesbury United 4, Aveley 2 Barking 1, Wirvenhoe 6, Chalton 8, Peter 2, Safrion Welden 1; Enfield 7, Whytelsale 0, Mardenhead United 1, Leading 1.

T. reading 1

FA VASE: Preimmary round replays:
Seimersdae 1, Ashion United 3 Namerich
1, Grove 4. Three Bridges 1, Turbridge
Wells 2, Fleel 2, Shobrig Sports 1 Priory
Eastherooft 3, Qahnam 1 Armhorpe
Weltare 4, Hallam 0, RC Warw.cd 1 Oldbury
2, Berkhamsted 1 Bounne 2, Barrion 4, Artistey 1, Durislable 5, Long Bouchy 1,
Croydon 1, Greenwich Borough 3 Caydon 1, Greenwich Borough 3
BEAZER HOMES LEAGUE: Burclays
Commercial Services Cup: First round.
Ilinst leg: Ashlord Town 0. Stavesend and Northleet 4, Burton 0. Greetery 1. Donchester 1. Bashley 1. Forest Green 0. Dudley 0.
Hastmins Town 1. Chelmstord 4 Mangale 2.
Down 1. Nuneation 0. VS Rugby 0. Newport
IOW 0. Waterscowler 1, Poole 0. Andover 0.
Reddich 3. Birognoth 0. Flushed and Chamonds 4. Ameristone 0. Tamworth 0.
Bedworth 0. Trowbridge 2. Stoutbridge 1.
Weston-super-4dars 4, Newport AFC 4.
JEWSON EASTERN COUNTIES.

JEWSON EASTERN COUNTIES
LEAGUE Premier division: Das 1 Wasten
0. Gorleston 1, Wrosham 5, Halstead 1, Histon 2 Havenbil 1 Weboch 2, Loweston
4, Great rampuil 0, Norwich United 1,
Fakenham 2 FRENCH LEAGUE: Nimes û, Montpelliet 0 SCHOOLS MATCH: Ardingly 3, Alderham

BASEBALL

BOXING ANTWERP: World Bosing Council International championship. Herbie Hyde (GB holder) bi Craig Poteisen (Aus), ko 8th md

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE (NHL)

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE (NHL)
Northeal Canadiens 5, Hentor's Whales 1
New Jersey Devits 4 New York Islanders 3
Philadelphia Fivers 3 Philadelphia Fivers 3 Philadelphia Fivers 3 Philadelphia Magnetals 6 Toront Magnetals 5, St Louis Blues 6, Minnesota North Stars 4, Winniporg Jets 4 Defroit Red Wings
1, Los Angelios Hings 5, Caligary Flames 3
Vandouver Canucks 5, Edmonton Oilers 4 GOLF

WARRINGTON: Anvil North Region club professional championship. First round: 57. 17. McColl. (Northendent, P. Allan Astrona-Makerten), 68. P. Jackson (Bichmond), B. Farmer (Oakerds), A. Dysón, (Headingley), 69. P. Bradley (Billinghern), J. Hamson (Barnard Castley), G. Berry (Brontorough), D. W. Lockert (Lightcittle), 70. P. de Valle (Morecambe), P. Barley (Didotory), M. Foster (Herham),

E200

SONY WORLD RANKINGS: 1, N Faloo (GB) 22-40 points, 2 F Cruples (US), 16-33 3 J-M Okazara (Sp., 12-94, 4, B Langer (GE) 12-83 5, I Woosnam (GB), 12-45 6 G Norman (Aus.), 11-92 7, S Ballesteros (Sp., 10-49, 8, P Aznger (US), 10-46 8, N Price (SA) 10-37 10, J Cook (US), 10-27

RUGBY UNION

Certimetres Grand Prix. 1 Little Chopper (S Stokes), clear in (3 98sec) 2, Half A Penny II, Whitaker), clear in (34 73, 3, Miss Nancy IM Burns), 4 in 41 72

CLUB MATCHES: Cardifi 75, Penanh 7, Ebbw Vale 38, Newbridge 15
SCHOOLS MATCHES: Bizhop Vesey's 11, Old Swinlard Hospital 5, Cotstons 16, Bristol 63, 3 Manchester GS 41 Widnes 12, Perse 0, Notwich 29, Reed 9 16, Douat 12, 15 Edmund 9, Bishop's Storifierd College 67, Chichoster HS 27, Pierrepoint 8, Halliford 12, Given 7 FCS Vimbeldon 3, Signetiam 5, Criatory 56, Douat 3, Si Curstan's College 56, Rochester Maths 0, Sealord 44, Si George's Westnidge DALLY MAIL U-18 CUP, First round' RGS DAILY MAIL U-18 CUP, First round* RGS Guidroid 49, Wellington HS 26

RUGBY FIVES REPRESENTATIVE MATCHÉS, Rugby Fives Association 92 Old Radiovans B4 RFA Club 117 Wesser 88 RUGBY LEAGUE

GREENALLS LANCASHIRE CUP: 84mi-final Vigan 46, Oldham 8 JOHN SMITH'S YORKSHIRE CUP: Semi-final: Shelfield 12, Hull 8

SNOOKER DUBAI DUTY FREE CLASSIC: Quarter final, J Watana (Thou to W Thome (Engl.) 5-( Weahara first 36-9), 112-0, 57-90, 150-4, 114-2 55-94, 88-36), A McManus (Scot) bt M Bernett, Wall, 5-1 (McManus inst. 76-4, 60-46, 73-53, 65-7

SQUASH RACKETS

VANCOUMER. Canada: Women's world Open. Second round: L Open English: N. Tarmaho Fini. 3-1. 92. 94. R Lambourne (Aus) to D Sommers (Hold), 9-6. 9-5. 95. Macter (English R O'Callaghan (Re). 9-4. 9-5. 9-6. 9-6. 9-6. 9-7. S Homer (English D D Nexton (RC). 9-3. 9-9. S Homer (English D D Nexton (RC). 9-3. 9-4. 9-0. Lirrong (Aus.) to R Macree (English). 9-1. 9-1. 3-1. M Manni (Aus.) of Tiverio (Morean (US). 9-3. 9-0. 9-0. M Le Monman (English). 9-3. 9-0. 9-0. M Le Monman (English). 9-3. 9-0. 9-0. M Le Monman (English). 9-3. 9-0. 9-3. 9-4. C Jacoman (English L Channas (English). 9-4. 9-2. 9-3. S Schoner (Ger). bit H Van Hoom (Holl), 10-8. 9-2. 7-9. 9-2. S Wingh (English). 10-8. 9-2. 7-9. 9-3. S Morale (English). D Charlotta, 19-6. 9-3. F. Geaves (English). D Charlotta, 19-6. 9-3. F. Geaves (English). D Charlotta, 19-6. 9-3. F. Geaves (English). Securer (Holl), 9-10. 9-2. 9-3. 9-9. S Decov. (NZ) to: (Natch (SA). 9-6. 9-2. 9-4. L Open (English). Tarmano (English). 9-1. 9-2. 9-4. R Lambourre (Aus.). D Sommers (Holl), 9-6. 9-5. 9-3. S Macker (English). P O Cellaghan.

TABLE TENNIS

SCARBOROUGH: European Women's League: Super division: England 2. Germany 4 English Iriss] L Lomas bi N Sinuse, 31-12, 21-19 F Goodel lest to Q Nemes, 10-21, 17-21, 4 Gordon lest to C Plaedel (21-18, 17-21, 14-21 Lomas and A Holi bi Nemes and Struce, 20-22, 21-13, 21-12, Lomas lost to Nemes, 14-21, 21-7, 13-21, Goodali lost to Praedet, 10-21, 17-

TENNIS

ZURICH: Women's tournament: First found: S Graf (3er) Df is Habsudova (Cst. 7-5, 6-1, P Shriver (US) bt E Golarsa (III, 6-6, 8-1, A Simadova (Cst bt L Alen (US) 4-6, 8-6 6-1, A stimatowa (C2) bit Levin (O3) 4-6, 3, 6-4 J Wiesene (Austra) bit Listdemester (Peru) 7-6, 6-4, J Wiesener Hussins) bit Cademiciser (Peru), 7-5, 6-4 H Susco-a (C2) bit P Hy (Can) 6-3, 6-3 Second round: 2 Garison (US) bit J Duire (GB), 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 to Pithy (Can) 6-3, 6-3. Second round: 2. Gamson (US) to J Dutie (18), 3-6. 6-4. TOULOUSE. Men's tournament: First round. J Semennik (Holf) bt C-U Stoeb (Ger) 7-6. 6-7, 7-6. A Medizedev (Uhr) bt J Golwitzer (Ger), 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, C Bergstroem (Swel bt J Hasek (Switz), 7-6. 6-2. P Gauther (First D Soutes (Fir 6-3. 6-3. 6-4. C Pacine (Fir) bt A Cherbasov (Russ., 4-6. 6-3. 6-4. C Pacine (Fir) bt A Cherbasov (Russ., 4-6. 6-4. C Pacine (Fir) bt A Cherbasov (Russ., 4-6. 6-4. 6-1. M Hosser (Switz), bt D D Delatre (Fir), 6-1, 7-6. Second round. B Gibert (US) bt R Gibert (Fir), 6-3, 6-4. J Swetsson (Swel bt D Camporese (II), 6-3. Swetsson (Swel bt D Camporese (II), 6-3. Swetsson (Swel bt D Camporese (II), 6-3. Swetsson (Swel bt D Camporese (III), 6-3. Second (Russina), 6-4. S. J Swetsson (Swel bt D Camporese (III), 6-3. Swell bt G Perez-Roldan (Ag), 6-4. S. F Lind (III), 11 bt L koelowood (Ger), 6-6. 6-7. Swell bt B Perio (Arg bt D P Rescaru (Rom), 6-2. 6-3. F Fondang (Fir), bt J Bunillo (Sp), 7-5. 6-3. H Skott (Austina) bt M Noevermans (Holf), 7-5. 6-3. T Carbonell (Sp) bt F Rong (Sp), 6-4. 7-5. Sydoney, (Austina) bt J Morgan (Aus.), 6-4. 6-3. C Van Rencture (SA) bt S Maissola (Japan), 7-5. 7-6. N Borwick (Aus), 6-1. B-3. Second (Found), 10 P Rostagon (US), 7-6. 6-7. 6-4. A Rgassi (US) bt J Grabb (US), 6-4. 6-9. H Bandrus (Holf) bt G Doyle (Aus), 6-1. 6-3. Second (Swel bt P Baur (Ger), 7-6. 7-5. A Agassi (US) bt J Grabb (US), 6-4. 6-2. P Haantus (Holf) bt G Doyle (Aus), 6-1. 6-3. Second (Swel bt P Baur (Ger), 7-6. 7-5. A Second (Swel bt P Baur (Ger), 7-6. 7-5. Second (Swel bt P Baur

On Mondays, sport and business will change ends.

The new Times. For all times.

THESETIMES

Only 1,000 diehards expected to travel

Leeds will have to cope without fanatical support

Although the game is impor-tant there is little or no interest in Barcelona itself so the attendance will be very low

Ray Fell. chairman of Leeds

United Supporters Club, said that many of those who would normally be expected to follow their team into the European arena will, on this occasion.

have to be content with watching the game on television.

"It goes without saying that the major problem is the cost of travelling such a long distance," he said. "To say that the supporters of Leeds United were dismayed at the outcome of the Uefa investigation would be an understatement.

"Once again, the last group plane bringing the South Africans could not be obtained for the team for its scheduled granted while the plane was in flight but the pilot decided to go to neighbouring Ivory Coast to await official

Richard Owubokiri, top goalscorer in Portugal with six through a two-hour workout.

good team of professionals not underrate any team."

in August (AFP)

football after 28 years in exile.

Authorisation was

THE fanatical support that has proved such a significant factor in the rise of Leeds United over the past three years will be notably absent in Spain tomorrow night when the club meets Stuttgart, of Germany, to contest a place in the European Cup second

The decision taken by Uefa, the game's European governing body, earlier this week to name Barcelona's Nou Camp Stadium as the venue for the third and deciding leg of the first-round tie means that the Yorkshire chub can expect to have no more than 1,300 supporters in attendance. Uefa had decided that the tie should be replayed because after declaring the result of last Wednesday's second leg a 3-0 win to Leeds because Stuttgart had fielded an ineligible, fourth overseas player in their 4-1 defeat at Elland Road.

Although the stadium can hold 120,000 spectators, a spokesman for Barcelona pre-

Lagos: South Africa's World

Cup football campaign, which starts here with a qualifying match against Nigeria on Saturday, ran into several

After an 18-hour flight from South Africa, during which their plane was forced to stopover in Abidjan because they could not get landing permission, the South Airicans were taunted by local football supporters at the team's coach, then rejected the training ground offered by the Nigerians as dangerous.

George Nene, the African

National Congress representative, came to the rescue by suggesting that the team use the American International

School, which they did Friday's final practice session will be held at the Surelere stadium, venue for Landing permission for the Saturday's match.

Stanley Tshabalala.

South Africans run into difficulties

arrival

notification.

dicted yesterday that fewer of people taken into consideration are the supporters. This really is a totally ridiculous and unfair situation because it than 15,000 would attend the game. "We are anticipating that around 9,000 supporters of Stuttgart will make the journey from Germany," he said. "We have been told to was Stuttgart who broke the rules, yet it is Leeds United who are suffering. expect between 1,000 and 1,300 people from England.

"Initially, I thought we would do well to get 1,000 fans over to Spain but I am now confident that we will have more than that figure. To be honest. I am just hoping that the Spanish public will turn out in force and back

With Wallace still absent because of injury, Howard Wilkinson, the Leeds manager, seems certain to name the side which defeated Stuttgart 4-1 in the second leg at Elland Road nine days ago. "This is a one-off and we are supposed to be good at cup football." Wilkinson said.

Dieter Hoeness, the Stuttgart business manager, was angered when asked at a press conference whether Stutigart would be fielding four foreigners again.

"I don't understand that at all," he said. "What more can I say when I look how the English press has fought for Leeds after the Uefa ruling and how we have been branded as the lucky souls of the nation in Germany."

Hoeness and the dub coach. Christoph Daum, have been under fire for their mistake, which could be very costly if their team are eliminated. Stuttgart, 3-0 winners in the first leg, lost 4-1 at Leeds but would have gone through on the away goals rule but for their blunder. The Germans are deter-goals for Boavista, will lead the Nigerian attack and their mined to make amends. "I Dutch coach, Clemens promise that everybody who has anything to do with this Westerhof, was in a buoyant dub will fight until they drop." mood as his men went Hoeness, a former German chance of beating South Afri-Daum said: "We have been ca," he said. "We have a very given a sporting chance and we are going to use it." The goalkeeper, Eike Immel a former international, said: "We have been through heavwho have already arrived for this crucial match. Every hope is on them. All the same we do en and hell. Now we are somewhere in between. South Africa lost their first "For the older players like two competitive matches since being readmitted to world me this is perhaps the last > of a European competition." Stuttgart yesterday decided to travel to Barcelona as soon as they could to give themselves as much time as possible to prepare for the match in peace and quiet without fur-ther hounding.

chance for us to reach the final

Putting on the style: Ian Woosnam gets down to some serious work on the greens in preparation for the Toyota World Match Play Championship, which starts at Wentworth's West Course today. Preview, page 34

Pitch may lead to negative play

East Rutherford, New Jersey: Playing matches during the World Cup finals on a smaller playing surface at Giants Stadium here in 1994 may lead to more defensive contests, Walter Gagg, Fifa's technical officer, admitted stadium, Walter Gagg said that the proposed dimensions of 66 metres by 103 metres would cost each player an average of three square metres' playing space. Normally, pitches must measure 68 metres by 105 metres.

"On the whole, we think the teams will adapt to the smaller field," Gagg said. "It should not effect technical ability. The teams will work in the training sessions on those dimensions. They will adapt.' He added that it was possible that some teams might even try to use the smaller field to "The smaller a pitch is, it becomes easier for a weak team to defend that area," Gagg said. "We knew from some Cup league matches, when the weak team is play ing a Cup team on a small field it's always easier to defend. But in World Cup we quality of teams." Guido Tognomi. Fifa's press officer, said a smaller than regulation Giants Stadhun field was more acceptable than not including a World Cup site in the New York metropolitan area.

This is the most spectacular stadium in the world," Tognoni said. "Not to play in it because it is one meter less on each side would have been

Fifa, football's world goveming body, has known all along that the playing surface at Giants Stadium would not meet the World Cup standards. However, it has been willing to live with that fact just to have a presence in one of the world's largest media One of the areas of concern was in the corners of the ovalshaped stadium, which is the home for the New York American Football teams in the National Football League. However, with a 66-metre width, players will still have three metres to take corner

"It is absolutely possible," Gagg said. "A player only needs two or three steps. There is pleaty of

The other major area of concern at Giants Stadium was its artificial surface. Plans originally called for a grass field to be installed several months before the World Cup gets under way on June 17, 1994.

However, the general man-ger of the stadium in the Meadowlands sports complex said officials were considering installing a test grass field either in Giants Stadium or in one of the adjacent parking lots next year.

Michael Rowe said that a next year in the Pontiac Silverdome in Michigan, one of nine sites chosen to stage the World Cup. That facility also has an artificial surface. (Reuter) □ Wrexham's FA Cup rum last season — they beat Arsenal and took West Ham United to a replay — helped turn a £72,000 loss into a £330,000 profit, the club's as all is forgiven annual accounts, announced yesterday, show. For the first time, Wrexham, of the third division, had a El million turn-over, of which £454,000 was due to incoming transfer

ALLAN Lamb, who led the Northamptonshire cricketers to victory in the NatWest Trophy final last month, has been reappointed the club's captain for 1993, despite the disciplinary action taken against him in August. Steve Coverdale, the North-

Dooley

opens book on violence

DUDLEY Wood, secretary of the Rugby Football Union, yesterday ruled out disciplinary action against Wate Dooley, the England lock forward who admitted in his autobiography that he used violence on the rugby field.

Dooley tells in The Tower and the Glory, which goes on sale today, of incidents in two five nations' championship matches and in another during a match against Queens land last year. He was suspended for one international after punching Phil Davies, of Wales, at Cardiff in Dooley writes: "I saw a Welsh fist flash at John Hall. I saw red, literally. It was a gut reaction. I lashed out at Hairs assailant and the punch land-ed with a sickening thud on Davies's face." Davies suffered a hairline fracture of the cheekbone and Dooley writes

'I had a deep sense of regret."

tion of old episodes being reinvestigated by the Rugby

Football Union, although

Dooley gives graphic accounts

Wood denied that there was any similarity between

Dooley's book and the video of football fouls featuring Vinnie

Jones. "Wade has done a

Jones. "Wade has done a couple of things that he and we regret and be has paid the price. They are history."

In his book, Dooley also admits elbowing Doddie Weir in the ear last season, which was dealt with by England management. Dooley says:

"Doddie whacked me with his elbow on the chin. Moments later, I caught him on the back of the ear with my elbow. I knew I had overstepped the mark and had shown the sort of indiscipline England were

On the Queensland incident, he explains: "Sam Scott-

Young raked an England player lying on the deck. I stopidly sought retribution by taking a swing at Scott-Young. It was a loss of self-control."Dooley paid for that one by breaking a hand and trying to eradicate.

Lamb leads

More rugby, page 34

Or! tour.

However, there is no quesamptorshire chief executive, said yesterday that Lamb's fine and suspension by the county after his allegations of ball-tampering by Pakistan had had no bearing on the decision. Lamb was also fined £5,000 by the Test and County Cricket Board (TCCB).

Lamb, who will again have Robert Bailey as his vicecaptain, is to spend the winter playing for Western Province. The Cricketers' Association are to press the TCCB to ask umpires to inspect match balls at the end of each over next summer in order to stamp out tampering. "I would guarantee that would cut out the problem altogether," said David Graveney, the spokes-man for the association. Surrey were recently fined

£1,000 by the TCCB for doctoring the ball for the third

Sale of Reconditioned Mobile Buildings We have 17,500 sq ft of relocatable mobile units, occupied at Stansted Airport by a major UK company for 3½ years.

> THIS IS NOW FOR SALE AT LESS THAN HALF PRICE

The units were built by one of the leading manufacturers in the country, and are constructed and finished to a very high standard using low

Virtually any size building can be supplied with prices starting from £8.50 per square foot (ex. VAT)

For example: 24' ×24' - £4,900 24' ×56' - £11,400 48' ×40' - £16,300 48' ×80' - £32,600

To maintain our stocks we also need to buy a further 30,000 sq ft of good quality buildings.

Call Martin Crysell on 081-653 3333 Fax: 081-771 2987

GLOBALMOBILE MOBILE BUILDING SPECIALISTS

8 Meadow Lane, Fetcham, Suntry KT22 9UW

Fisa head criticises drivers' infighting

MAX Mosley, the president of the international motor sports federation (Fisa). said yesterbetween Nigel Mansell, Alain Prost and Ayrton Senna over who would drive for the world champion Williams team next season had been negative for

"It gave a bad image of Formula One, but it also showed the huge importance given to Formula One by the media," he szid. "It's a pity to lose Mansell, but as long as we don't lose him through an accident, it doesn't matter so much." Mansell is leaving Williams to drive in the Indy Car series n North America next season.

"it will be interesting to see how he gets on." Mosley said. The Fisa president said that Fisa planned to develop relations with the sport in the United States

Mosley was unanimously re-elected president for a fouryear term yesterday and next year's world sponscar champ-ionship was formally IOTIShip Was formally cancelled.

1998 FORBULA ONE CALENDAR: February 28: South Almoan grand pro. Nyalami March 14: Prezion GP, Interlagos April: 4: Asan GP, Autopols (Japan). 25: San Manno GP, Imola (Italy). Mary: 9: Spanish GP, Baccelona 25: Monaco GP June 13: Caracian GP, Mortreal July: 4: Fronch GP. Magny-Cours. 11: British GP, Steerstona. 25: German GP, Hootlesthett. August: 15: Hungainen GP, Buckerses 25: Begian GP, Spa. September: 12: Italian GP, Monaco 25: Portuguese GP, Espoil Celober 26: Japanese GP, Spa. September 12: Italian GP, Monaco 25: Portuguese GP, Boord Gelober 26: Japanese GP, Suzuka. November 21: Japanese GP, Suzuka. November 21: Japanese GP, Suzuka.

Hendry maintains mastery FROM PHIL YATES IN DUBAL

STEPHEN Hendry's mastery of Terry Griffiths continued here at the Al Nasr stadium. last night. Hendry, the world snooker champion and world No. 1, ruthlessly whitewashed Griffiths 5-0 to reach the semifinals of the Dubai Duty Free

In May, Hendry inflicted one of the heaviest defeats in world championship history when he trounced Griffiths 16-4 in the semi-finals. A similar level of domination yesterday helped him to record his fourteenth victory over Griffiths, the 1979 world champion and world No. 6, in as many professional

Hendry, who plays James Wattana today for a place in the final of the season's first ranking event, was at a loss to explain his form against Griffiths.

"I don't know what it is but I always seem to play incredible snooker against him." Hendry said. "There's a big confidence factor and a lot of coincidence

From the outset, Hendry's potting and positional play were flawless. The Scot, 23, compiled breaks of 62, 50, 41, 43 and 77 before completing the most impressive of victories inside an hour with a run of 120 — the highest of the tournament's final stages — in the fifth frame.

Hendry's fellow countryman, Alan McManus, also secured a quarter-final place with an equally comfortable 5-I success over Mark Bennett. McManus, a professional for only two years, meets John Parrott, the defending cham-pion, in what will be his fifth appearance in the last four of a ranking tournament. PESULT: Quanter-first: S Herviry (Soot) bt T Griffiths (Wales), 5-0. Frame scores (Hendry first): 84-8, 118-1, 84-27, 93-34, 129-0.

Hendry and Mike Hallett have been withdrawn from the Belgian Masters later this month after a split between rival managers and promoters, Ian Doyle and Barry

Doyle resigned as Hearn's co-director of World Series Snooker Limited, saying he was "disenchanted" with the way the company was run.

Holyfield says Bruno must wait

By Srikumar Sen, boxing correspondent

EVANDER Holyfield yesterday ruled out a bout with Frank Bruno next spring. The world heavyweight boxing champion, who has been offered £5 million by Bruno's promoter, Mickey Duff, to defend in London, said there was no chance of Bruno getting a world title challenge before Lennox Lewis or Donovan "Razor" Ruddock, who are meeting in an eliminator in London on October 31.

Holyfield, who is training in Texas for his defence against

Riddick Bowe on November

13 in Las Vegas, said: "I am

none. More chance of it snowing in August. Lewis and Ruddock are fighting to challenge me and one of them will get the next fight. They are two good heavyweights, very talented and I think Lewis will win on points."

Dan Duva, Holyfield's manager, said he had not received Duff's offer as yet, but the champion had an agreement to meet the winner of the eliminator in April. "Evander is contracted to fight Lewis or Ruddock and that is what we intend to do." Duva suggested not fighting Bruno. The that Bruno should challenge chances of that are slim or Michael Moorer, the World Boxing Organisation heavyweight champion.

Frank Maloney, Lewis's manager, irritated by Duff's attempt to get in front of his man in the queue, said: "Bruno has been appearing in pantomime and Duff is believing in fairytales."

Duff had said that he had been told by Duva that Holyfield would consider a challenge by Bruno only after he had beaten a credible opponent. Bruno meets Pierre Coetzer, of South Africa, on October 17 at Wembley

Tennis sets up national league

BY ANDREW LONGMORE, TENNIS CORRESPONDENT

DESPITE the sinking fortunes of Britain's international tennis teams, the national game received a considerable lift yesterday with the announcement of backing for a new national dub league, due to begin next year.

Everest, the home improvement specialists, will put £300,000 into the league for its first three years, which is perhaps appropriate. After defeats in the Davis Cup and relegation from the Federation Cup, the game is in need of some home improvement. The league, which will initially involve more than 960

men's and women's teams at county, regional and national levels, is designed to give Britain the same competitive club framework already at the heart of successful systems in France and Germany. "This is the final piece in our tournament jigsaw," lan Peacock, chief executive of the Lawn Tennis Association (LTA), said yesterday.

Officials stressed that the league was not a replacement for the professional-based Mortgage Corporation league. Eight of the 12 teams, which will form the two divisions of the premier league, have already been decided on the basis of qualification from this year's Puma Cup, the club knock-out compention.

The winners of the league will receive £3,000 and will automatically qualify for the European Club Cup. Matches will be decided over four singles and two doubles matches, with premier league fixtures crammed into two weeks at the end of May.

"We hope the top British players, who play in the continental leagues, will come back and play for their own clubs," John Feaver, tournament di-

BOOKS p5 Pounds of flesh: the many faces of Shylock

LIFE & TIMES

APPOINTMENTS Ten pages of the cream of management jobs

THURSDAY OCTOBER 8 1992

A party to beat all parties

Everyone who is anyone will be at Jeffrey Archer's conference bash

hey are the only parties worthy of note during the Tory conference. They are the only ones that it is impossible to gatecrash. Jeffrey Archer makes no bones about it. "They are for cabinet ministers and editors. Not mere reporters. You can-not come," he told me. Each year Lord Archer of Weston-super-Mare, as he is now known, throws two lavish champagne and shepherd's pie parties in his hotel suite. They start at 10pm. They end four hours later. Cabinet ministers are supposed to limit themselves to one evening, the Wednesday or the Thursday. Last year the entire cabinet, including Lord Mackay of Clashfern, trooped in two nights running.

John Major, one of Lord Archer's closest "Flag aggregations."

no exception. "He never misses. Baroness Thatcher never used to either," Lord Archer says. She will not be at the party tonight, as she is only staying in Brighton for the day. Just as well. Lord Archer is one of the few friends the prime minister and his predecessor have in common and they rarely meet

Lord Archer: host to the great and the good cher is not perturbed. "I am going to Japan with Margaret at the weekend," he says. it was at Lord Archer's party last year that Mr Major had his celebrated run-in with John Birt, deputy director general of the BBC, accusing him of unfair coverage of the Tory party conference.

Lord Archer's parties have only become pre-eminent since the disappearance from the charmed circle of Conservative politics of Lord McAlpine of West Green, one of Baroness Thatcher's most devoted admirers, who was treasurer of the party during her leadership. Lord McAlpine's soirées were more lavish than Lord Archer's lobsters. Oysters, scrambled egg and champagne. They were held on at least two nights of the week and, cliché as it may seem, anyone who was anyone was there.

Another highlight of the cocktail circuit is the Young Conservatives' Ball. which was held last night. It provides the now traditional photograph of the lucky person or not so lucky in the days of Baroness Thatcher's leadership - escorting the prime minister around the dance floor to the strains of the First Waltz it was an ordeal for which only the bravest would volunteer as they also had to contend with the watching eves of the press hoping to see prime ministerial shoes trodden on.

Thursday night at the gathering of the Tory great and good is always reserved for the Conference Ball which will be graced tonight by John and Norma Major. It was supposed to have been a victory ball. But with the unprecedented scenes of warfare breaking out on the conserence floor a triumphalist atmosphere is not anticipated. Indeed, it may be why the organisers have opted for a "masked ball". possibly the only way of concealing the growing divisions in the party.

ANDREW PIERCE

Balancing the males of justice

The legal system is run by and for men. Helena Kennedy pleads for a fairer hearing for women omen are not going to settle for a legal syslisten to them or take account of their lives, and the system is becoming wise to that fact. Women have gone through the stage where they did the adjusting; now it is time for the institutions to change. The symbol of justice may be a woman, but why settle for

When judges were first challenged about gender bias they refused to recognise there was a problem. Indeed, many women did too. They could not see that change had overtaken our political and social institutions - that male behaviour which was once considered acceptable is no longer so, or that what was deemed chivalrous or courtly is now patronising. Conversely, we hear male judges, in relation to women lawyers and defendants alike, asking why they are so aggressive. "Why can't they act like women? Why must they act like men?" in fact, they are acting like lawyers or independent human beings. Not all judges by any means are dyed-in-the-wool reactionaries: they too can suffer from stereotyping. There are signs of movement. Judges are becoming sensitised to the arguments about accountability and are seeing the need to present a more human face to the public. Sleeves are being rolled up and efforts made to reach the people. A new generation of men are now taking their place on the bench, with different views about the world. They are more used to working alongside women as col-leagues and come from more varied backgrounds. The English bar has been renowned for its integrity and high level of professional competence, but this new generation has a particular dedication to their clients and a special commitment to the meaning and quality of justice. It was this generation which first challenged the orthodoxies of the Bar, setting up new chambers which organised democratically, and challenging the attitudes in conventional sets. They have largely been responsible for a political shift, albeit slight, within the Bar Council, and for the shaping of a less entrenched profession. It is claimed that the apotheosis of this group will be the class of '68, with their very different views about social mores and class divisions. They will surely make some difference, it is said, when and if their time really comes.

However, there is no cause for celebration. The fact that there is some change shows that movement is possible, but if judges are left to their own accords this shift will be marginal, destined to solidify like Many judges remain blinkered and arrogant. Just as can happen to children in care, hospital inmates, long-term prisoners and mental patients, they become institutionalised, dependent on known forms and reluctant to contemplate change. Even the good ones succumb to tunnel vision; the life seems to induce complacency and the system becomes an end in itself. They do see that the very notions which are idealised by the law deserve exami-nation. The ideal of objectivity, for example, is a masculine value which has come to be taken as a universal one. Often when the law fails people it is not because of some lack of objectivity but because judicial objectivity has meant a denial of the female or black or working-class experience. There is a systematic exclusion of other perspectives. Insisting on equality, neutrality and objectivity is not to The symbol of insist on judgment by the values of men of a particular justice may class. It is, therefore, important that be a woman, truly universal values are created. but why judges, the judicial settle for role has become more difficult at a practical level, symbols?

so much busier. Judges are also isolated and receive very little feedback. The people they mainly mix with socially are their own peers, who do not see them doing the job. Coupled with this isolation is the enduring characteristic of judges: they are in charge and wield great power over people's lives. They are not used to being challenged and it is hard for them to accept questioning of their function as creative. Part of the remedy for the law's failings must be reform of the judiciary. First, we have to find more accountable ways of making appointments. The current method of taking soundings among the present incumbents as to who should join their ranks means that the potential for cloning is over-whelming: existing judges effectively appoint new judges. For the Higher Court, the Court of Appeal and the House of Lords, there should be public notice that someone is being considered, with the opportunity for public debate on the appointee's track record, declared opinions and back-ground. At the moment we operate a fiction for public consumption that none of these things matters, when in fact it is acknowledged privately within the profession that prospective candidates who are deemed too progressive are unlikely to be considered for preferment. One of the strange things at the Bar is the belief that only people on the left are political. When I was a pupil barrister I remember being advised sternly by a senior member of the chambers not to mix politics with a career at the Bar. He was a Conservative MP. The process of women becoming judges and reaching the top of the legal profession cannot be left to chance or the passage of time.

A Sibyl and Prophet by Andrea Mantegna: most women lawyers who can manage a home and a career can manage a court

Positive action has to be taken to get women on to the bench in real numbers. Most women lawyers, who can manage a home and a reasonably successful career, can manage a court. When asked what skills are required for judging, male barristers always cite intelligence, judgment, integrity and "standing" (this apparently is still measured in the Lord Chancellor's Department by reference to earnings and word on the grapevine) but rarely mention patience, open-mindedness, balance or courtesy. At least 30 per cent of women are needed in the practising profession and on the bench before tokenism ceases to function and a real difference is felt. Currently 19 per cent of practitioners and 4 per cent of the bench are women. The Lord Chancellor may main-women of the right experience greatly to increase female representation at this stage, but if that is true he should initiate fast-tracking of very able younger women. I question the assertion that there are not enough women when I know competent, talented women who are not getting on to the Bench. Women at the Family Bar resist the present training structure because. rather than drawing on their expertise, they are expected to start sitting as judges in criminal courts where they have not set foot for 15-20 years. It is a ludicrous way of drawing in new personnel and smacks of the notion that the criminal courts are a good nursery

● Extracted from Eve Was Framed to be published by Chatto & Windus on Octover 19 at £16.99 for tomorrow's judge.

O Helena Kennedy 1992

IS THE LAW MALE?

Helena Kennedy, QC, is to lead a Times/Dillons debate on injustice in the legal system. Further details and a ticket application form on page 6.

When a film script becomes real life

here you are sitting in the pub and somebody says did you see this stuff about Michael Douglas booking in to a clinic to get his sex addiction sorted. somebody else says, hey, me and Michael both, difference is I can't get a sick note from the doctor for it, and there you are wondering bemusedly whether a) there is any such thing as sex addiction b) whether you're addicted too and c) if you are whether you can claim it as an excuse the next time you get caught in flagrante with Helga the au pair. (I had thought, progressive 1990s man that I am, to run that as a unisexual line addressed to women as well as men. But who are we kidding here?) I understand your confusion and I am here to set your mind at rest. Let us first dispense with the case of Michael Douglas. Douglas is a very rich, very powerful man working in Hollywood. Fifteen times a day he will be approached by 19year-old women of astonishing beauty and incredibly short skirts, who will ask him for sex. Sex in Rodeo Drive restaurants, sex across the desks of film studio offices, sex in the Paramount Pictures broom cupboard. Once, sometimes twice, a week a producer will phone him up and say "Hey! Mikey! Baby! Boychik! I got this script it's absolutely built for you Mikey." And Douglas says. "Does it involve doing it in a broom cupboard with three 19-year-old women in incredibly short skirts?" And the producer says, "How come you know the plot already? That wheendrick writer,

PRIVATE LIFE: John Diamond on what sex addiction really means he promised me nobody else even seen this script." I will grant, given the above, that Michael Douglas might have the odd problem relating to women and that his life's creed might indeed start with the words "If it moves . . . ". But this is no help for the rest of us. What the rest of us want to know is, are we as other men, if not better? That is all men really want to know. When we find ourselves changing seats on the train the better to make eye - or leg - contact with the woman who we would swear has been taking sly glimpses in our direction, is that sex addiction? When we turn a lunch date into a dinner date on some feeble pretext. or we try to persuade our wives and girlfriends to wear something more revealing and less suitable, is that sex addiction?

I'm no expert, but I doubt it. Were thought not only mother to the deed but its identical twin sister as well then every window-shopper would be arrested for shoplifting. The Pope, according to one of his more memorably unworldly encyclicals, might not be able to distinguish the thought of adultery from the deed but, as is so often the case with his Holiness, that's easy for him to say, isn't it? The reason I'm so loath to believe in sexual addiction is that I can only really think of addictions as those habits which are available to us all. Anybody can become a kleptomaniac; alcoholism is no respecter of class or bank balance as any oncecomfortably off meths drinker will tell you. But sex addiction is only available to those of us who have access to a supply of the addictive material. And most men haven't.

I assume, by the way, that sex addiction is a defence only open to those men who are in some sort of steady relationship. I'd guess that were I a New York therapist searching for a new field of practice I'd be able to persuade a few men who, unattached, are happy sleeping in a different bed every night that their lifestyle was dangerously psychopathic. The fact is, though, that most of the men who live that way enjoy themselves no end, and however much you tell them about the love of a good woman and the usefulness of knowing that when you wake up in the morning the post on the doormat is yours, they can't see what the problem is.

married and long-term partnered men I know I can think of perhaps one or two for whom sex addiction is any sort of option at all. Their partners may have grown to love their paunches and their thinning hair, their habit of turning every conversation round to QPR's chances in the cup, their quirks of personal hygiene, but the rest of the world, and especially that female and available section of it, finds all that an unacquirable taste. True: these men may have the occasional affair and if the partnership broke up they may eventually find another partner, but sex is not an addiction open to them.

I can't believe, though, that none of these men has a sex drive as powerful as Michael Douglas's, or that if they had whatever it is that Douglas has they wouldn't use it in the way that he has apparently been using it. Let us assume, then, that there are thousands of men around who, were they Douglas, would be doing what he does. They aren't so they can't. What Douglas has can't. therefore, be an addiction. QE, I rather think. D.

What we have in Douglas, then, is not a sex addict but an oldfashioned philanderer. And in Diandra, who sent him for therapy, we have not an addict's wife, but somebody who copes with her husband's philandering by giving it a fancy name which suggests that he is somehow more virile, more desirable than other husbands on her street. He may be, but addiction has nothing to do with it.

RICHARD SERRA: The sculptor has been making "carwas drawings" for 20 years in the margins of his major sculptural work. They are made out of Belgan finen, covered with thick layers of black paintstick, and cut to shape as required on site. This show constitutes Britain's first opportunity to see this side of Serra's work, and coincides with the archibidion of the large new forged steel sculpture "Weight and Measure" created specifically to take up the whole of the Dureen Gallery at the Tate. of the Duveen Gallery at the Tate. Serpentine Gallery, Kersington Gardens, W2 (071-402 6075), Daily, 10am-6pm, unbi Nov 15. Tota Gallery, Milhank, SW1 (071-921 1313), Mon-Sat, 10am-5.50pm, Sun, 2-5.50pm, until Jan 17, 1993.

LONDON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA-

o Drocuman Aicam Hall, Silk Street, EC2 (071-

THE TWO SENTLEMEN OF VENORA THE TWO MENTLEMEN OF VENORIA: Shakespeare's play is given to by David hacker for the Royal Shakespeare Company A toric for the autumn. Barbican, Silk Street, EC2 (071-638 8891) Previews from toright, 7.15pm; opens Wed, 7pm; then in repertoire. CKOSBY, STILLS AND NASH: Return of the survivors of Woodstock, fighting the dwindling popularity of recent years Classic songs such as "Suite Judy Blue Eyes", "Ohio" and "For What It's Worth" sung in effortless harmony by men who may look 50, but hopefully

DEATH AND THE MADEN: AND

Ross make up the cast. Duke of York's, St Maron's Lane.

Dorfman's scorching psychological drama on the longing for revenge. Penny Downie, Danny Webb and Hugh ats Thurs, 3pm, Sal, 4pm, 120mins.

FROM A JACK TO A KING: Witty

and packed with Socies songs. Ambassadors, West Street, London WC2 (071-836 6111), Mon-Thurs,

8.15p.n, Fri and Sat. 5.30pm and

GRAND HOTTL: Musical barriey sugar Berlin in the Twenties

WT (071-580 9562), Mon-Sat. 8p

HAMLET! Aun Rickman

Sentimental, American, entertaming. Dominion, Tottenham Court Road.

fascenaturno voice dominates a gamerally mins (sold out for complete run).

low-key production. Riverside Studios, Crisp Road, W6

(081-748 3354), Mon-Sat, 7.30p

AN INSPECTOR CALLS: Stephen

Daldry's astonishingly powerful resurrection of Priestley's drama of social responsibility. National (Lyttalton), South Bank, SE1 (071-928 2252), Tonight-Set, 7,30pm, mat Set, 2,15pm, 100mins an International Production, prior to a West End run. Amazing stage tricks devised by Paul Filey. Theater Royal, Gerry Raffles Square, Strafford 815 (081-534 (1310); Mon-Sail, 8pm, mat Thurs, 2pm, 135 mins.

T PLANS IN THE FAMILY: Larks in

the hospital common from; mattern outraged; doctors flummosed, Ray Cooney farce with loss of laught. Physhouse, Northumberland Avenue, WC2 (071-839 4401). Mon-Pri, Spm, Set, 8.30pm, mat Thurs, 3pm, Set, 5.30pm, 135mins.

I JUNE MOON: Naive songwitte conquers Tin Pan Alley, Delightful

NEW RELEASES

comedy by Ring Lardrier and George S. Kaufman. Excellent cast led by Adam

IN THE INVISIBLE MAN: A cracking and stylish version of Macbeth's climb the top, set in the world of rock bands

TODAY'S EVENTS

A daily guide to arts and entertainment and entertainment compiled by Kari Knight still sound 20. Royal Albert Hall, Kensington Gore, London SW7 (071-823 9998), 8pm. THE KISS OF THE SPIDER WOMAN: After a successful play and film version of Manuel Puig's novel comes the musical. Chita Rivera, who played Anita in the 1957 version of West Side Story, takes on the title role of the spidenwoman who appears in the fantasies of an imprisoned gay window chesser. The story is of two very different men forced to share a cell: Moina (Brent Carver) is held on morals charges and Valentin (Anthony Crivello) is a political revolutionary. Harold Prince directs Shaftasbury Theatre, Shaftasbury

Avenue, WC2 (071-379 5399), previous tonight, 8pm; opens Oct 20. CAPULETT ED I MONTECCHE ROYS Opera revives Pier Luigi Pizzi's 1984 production of Bellmi's bel canto production of Bellim's bel carrior treatment of the Royne and Juliet story Anne Sofie van Otter and the young British soprano Amanda Rooccoft make a strikingly handsome pair as the young lovers. Maumis Sallem conducts. Royal Opera House, Couent Garden, WC2 (071-240 1066), tonight, Spm. REGIONAL

BIK WELSH SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA: A minu Elgar Festival in trumpet and strings — with two fine soloists. Dmitin Alensev and John Wallace — and Elgar's Symphony No rughts until Sunday.

Symphony Hall, Broad Street,
Birmingham (071-212 3333) m (021-212 3333), Lonight-

Burningham features concerts by all four of the BBC's symphony orchestras conducted by principal conductors. Tadaaló Otaka conducts the first

Shostakovich's Concerto for piano

HALLE: The veteran Russian planist Shura Cherkessky joins the Hallé under the baton of Jean-Bernard Pommier to take the solo role in Prokofier's Second hand Concerto The ordestra also performs Berlinz's overture, Le Corsare, and Roussel's Second Symphony. Free Trade Hall, Peter Street, Manchester (061-834 1712), 7:30pm. TRAVELLING OPERA: As part of the TRAVELLING OPERA: As part of the Norwich and Norfolk Festival, Peter Kraspy's lively company performs its new English version of Bizet's Came rewritten and reorchestrated for a small ensemble. Also in the repertoin The Barber of Sewile by Rossim and Mozart's Don Govarnic. St Andrew's Hall, St Andrew's, Norwich (1963) 7667641, tonight. tomorrow. 7,30pm.

CARMEN: More passion and gore, this time in a stage version updated to the Spanish Clvil War and performed by Northern Stage, noted for their highly visual style. Moya Ruskin plays Carmen under the direction of Nel Murray. Playhouse, Barras Bridge, Newcastle-upon-Tyne (091-232 7079), tonight-Sat. 7.30pm, mat Sat. 2.30pm.

Sometimes winty but hollow study of two fitzerivan paintiers who drank heavily and are now forgotten. Royal Court, Sloane Square, SW1 (071-730 1745). Mon-Sat, 8pm, mat Sat, 4pm, 150mins. THEATRE GUIDE

Jeremy Kingston's assessment of theatre showing in London House full, returns only Some seats available

Seats at all prices

Godiev and Frank Lazarus. Hampstend, Swiss Cottage Centre, NW3 (071-722 9301), Mon-Sat, Spm mat Sat, 4pm, 135mms. Now exte in October 14

☐ THE MADRAS HOUSE: ROSET Aliam heads a strong cast in Granville Barker's proto-feminast, serious y, set in a fashion house. Lyric Hammersmith, King Stree (081-741 2311) Mon-Sat, 7,30p mats Wed, Sat, 2.30pm 180mins. Final MEDEA: Dana Rigg gives a cool, distancing interpretabon in Euripides's revenge drama. Almeida, Almeida Street, N1 (071-359) 4404). Mort-Set, Sprn, met Set, 4pm.

MUKDER BY MISACYEMULE Gerald Harper and William Gaunt play crime writers who fall out and pit their Whitehell, Whitehell, SW1 (071-867 1119). Mon-Fri, 8pm, Sat, 8.30pm, mats Wed, 2.30pm, Sat, 5.30pm, 120mins.

D PHILADELPHIA, HERE I COME: Brien friel's affectionate comedy of an shan thers affectionate comedy of a lish emilgrant and his capping after ego. A revival to be cherished. Wyndham's, Charling Cross Road, WC2 (071–867 11161, Mon-Fn, Bpm, Sat, 8.15pm, mals Wed, 3pm, Sat, Eng. Libertains. 5pm. 140mins

PYGMALION: Alan How Frances Barber In a Ho production that some admire greatly thile others feel subordinates the text po a clever design. National (Olivier), South Bank, SE? (071-928 2252). Tonight-Sat, 7.15pm mat Sat, 2pm. 195mins. [J] SHADES: Patricla Hodge takes over the role of brave widow in Sharman Macchineld's bitter-owner drame. Touching moments but delivers less than it promises.
Albery, St Martin's Lane, WC2 (071-867 1115). Mon-Sat, Sprin, mais Thurs, 3pm, 5st, 4pm, 120mins.

IN MIX DEGREES OF SEPARATIONS Stockard Channing as the rich New Yorker transfigured by a black con artist in John Guare's fine play on human inter-dependence ruman oter-dependence Comedy, Panton Street, SW1 (071-867 1045). Mon-Sat, Born, mats Wed, 3pm, Sat, 4pm, 90mins.

SOMBONE WHO'LL WATCH DVER ME: Excellent playing by Alec McCowen, James McCarnel and Stephen Rea as Beirut hostages in Frank McGuinness's new of re Summess's new play.

Guinness's new play.

Jewille, The Strand, WC2 (071-836 9987). Mon-Sat, 8pm, mass, Wed, 2.30pm, Sat, 4pm, 140mins, III THE STREET OF CHOCOOLES The syntact of Caroliculus, The syntact of Caroliculus, The syntactic of Bruno Schulz.

Amazing effects, bewidering storyline. National (Cottesloe), South Bank, SE1 1071-928 2252). Tonight-Sat, 7.30pm, mar Sat, 2.30pm. 105mms. A WOMAN OF NO IMPORTANCE:

Theatre Royal, Haymarket, SW1 (071-930 8800), Mon-Sat, 7.30pm, mats Wed. Sat, 2.30pm. 165mars.

LONG RUMNIES: | Blood Brothes: Proenix (071-867 1044) . | Buddy: Victoria Palace (071-834 1317) Victoria Palace (071-834 1317)

Catmen Jones: Old Vir. (071-928 7618) ... $\overline{\text{Lats: New London (071-405 0072)} ... $\overline{\text{Lats: New London (071-404 1097)} ... $\overline{\text{Lats: New London (071-494 1097)} ... $\overline{\text{Lats: New London (071-494 1097)} ... $\overline{\text{Lats: New London (071-494 1097)} ... $\overline{\text{Lats: Lats: New Line (071-494 1097)} ... $\overline{\text{Lats: Lats: L

(171-454 5075)

| The Guys Named Most Lyric (071-494 5085). ... | Good Rockis' Tonites. Prince of Wales (071-839 5971)
| Judeph and the American (171-494 5087). ... | Me and My Girls Adelph (071-836 7611) ... | Les Misèrebles. Palace (071-434 0909). ... | Sides Seigon: Theire Royal, Druy Lane (071-494 5400). ... | The Mousetras of the Opera: Her Mejesty's (071-494 5400). ... | Return to the Forbidden Plenet: Cambridge (071-379 5299) ... | Sides Seigon | Sides Seigon | Return to the Forbidden Plenet: Cambridge (071-379 5299) ... | Sides Seigon | Sides Seig (071-836 2238)

Ticket information supplied by Society of West End Theatre

BITTER BIOON (18): Sexual games on an ocean liner. Proposterous, turgió escapade from Roman Polanski, Peter Coyote, Hugh Grant, Emmanuelle Seigner, Odeon Heymarket (0426 915353).

CARRY ON COLUMBUS (PG): Unwise CARRY ON COLUMBUS (PC): Univer-revival of the series, with mildwed jokes and a cast ladding the old intendi-laces Jam Dale, Mauseen Ligman, Sara Crowe, Grector, Gradd Thomas. Oddon Leicester Square (0426

 CTY OF JOY (12): American doctor Particl: Swayze rediscovers his calling in Calcutta's shares. Strong on atmosphere; weaker on character and plot. Director, Roland Joffe.

 MGM Challone (071-352 5095) MGM Shaftesbury Avenue (071-836 5279/379 7025) MGM Trocadero (071-434 0031) UCI Whiteleys (071-

DON'T MOVE, DE AND FOSE AGAIN
(12) Memones of post-war life in Sowei
Asa. Uneven, sometimes aggravating, with a fine child performance (Pavel Navarovi, Divector, Vitali Kaneski, National Pilm Theatry (071-928 32.32)

GAS FOOD LODGING (15): Emotoria tas POOP LODGING (13) protognal lives of a wateress and two daughters in New Mexico. Good-looking, well acted. Farnza Baik, Brooke Adams, ione Skye, director, Allison Landers.

Mexico (071-437 0757) MiGali Fisikam Road (071-370 2636) Renoir (071-837

CINEMA GUIDE

Geoff Brown's assessment of films in London and (where indicated with the symbol • ) on release across the country mental patient, Splendid revival of Robert Rosen's singular and beautiful last film (1964). ICA (071-930 3647).

CURRENT ◆ LES AMANTS DU PONT NEUF (18): Leos Carao's hymn to Pans and a punk burn's love for a young artist going burd. Terrific in spurts, and a real movie movie: Dens Lavant, Juletie Broche. Lumlère (071-836 0691).

◆ BOB ROBERTS (15): Lively spoof dozumentary about a right-wing following f documentary about a right-wing folk-singer's dirty battle for a seat in the U.S. Senate. Enterprising directional debut by actor Tim Robbins MGM Torninhum Court Rout (071-636 6148) Odeon Kensington (0426

LOVERS (18): in Franço's Spain, Victoria Abril derails her lodger's intended marriage Excellent tale of mad love, expertly mounted by director Victoria Assaula Vicente Aranda MGM Piccadilly (071-437 3561) na (071-235 4225)

MY FATHER IS COMING (18)* Expenences of a German gut trying to make it in New York. Sweet, generous, alive to sexual sub-cultures; directed by ocative German film-rr Monika Treut, whose previous films have earned her cuft status.

Prince Charles (071-437 8181).

SWOOM (18): The Leopoid and Loeb murder case, explored from a gay perspective. Highly seductive and stimulating first feature by American video artist Tom Kalin. Camden Parktway (971-267 7034). Metro (071-437 0757).

◆ UNPORGIVEN (15): Cient Eastwood's mellowed gunman is forced to resurrect his lethal skills.

Marvellously resonant, reflective Marvellousiv resonant, reflective Western. Gene Hackman, Morgan Preeman, Ruchard Harris. Camden Plaza (071-485 2443) English (071-487 9299) MGM Fallman. Road (071-370 2636) MGM Haymarker (071-839 1527) MGM Oxford Street (071-636 0310) MGM Trocadero (071-434 0031) Notting HIII Coronet (071-6769) Screen on Baker Street (071-635 2772) UCI Whiteleys (071-792 3332). PESTIVAL PESTIVAL

BIRMINGHAM INTERNATIONAL RILM AND TELEVISION FESTIVAL: The FRAM AND TELEVISION FESTIVAL'The newly restored print of Orson Weller's Orinello upens proceedings today; Neil Jordan's intriguing The Crying Game brings down the Curtain on Oct 17. In between come Quentin Tarantimo's exciting Reservor Dogs, Istvan Szabo's Sweet Emma, Dear Böbe, Glengarry Glen Ross, descusitons, interviews, video programmes. programmes. Midlands Arts Centre, Cannon Hil Park, and other Birmingham venues (021-643 2514)

OPERA: LONDON

Loveless and witless marriage

JOHN GUNTER's sets for Figuro were among those destroyed in the fire at Glyndebourne last summer; he has redesigned them for the touring wing, and the results were unveiled on Tuesday. Mercifully, what might be described as the Amadeus Theme Park element has largely been expunged, but it still dominates the costumes and props, which were spared. Otherwise, a series of flat cream surfaces afford little visual interest, and there is much huffing and puffing to produce two sets for the third act (only one is required). though not for the fourth, which does demand a change of scene.

Ideas from Peter Hall's 1989 production remain in Stephen Medcall's staging for the tour, but they do not include consistency of characterisation. I know it was careless of Mozart and Da Ponte not to set Beaumarchais's trial scene, but wish directors would accept this: again, much huffing and puffing was expended on including it, complete with rhubarbing peasants who lingered on to compromise the private scene of parental recognition.

Would that Medcalf had expended equal energy on soming out the Countess, who was a hoydenish publicschool sixth-former in recitative, but a Gainsborough Pictures tragedy queen in set numbers: on thinking hard about whether it is really right to portray Susanna as a go-getting minx; or on trying to instil aristocratic

LOUDON WAINWRIGHT III has not lost his sense of fun, but both his facial features and his songs are getting craggier as he gets older. Seen from a certain angle, the songwriter from Westchester, New York, now looks oddly like Clint Eastwood, his comically tortured rock star expression a parody of Dirty Harry's Do-you-feelucky-punk? grimace.

Now 46, Wainwright has been singing about the trials of parenthood. marital separation and impending middle age for donkey's years, but the death of his father in 1990 has added new lines to his brow. There was an untypically soulful, almost bluesy quality to his delivery of "Handful of Dust", written by his father in 1952.

But humour laced with a wicked sense of irony remains his strongest card. On the third of a five-night residency at this densely packed cellar club. Wainwright set off at a hectic pace, armed only with his acoustic Le nozze di Figaro Sadler's Wells command and randiness into a cosy girls on the estate.

much about such details had there been anything of interest emerging from the pit, whence Marco Guidarini's conducting cast a pall of gloom over the evening. It was not his fast tempos that one objected to, rather their strictness and four-square, unyielding quality. Scarcely a corner was turned with insight or affection, scarcely a phrase was moulded with grace or allowed to breathe. I never thought to hear a Figuro so devoid of musical relish, of wit, of humanity — in a word, a reading so lacking in love. Inevitably this had its effect on the cast. Caught within Guidarini's rein-

Count whom one could not for a moment imagine tumbling half the Not that one would have worried so forced-concrete parameters, they had little chance to phrase the music gratefully or supply expressive nuance. Nicholas Folwell's Figaro, delivered at a steady forte, reminded one that he is a notable Alberich; I felt for him, though, when he was made to play "Madre, son morto" for laughs, and then to gabble through "Aprite un po" at an unseemly gallop. Juliet Booth's soprano is big and beautiful, but rather undisciplined, and I suspect that her future lies in music heavier than Mozart's Countess.

Minx and scarup: Susanna (Regina Nathan), Cherubino (Julie Unwin)

As Susanna, Regina Nathan fielded well-focused but shallow tone; she can sing more expressively than this. The most interesting voice was that of Ralf Lukas as the Count, warm, pliant and manure. I enjoyed Julie Unwin's indi-vidual, slightly vinegary mezzo as much as her portrayal of Cherubino as an anarchic scamp, and Angela Hickey's Marcellina was nicely voluptuous.

The performance was sung in Itallan, the meaning being conveyed via supertitles. We are used to people laughing at jokes before they have been delivered; more serious was the gale of mirth that greeted the climactic "Contessa, perdono". This proved that the audience was reading the performance, not listening to the music. Not that there was too much music to listen to on Tuesday.

RODNEY MILNES

ROCK: LONDON

Song-slinger in town

guitar and an abundance of nervous energy. "Road Ode" was an amusing lit-

Borderline any of frustrations encountered on tour ("I thought I'd get up and start complaining right away", he explained). Another song heaped scorn on stories suggesting that Elvis Presley is still alive. And his affectionate tribute,

"Talking New Bob Dylan", demonstrated an encouraging ability to joke about the dreaded "new Dylan" tag which, having been attached to him during the early stage of his career, quickly became as welcome as a ball and chain.

But it was the glorious lampooning of the sexual divide Loudon Wainwright between New Man and his modern woman partner in "He Said, She Said" that had much of > helpless with laughter, an odd sight at this sort of event. It was not the only lyric to reveal a gently but persistently unreconstructed view of the battle of the sexes. "Call Me Mr Guilty", a codcountry song in which the male protagonist cheerfully accepts every last iota of blame for the break-up of a relationship was another, the rather self-pitying "Men" a third. Neil Lyndon would have approved.

the (predominantly male) audience

A small team of supporting musicians drifted on over the course of several songs, and as Wainwright revealed more of his cynical, antiromantic humour on numbers like "I'd Rather be Lonely" and "Unhappy Anniversary", so the arrangements were gradually fleshed out with the sound so fiddle, harmonica, accordion and mandolin. The arrival of the evening's "special guest". David Thomas of Pere Ubu, was a mild disappointment. Although a mighty performer, Thomas's surreal lyrics and spiky beliow jarred with the relaxed mood established by Wainwright's untaxing, slapstick delivery.

Resuming control, Wainwright adopted a more serious tack with the gorgeous "Motel Blues" and the maudlin "Sometimes I Forger" before leading a massed singulong on the bittersweet chorus of "Hard Day on the Planet".

DAVID SINCLAIR

CONCERT: BARBICAN

Excitement at a premium

MERCIFULLY, the New Oueen's Hall Orchestra's hyperbole seems to year. But the assertion in the programme book that it is "probably the most exciting orchestra in the world' was not entirely borne out by this

Barry Wordsworth conducted three standard repertory works — the stuff which the NQHO hopes to illumine with its "original" early 20th century instruments - very ordinarily. The playing was neat and refined but also, with the exception of Eigar's Celio Concerto, somewhat passionless.

In the latter the orchestra enjoyed the considerable advantage of having Alexander Baillie as its soloist. He was able convincingly to enter into the real spirit of this music, with richly expressive but well considered portamenti (the orchestra itself has mercifully dispensed with ill-considered ones since last I heard it) and, with his opulent sound, squeezing every last drop of emotion from the notes.

The benefits that narrower-bored brass instruments, woodwind predominantly in the French style (how refreshing to hear genuinely reedy bassoons) and the ravishing, soft mellowness of gut, or wire-wound gut, strings (heard alone in a poised reading of Vaughan Williams's Tallis Fantasia), brought to this music were undeniable. With such tools, everything fell easily into place. And, as we heard afterwards in Holst's The Planets, even the rather pathetic-looking 12-inch cymbals made a sound more in keeping with the overall palette than their modern equivalent The quality of the whole band was fruitier, less aggressive than what we are used to. Consequently it became relatively easy to find a satisfactory balance even in this tricky hall, though the same could not be said for the overdistant women's voices of the London Symphony Chorus in "Neptune".

NOHO/Wordsworth Barbican Hall

But that does not mean that conductor and orchestra can afford to biunt the edge of their interpretations. Here Holst's journey through the solar system seemed ponderous and heavy. lacking in mystery, and the performance succeeded only in conveying the feeling that we were going through a rather over-worn routine. Perhaps, however, the piece itself has become an over-worn routine. For all the inventive skills it contains, it is of its own time, and with or without period instruments its time has now surely passed.

STEPHEN PETTITT

CONCERT: SOUTH BANK

Light and dark mixture

SIR Peter Maxwell Davies believes that more composers should be inof the same creative experience, whether in their own music or the classic repertory. He put this firmly into practice at his debut in a new capacity as the Royal Philharmonic's "associate conductor/composer".

His programme included some of his own music the premiere of a second suite from Caroline Mathilde, the ballet choreographed by Flemming Flindt for the Royal Danish Ballet on the short and tragic life of an English princess. As she was the sister of George III and teenage wife of Denmark's Christian VII, her affair with the Danish court doctor had disastrous consequences for both.

This ballet successfully followed Maxwell Davies's earlier Salome for the same choreographer, and it is regrettable that no British company has yet shown the remotest interest in staging either one here. Meanwhile, the music alone in the newer ballet's most powerful passages is testimony to the composer's flair for theatrical character.

On first hearing it was not easy to relate this specifically to the seven stage incidents noted in the programme, but deprived of its stage context it came across as a darkly sombre yet graphic tone-poem, to which the addition of soprano and mezzo soloists, (Nicole Tibbels and Teresa Shaw), singing a wordless lament, added an eloquent extra dimension. Maxwell Davies prefaced this with an actual tone-poem. Sibelius's Tapiola, skilful alike in pacing and shading. The same composer's Violin Concerto later brought a solo performance of passionate linear strength and measured delicacy of expression by Tasmin Little, who is rapidly becoming a mature artist of musical stature.

RPO/Maxwell Davies

Her virtuoso technique was sprung on rhythmic sensibility of the utmost aculty. Several passages of finely controlled double-stopping added unusual depth of perspective to her playing, and the orchestra was firmly supportive in most respects.

And when Sir Peter added his own boisterously inebriate-sounding Orkney Wedding, With Sunrise - the sunrise represented by the bagpipe skirls of George McIlwham, who entered through the audience - we could hardly have been sent home in more gleeful spirits.

NOEL GOODWIN

ARPER
STREE HICKS ANCELA DOV
The Best thriller since steach.
A Hit "Today "Excellent" Of MURDER BY

MISADVENTURE
"Junt What the West End Reads"
5 Tince: A great thriller for all the family" LBC. Mon Fri 8.00 bai 6 30 8 8 30 wed Mats 2.30

TNDHAMS BO/CC 867 1116/379 444/497 9977

PHILADELPHIA

BEST I CORRET

BEST STORMET

BEST STORMET

BEST STORMET

STRIPLY STURRESHOR'S - Exp

Mon Fri 8 Wed 3 Sat 6 & 8.16

YOUND VIC 071 928 6365 & 379 4444, Until 31 Oct Francesca ANNS & CORIN REDGRAVE In ROSMERSHOLDI by Bash.

ENTERTAINMENTS

ART GALLERIES	THE
	1
KING STREET GALLERIES, 17	379 44
king Street, SW1 071 930 9393	24hr c
COMPANIENTAL VIEWS by R &	jeer i
Mon Frt 10-5 30 Sale 10-1	MOM
MON FR 10-6 90 Sale 10-1	i ME
	TH
	1
CINEMAS	Nigh
	THE
	TO ALBERY
CURZON MAYFAIR Curron St. 071 465 8865 Exclusive pre-	379 4
schlation in 70mm. Anthony	497
Hopkins, Vapessa Redgrave in	C11
HOWARDS END 'PO' " >	FUNN
Prog. at 2.00. & 30 8.30
7,144 1. 1.14, 1.14	بر والعداد.
CURZON PHOENIX Phoenix St.	PA
off Charing Cross Rd 071 867
1044 Ct. 971 867 1111 ino bko	ps.
Redgrave in HOWARDS END	Dire
PGI Progs at 2 30, 6 15 4 8 05	Mon Sai
	ALDWY
CURZON WEST END Shaften	er 7 das
A. P V. 1 071 439 4805 Tahighi	Trans. f
at Spm. Royal European	SYEA
Promise of Orson Welles' OTHELLO (L.)	7
OTHELES IL
	-
	Direc
OPERA & BALLET	Even 8
	AMBAS
	ARREADS

COLUSEUM 071 836 5161 cc 071 240 6368 cc 1st Call 071 240 7200 124hr/7 dayl071 379 44hr/7 ENGLISH NATIONAL OPERA Year Y cc 1000 100ANM Former 7 00 THE FORCE avail on the day The GOVAL OFFEA Ton't 8.00 I Caputati a i Montecchi, Tonor 7 00 Forgy and Bras.

807AL OPERA HOUSE 07: 240 10-6/1911 Standby into 836 6903 S CC 65 amphi scale

ATRES HI 071 836 TOLL CC 071 444/379 9901 First Call r 071 497 9977 (no big Groups 071 930 6123 r BOOKING ISTO 1983 E AND MY GIRL
HE LAMBETH WALK
MY STATE
WHY MY TO MAIS Wed
LSO A SAI 4 SO A 5 OO
WANT SUNDAY Express / 071 867 1115/1111 C

Y AND HAUNTING TRICIA HODGE SHADES Sharman Macdonald
cted by Simon Callete
il 8pm Mats Thu 3 Sal POH B/OI #30 1404 1400 19 24h No feet 497 9977 from National Th. Ort 14 ALISON ADMAN HORROCKS IN The 174 5 FM DI

LITTLE VOICE
by Jun Contweight screen by Sam Mandas Mat balls 4 BOOK NOW SADORS 071 836 6111 3C 379 4444 (110 Mag (110) FROM A JACK TO A KING TO A KING

Group anteriment.

with wit, style, reamsh." T this A rock. 'n' roll race from Bob Castlon the regular of Forbidder Planys:

Priday & Saltarday 5 30 A 8 30

All beats 69 50 Fishin 5 30 and so

:

APOLLO Shaftes: Air Bos Off to 24hr/7 dais 071 444 5070 re tiling (cet 071 379 4444/497 997) PETER O'TOOLE OUR SONG
DV Kelth Waterhouse
Directed by Ned Sherrin
FROM 29 OCT 1900 to fri 8 (6.
641 6pm 4 8 45pm 15 Nov 7pm)

MAKING IT BEITER by James Saunders Darected by Michael Rusinson APOLLO rc 071 454 5070 cc 37 4444 inu bkg (cc)/855 2428 the feet 07p Sales 930 6123 E.e. 80cm, Wed that 3pm, 591 5pm & 8 50 HOUR TO THE STOP YEAR "A SAUCY COMEDY" E. Sid DOMINION c: Horizze 071 413 411 424 nev Information 071 590 8845 / 9562 Eves 8 00. Mai Thur & Sai 2.30 A Masterpiece' Independent Cass... Five See Style' D Ted Grand Right...Marvellous D Nasi DON'T DRESS FOR DINNER Grand Might Minrestons 'D Mart GRAND HOTTEL The Staumh Hit Breadway Minsteal Directed & Charceos abned by Tommy Tune Big Discounts Tel 071-436 0075 Students & Sentor Chizens Mats only £100 Dess & Weeks Ment End Det 37 THANKING TO BOCKER

APOLLO VICTORIA IT 630 6282 Grps 828 6188 ct 24hr 379 4444/497 9977 071 379 9901 Groups 930 6123 THE 2ND LONGEST RI NARNO MI SECAL IN BRITISH THEATPE HISTORY OF CE HOTLINE 071-41 STARLIGHT EXPRESS PAUL NICHOLAS in ANDREW LLOYD WEBBER
LYTIN 63 RICHARD STILGOE
Directed by TREYOR NUNN Souts Awaif For Oct Ports How Tickets from £9.00 - £27,90 BARNUM Loudon's Greatest Christman Speciacular
Price processors 14 Dec
Opens Dec 17 for the Yman
New Year Senson Book Now for this Great Family Show CAP's C5 on Tury Main Sen 7 45 Mats Tur & Sat 3 00 SUMY LANG THEATRE MITTAL TO IBLA 1441 24hr 7 duys 071 494 5060/379 4444/240 7200/379 9901 Grps 831 8625/494 8454

ARTS. 071 836 2132 cr 413
1456/44Y 9977/24IV NO big feel BEDUCED SHARESPRAME CO.
IN THE COMPLETE WORKS
UF WILLIAM SHARESPRAME
Abridgme All 37 plays in 2 his
"HRESISTIBLE" lind on bur
Mon 1-11 8 bil 4-5 8-8 30
ON HOLDAY BACK MONDAY 9901 Grpx 831 8625/494 845x
MISS SAIGON
"MUSICALS COMP AND GO THIS ONE WILL STAY" S TUTING
ENG 745 Meh WHO & SHAY
GOOD SEATS AVAR, POR WED
MAT B HOME PURPOSEAUCES:
APPLY TO BOX OFFICE
MOVE SOCIONG UNTIL MAR 63 FOR TELEPHORE POSTAL BOOMINGSPERSONAL CALLERS
071 494 5060 BKG FEE CAMBRIDGE 071 179 5299 COST, 579 4544 (24hr/no big lee 071 497 927h23hr/tha (crit Groups 071 240 7941 "Go et and Reckin." The Titter Belongs to a great English tradition." Opera Novell "Assessment to halfs On 1950's OLIVIER AWARD WHINTER BEST MUSICAL RETLEN TO THE CORDINARY DISTORTER OF THE CORDINARY DISTORTER AWARD WHINTER BEST MUSICAL RETLEN TO THE CORDINARY DISTORTER AWARD WHINTER BEST MUSICAL RETLEN TO THE CORDINARY DISTORTER AWARD WINNERS OF THE CORDINARY DISTORTER OF TH DUCHESS BO/24hm 494 5075 or ino blig fee; 379 4444 libla fee; 497 9977 Crop 071 494 5454 16-851 Y THE FUNIEST DLAY IN THE WEST END" D. Extrem

FORBIDDEN PLANET AN EVENING WITH GARY LINEKER o Arthur South & Chris England fon Thii Spin Fri & Sai 6 & 8 45 FRAL THREE MESSES COMEDY Re7 1948 or 867 1111 /379 4441/497 9977 the feet Stockard Chambion SIX DEGREES OF SEPARATION ALSO ON NATIONAL TOLK DUKE OF YORK'S BO 836 5122 no fee re First Call 24hr 7 days 071 497 9377 DEATH & THE MADDEN by Ariel Doriman "A THUMPH" flud on Sun Exes 8 Mals Wed 3. Set 4 New Booking to 28 November

Adapted by Stephen Mallstratt
A BRILLIANTLY EFFECTIVE
SPINE CHILLER Guardian
"A REAL THRRIL" & Throns
"Take prangalization" T. Out n Sal Spm Mais Tue 3 Sal 4 W BOOKING TO 9 JAM 1950 EARRICK BO/CC 494 5085 I/M /379 4444/497 9977 BEST PLAY
ALL BEST PLAY
ALL BEST PLAY
ALL BEST AWARD 121
THE MOST CELEBRATED PLAY
THE MOST CELEBRATED PLAY
BERN Fire! Automishing D Exp DANCING at LUGHNASA

other play in sight " NY Time Mon Sal 8 Mats Thur 3 Sol 4 GLOSE 071 494 5067 or 124h 497 9977/379 4444 19kg fo Grouts 950 6125/494 6846 EDWARD PETHERBRIDGE JOHN EDWARD TURNER DE SOUZA ELIZABETH COUNSELL VALENTINES DAY
A GEN... POLISHED, SOPHIST
CATED & WITTY' S Times
Dirwied & Chorrographed
GRILLAR LYRINE
SALES SALE & Motor SALE Mon Sal 8 Mais Sal 4 Wed 3

A WOMAN OF NO IMPORTANCE
"A theffing theutrical throwook display" 0.7ci
"Not up he missed" Uni Circeled by Philip Provine or 7 30 Main Wed & Shi 2.50
LAST 8 WEEKS Mg frei CC 379 4444/497 9977 Mg frei Crow Salet 930 6123 ANDRÉW LLOYD WEBSER'S AWARD WINRING MUSICAL

THE PHANTOM OF

THE OPERA
Directed by HAROLD PRINCE
E1:0 7.43 Mate Wood & Sut 3
Booking Posted Open to Sops 93
BOOD OUT UNTIL 28 FEB 93
APPLY DAILY FOR RETURNS

JOSEPH & THE AMAZING TECHNICOLOR DREAMCOAT DREAMCOAT STATING PHRLIP SCHOFFELD
DR by STEVEN PHRLOTT
EVEN 7.30 Mass Wed & Set 2.30
NOW BOOKING TO JAIN 193
GUISUE DAILY FOR RETURNS LYRIC, Shafts Ave Bo & cc 071 494 5045 cc 379 4444 All lel lines 2411/7 dass (bkg fcc), cc 497 9077 Grps 071 930 51 23 The Joint Never Stops Jumpin FIVE GUYS

BANKED HOE

THE GUYSE

GRAND HOE

THE GUYDEN AWARD

WINNING MUSICAL

MON-THE STIR SEA JE & B.45

BOOKING LIVIL END JAN 93

APPLY DAILY FOR RETURNS

AND CANCELLATIONS MATIONAL THEATRE BO 071 $28 2232 Chrs 071 620 0741. 24hr cr bis rec 071 497 9977
ON CAMBER 7 15
PROMALION
EN MINUS
LYTTELTON
Ton's 1-5 Town 7-30 AN INSPECTOR CALLS by JE PHYSICS PLATFORM PERF TOUS COIN
JEANETTE WINTERSON
JEANETTE WINTERSON
ON PISS

HAYMARKET THEATHE NO VAL BOX Off & or 071 930 8800 no feel or 071 379 4444 the fee The Royal Shakespeare Compan in Occar Widde's

JEANETTE WINTERSON
ION HIS COTTESLOE
TON'S A TONON T.SO THE STREET
OF CROCOPILES a new piece based on short stories by Bruno Shutz MEW LONDON Drur, Lanc BO 071 406 0072 CC 071 404 4079 24th 379 4444 Groups 950 6123 This from Tower Records Lein THE ANDREW LLOYD WEBBER JT S. ELIOT INTEGNATIONAL AWARD WINNING MUSICAL AWARD WINNING MUSAGE

CATS

EVM 7.45 Mails TUP & SAL 3 00

LATECOMERS NOT 1054T

TEO WHILE AL DITORIL M IS IN MOTION. PLEASE BE PROMPT.

15 MAIL 16 465

MOTION 16 1645

MOTI

CALL 071-481 1920

To place your entertainmen advert in THE TIMES

01.0 VIC 071 928 7616 CC 07 379 4444 Uto big feet 071 37 9901/071 497 9977 1 big fee PHONES OPEN 24bbs/7 days OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN I'S CARMEN JONES
Muster by Bizert
Disperied by Simon Callou
Winner OF 5 MAJOR AWARDS including BEST MUSICAL & Standard Awards 1381 Even 7.45 Main Wed & Sai St ALACE THEATRE 071-434 0905 ct 24hrs thing less 071-379 4444/497 9977/579 9901 Group Sales 071 930 6125 Group 671-494 1671 NE WORLD'S MOST POPILAR MUSICAL

MISSICAL

LES MISERABLES

Eves 7 30 Mais Thu & Set 2,50

Labreamers not admitted

NOW BOOKING THEY MAR 93

LIMITED NO. OF SEA 75 AVAIL

DAILY FROM BOX OFFICE

Additional Varies perly now in all

Please contact Box Office PHOERIX BO/CC 867 1044 867 1111/379 4444 (191 497 9977 BEST MISSICAL ALL 4 MAJOR AWAINS 1891 WILLS RUSSELL'S BI COD BROTHERS
Starring STEPHANE LAMBSTACE and CARL WAYNE
"APTOMISHING" Express and reprine its approve" D high Ever 745 Mals Trium 5 9at 4

PICCADALLY BU 867 1118 co 071 579 4444/497 9977/867 71 579 adda/447 to the feet 1111/All 24hr no the feet Groups 413 5321/240 7941. THE OPERAML SICAL WHICH WITCH * A Powerful Story of Romantic Paralost on Sal 7 30 Nat Thu & Sal 2 30
PREMIERS 22 OCTOBER
PREMIERS 22 OCTOBER
PREMIEWS FROM MODAY

PLAYHOUSE 07: 839 4401 Fax 839 8142 cr no lee, 497 9977/379 4444 Grps 930 6123 "A ROLLS-ROYCE OF A FARCE" D. Telegraph "The best monit town in town" Speciator IT RUNS IN THE FAMILY
The several bit contends by marked bit contends by a market of face and contends of the several bit contends by a market of face and the several bit of the severa

QUEENS'S BO & OL 071 A9 5041 or 24hr (no bkg feel A9 9977/379 4444 Groups 93 6123/494 5454 TONY ELATTERY RADIO TIMES From the composer of Me & My Carl Mou Fri 7.30 Met Thur 2.30 Sal 4.30 & 8.00 PREVIEWS FROM TOMORROW OPENS 15 OCTOBER

ERSIDE STUDIOS 081 74º 34 ft no bkg fee 081 563 035; cc bkg fee 071 836 2428 Even 7.30 Lest 3 Paris HAMLET Few scale at all dally 12 noon "Rickman, his Hunder is to be ranked attong the fines a towarding performance"

Jack Tigher, Dally Mail ROYAL COURT O71 730 1745 /2654 CC 836 2428/5122 COLOUHOUN AND MACERYDE to John Byrne Eves 8, Sal Mai 4

to John Byrne E. C. S. S. S. Mat 4

ROYAL SHARESPEARE
COMPARY LONDON 1071 638

1891 CT MOST SUST SOM SPRIJ

RASRICAN THEATRE
THE TWO CENTLEMEN

DARRICAN THEATRE
THE TWO CENTLEMEN
TONO 7 13 Soi 2 00 & 7.15

THE PTY ARTHSTS AND ADMINIERS TONT TONO 7 7.15

THE PTY ARTHSTS AND ADMINIERS TONT TONO 7 7.15

STRATFORD UPON AVOIR 10799
295625 CT MINISTER FOR AVOIR 10799
295625 CT MINISTER TALE
THE HINTER'S TALE
THE WINTER'S TALE
TODAY 1.30, Sai 7.30

ALL'S WELL THAT DEEDS WELL
TOMAY 1.50, Sai 7.30

THE OTHER PLACE, THE DYSSEY TOMAY 1.50

THE OTHER PLACE, THE
DYSSEY TOMAY 1.50

MEGITTELET/HOLE DOCKAGE
SHAFTERSURY CC. 379 4444 SHAFTERBURY CC 379 4444 (29hrs) BO & CC 379 5399 Om 930 6123/413 3321 Nd big fcc KISS OF THE SPIDER WOMAN
The Manual Starting Chile Phreze,
Brant Carey, Authory Crivedo
Directed by Harold Prince
Even Burn Male Wed & Sai John PARTICUM FROM TOMEGHT
INTERES OCTOBER 30 at Thes

PRINCE OF WALES BO/CC 839 ST MARTIN'S C71 836 8987 836 3464/379 4444
'A GREAT MUSEGAL 'Can GOOD ROCKIN' TONITE!
A HIT, A PALPABLE HIT Eve Sid ALL SEATS STILL 210 & 218 Except Fri & Sab porty, Mon Thur 8 Fri & Sab So So So BOTT MEN PROFIT THESE MAUREEN ROSEM.
MAUREEN ROSEM.
MAUREEN ROSEM.
IPMAN HAT 57RAMD BO/CC 071 930 8800 MAUREEN ROSEMARY HARRIS NEIL SIMON'S

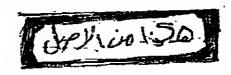

LOST IN YONKERS
DIRECTED TO DAYLOR
PREVIEWS FROM 10 NOV
OPERS 12 NOV VAUDEVILLE BO 836 9987 CC 497 9977/379 4444 /24hrs no blog fresi Alec McCowen Stephen James McDaniel SOMEONE WHO'LL WATCH OVER ME by Frack McGuirmans
Tes 8 Majs Wed 230 Seit 4;
LAST 3 WEEKS
PRIOR TO BROADWAY ACTORIA PALACE Box Off & cc No bkg feet 071 834 1317 CC tisking feet 071 379 4444/240 7207 Groups 071 930 5123

BUDDY
The Buddy Helly Story
"BRILLIANT" Stur BUDDY WONDERFUL STUFF SUN Tel BUDDY
BUDDY
ION THE 800 FT 5.50 & 8.50
SSI 5.00 & 8.50
ALL SEATS - PRICE
FRIDAY 5.30 PERF
AND SEATONAL YEAR
OVER 1250 PERFORMANCES
IOW BOOKING TO JAN 16 1893

CALL 071-481 1920 To place your entertainment advert in THE TIMES

TO PLACE YOUR ENTERTAINMENTS ADVERTISEMENT IN THE TIMES

TRADE ADVERTISERS TEL; 071-481 1920 ADVERTISING FAX NO. 071-481 9313 TELEX 925088 PRIVATE ADVERTISERS TEL: 071-481 4000 You may use your Access, Amex, Diners or Visa card

Cinema: Geoff Brown on Beauty and the Beast, White Men Can't Jump, As You Like It, Othello, Spotswood and Blue Ice

Drawing on a great tradition

etter late than never, of course, though when all America has been chirping about Disney's Beauty and the Beast (Odeon Marble Arch. U) for almost a year now, it is hard to suppress an exasperated scream at its tardy British appearance. While we have been waiting, Disney's 30th feature cartoon has overtaken all its predecessors at the box-office, and scooped up two Academy Awards (Best Original Song, Best Original Score), along with a nomination for Best Film. Now. Disney's wizards are completing Aladdin, though we may have to wait until 2001 to see it.

But enough carping. The enchantment starts immediately with the film's depiction of Beauty's 18th century French village, waking to another day with a song as bouncy as a Broadway opening number Alan Menken and Howard Ashman's music and lyrics have far more fibre than their crass pop ditties for The Little Mermaid; they drive the plot forward, and never insult the ears.

The film directed by two new talents, Gary Trousdale and Kirk Wise, also takes strength from its story. Disney's cartoons began to slide 15 years ago when they modernised their image and let their plots fall apart. Now the studio returns to the solid ground of fairy-tale and myth.

Beauty is given a post-feminist tweak: this girl with brown eyes, fulsome lips and a pert little nose has both looks and brains, and never takes things lying down. The Beast himself boasts a lion's mane, a buffalo's head, and the Elephant Man's sensitivity. On the soundtrack, Paige O'Hara and Robby Benson let plenty of emotion through. The result is that contemporary rarity: a cartoon that can touch the heart.

A few structural problems remain. Once Beauty is imprisoned in the Beast's castle, time hangs heavy in the original story. To compensate, a phalanx of anthropomorphic objects — clock, candelabra, teapor, chipped cup — are dragooned into service. Led by the voice of Angela Lansbury (the teapot) they supply much of the comedy, along with an over-fussy musical number, "Be Our Guest". Disney's animators, emboldened by computer techniques, also push a climactic battle over the top; the film works best when they keep things simple.

But Beauty and the Beast never stoops to the blunt lines and lerks of today's dreadful television cartoons. This is full-blown, full-blooded animation, lacking only the special finesse and charm that stamped

k mixt

"A phalanx of anthropomorphic objects", supplying much of the comedy in the latest animated feature from the Walt Disney studio: Beauty and the Beast

Disney's work in the Forties. Children of all ages, start queuing now. Hollywood also puts its best foot forward in White Men Can't Jump (Plaza, 15), a blisteringly funny slice of Americana from Ron Shelton, writer-director of Bull Durham. The nominal subject, once again, is sports but the baskethall games that stud the footage work like the songs in Beauty and the Beast, developing characters, advancing plot. At heart this is a relationship movie, pinned to the fortunes of Wesley Snipes and Woody Harrelson, two basketball hustiers who fleece willing victims on asphalt patches in Los Angeles. Harrelson (getting his big movie break after six years as the bartender in Cheers) deliberately looks a fool. He is also white, and everyone apposes that white men can't jump.

More than any other current director. Shelton has an acute ear for American urban speech. Bizarre insults rain down (Your mother's an astronaut h Snipes has rai-tai-tat dialogue and brazen cheek. But there is more to this film than men joshing. Harrelson's girlfriend is played by Rosie Perez, a spitfire performer whose Brooklyn squawk could strip paint. Her obsession is the television game show Jeopardy, her specialist subject being foods beginning with the letter Q. Once your ears become acclimatised to her vocal screech, she is very amusing indeed.

Towards the end, Shelton's plot twists become too convenient. But so much life roars through this film that it can easily stand a few smacks of artifice. In White Men Can't Jump, expertly played, Shelton manages what has seemed impossible: he pleases the young urban audience, but keeps proceedings intelligent and humane.

On now to the indestructible Shakespeare; at least he seemed indestructible until Christine Edzard's As You Like It (Barbican, U). As though stung by criticism of her fetish for period detail, the director of Little Dornt and The Fool strips

'Full-blown and full-blooded animation that children of all ages will enjoy'

her new film bare. For costumes, look for little more than jeans and anoraks; for the Forest of Arden, a derelict docklands site requisitioned by the homeless.

Shakespeare's words remain more or less, but nothing good comes of them. For the cast have been left to run amok. Some, like Griff Rhys Jones's Touchstone, run too far, it is often hard to hear what he says. Others, like the Orlando and Rosalind of Andrew Tiernan and Emma Croft, run too little. Can this lifeless film be based on a play that dances with wisdom and wit? There is no chance of thumbtwiddling with Orson Welles's 40year-old film of Ofhello (Curzon West End, U), re-released in a restored print. Even before the opening credits. Welles button-holes the viewer with an overhead shot of Othello's corpse, a skyline silhouette, and lago hoised up in a cage. This is Shakespeare re-invented for the camera. Welles supplies an Othello verging on the overripe, shooting many of his acenes in powerful close-up. The instructing lago is Micheal MacLiammôir, who wrote a vastly amusing memoir, Put Money in Thy Purse, about his experiences. The soundtrack, always flawed remains a problem: the babble of voices appear distanced from the images and Suzanne Cloutier's Desdemona sounds too lady-like. Some of the camera's tours of Moorish architecture are disorientating. But

Othello still builds into one of Welles's most dynamic achievements. Shakerpeare meets celluloid. and a true film is born.

To end a busy week, two British actors out and about. Michael Caine, back in Britain, has the worst of things in Blue Ice (MGM Trocadero, 15), a tepid escapade about a former MI6 agent locked in intrigue with Sean Young (siren wife of London's American ambassador). There is nothing here that television does not do better.

But Anthony Hopkins, down under for Spotswood (Plaza, 15), comes up smiling. A first cinema feature by Mark Joffe, this Ealingesque story about an efficiency expert battling with an outdated moccasin factory glides along with dry wit, a keen visual sense and a kindly heart. The conflict between the individual and big business springs no surprises, but Joffe's team create such a vivid picture of this Melbourne backwater and its hobby-crazed staff that there is never any time to fret. This is a film to clutch, and savour.

ARTS BRIEF

Banana boat?

THE BBC TV team that brought to the screen Jeanette Winterson's Oranges are not the only fruit is collaborating with the author on a feature film. Shooting has started on Great Moments in Aviation, an account of a young West Indian woman's voyage by ship to England in the 1950s to start a new life. On board the liner are Vanessa Redgrave, Dorothy Tutin. John Hun and Jonathan Pryce, provide Rakie Ayola with a crash course in the vagaries of English behaviour.

Sound choice

NEXT Tuesday's Barbican performance of the new Royal Shakespeare Company proof Verona, has been designated a benefit night for the charity Hearing Dogs for the Deaf. The Princess Royal will attend the play, which is an appropriate choice: The Two Gentlemen is the only Shakespeare drama with a dog in

Aw, shucks

COUNTRY music fans tuning in to Radio 2's broadcast tonight (7.30pm) of the annu-al Country Music Association awards from the Grand Ole Opry House in Nashville will hardly be dumbfounded by the choice of winners for 1992. The ubiquitous "Achy Breaky Heart, from the handsomely pectoralled, ponytail-wearing Billy Ray Cy-rus, was adjudged "Single of the Year"; Garth Brooks picked up "Entertainer of the Year" and "Album of the Year" (for the multi-millionselling Ropin' the Wind), with Mary-Chapin Carpenter and Vince Gill taking the Best Female and Best Male Vocalist titles respectively.

Billy Ray Cyrus: his single was voted the year's best

THEATRE: a disappointing Noël Coward premiere

60 years late and D.O.A.

oël Coward was called up early in 1918, but never saw anything resembling active service. He seems to have spent most of his brief stint in the Artists' Rifles cleaning out latrines and complaining of headaches. But 12 years later, at a loose end in Singapore, he played the lead in R.C. Sherriff's tale of the trenches, Journey's End, and the experience presumably helps explain why he wrote Post Mortem. It is the sort of anti-war play you might expect from someone who never swapped a shot in anger and at some level feels guilty for having survived the slaughter: shrill, awkward, everything that Sherriff's understated elegy is not.

Post Mortem King's Head

John Cavan, son of a chauvinist press lord, is killed as he goes over the top, and then returns, as young as the day he died, to the London of 1930. What he finds are bright young things behaving like characters in a Coward play, and grisly journes whipping up patriotic fervour. His former flancée casually betrays her husband, as he does her. John's horrible father prepares to destroy one of his former brothers-officers, who has published a book of anti-war verse, but is pre-empted by the victim himself, who commits suicide. Did millions sacrifice themselves for this?

That is the question Harry Burton's big, gauche John asks over and over again. The play is numbingly predictable. On comes some ghastly caricature, for instance Avril Angers's Lady Stagg-Mor-timer. She boasts of having sacrificed her son for England. John raves and plonkingly moralises at her. Then on trots another cartoon figure, for instance a dinner-jacketed exofficer who declares he would shoot any son of his who refused to die for his country. John starts raving and moralising again. There is a mildly touching reunion with his mother - interestingly, the only person with whom he has

Sylvia Syms and Harry Burton in Post Mortem

real rapport - and then he returns to the Other Side denouncing England as "a poor joke".

No wonder, really, that this is the play's first professional stage performance. Richard Stirling's production rattles along and is feelingly enough acted by Sylvia Syms, Steven Pacey and the rest. But it is astonishingly unsophisticated and amateurish, given the author. It is just the sort of didactic plod that Coward hated when others were writing; and with good reason.

BENEDICT NIGHTINGALE

TELEVISION REVIEW "I he end of the world was nigh in October 1962. Last night Defying Un*le sam*, the mat of a two-par When the world Timewatch documentary on Cuban missile crisis

1961. From that time on, Kennedy had no choice but to treat Cuba as a Soviet military Timewatch was better on Khrushchev's motives. His former advisers suggested that he thought he could bully Kenne-

went to the brink dy, whom he saw as a playboy, while Khrushchev's son ar-gued that his father genuinely eared an attack on the Soviet Union from the (actually obsolete) American missiles stationed in Turkey. Given his volatile mentality, both of those factors may have played

But to personalise the whole crisis is to trivialise il Two incompatible systems confronted one another in the early 1960s, and when the Soviet juggernaut tried to gain a foothold in Latin America first in Cuba, later in Chile and Nicaragua — the oldest axiom of US foreign policy. the Monroe doctrine, came into play. Cuba was a crisis waiting to happen.

DANIEL JOHNSON

were also extracts from a recent self-eulogising talk given by Castro. What was missing was an accurate analysis of what Cas-tro was doing to the Cuban economy and to civil rights between the overthrow of Batista in January 1959 and the breakdown in Cuban-American relations in 1961. Soviet and Cuban officials were interviewed on this, but the Cuban exiles were quoted only on their betrayal by the Amerihearted support to their bungled attempt to overthrow Castro at the Bay of Pigs. Did Timewatch ask the dis-

(BBC 2), set the scene. Next week's episode will deal with the crisis itself, which did not end with Khrushchev's climb-down in the face of Kennedy's blockade. Alarming new dis-

The first part of this miniseries was, however, flawed by its unserious account of what

Castro's regime was (and is) really like. True, there were entertaining interviews with former CIA officials about the campaign they mounted against Castro, including exploding cigars. There was an extraordinary confession by his former secretary and mistress: she was recruited by the CIA to assassinate Castro, but unmasked by him when they met in a hotel room. There coveries are promised.

tinguished Cuban poet and former political prisoner Armando Valladares for an interview? In his memoirs, he explains why those who had opposed Batista's dictatorship alongside Castro soon turned against him once it became clear that he intended to set up a Marxist-Leninist system of the most totalitarian kind.

Castro's record of persecution, torture and mass murder is among the worst in the world. With terrifying speed he transformed Cuba - previously, despite corruption and the power of the Mafia, among the most prosperous states in Latin America — into a starving, abject prison camp.

If that perspective had been at least alluded to, with less propaganda about giving land and (American-owned) industry back to "the people", the basis of Kennedy's hostility to Castro would have been clear. The White House was prepared to make friendly overtures to Castro until he announced that he was a Marxist-Leninist early in

JOIN THE TIMES

representing Britain's regional theatres. The Theatre club offers you privileged access to the theatrical performances of your choice. As a member, you will receive a personalised membership card and a newsletter detailing theatrical performances throughout the

THEXAMINES

NOTHING can beat the excitement of a live performance, when the great actors of the moment are speaking directly to you. More and more great stars of the screen are returning to the stage - to the smell of the greasepaint, the roar of the crowd, the power of the

In recognition of the fact that our readers are among the country's most ardent theatre lovers, we are pleased to offer you membership of an exclusive new club, The Theatre Club. In conjunction with The Society of West End Theatre | 1. By collecting ten of the and The Theatrical country. In addition, you members only events at your local theatres to enjoy backstage tours, workshops and lectures from leading theatre practitioners. HOW TO APPLY Becoming a member of The Theatre Club could not be weeks, or eight tokens from The Times and two from The Sunday Times. The fourth token is printed below with the application form. If you choose this option. Theatre Club membership will be free. Once you have collected all 10 tokens, send them off with an application

. By returning the appli-will be invited to special simpler. There are two ways to join:

tokens appearing in The Management Association, Times over the next two 21 all other times.

cation form below. If you choose this option, please enclose a cheque made payable to The Theatre club for £12.50. Whichever way you choose to join, send your completed application to: TTC, P.O. Box 3, Owen Road, Diss, Norfolk, IP22 3HH. For more details about TTC phone: 071 413 1412. For a complete list of theatres participating in The Times '2 for 1' ticket offer please call 0891 555 502. Calls are charged at 36p per minute

cheap rate, 48p per minute

Application form. Please enrol me in The Theatre Club. I enclose tplease tick appropriate box):

Ten Times tokens ☐ Eight Times tokens and two Sunday Times tokens One token plus cheque for £12.50. Cheque number

Telephone:

Post to: TTC, The Theatre Club, PO Box 3, Owen Road, Diss, Norfolk IP22 3HH.

Since 1945, The Merchant of Venice "can never seem quite the same again". Shylock's evolution is shown here by (left to right) Sir Henry Irving. Sir John Gielgud, Lord Olivier, Sir Alec Guinness, Dustin Hoffman, Antony Sher

s a leading theatre critic, John Gross appears an apt choice for a survey of one of Shakespeare's most troublesome plays. Shylock, however, is much more than a piece of extended theatre commentary, it is that rare beast, a literary-critical work that rides confidently through several fields — social history, etymology, politics — and emerges bearing the banner of its convictions brilliantly intact.

Lesser courage, and lesser minds, would have made an unholy botch of Shylock. Numerous productions of The Merchant of Venice have done just that, including in Gross's view the RSC's most recent one -Bill Alexander's 1987 staging, "a dire occasion throughout, starring Antony Sher (Dustin Hoffman's Shylock in Peter Hall's 1989 production is relegated to a footnote). Sher, who has been mesmer-Ising in other magniloquent roles such as Richard III and Tantiffe. exhibited in a spitting "bloodcrazed fanatic" all the pitfalls of playing Shakespeare's Jew in post-Holocaust theatre. Take him to wild extremes, stir deep prejudices, and a liberal (dare one say politically correct?) audience will automatically adjust itself to the right, pro-Shylock, anti-racist mode.

Usurer who craved the law

Except that time after time, as Gross points out, this does not work. It did not work in 1970, with Olivier playing Shylock as a tophatted, cane-toting businessman whose overriding concern was as-similation — barely a theme in the play if read closely: nor did it work, by contrast, with the vulpine creeps and histrionic villains (Emlyn Williams and Michael Redgrave) of the 1950s. And with himself playing the Jew, Gielgud's Old Vic production, all "light and lyrical with pastel shades. Canaletto perspectives, an opulent Venice, an enchanted Belmont", sounds embarrassing as a reading in 1938. The problem with Shylock is that he doesn't fit history. The pressure James Woodall recommends John Gross's survey of Shylock's evolution to those who accuse Shakespeare of anti-Semitism of outer events and prejudices has invariably led to ranting caricature (or in Gielgud's case, wistful under-interpretation). It is Gross's salient preoccupation with Shylock's inner workings that makes his book so absorbing - though history is not for a moment sidestepped. Far from a ranter himself, Gross calmly rises to the challenge of extracting Shylock from the play to which he belongs, subjects him to 400 years of interpretation and misinterpretation, and returns him decisively to Shakespeare's text.

The story begins with the source: a bawdy 14th-century Italian tale called "The Simpleton", which features Portia's Belmont and a sub-plot about a pound of flesh; the character who foreshadows Shylock was not named. Later, Marlowe's The Jew of Malta was an influence; but the political machinations of Barahas stand in marked contrast to the private obsessions of Shylock. Still, Gross stresses that both figures emerge from a medi-eval conception of Jewry, an image of a red-haired, well-poisoning, Christian-scourging devil. This was probably how Shylock was played by Richard Surham by Richard Burbage.

SHYLOCK By John Gross Chatto & Windus, £18

As with most of Shakespeare's dramas, The Merchant was barely performed for much of the 17th century. In the 18th century, it suffered the same textual mutilations as the other plays. As Gross sifts through The Merchant's stage history, it becomes clear that, however powerful a figure he had been in literary mythology, Shylock did not begin to attain the theatrical status of, say, Richard III or Falstaff until the 1880s. The reason he did so then was Henry Irving. Said to have played Shylock more than a thousand times, this extraordinary actor has an entire chapter devoted to him. Irving's Shylock was no martyr, but he was, for the first time, imbued with characteristics usually reserved for the great tragic roles such as Macbeth and Lear, pathos and dignity. Irving touched a nerve the audience, says Gross, "saw the production, whether consciously or not, as an act of reparation for past injustices towards Jews, and they gave Shylock the full benefit of biblical associations". To balance Irving's Shylock, Ellen Terry also provided an ingredient that pro-ductions of The Merchant had until then lacked: a great Portia.

After Irving, the play became both popular and interpretative fair game. Intelligent explorations of the Christian-Jewish divide began to develop — in criticism if not always on stage — while unsettling ambiguities about the so-called "virmous" camp, Antonio, Bas-sanio et al, crept in, Portia became a prize part for any actress; Shylock at last began to shed his time worn stage robes of caricature.

Other cultures, too, took up the play, the French, Russians and Americans all saw it as a soundingboard for debate between the two poles of philo- and anti-Semitism. In Germany, the poet Heinrich Heine had once been The Merchant's most enlightening commentator. In the 1930s, of course, things changed: the theatrical bar-barities inflicted on Shylock by the Nazis turned the play into an icon for ideological dementia.

For those who have lost count of the silly arguments they have had over Shakespeare's supposed anti-Semitism, John Gross's Shylock is an essential antidote. It may be ironic that it takes a book, rather than a production, to re-dignify Shylock with a human complexity, and a particular history of his own. that can be gleaned from the text if read correctly. But that is Gross's point: Shakespeare's Jew, though steeped in the cultural accountements of his race, is a violent force in a revenge drama in which revenge is ultimately more signifi-cant than race. Shylock is human:

ne of the typical features of the modern age is the way in which countries and regions around the world suddenly emerge into the spotlight of intense media attention. For a brief period exotic names trip off our lips with a casual familiarity, before returning to the obscurity from which natural disaster or political upheaval has plucked them. Three years ago, the Balkan countries were still on the dark side of the media's moon. The Romanian revolution at Christmas 1989 reversed that situation; now the ominous bloodletting in Bosnia heralds more grim headlines to come from the Balkans. In 1990, Dervia Mi filled a long-held ambition to tramp around Transylvania, a land favoured by travel-writers until communism sealed it off from the individual wanderer, preferring the group tourist, usually from an equally regimented society in the Soviet bloc. Dervia Murphy captures the flavour of post-Ceausescu Romania wonderfully well. Whether she is describing the dusty paucity of goods on display in the shops, the survival of stilling bu-

impaled on the Serbian stake

Mark Almond

TRANSYLVANIA AND BEYOND By Dervia Murphy John Murray, £16.95 ROMANIA IN TURMOIL A Contemporary History

reaucracy or the mind-set of the people she bumps into, she brings to life the realities of a country struggling out of the dead-end into which it was frogmarched four decades earlier.

By Martin Rady

I.B. Tauris, £12.95 pbk

The incompleteness of the Romanian revolution in 1989 is also the theme of Martin Rady's more academic book. He discusses the reasons behind the violence which marked the overthrow of the Ceausescus in 1989 and has reappeared since.

Rady ends on a more pessimistic note than Murphy. Her affection for ordinary Romanians and their through, Rady observes the continuing domination of politics by former servants of communism. The most likely victor in the second round of the presidential election will be the current holder of that office, Ion Iliescu, a former Politbuto member. In their different ways, both Murphy as the reporter and Rady as the historian see President. fliescu as the candidate of the communists with a survival instinct, and as the master of the state machine which still permeates Romanian life. Iliescu represents the continuation of post-war Romania. For many Romanians, their ideal political model is located either further in the past or abroad in Western models.

The present government's unwillingness during the election in Bucharest to permit the return from Swiss exile of King Michael, Romania's monarch until 1948, suggests that it sees him as a symbol of both alternatives. Serbia shows Romanians the dangers of allowing former communists to hijack national pride for their own purposes.

Rady sees clearly the risks of especially in Transvivania with its substantial Hungarian minority. Romania is very different from Yugoslavia. So far, both sides have bed off from full-scale confrontation. If Romania's politics continue to be overshadowed by the Bosnian tragedy, that might be a sign of hope that elsewhere in the Balkans things are going better. There are worse fates for Balkan countries than a period out of the

A prophet in Israel

ent almost double over a B microphone, the most visually imposing aspect of the nonegenarian Yeshayahu Leibowitz is a large black veivet skull-cap perched on an oversized head. The audience leans forward attentively. anxious not to miss a croaky. whispered word as their mentor recounts the details of his frate exchange in 1948 with Israel's founding father, David Ben Gurion. They were arguing about the role which Judaism should play in the nascent Jewish state. Leibowitz was not to get his way. "That is why today", his voice rises to a deafening crescendo which belies his frailty, "religion is the kept woman of the state, and the religious parties are her PIMPS." Ninety years have not curbed Leibowitz's appetite for intellectual battle. He is a scientist by training. but there are few areas of debute to which he has not turned since he fought to create the state of Israel half a century ago. These 27 essays represent but a fraction of a lifetime of polemical writing. They will at last give the English reader the chance to discover how Leibowitz acquired the reputation of being, in the words of Sir Isaiah Bedin, "the conscience of Israel*. Leibowitz himself would reject such a lahel. Leibowitz is important as a contemporary Jewish thinker because of his radical theological conceptions and their implications

I his will probably be a para digm work on Anglo-Jewish history for some time. I found the detail compulsive on many forgotten episodes — say. Jewish Communism, Yiddish newspapers, Jewish houses at public schools like Harrow and Cheltenham. It is highly readable, but it has major limitations, largely due

The story is told around the formation, perpetuation and interaction, often riven by schism, of Anglo-Jewry's proliferating institutions since the 1850s when, in the Whig version, Jews won "Emancipation" - the right to sit in the House of Commons. His analysis of the 19th-century Jewish party affiliations is fascinating. There were more practising Jews pro rata

eight) in the Commons in 1868

The Whig version sets out a triumph for toleration; from 1858

Jews steadily gain influence, affluence, status and numbers. Alderman offers a revisionist view. He brings out the conflicts and tensions expressed in these institu-tions, especially the Board of Deputies and rival synagogue groups.

Just as there were Jews who opposed Emancipation and with it assimilation, there were assimilated Jews who backed limits on Yiddish-speaking immigrants before 1914, the era of struggle for social and religious control between the "natives" and the new arrivals.

Later, others, based in the Angio-

Jewish association, fought tooth-and-nail against the Zionist threat to their status as loyal Britons of the Mosaic persuasion. Only after

1945 did Zionism become a fixture

There are skeletons in the cupboard from the Nazi era, seen herc.

in Anglo-Jewish assumptions.

than there are now.

to the author's academic bias.

Natasha Fairweather

JUDAISM. HUMAN VALUES, AND THE JEWISH STATE By Yeshayahu Leibowitz Edited by Elicter Goldman Harvard University Press, E3 1.95

for Judalsm and Jewish nationhood. In 1952 he argued that the presented Judaism with its biggest challenge since the Exile. Creative thinking was called for.

Halakhah (Jewish law) is believed to be the word of God and is adhered to by observant Jews, but Leibowitz urged that it be reinterpreted. The religious community must not, he said, be reduced to a special-interest group living parasitically while the secular majority got on with running and protecting the state. Women must also be allowed to play a fuller role.

Such a stand was calculated to antagonise the highly conservative religious community. But Leibowitz has never been a man to shy away from exposing the unpleasant aspects of his society. These essays address complex subjects, inaccessible to the gentile reader; but Leibowitz always manages to combine rigorous analytical clarity with a flamboyant literary style. This is

The most notable stand which he took relates to the occupied territories. In the days immediately after the Six Day War in 1967, Leibowitz was a solitary voice warning that the occupation would corrupt and possibly destroy the Jewish state. With considerable prescience, he set out in 1968 a vision of an Israel which was so 'secure" that it had to spend ever more on defence; of a people's army which became an occupying force, of a country in which Jews were invariably the bosses whilst the Arabs toiled at menial jobs.

Leibowitz is utterly clear in his distinction between the sacred and the profane. The land of Israel is not intrinsically holy. The uniqueness of the Jewish people is not a fact: it is an endeavour. To use Judaism as a means of satisfying power-just is a most dangerous profamity. He has little time for those secular Jews of the diaspora. exemplified for him by George Steiner, who have replaced the theological core of Judaism with the destiny of the Jewish people.

ne gra

But does the man who attacks almost everything about Israel feel disappointed by the state which he fought to create? Not at all. Leibowitz has always been a Zionist because he was "one of those Jews who are fed up of being ruled by the Goyim [gentiles]". Israel, therefore, has fulfilled all his expectations.

Back hitching

Douglas Adams's return to the scintillating form of his first two Hitch Hiker's Guides to the Galaxy. If you are unacquainted with the latter, you should probably read them first - unless Aristophanes, Gulliver's Travels, Lewis Carroll, Einstein, S. J. Perelman. the Goons and/or Monty Python are not to your taste. The series started on radio, and retains its appeal as that immaculately visual genre, writing that encourages the audience to devise out-of-this-world evocation not only of the entire milky way and beyond, but of quite specific sections of warship Earth: New York, for instance, where the new book begins, reader, with your sort of animal, that "has to wrap itself up in lots of other animals at one point in your planet's orbit, and then finds, half an orbit later, that your skin's bubbling". Here as before, some of the wildest flyers are, at first, perfectly recognisable from our daily mir-

Adams: graphically comic rors: "Tricia loved New York because New York was a good career move. It was where most of the world's TV was anchored. Tricia was a TV anchor person, a rapidly rising anchor. She had what it took: great hair, a profound understanding of strategic lip gloss. and a tiny secret interior deadness which meant she didn't care." Here again is Ford Prefect, Adams's best informed time-and-space-traveller; falling past the 16th floor of the Michael Horovitz

MOSTLY HARMLESS By Douglas Adams Heinemann, E13

monstrous new Guide Building, he observes: "Sub-editors. Bastards. What about all that copy of his they'd cut. Fifteen years of research he'd filed from one planet alone and they'd cut it to two words: 'Mostly Harmless'. V-signs to Arthur Dent, the Galaxy's most alienated and old-worldy protago-nist, who so much wished the earth on which he grew up had not been demolished, looks up at a sky over Lamuella "which was sullen, streaked and livid - the sort of sky that the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse wouldn't feel like a bunch of complete idiots riding out

But the book closes with a machination in no sense led up to by the pacey, intricately patterned plotting or vivacious characterisations that precede it. I can only hope that Adams gravitated to this abrupt emergency landing of a finale because of subtleties that will come to light in book six. Come to think of it, page 215 may contain a due to the ending's uncharacteristic evitability, for on it "a thin, illlooking man" appears out of the blue "trying desperately to remember which drug I've just taken. It must be one of those which you can't remember." Can this be Adams's deconstruction of the authorial interface that modish academics rejoice to catch sub-textually napping in raconteurs from Chaucer to Hitchcock? Or is it the true voice of bestseller-feeling, fizzling out as honestly as can be managed in the noose of the publishers deadline? Either way, I urge Adams to kick to low hell the drug of instant product for market-value's sake, and roll on with further volumes that consummate his promise as one of Britain's most graphically

Case dismissed

ne of the joys of reading a novel by a former attorney general and legal celebrit is the insight it gives into that author's character. Peter Rawlinson is a man at home in the uppermiddle-class world of country houses and afternoon teas, but also with a close working knowledge of the Bar, the judiciary and politics.

A glance at the dustjacket might suggest that Rawlinson's novel is a fictional account of the celebrated libel action between Lord Aldington and Count Tolstoy, one of the most acrimonious of recent years. But while Hatred and Contempt also features an English peer suing a defendant obsessed with events some fifty years ago in Yugoslavia. the similarities end there.

Rawlinson's plot centres on two conflicting accounts of Allied support for the Yugoslav resistance during the last war. Colonel Tarnovic. an aristocratic but impoverished Yugoslav émigré, claims that the Allies - in the form of Lord Brackley as a young SOE officer - betrayed Chetnik resistance fighters to Tito's communist panisans, who wiped them out. When Brackiey, an enobled war hero, brings out an autobiography including critical references to Tarmovic's Chetnik compatriots, the colonel feels compelled to circulate a pamphlet branding Brackley a liar and coward. The stage is set for a first-class libel action.

This plot would have been fascinating in itself, given more research and fleshing out. Unfortunately it is overlaid with subplots which really go nowhere and stretch the reader's credulity to the limits. At various stages in the book there seems to be a suggestion that Brackley might have been the Fifth Man because of his connection with the Cambridge Aposties and friendship with Anthony Blunt.

One wishes that Rawlinson had stuck to a simpler plot with lar greater detail. The book starts with an engaging description of Colonel Tarnovic being served with a writ and then meeting the beautiful young solicitor Alexandra Layton. But after this, the brushstrokes get for Times Newspapers.

Alastair Brett

HATRED AND CONTEMPT By Peter Rawlinson Chapmans, E14.99

Rawlinson: libellous liaisons progressively thinner and thinner. While the affection between Alexandra Layton and her father is palpable, Rawlinson is out of his depth when developing her romance with the young barrister. Silks, however adept in court, simply do not end up in bed with their instructing solicitors, however pretty, after only three or four encounters.

Solicitors will also be amused by the gloss put on the usual relationship between a solicitor and leading counsel. Silks are unlikely to have anything to do with their own fees and are even less likely to go out looking for witnesses. Convey ancers do not usually turn their hands to litigation, nor do tax silks take on libel actions. Some libel specialists may also think that Tarnovic could also have sought some comfort from a "response to attack" defence rather than seeking to justify his pamphlet. Even with an over-ornate plot this book is a good light read. When on home territory - how the older characters in the book think and feel and Harrington's crossexamination during the trial -

Alastair Brett is company solicitor

Disraeli bows to Beattie

the essence of his charisma.

Robert Silver

MODERN BRITISH JEWRY By Geoffrey Alderman OUP. 540

of Deputies - was happy to go along with tight restrictions on German refugees in the 1930s, left action against Mosley to East Enders, and did little to press the British government to bomb Auschwitz.

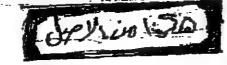

Much of the book is about religion - different chief rabbis, the formation of new synagogue (of which there are now too manyl. breakaway movements from Orthodoxy to the left. We see how ultra-Orthodox rabbis are now gaining office in suburban synagogues, polarising the community once again. One can see at least six different denominational traditions, although it is also true that a clear majority of British Jews are technically "Orthodox", unlike in America, where "Reform" holds sway. Little in this history offers room for a secular Jewish stance surprising, given the Jewish role in British scepticism, from Chapman Cohen, the tub-thumping 1920s atheist, to humanists such as Sir Hermann Bondi and A.J. Ayer.

He notes that official statistics show a numerical decline by a third Official Anglo-Jewry — the Board to 300,000 or so since 1945, despite recent South African and Israeli arrivals, largely due to a low birth-rate and "marrying out"; he does not explore either trend. Many Jews or half-Jews on the community's fringes are omitted from the 300,000. He cites other reputable data, showing that the average British Jew has a 30 per cent higher income than a non-lew (less perhaps than many assume) and his own polls to establish a decisive voting shift from left to right, starting, he says, as early as the 1950s. despite 35 Labour Jewish MPs elected in 1974. It is probably still true that any given Jew is less likely to be Conservative than his social class implies. An urban, commercial being, he may also be less likely to endorse "Green" stances, with their "New Age" Christian flavour.

But too many people, types, value-systems and activities are left out here. A more speculative. impressionistic approach can add colour and texture. What one can call an "Anglo-Jewish sensibility" should emerge more strongly. In a sense, what we need is the history of the psychology of a minority. Is there, for instance, a distinctively British version of Jewish humour? How has it evolved? Or is the line from Disraeli's wit via the films of Peter Sellers to Maureen Lipman. to quote Leonard Woolf's memoirs. Downhill all the Way?

AUTHORS Your Book Published THE ADELPHI PRESS

100 100 150

Private faces in public places

Antonia Fraser on a study of biography which says that literary executors should ignore authors' requests to destroy papers

KEEPERS OF THE

FLAME

Literary Estates and

the Rise of Biography By Ian Hamilton Hutchinson, £18.99

greatest of all literary quarrels - what should and should not be revealed about a writer following his or her death - as "the eternal dispute between public and private, be-tween curiosity and delicacy". The dispute is not only eternal but also endlessly fascinating, its most elegant exploration is James's own story The Aspern Papers.

Where writers themselves are concerned. I suspect that many of them may secretly hope for discretion to be shown towards their own failings, while seeing nothing wrong in candour being shown about those of their colleagues. That is human enough. But we are by definition not talking about the writers themselves in this dispute, but about those who were once close to them and as a result administer their literary estates. These are, broadly speaking, the representatives of "delicacy". On the opposite side of the fence we have the biographers, and it is they who represent only their own curiosity but that of the public, as they judge it to be. This dispute is the theme of Ian Hamilton's Keepers of the Flame. 9. series of case histories of literary estates, ranging from that of John Donne in the early 17th century to Philip Larkin's in the late 20th. As Hamilton states in his preamble: A book about literary estates has to be about many other things as well: about changing notions of posterity, about copyright law, publishing, the rise of English studies, the onset of literary celebritism" (sic). This is true enough; the reader will find enough material on all these, racily deployed, to feel comfortably expert at the end of the book.

It is not however for this reason, I feel, that Keepers of the Flame is such a compelling read. (In fact the sheer pleasure I got from reading it reminded me of my first encounter with John Gross's The Rise and Fall of the Man of Letters, another literary page-turner.) But Ian Hamilton's principal study turned out to be biography itself. How much should a biographer tell? How much should an executor suppress? What would the biographee have wanted - do we know? And here, judging from these case histories, he has been able to mine such a rich seam of greed, deceit, selfishness and hypocrisy — to say noth-ing of less opprobrious passions such as piety, reticence and love that one begins to wonder whether a literary estate is not something like the gold in Wagner's Ring:

themselves of the chance. If all the books ever written on politics were to perish in some Alexandrine conflagration, most Tory members of the House of Commons would not miss them. This country has rarely been governed by a political class with less inclination to reflect

British political culture; since Uto-century, the Reflections on the Revolution in France is probably written by a professional politician of the first rank. Conservatives can erudite and eloquent mind, a fellow held high office and knows at first hand what happens when a political career is derailed by unfashionable principles. Conor Cruise

O'Brien's The Great Melody will appeal to those who are interested in Burke as a teacher and prophet, not to those who wish to put him back in the 18th century. O'Brien's

The book is not flawless. Sometimes too tortuous or obscure for the uninitiated - outside Ireland, not many people will know the Yeats poem from which the book's title and, O'Brien tells us, its inspiration is taken — the narrative drags in too many of the author's own preoccupations (such as Charles Haughey).

and passes over some of Burke's too lightly (such as his seminal conceptions of party and representation).

Matter which should have been relegated to the footnotes chutters

the text; there are two indexes,

Burke is our contemporary.

enry James summed bound to bring dissension in its up what he called the wake. The book compels because it is about bad behaviour in the shadow of the great.

There is also comedy here — not however the kind of comedy the hapless writers intended. Davenant's post-Restoration triflings were brought about because he had acquired "or so he thought, a shrewd sense of audience requirements". Shakespeare, in his opinion, needed some "revamping", and in certain places the language required "clarification and polish" ("Sleep that knits up the ravelled sleeve of care" might well trip more fluently if altered to "locks up the senses from their care".) Davenant is the ancestor of those Hollywood film producers today who cause writers' scripts to be doctored into pedestrianism to fit with their own sense of "audience requirements".

Davenant of course did not have to deal with a copyright act. After the first such act in 1716 — which gave publishers the right to new titles for 14 years only — matters > more complicated. As a result, Hamilton's case histories are progressively more intriguing. Pope the invasion of privacy in spritely lines: "Shut, shut the door, good John: ... Tye up the knocker, say I'm sick, I'm dead." But the case of Boswell introduces the rights — or rather the glamour — of the biographer. Hamilton points sardomically to the fact that yells for the said fo to the fact that Yale found it easier to finance the publication of the Boswell Papers than a new edition of Johnson, although Boswell's fame refracts Johnson's light. The problems posed by Byron and Shelley's early deaths, coupled with their irregular family lives, are vividly dealt with. Hamilton passes on to the pious biographies of the Victorian age, what Gladstone felicitously termed "a reticence in three volumes", typified by Hallam Tennyson's life of his father.

By the time we reach the 20th century, with Kipling (problem wife and problem daughter) and Hardy (in a sense, two problem wives), we are beginning to join in Hamilton's game with zest — to destroy or not to destroy? To suppress or not to suppress? Is there indeed a public right to know which is stronger than an individual's right to privacy, just because that individual may be considered something called "a great writer"? Conscientiously, Hamilton gives us his own judgment. At first sight, he appears to come down on the "Writers ... should follow Henry James and try to serve as their own keepers of the flame. If they don't

... then it seems to me that fifty years is not too long for us to wait for "the whole truth". But then Hamilton adds this contradictory caveat: "No one, family, friend or executor, should burn anything .... whatever the specific instructions of the deceased." This, by denying to the writers the testamentary rights of other human beings, puts him back on the side of curiosity.

Not that I would criticise Hamilton for this ambivalence: he merely reflects all over again, the essential ambivalence of the subject. More side of privacy or "delicacy": disconcerting is the harsh way he tends to treat widows, for whatever reasons, conscious or unconscious. (One recalls that as the biographer of Robert Lowell, who died in 1977, Hamilton had to deal with two spirited and talented women. both writers themselves: Lowell's wife Caroline Blackwood and his former wife Elizabeth Hardwicke.)

This hint of literary misogyny is underlined by the fact that only one widower is considered at length, and that is Ted Hughes. He is treated comparatively tenderly (and why not, when one thinks what he has had to endure). It would have been pleasant to find the same tenderness extended to some of the

Scorning idylls of the laureate

∃he first full-scale modern biography of Tennyson was Robert Bernard Martin's in 1980. Now Michael Thorn pulls past and present together by ex-ploiting his 20th-century perspective, drawing attention to the fact that this is "probably" the first biography of Tennyson to refer to the soap opera Neighbours. The unintended effect is to make one of Tennyson's Idylis, "Gareth and Lynette", sound like an episode from the same soap opera. Nor is Thorn afraid to say of the poem "O Darling Room" that it is "about as cack-handed a piece of versemaking as any poet has thought fit

One of Thorn's recurring themes is the peculiar thrill attaching to relationships with the sisters of one's best friends. Tennyson's beloved friend Arthur Hallam sustained a half-hearted engagement to Tennyson's invalidish sister Emily. Tennyson, at the time he was writing what Thorn calls his "girly poems", is described as being in a state of "teetering erotic excitement". Tennyson himself had a ten-year stop-go engagement to another Emily, who finally became his wife.

The convention has been to believe that marriage stifled Tennyson's lyric impulse. Thorn portrays Emily as a devoted student of "dearest Ally" and his work, at fault only in drowning him in adulation. When she could no longer sustain this she took refuge in back pain, leaving their elder son to be the selfsacrificial keeper of the flame.

Thorn's primary interest is in Tennyson the man and not his milieu. Unwilling in early chapters, to "bore the reader with thumbnail sketches" of Tennyson's friends, he never finds the right moment. Some of them, including many who were significant figures in their own right, remain faceless surnames. This leads to problems. Knowles on page 384 is not the same man as Knowles on page

The poignancy of the relationship with Arthur Hallam is necessarily given full treatment. Thorn is certain, as was Martin, that the attraction was not sexual. Tennyson was always a gloomy, withdrawn man, obsessed with his physical and spiritual ill-health, as preoccupied by his bowels and nerves as by love, grief and famous "black blood" of his family.

Victoria Glendinning

TENNYSON By Michael Thorn

family feuds. One brother became an opium addict, two others were packed off in youth to lunatic

He always needed minders, and always found them. In the 1830s he lost thousands in the hopeless business venture of a madhousekeeper who tried to market machine-made woodcarvings. He made little money from his poetry to start with, and a convenient civil list pension was obtained for him by supportive friends when he was still in his thirties. Like fatherhood and domesticity, recognition came late.

Not that Tennyson was ever fully domesticated. He was restiess, moving from house to house. He drank a great deal, and after his bottle of port would read his own work aloud for hours at a stretch to trapped guests. He was mad for a peer-

As an old man he liked to pinch and stroke young ladies. They did not like it at all.

Thorn is much tougher with Tennyson about this habit than Martin. Yet his achievement in this book is never to let us forget that this self-absorbed, dirty, egotistical hypochondriac is also the poet who wrote lines which have passed into the common consciousness as have those of no other poet except Shakespeare. (It sounds like a joke. but he also wrote a "Charge of the Heavy Brigade". It didn't catch on.) Thorn is perceptive about how popular sentiment, left without an object on the death of Dickens, was transferred almost overnight to Tennyson. He is instructive too in suggesting that celebrity in the modern sense began only with the spread of photography. Tennyson groaned when he was recognised. and sulked when he was not. Thorn is astute about how a recessive, selfcentred man like Tennyson was capable of outrageous social behaviour, precisely because he was not fully aware of other people.

in that he has brought the pungent old devil alive. You need to be a theologian of Tennysoniana to know whether his challenges to previous biographers over matters of detail are justified. I must remain neutral. But as Thorn writes, apropos the concocted praise that Tennyson received from his Cambridge pals: "Pleasant reviews from one's friends are one thing, but a boost from a really neutral party is what the writer really craves.

Thorn has succeeded in his aims

Dusting off our journals

Clive Wilmer

LITERARY MAGAZINES

n the 1960s, if you wanted to know what was really going on in contemporary literature, you could do worse than make for the Charing Cross Road, to browse through the little magazines. One shop, Better Books - now long gone - had a whole department devoted to them. Today, as the editors of Mediterraneans remind us, distribution is the most serious problem a new magazine has to face. Libraries can't afford to take out new subscriptions and tend to think of serious mags as "elitist" anyway. Booksellers turn up their noses at "dust-harbourers". Yet there has been a rash of new periodicals over the past two years. The look of them is positively opulent compared with the Better Books staple of c. 1965, but the emphasis is strikingly non-Western.

Mediterraneans 2/3 (already a double issue of 336 pages) is much the most impressive of the crop. It's a literary/political quarterly which nean basin. The editors bravely include some pieces in French well, it is on the National Curricuhum - and print poems in parallel text, even if the original tongue is

The magazine has its flaws. The poetry is mostly dull and the poets concerned are sparsely represented. The rest is of unequal value. But some weighty fish have been net-ted: an interview with Nobel laureate Naguib Mahfouz, for instance, a rare new poem by David Gas-coyne, and the first article I've read on the Yugoslav civil war that actually answers the questions we've all been asking. This last succeeds so well because the author, Richard West, clearly knows who he's addressing.

The new Central Europe provides the focus for Storm, though its editor describes this nest little pocket-book as "a quarterly magazine of writing from East and West". Past issues have printed work by newcomers alongside such major figures from the old communist bloc as Czechoslovakia's Bohumil Hrabal and Hungary's Peter Esterhazy. The latest issue, Storm 5, has a more Western emphasis, including a brilliant but chilling short story by the young American writer Dean Albarelli.

A more consistent effect is achieved by the monocultural Glas, which is published in Moscow and features writing from Russia only. With its greyish print on cheaplooking glossy paper, it irresistibly recalls the bad old days, but the content could not be more different. Number 2 is devoted to "Soviet Grotesque", many of the contributors poking fun at the solemnities of official Communist writing. The absurd, the weird and the perverted are offered in deadpan manner, as if normal and healthy.

A different kind of coherence is achieved by the long-standing Is-raeli review of the arts, Ariel, now on its 88th issue. This is more the sort of publication that ministries of culture favour. The present number includes a piece on the painter Zvi Malkin, who was involved in the capture of Adolf Eichmann. While on that extraordinary quest, Malkin painted a series of pictures relating to it on the printed pages of a guide to Argentina. Even in reproduction they are compelling. All the magazines I've mentioned publish poetry and almost all of it is wretchedly translated. The notion that some verse translation is automatically better than none cannot be contested often enough. It is a fallacy that has never beguiled the editors of Agenda. Now 30 years old, this once-great poetry magazine has lately been losing its way a little. The current issue, a Festschrift for that magnificent poet Geoffrey Hill, is very much a return to form. It includes four new poems - typically resonant broodings on the painful tangle that is human history - and several critical essays on his verse. The prize contribution, though, is a memoir of Hill's schooldays in the 1940s, an affecting piece of social history including some remarkable examples of his juvenilia.

Mediterraneans 2/3 is published by Didsbury Press, 7 Darley Avenue, Didsbury, Manchester M20 8XE, at £7.99. Quarterly review of new writing and images reflecting contemporary life in the Mediterranean region.

Storm 5, distributed by Cape, is available from PO Box is available from the Department of Russian Literature, University of Birmingham, Birmingham B15 2TT, at val Tai Ltd., PO Box 2160, Jerusalem 91021, Israel; $8 (plus sea mail). Quarterly re-

1911, London W11 1SE, at £5. Quarterly magazine of writing from East and West. Glas: New Russian Writing 2

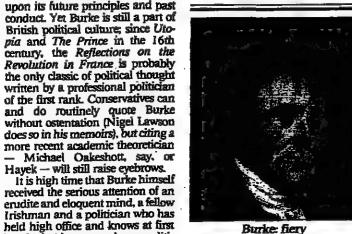

E5.95. Quarterly. Ariel 88, distributed by You-view of Israeli arts and letters. Agenda, Vol. 30, 1-2, 5 Cranbourne Court, Albert Bridge Road, London SW11 4PE, £8. Poetry quarterly.

The grand Instructor, Burke urke taught conservatives Daniel Johnson how to think; not many avail

> THE GREAT MELODY A Thematic Biography and Commented Anthology of Edmund Burke

By Conor Cruise O'Brien Sinclair-Stevenson, £22.50

Burke: fiery

trations are scattered at random. Yet the many years that O'Brien has spent reading Burke, the fruits of which fill more than 600 pages to bursting, have not been in vain. In sum, this often maddening but ferociously intelligent book is worthy both of its subject and of its author. There could be no higher praise. All Burkeans must buy it.

Copious quotation is essential in any life of Burke, a man who wrote and spoke as well as anybody has ever written or spoken English. But staying close to the sources does not mean that a biography ought to be an anthology too, as the subtitle of this book implies. O'Brien himself wrote many years ago, in his introduction to the Penguin edition of the Reflections: "But it is nearly as wrong to anthologise the Reflections as it would be to attempt to paraphrase or systematise them."

The "thematic" structure of The Great Melody distorts the chronological framework, while the themes themselves - Ireland, America, India and France - are inadequate vessels to contain the effervescence of Burke's thought. Only when they impinge on his public life do we glimpse the other facets of "this wonderful man", as Fanny Burney called him: Burke and the high society of London and Paris: Burke the pioneer of aesthetics, whose Philosophical Inquiry into the Origin of our ideas of the Sublime and the Beautiful of 1759 heiped to shape the romantic sensibility; and Burke the intensely private husband, father and friend.

Yet how masterly is O'Brien's grasp of Burke's inexhaustible rhetorical riches. While the impact of Burke's "vortex" of a personality is never underestimated, the moments of high drama — the fall of the Rockingham Whigs, the impeachment of Warren Hastings, the clash with Fox over France are placed in historical context. On the other hand, the reductionist fallacy of Lewis Namier and his school, who ignored the ideological dynamics of Georgian politics and substituted a static system of patronage, is given a pasting.

Brien himself implies that the most original contribution of this book will prove to be its investigation of the Irish and crypto-Catholic "level" of the Burkean "great melody". An aversion to overweening authority came naturally to a man whose father had been forced to become an Anglican convert for Edmund's sake, and whose Catholic mother's people had lost their once extensive influence under the Protestant ascendancy. This thesis seems plausible: Burke was indeed a seer, who had prophesied the consequences of the French Revolution in his earliest writings, when he de-nounced the illiberal atheism of the Voltairean philosophes. With this Irish emphasis, though, Burke seems to have more in common with continental Catholic thinkers, such as Joseph de Maistre, than O'Brien would like to think. He uses the description "a liberal and pluralist opponent of the French Revolution" of a man who saw "the creed of the Rights of Man" as the "symbol of all evil". The theological terms which so often creep into Burke's late works are a symptom, not only of his "Jesuitical" background, but of his profound insight into what the late Jacob Talmon called "totalitarian democracy". advocated by Rousseau and implemented by revolutionaries from Robespierre to Lenin and Hitler. Burke alone saw immediately that the proper precenot the American war of independence, but the Protestant Reformation and the wars of religion. His pessimism was, among other things, that of the Catholic who sees Christendom rent asunder for a second time by the "philosophy of O'Brien is right to see Burke's analysis of the French Revolution as applicable to the latter-day heirs of the Terror, but he tries to distance his hero from the American scholars, such as Russell Kirk, who made use of Burke during the Cold War. I fear that Burke would have been delighted to be used in that way, and would have heartily assented to the illiheral and unpluralist measures which were occasionally employed against communism. Thomas Paine, whose bestseller The Rights of Man was written as a counterblast to the Reflections, complained that Burke did not bother to respond, but recommended the use of "criminal justice" against him. Burke saw sansculottes under the bed to such a degree that he was buried in an ummarked grave to prevent its possible desecration. But O'Brien shows that the fiery counter-revolutionary of his last years was responding to alarming new dangers. Unlike most modern liberals, he loved liberty - provided it was balanced by order and restraint. Unlike his continental followers, Burke believed in "a slow but well-sustained progress" over generations. He was not a democrat, but he thought ordinary people often wiser than their intelectual superiors.

He admired those parts of the British constitution, such as the House of Lords, which incorporated a bias against innovation; but he was a moderate reformer who checked the extension of the royal prerogative and prevented the continuation of the American war, who did much to render the East India Company responsible to parliament and to extend civil rights to Catholics in Ireland. His distinctive combination of implacable opposition to the adversaries of the British people, their liberties and their parliament, and sensible compromise with anybody who can assist in that struggle, is one that the Conservatives practised from 1975 to 1990. These momentous weeks will show whether the language they aspire to speak is still Burke's.

Tennyson: monologues

385, but you cannot know this without consulting the index.

But then he had inherited the Thorn tells the story well, starting with the childhood in the comfortable but eccentric Lincolnshire vicarage dominated by a sick and resentful father and a string of neither of them satisfactory, and a historiographic introduction of 75 pages but no bibliography. A curious exchange of letters between the author and Sir Isaiah Berlin is included as an appendix, but the main point at issue - whether Burke was an anti-democratic reactionary or not - is not fully discussed. The publishers have overlooked an imusually large number of trivial but tiresome mistakes, and the mediocre illus- the wit, who impressed Dr Johnson

Countries rate. Nationwide is a member of the sourcing Societies Unitotic dent for the French Revolution was

INFORMATION (ECHNOLOGY

High stakes to be won

South Africa is deciding whether to legalise 'hard' gambling

A n advertisement for one of the Sun group hotels in South Africa suggests that you get the best sound if you turn off the radio and television in your room and listen to the bird calls, and the occasional cough of a lion. In most of the .Sun hotels, however, if you listen hard in the silence of the night what you will hear is the jangle-dank of the slot machines, and the occasional half hysterical "ow-ov-ow-OW!" of a big winner drowning in the silver rush of coins into the trough. Many of the Sun hotels are located in the so-called independent black homelands, or bantustans". These are also known as "casinostans" for their one sure source of income (apart, of course, from the generosity of the South African taxpayer, who supports the cost of their entire govern-mental structures) was the money from licensing and taxing the gaming which is illegal in white South Africa.

South Africa's passion for gambling has led to a surreptiflous growth in gaming. Outside the homeiands as many as 500 illegal casinos have sprung up, which, since they are not in remote and largely inhospitable areas, are attracting the money (and gaming staff, too) that used to attach to the Sun organisation.

H. J. "Kobie" Coetsee, the justice minister, announced this week that the government is to bring forward its gambling amendment bill at a short session of parliament which begins on Monday.

The bill has been considered by the parliamentary committee on justice, and will have the curious effect of declaring an immediate ban on all forms of "hard" gambling in white South Africa. There has been some question about the law and this is to take that uncertainty away. The ban will be retrospective to October 1, but no operator already in business will be prosecuted before February 1 next year provided he can show that his business has not expanded. The aim of this curiosity is to allow a commission of enquiry (which should publish its report by February 1 next year) to examine the desirability of allowing exemptions from the law in certain regions of the country. These recommendations, Ray Radue, MP, the committee chairman said yes-filling in the coupon below.

ADDRESS ....

Print name ...

OFFICE USE ONLY

Ticket number

terday "will bring order and stability to the unsatisfactory situation which currently

They will also provide a way new South Africa to permit the homeland casines to continue when, or if, their hosts are reincorporated into South Africa

Under the proposed new law, South Africa might well, like the United States of America, be able to maintain regional differences in the laws that permit gaming. Certainly the casinos have become focal points for a huge investment in the tourist industry, and have become big money-spinners for their hosts. It would scarcely be right for the government to have encouraged Sol Kerzner to invest R8 billion (£2 billion) in developing his tourist com-plexes — R350 million for the new Lost City complex at Sun City, for instance - and then say sorry, you cannot do that any more. However, few believe that Mr Kerzner will aming aside, some gambling is legal in South Africa. Serious talk shows or radio golden greats are regularly interrupted to bring the latest horse races from Turffontein, or Newmarket (that is the Newmarket in Johannesburg). The sport is taken with immense seriousness. Certain kinds of lotteries are legal also.

Up until now though, the government has turned something of a blind eye to the pirate casinos.

"I don't understand this country," says Jack Galloway, head of gaming for the Sun casinos, newly arrived from Atlantic City and Las Vegas. Where I come from if something is illegal people move in to stop it, or at least to look at it and see if it can be stopped. Here, that doesn't seem to hannen.'

But a new dispensation for more widespread gaming could suit the Sun people, too. As Mr Galloway pointed out, "We would want to particlpate. There is not a company in the southern hemisphere that has our expertise. And we understand the morality of gambling in this country. We

MICHAEL HAMLYN

IS THE LAW MALE?

A Times/Dillons debate on injustice in the British legal system.

The debate will take place on Thursday, October 29 at 7.15pm at the Institute of Education, 20 Bedford Way, WC1. Tickets are available from tomorrow. Times readers can obtain tickets by

THEXITIMES

DILLONS DEBATE

Please send me ...... invitation(s) at £10 (students & OAPs £5) each for the legal debate on October 29.

I enclose my cheque made payable to Dillons the Bookstore

Alternatively, please debit my Access/Visa card number or my Dillons/Hatchard account number

Post coupon and remittance to: The Times / Dillons

Legal Debate

Dillons, 82 Gower Street, London WC1E 6EQ

To reserve your ticketts) — £10 (students & OAPs £5) — please cell today at Dillons the Bookmore, $2 Gower Street, London WC1E 6EQ (071-915 6612: haz 071-580 7680), or complete the coupon and post it to Dillons with your Cheque number

... Signature .

POSTCODE __

Anthony Freeman has been rehabilitated by the prime minister, Matthew d'Ancona reports

History Man comes in from the cold

oday's heresy is tomorrow's orthodoxy, as every historian are gnawing at your flesh and the lynch-mob are carting you to the gallows; the next you are at the right hand of the king, the beloved courtier and adviser. But even Anthony Freeman, who has a doctorate in history, could not have expected the dramatic reversal of fortune which spun him back into the limelight last Friday.

Dr Freeman is one of the education establishment's great pariahs. In 1987, he and Christopher McGovern, his department head at Lewes Priory School, East Sussex, began making robust, traditionalist criticisms of the GCSE history syllabus, kicking off an almighty row about the future of their subject which was to win them support from 50 MPs and blue-chip historians including Lord Beloff and Norman Stone. Two years later, for their pains, they lost their jobs at the school as part of a "re-organisation" which many thought a thinly-veiled exercise in

The dispute and its after-effects have rumbled on. Dr Freeman, now a member of the School Examinations and Assessment Council's history com-

'In the last ten years, history teaching has stressed the process rather than the product'

mittee, has been unable to find a permanent teaching post in East vamped schools inspectorate earlier this year. At 47, his future in the mainstream looked bleak. Then, last Friday, the day Dr Freeman was finally struck off the local authority's list of supply staff. John Major rode to the

In a published letter to a retired union chief, the prime minister said that Dr Freeman's work with Mr McGovern had clearly identified the "insidious attack on history" and challenges to the traditional core of this crucial subject". Teachers were left in no doubt that No 10 is thinking hard about the future of history in the classroom and - horror of horrors - is listening to the reviled "Lewes two", iconoclasts who were thought to be safely locked out in the cold.

Dr Freeman says that the prime minister's intervention signalled a victory for common sense in an "overintellectualised" subject which has lost its soul. "I have felt very lonely, isolated and vulnerable and very much appreciate the support. But it has to be translated into a will to reform among a group of people. We have not yet achieved the common ground."

The battle to define that common ground in the national curriculum and GCSE syliabuses has been cast as a straight fight between traditionalists and radicals, conservatives and progressives. Dr Freeman dislikes the political tags that have been applied to his work but is forthright about the extent of the disagreement. "In the last ten years, history teaching has stressed the process rather than the product. There has been an unhelpful debate on skills versus knowledge, and a view has begun to develop that history is just a vehicle on which to do some exercises."

After the political furore that surrounded the findings of the national curriculum working party in 1989, the prospect of another slanging match fills many teachers with dread. In any case, Dr Freeman's critics say, he and the prime minister are five years out of date, pushing at an open door. "Most of the differences have been sorted out in the production of the national curriculum," says Martin Roberts, the deputy president of the Historical Association. "It's not all about peasants, black peasants and black women. Kings and queens, politicans and dates are all there in the legislation."

The good doctor is not convinced by this line. The curriculum, he says, is still built around an arbitrary hierarchy of skills, setting pupils attainment targets which they can achieve with a limited command of fact and chronology. You could tackle the Industrial Revolution in an afternoon and satisfy the legal requirement. You don't need to demonstrate the depth and breadth of your knowledge."

But what knowledge? Here Dr Freeman and his allies enter the lists with the ghosts of the past and the great historical thinkers of the 20th century who have tried to construct the right framework for their subject. Is history an inevitable march toward a predetermined goal as Whigs, Marxists and now Francis Fukuyama have argued? Or is it the story of uninspiring continuities and self-interest, as the modern "revisionist" school proposes? Or (as Emerson said) simply the biography of great men? Faced with this analytic abyss, Dr Freeman is unashamedly a back-tobasics man. No British history curriculum, he says, should ignore the key pitstops on the highway to nationhood: the reforms of Henry VIII and Cromwell, the break with Rome, the English Civil War. Charges of jingoism or indoctrination miss the point, he adds.

"Nationhood is part of the foundafion of our society and it is more of an issue than it has been for a long time. The nature of the state is in question." A child needs this grounding in national history to become a citizen, he says, as well as an appreciation of the great political events of world history: the French and Russian Revolutions. the rise of the Nazis.

But he is more cautious about teaching which focuses upon class. ethnicity or gender - the staple of the wonder il discussion of class isn't leading to stereotypes and enforcing a political view which may not be a very helpful one." Men and women may be bombarded by historic influences beyond their control but, in the Freeman vision, they remain individuals, autonomous beings who forge their own

So for instance left-wing historians see the Industrial Revolution as a key event in the history of the mass labour movement. Dr Freeman identifies in instead it a flowering of "the concept of enterprise, which does not have to be state-led". Marx versus Hayelc you pays your money and you takes your choice. But at least get your facts straight, he says.

The guardians of the national curriculum are emphatic that a review of history is not on the cards, but their political masters may already have decided otherwise. And if there is to be change, one can now be sure that Dr Freeman will play a part in it.

mite charge blew a huge boulder into the car of the official in charge of the project.

The fucu has targeted recipients of the Order of Columbus.

One politician was reportedly pricked by the medal's pin during an award ceremony in the 1940s and died when the wound became infected. In 1969 the outgoing German ambassador Carl von Spretti;

received the medal by mail at his new posting in Guatemala. Shortly afterwards leftist guer-

The fucu phenomenon is not just the preserve of the educated élite. Many of the poor majority are also believers. Lydia Santana, 48, lives barely 600 metres from the giant lighthouse, waiting to be evicted from her home in the Maquiteria shanty town to make way for the surrounding gardens. Mrs Santana lost hei husband two years ago after a heart attack. Six months later she was made redundant. Last December her parents living next door were evicted and moved to a new neighbour-

Next week the Pope will hold a Mass at the foot of the lighthouse as part of a ceremony to open a two week-long

Latin American bishops' conference. Mrs Santana says she is willing to risk the fucu to see hood called "The Admiral".

rillas executed him.

Beware bogus doctors

The phoney is dangerous but hard to spot

eople who have a resent-ment about their social sate for their real or imagined inadequacy by masquerading in roles that they see as powerful and admired. It may surprise young doctors, one in three of whom wish they had not chosen medicine as a career, to know they are often the role model.

A few years ago out-patient clinics seemed to be studded with fighter pilots who had never flown an aircraft. VCs who had never left our shore and racing drivers who could manage only a Mini. Howev-er, a few well directed questions were usually enough to uncover their prefence.

The bogus hero destroys nobody but himself. The bogus doctor may well be a hazard to his patient's life, and a liability in the medical team, but is much harder to detect. Masquerading doctors play their role to excite the admiration that boosts their ego and entails doing something rather than just humming and hawing by the bedside. There in lies the danger.

Matthew Braiman, who was jailed this week for using false registration documents. gaining pecuniary advantage by posing as a doctor and drawing up a false death certificate, had tricked his way into a hospital job.

A few years ago an unquali-fied Italian became a leading neurosurgeon with an interna-tional reputation. His pretence was uncovered by chance. He had started at the bottom in a highly specialised developing subject, about which no newly qualified house surgeon was expected to know much.
Learning by experience, and from colleagues, he moved steadily up the medical ladder. Patients are unlikely to detext anything odd. Indeed, they may be impressed and delighted by the bogus doc-tor's enthusiasm, interest and a ready explanation for their troubles. Doctors are better at spotting something amiss. However, as Robert Cohen, an NHS consultant psychia-

Bratman: now in prison

trist and the medical director of a private psychiatric clinic. admits, even doctors are often fooled: "The desire to be a doctor and powerful and infinential can be so great that the underlying inadequate personality is well hidden."

In one case of which Dr Cohen had personal know-ledge the miscreant was charming and the patients loved him dearly but his colleagues noticed that he avoided talking about earlier medical training and was vague when discussing individual cases. Even so, he knew the jargon and was adept at simple procedures. He was later exposed and convicted.

r Cohen cautions against the danger of assuming that all bogus doctors are merely inadequates. Some may have a severe personality disorder and be motivated by a desire to assault patients sexually or to satisfy some perversion by practising surgery. They are prepared, as are many psychopaths, to go to great lengths to satisfy their desires.

Patients should beware of the "doctor" who arrives at their house or bedside unasked for or unannounced and seeks to examine their most intimate areas, or those of their children, but there is no magic sign to warn a patient that a doctor is bogus. The genuine doctor is not ashamed to consult another doctor or use reference books, perhaps to look up drugs in Mims (Monthly Index of Medical Specialities) and the British National Formulary in the patient's presence. Their ego does not have to be flattered by the pretence that they know the Oxford Textbook of Medicine by heart.

> THOMAS STUTTAFORD

The curse of the great admiral

looking in particular at the treatment of women in our courts, is to take place later this month. The debate will be led by Dominicans say Helena Kennedy, QC, who will be opposed by the barrister Christina Gorna. Lord Williams of Mostyn will be in the that Columbus

brought bad luck

even and a half million Dominicans held their breath at the flicking of a switch yesterday, and prayed they would not be cursed. After 60 years of controversial design, debate and construction the mammoth Columbus Lighthouse, sent its powerful beams skyward.

Dominicans fear the fucu (pronounced fooku), a word of African origin describing the widely believed curse that has bedevilled the country's 500year association with the man who "discovered" the Caribbe-an island in 1492. Christopher Colombus, they say, has brought nothing but bad luck.

Dominicans admit to being highly superstitious and some avoid saying the dreaded Columbus word. If the name is uttered in their earshot they will cry. "Zafa", the traditional verbal antidote to the curse.

Bernardo Vega, a former Downside schoolboy and former governor of the Dominican Central Bank, refers instead to the "Great Admiral" the "Discoverer" or the "Genoese Navigator". He turned down an official invitation to the attend the lighthouse inauguration.

Many of the strongest believers in the fucu are. like Mr

Further proof? the curse has apparently affected the building of Columbus lighthouse

try's intellectual, political and journalistic élite. They have devoted long hours to re-searching its history. Although nobody can pin down its origin, certain events have been categorised as manifestations of the curse.

A few years ago Mr Vega published a Spanish translation of a book-length poem titled Fucu by the Russian poet Yevgeni Yevtushenko, who visited Santo Domingo. Mr Vega says it is the worst-selling of the 80 books he has produced.

In 1937, four small planes, named the Nina, the Pinta, the Santa Maria and the Columbus, made the "Panamerican Flight" to raise money for the lighthouse project.

Three crashed into a mountain in Colombia. The surviving plane was the Columbus. On August 4, 1946, at a ceremony to mark the 450th anniversary of the founding of Santo Domingo during which Columbus's um was opened, the country experienced its worst earthquake this century. Two years later, at a ceremony to begin construc-

the Pope. That is if the soldiers let us." DAVID ADAMS

Bew bog dock

POINTMENTS

TO ADVERTISE FAX 071 782 7826

MONDAY

TO ADVERTISE

TELEPHONE.

071 481 4481

EDUCATION University Appointments Prep & Public School Appointments Educational Courses Scholarships & Fellowships LA CREME DE LA CREME

TUESDAY

LEGAL APPOINTMENTS Solicitors & Commercial Lawyers Private & Public Practice PUBLIC APPOINTMENTS

CREATIVE & MEDIA

APPOINTMENTS

LA CREME DE LA CREME Secretarial Appointments

WEDNESDAY

THURSDAY

GENERAL APPOINTMENTS Management, Engineering, etc. ACCOUNTANCY & FINANCE LA CREME DE LA CREME Secretarial Appointments

FRIDAY

INTERNATIONAL APPOINTMENTS Educational, Technical, Commercial and Academic Posts

European Chemicals Purchasing Manager

up to £40,000 + car

Secretarial Appointments

Our client, part of a major international group, specialises in the production of industrial gases and associated products. With a view to maximising the long-term profitability of its European Chemical operations, the company is committed to rationalising the purchase and supply of its raw materials - an area that currently accounts for an annual expenditure of some

Taking on this new role as part of the European management team, your objectives will be twofold: firstly, to establish and manage a purchasing organisation capable of developing a focused buying strategy which will meet diverse buying requirements; secondly, to develop international sourcing plans for raw materials used in Europe. Within this remit, you will be responsible for implementing integrated purchasing practices and procedures, negotiating and administering supply contracts and building relationships with key suppliers.

A graduate in Chemistry or Chemical Engineering, you will need a minimum 15 years' experience in a commercial environment, a significant proportion of which should have been spent in a senior purchasing management role. A second European language, preferably German, is also required. In addition, you will need the interpersonal skills to represent the company in complex technical dealings with all levels of management and user groups, along with the complex technical dealings with all levels of management and user groups, along with the business acumen to harness the advantages of the existing purchasing organismion into

Initially, the position will be based in Manchester with a view to relocation within two years. In return for your commitment and expertise, you can look forward to an excellent salary and benefits package reflecting our client's world-leading status.

In the first instance, write with full career and salary details to Rachel Smith at the address Please list separately any companies to whom your details should not be sent as applications will be forwarded direct to our client.

BERNARD HODES

Griffin House, 161 Hammersmith Rd,

MOOLWORTHS -----

Promotions Manager

c.£40.000 + Car & Benefits

London

Following the announcement of further profit growth for the first half of 1992, the success story continues. With 796 stores and 27,000 employees, Woolworths is a highly focused retailer, authoritative in its core markets. The well respected and dynamic central Marketing Department, championed at Board level, now requires a talented Promotions and POS Manager to drive promotional activities throughout the company.

THE POSITION

- Key player responsible for all corporate promotions, overseeing supplier-funded programmes and the co-ordination of POS activities to facilitate innovative change in store lay-out and format.
- Manage and develop young, enthusiastic team and liaise extensively with marketing heads in the Trading divisions.
- Control sizeable promotional spend and develop initiatives for database marketing.

QUALIFICATIONS

- Numerate and creative graduate, aged 27-35. At least five years' marketing and promotions experience from a marketing-led environment, ideally fast moving consumer goods or services.
- Robust, self-confident negotiator with first class. inter-personal and leadership skills. Credible at

Please write, enclosing full cv, Ref 1,3818 54 Jermyn Street, London, SWIY 6LX

NB SELECTION LTD - a Norman Brottibent International associated company LONDON 671 495 6392 • REBMONGELAM 021 233 4656 • SLOUGEI 0753 819227 • BROSTOIL 0272 291142

c. £50,000 package + excellent benefits

Business to Business

Vlanaging Director

A highly unusual and rewarding opportunity for a mature but enterprising generalist to develop sophisticated product range provides world-wide organisations with outstanding competitive advantage through innovative, rapid response systems technology. The company seeks the enlightened leadership of a proven marketeer and business builder to continue its programme of

THE ROLE . -Reporting to the UK based European Managing Director, responsible for a compact, highly talented team and with access to global technical development

Marketing, identifying new opportunities, creating consultancy based relationships with key customers. ensuring comprehensive support through high service

Determining strategic business direction, building and motivating specialist teams, coordinating plans with European colleagues, ensuring appropriate controls.

London 071 973 8484 Manchester 061 437 0375 THE QUALIFICATIONS

Sharp graduate intellect, flexible and adaptable, computer literate. Business or marketing qualification highly desirable. Probably aged 40-50, youthful Froven general manager, with blue-chip training and subsequent success in smaller, service oriented organisations. Man-management skills, financial controls, professional standards, and opportunistic instincts are all key.

Maturity and experience to complement young thrusting team. Positive, confident and influential in managing customer relations. First class organiser and planner. nicaté effectively internatio

Selector Europe, Ref. S1001102M. Selector Europe A Spencer Stuart Company

Package c. £60,000 + car + benefits

Global Healthcare

England

Strategic Business Director:

A senior international sales and marketing role involving responsibility for the strategic planning of the largest product group, and for a substantial business entity, within a very successful worldwide organisation. Leadership in major markets has been achieved by extensive R & D investment, first class marketing support and international teamwork. A high profile appointment to develop global markets, offering excellent career opportunities within this major organisation.

Responsible at board level for a highly talented Probably aged 35-45, a graduate preferably in life marketing team, a matrix of international relationships and a fast growing business.

■ The direction and management of the future of major products for global markets, exercising significant influence over development priorities, investment budgets and educational programmes and establishing relationships with key opinion leaders.

closely with country managers, providing corporate

THE QUALIFICATIONS

- sciences, an experienced and professional marketing and business manager. Ideally a competent linguist
- Froven in marketing, sales and product group management with major healthcare, pharmsceutical or medical product businesses and have driven new product development from conception through to ternational launch and sustained profitable growth.
- 🗯 Sales maximisation in key growth markets, working 📉 Excellent communicator and diplomnt, intellectually rigorous, with stamina for extensive travel and setting

London 071 973 8484 Manchester 061 437 0375

Selector Europe A Spencer Stuart Company

Please reply, exclosing full details, to: Selector Europe, Ref. S1003102M. Adlington Court, Greencourts Busin Styal Road, Manchester M22 5LG

MANAGEMENT CONSULTANCY - BANKING SYSTEMS

PRINCIPAL CONSULTANTS To 250K + bonus + car

SENIOR CONSULTANTS To EACK + bornes + CON

Terence Chapman Associates Limited is an international management consultancy providing systems related services to the banking sector. Our assignments include systems strategy studies, hardware and software selection advice and a variety of high-level consultancy assignments. We also undertake systems implementation, software development and facilities management contracts for a blue chip client list that contains some of the leading names in international banking. We are currently growing strongly and profitably, based on high levels of repeat business and recommendations, and on a number of major new contracts in the UK and in Western, Central and Eastern Europe, and are therefore looking for a small number of outstanding banking systems professionals to sustain our current expansion and play a key role in our future success.

For all positions we are looking for excellent intellectual and personal skills, and a track record of achievement, gained in a banking, major systems house or "big six" management consultancy environment. We seek leadership talent and top management potential. Willingness to travel is essential.

Principal Consultants

Up to £50K basic salary Aged 28-40, your self confidence and experience of consultancy.

implementation and development projects in the banking systems field will enable you to take full commercial and project responsibility for large and/or complex projects. You will play a key role in developing client relationships and managing assignments, as well as making a significant contribution to managing all aspects of the growth of the company.

Senior Consultants Up to £40K basic salary

Probably aged 26-35, you will have project management responsibility for development and implementation projects and for a range of consultancy assignments, working within a demanding but supportive management structure. Knowledge of one of the leading international banking software packages, or extensive experience of retail banking technology, would be advantageous.

in return we offer an opportunity to achieve rapid career progression by joining a fast growing, highly regarded consultancy with a broad variety of challenging assignments. Ours is an organised, professional and dynamic working environment - at approximately 55 staff we have no need for the excessive bureaucracy of inflexible structure of many large organisations. Our clients often comment on our exceptional team spirit,

If you are interested in joining the TCA team, please call Tom Brady on 02302 2790 or Travers Bell on 981 542 2155 between 3.80 p.m. and 6.30 p.m. today, or write to them with your CV at the following address:

Head of IT Production Services Major International Finance House

c. £60,000 + substantial bonus + car + banking benefits

Location: London

This is a tremendous opportunity for an intelligent and dynamic IT Production Services Manager to advance his/her career in a challenging and exciting environment.

Your IT experience will include a background in data centre operations, tele/data communications and help desk facilities, in an on-line multiplatform transaction processing environment, with a thorough commitment to user satisfaction and quality levels of service. Specific experience of Vax technology and/or a City background would be advantageous but is not essential.

Commercially aware, you will have a sound appreciation of how IT service levels can impact upon the business and have the presentation skills necessary to promote this concept both within the team and throughout the organisation.

As a senior manager, you will have the ability to achieve results through subordinates but will not be afraid to lead by example where necessary. You will require experience of managing a team of at least 30 staff, including recruitment and training requirements.

To apply, please write, enclosing your CV, to the advising consultant John Kearney at Harvey Nash. Please ensure that you include current salary details and a daytime contact number. Please quote reference HN648.

HARVEY NASH PLC

FIFCILON IN INFORMATION TICHNOLOGY

DRAGON COURT. 27-29 MACKLIN STREET, LONDON WC2B 5LX TEL: 071-333 0033

Companies are finding that concentrating time and effort on recruitment pays dividends later, as Hugh Thompson reports

Sudden quest for quality

isations are being forced by the recession to shed quality staff. some are using the present environment to increase the quality of their management. The 650-store Gateway chain for example, has recently finished the first phase of a radical new recruitment and training programme bringing in over 70 store managers from outside the food retailing industry.

Eastwood Associates were called in to oversee the process. Marie Eastwood explains: "Gateway realised that the great area of store competition is in personal service and this is very much peopledriven. Retailers traditionally have recruited school leavers and trained them up to manager level. This has meant that there are not as many qualified managers in retailing as

"When we considered what was gvailable at Gateway we found that about one third were not good enough to benefit from training. We convinced the directors that since the difference between good and bad managers was as much as 10 per cent in store turnover, it was worth not only boosting training to existing store managers but going outside retailing and hiring better managers."

The advert which appeared in the press at the end of last year was pitched at: "Dedicated entrepreneurs, people who enjoy the free-dom to make decisions and take full responsibility for their stores' profitability, to run them as if they were their own business — and with £5m-£10m turnover, they are not small businesses." With most sectors of industry and the public sector shedding staff at all levels, the response to this advertisement, which offered up to £50,000 plus a car, was staggering. More than 9,500 replied to the advert, with over 7,300 filling in

The questionnaire contained a psychometric test, which weeded out nearly 2,000. Closer attention reduced the list to 1,500. More than 700 were too old, some were not earning enough and others lacked the required education. Some were rejected because their professional life showed too many job changes; many had had too little management experience.

Human investment: Bob Willett (left), Gateway's chief executive, with Rupert Galther, a new (and carefully chosen) store manager

Of the remainder, some withdrew and 1,300 were left. All of them were interviewed by telephone for 30 to 45 minutes. From this stage about 300 were passed onto the assessment centre and 80 were offered posts. Of these, 56

"We had boiled the job down to several key management characteristics - perception, communication, motivation and processing skills. It was around these areas that we were testing and seeing how the would-be managers coped with store conditions. Of those we took on a very high percentage had been in computers, banking and the armed forces. We had broken away from picking up unhappy managers from other retail chains

— though of course they did feature." Ms Eastwood says. The highest number of those were recruited from Marks and Spencer — managers who realised that Gateway might offer a faster track to the top.

Bob Willett, the Gateway chief executive, says: "Our experience shows that good managers not only make as much as 10 per cent difference in turnover but they can make as much as 40 per cent difference in profitability. This is because they can control costs far virtue out of that experience." Vivenne Walker, industrial relations manager with the Ulster firm better. Every year we have to recruit around 70 new managers anyway.

What we have done is to make a good sales for six months and moved on. The company was interested in securing longer-term relationships with its customers. PA Consultants were brought in Karen Ward, a resource expert, says: "Gestetner were looking for a much higher calibre person who was prepared to commit more. Instead of a 30-minute interview followed by a three-months trial we brought in a three-stage intensive recruitment and assessment pro-

European Components and vice-president of the IPMs organisational and human resources planning committee, says: "Of course a lot of firms are not recruiting, but any firms that are would be foolish not to upgrade

"However they would be very short-signified to leave it there, for when the economy picks up and opportunities improve good people will once again be on the move and those who have not thought about how to retain staff will lose out."

the recession to apprade its people is Gesterner, which had noticed that too many of its office equipment sales executives generated

Another company which is using their staff.

cess. It was the present employment climate which gave the company the confidence to go after good people. From the 90 who applied we offered nine places." ● Eastwood Consulting 071-287 3670; PA Consulting 071-730 9000.

Director - Design Consultancy

Developing a Corporate Identity Business

London

Following a recent management buy out, this rapidly expanding design consultancy has achieved excellent results despite the adverse economic climate. Success is based on an experienced and proven creative team, a commitment to quality of service and a concentration on three key areas of expertise within the design and communications sector.

- corporate identity;
- sales and marketing; the public sector.

In order to achieve ambitious growth plans, the company intends to recruit a Director to strengthen the existing management team. The initial brief will be to build the corporate identity business by developing contacts and expanding the client base, planning the sales strategy and winning assignments. It is envisaged that this position will evolve in the medium term into a Managing Director role, with full participation in the running of the business reporting to the Chairman.

To £70,000 + Benefits

Ideal candidates will be 35-45 years old, with a track record of business development success in a related field. Possible backgrounds could include design, corporate communications or consultancy.

Experience of working with Communications
Directors and at Board level is essential and needs to be coupled with first-class interpersonal skills, a team orientation and a high level of commitment. In addition, candidates must be able to demonstrate experience of, or potential in, general management.

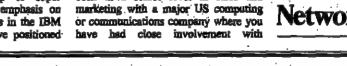

The company may also be interested in talking to individuals with existing design practices. Salary will not be a bar to recruiting the right person for this exciting position, and may be more than the Interested applicants should write, enclosing a detailed CV, to Patrick Johnson at the address below. quoting reference number 143).

St. James ASSOCIATES

MANAGEMENT SELECTION

32 OLD BURLINGTON STREET, LONDON W1X 1LB. FAX: 071-287 2821. TELEPHONE: 071-287 2820.

Vetwork Systems Corporation are a pioneer in network technology and high speed data communications. In today's highly competitive market they have built a sound reputation for technical performance and service delivery which has provided them with an impressive client base amongst the world's largest network users. A US Corporation with a turnover of the company for its focus on commercial computing and internetworking.

$250 million they have a substantial global presence. In Europe they operate through regional offices in Germany. France, Sweden, the UK and a number of distributors. With revenues of over £12 million, the UK company is profitable, well organised and firmly established at the head of its market sector. Their product range provides solutions from desk top to super computers with a major emphasis on channel extension offerings in the IBM

As a result of the creation of a European VP role and recent promotion we now seek a UK Country Manager, Effectively operating as a Managing Director your background will enable you to continue building the UK subsidiary in the expanding networking communications marketplace. A manager, whose vision and understanding has not been limited by over-specialisation, you should be an individual who can act as a catalyst and co-ordinator across all business disciplines and produce the environment to lead the subsidiary through the next phase of growth.

Your immediate experience must have been at a senior level in sales and budgetary matters, in an open management culture, the ability to lead and be one of the team is paramount, enabling you to maintain a high level sales role within the UK's largest

We seek a high calibre individual with excellent personal and communication skills. The package consists of a base salary with a significant on-target earnings potential and the usual executive benefits package. To apply please write in confidence to Francesca Hali-Drinkwater, our consultant at Barrett Webb Limited. Ashbrittle House, Lower Dagnall Street, St. Albans, Herts AL3 4PA. Telephone 0727 57755 or Pax 0727 812885.

Network Systems.

The Royal Bank of Scotland Group is a leading financial services organisation, headquartered in Edinburgh, with operations throughout Britain and overseas. The Bank's Branch Banking Division is engaged in a major programme to transform its operating performance. This programme embraces the deployment of the most modern branch banking technology, based on a distributed client server network, and other major Initiatives. Applications include sales support, high volume transaction processing, telephone based service systems, securities processing and personnel administration.

SENIOR IT DEVELOPMENT MANAGERS

c.£35,000 + relocation - Edinburgh

The Bank's Senior Development Managers work in close partnership with the business managers and are fully accountable for providing effective technology within agreed budgets and timescales.

We now require an additional number of high quality individuals with an outstanding success record. You should have:

- A proven track record at senior management level of successfully completed major projects.
- · Extensive experience of managing multiple major projects, with teams incorporating both permanent and contract staff.
- · Experience of the entire project life cycle using structured methods and formal project management techniques.
- Experience of managing annual budgets in excess of £1 million.
- A positive leadership approach, with outstanding management skills and a willingness to 'stick your neck out'.
- · Excellent communication and presentation skills with the ability to negotiate with business users at the most senior level.
- An excellent degree, or equivalent qualification.

These are challenging and responsible roles, offering excellent scope to develop your career within this major financial institution, although a banking background is not required. To apply for these positions write, detailing your qualifications for the role and your career goals and aspirations, to Kate McClorey at Computer People Scotland, FREEPOST, Charlotte House, 2 South Charlotte Street, Edinburgh EH2 0BT.

The Royal Bank of Scotland WHERE PEOPLE MATTER

SALES MANAGER

RF COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS

BASIC £25K - £30K, OTE £40K + Car + Benefits

Oxon/Bucks

Arguably the fastest moving and most competitive: business in the world today, the communications industry presents challenges which can only be met by the most committed and professional people. Our dient has already proved its worth in the development of communications technology, leading the way in the introduction of innovative RF products now used by some of the largest and most respected names in electronics.

With a robustly healthy order book and the opportunities presented by the worldwide growth in radio ..... communications, the future of our client is assured.

Creative and assertive, polished in presentations and " credible to the most senior rank, you are looking for a company to give you the recognition you deserve. At least three years structured sales experience and a rounded knowledge of the electronics/communications industry will help you to meet and exceed our sales objectives.

You will be responsible for sourcing new business and consolidating and developing the existing OEM and end-user client base. As well as planning future sales strategies in the UK you will also expand and promote a distributor network overseas.

Personable, enthusiastic and a strong team player, your negotiation skills and ability to analyse market trends will allow you to make a firm contribution to the formation of effective sales and marketing strategies. In addition to a wealth of career opportunities, our client offers an attractive benefits package including BUPA, pension and relocation.

To apply please send a detailed CV, including work and home telephone numbers to L. J. Associates, Recruitment Consultants, 12 Celbridge Mews, Porchester Road, London W2 6EU, quoting ref. no. 09/386.

DIRECTORS

Europe's leading outplacement and career management consultancy. InterExec has over 15 years' experience of managing career change for senior executives and many of Britain's largest companies.

By accessing over 6,000 unadvertised vacancies a year, mostly at £40-150,000 p.a. InterExec provides clients with vital market intelligence AND its subsidiary, InterMex, makes recommendations from its candidate bank without charge.

For further information call Keith Mitchell on 071-930 5041.

INTEREXEC PLC Landseer House, 19 Charing Cross Road, London WC2H 0ES.

We are the U.K.'s foremost V.F.M. retailer now with over 75 stores in Southern England.

Our continued growth has created a key opportunity to join our successful buying team, operating from our Headquarters in Hove, Sussex.

Our ranges, principally ladies and childrens separates, are well designed, offer unrivalled value and sell in

JOIN OUR BUYING TEAM

FOR A PROMISING RETAIL CAREER

Educated to at least 'A' level standard, Candidates should be aged in their mid 20's to mid 30's with proven experience gained with a major multiple. You will have good communication, sourcing and negotiating skills. A knowledge of garment technology would be useful. Most importantly you are commercially aware, a team player, eager to prove yourself and comfortable under pressure.

This opportunity offers an excellent salary and benefits package to include a Company car.

Please send a full C.V. with current salary details to: Christine Esplin, Personnel Manager, QS Familywear Plc, 58/59 Boundary Road, HOVE, East Sussex, BN3 5TD.

Bew,

dock,

Marketing Specialists

Founded in 1975, Microsoft, has become the worldwide leader in software for personal computers. The company offers a wide range of products and services for business and personal use, each designed with the mission of making it easier and more enjoyable for people to take advantage of the full power of personal computing every day.

For a confidential discussion call Sandra Thomas, Claudia Nelson or Peter Kelly today between 6.00pm & 7.30pm on (0494) 463232, or weekdays during normal working hours, or write with a full CV indicating current salary details, quoting the appropriate reference to, Wardswift Marketing Selection, 6 Cliveden Office Village, Lancaster Road, High Wycombe, Bucks HP12 3YZ.

Product Manager-

You will play a key role in developing the marketing strategy for a group of Microsoft's applications in the rapidly changing market place. An important area of this role will be the strategic managriment of a third party vandor relationship and the development of new areas of opportunity.

You will have the ability to champlor these products within Microsoft and understand key trends and competitive positioning within the software industry.

Of graduate callbre and with excells marketing experience, ideally in product management, you will have good communication skills, be outgoing and self-motivated.

Market Analyst

Reporting to the Market Research Manager you will be responsible for ensuring that Microsoft use and analyse the most accurate murket data and information available, to develop the right strategies to take

This role requires someone who has had previous experience of market analysis, preferably in a research or planning department within the IT industry. You must have knowledge of both hardware and software markets, and be PC literate particularly in spreadsheets and

Degree qualified, you will liave strong inter-personal skills, be hardworking and have the drive and initiative to identify and develop opportunities

Product Management

Working in the marketing department, you will play a key role in managing the torecasting and inventory control process, working closely with Microsoft's manufacturing and operations facilities, in addition, you will play an integral role in business planning and reporting.

Of graduate calibre and with prove business experience, ideally within the PC environment, you will have good interpersonal, planning, analytical and technical skills. Ref:ST41092M/AC.

Product Manager- Corporate Networking

Reporting to the Product Marketing Manager, you will develop and implement a marketing strategy for Microsoft's networking products, with a view to gaining significant market share. You will also drive the introduction of new products, including Windows NT as the foundation for corporate networking ideally, you will be an experienced product marketeer, with a strong understanding of networking products (ie. NetWare, LAN Manager, ¿AN/WAN's and advanced operating systems). Ref: ST41092M/JF.

Microsoft

Making it Easier

CONTROLL

PERSONNEL MANAGER

H.R. professional for business growth

c.£30k p.a.+fully expensed car+benefits. Cheshire.

Our client is a highly successful company that has expanded significantly in recent years to a turnover of over £100 million. Providing specialist contract and management services to commerce and industry, the company is a well-established market leader in a growth sector and in the next five years is committed to a strategy of further substantial expansion.

As a result of a corporate restructuring, they have created a new position for a Personnel Manager for their Northern Region, reporting to the Human Resources Director.

The prime focus is to add value to the business by working closely with senior line Managers, thus 🦠 enabling them to achieve their business objectives. To. succeed, you will need to take a proactive stance on H.R. issues, selecting and recruiting high calibre people, identifying training maintaining effective employee relations.

The need is for a credible professional with a "hands-on" approach and the ability to present well-reasoned recommendations to Directors and senior Managers. Probably a graduate, you must have at least five years' varied experience in service-oriented organisations with a sophistical approach to personnel management. Energy, enthusiasm and commitment will be essential. In addition to an attractive salary, our client offers a comprehensive package of benefits including a fully expensed car and private medical insurance.

If you have the ambition to be an integral part of a successful management team, please send a full C.V. and details of current remuneration, in the first instance to: John North, Stafford Long & Partners Recruitment Ltd.,

12-14 Whitfield Street, London W1P 5RD. Pieuse quote ref 5535.

IF YOU'RE ALL OF THESE YOU'RE ONE OF A KIND

A good project manager must combine strong leadership with considerable versatility. But we're not just looking for the good ones, we need outstanding people who enjoy substantial challenge.

Part of a leading international systems and software group, Logica Defence and Civil Government is engaged in many of the industry's largest and most complex IT projects. With an unrivalled reputation for technical excellence, and ar impressive client base at home and overseas, we have succeeded in expanding our business throughout the

We now seek three individuals capable of taking overall responsibility for major new IT systems integration projects worth between £10-30 million, across the entire cycle from bid preparation to implementation and

The sectors in which we operate place the utmost importance on the ability to deliver contracts to time and budget - you will relish assuming responsibility for everything from financial control and technical management to close liaison with clients and subcontractors and the recruitment, training and motivation of project teams of up to 100 people.

We need individuals who can rise to the considerable technology environment. Essential requirements include a background in defence/government contracting and an understanding of IT. Probably of graduate status, you will naturally have an excellent record of achievement in the delivery of large fixed-price implementation projects, together with obvious commercial flair, exceptional planning skills and the ability to communicate well.

Successful candidates can expect a substantial remuneration package, (including company car and private health plan) and the opportunity for career development afforded by a thriving, growing business.

If you have the rare mixture of personal and professional qualities we seek, please send your CV to Margaret Little, Logica Defence and Civil Government Limited, 68 Newman Street, London WIA 4SE. Please quote reference LG/9.

DEFENCE AND CIVIL GOVERNMENT

Senior Project Manager

A Challenge of the Highest Order in Computer

and Communication Systems

HEAD OF GAS NEGOTIATIONS

The expertise to negotiate The power to achieve

lpswich.

up to £35K

Aiready one of the largest and most successful electricity companies in the UK, Eastern Electricity has expanded operations to include interests in gas marketing and gas fired power generation. Key to the success of these new ventures will be our ability to negotiate multimillion pound oil and gas purchase agreements that are both timely and cost-effective. In the newly created role of Head of Gas Negotiations, you will mastermind and lead the negotiations that drive this critical area of operation.

Using your extensive knowledge of the energy market, you will develop effective purchasing policies while ilaising extensively with E Gas - our gas marketing subsidiary - and other business groups. This is an excellent opportunity to set your own parameters and make your mark in a demanding new area.

A graduate of a numerate discipline and fully conversant with financial appraisal techniques, you are probably already a key negotiation operating within the oil and gas industry. A sound grasp of the economics and legal principles underlying gas contracts, should be matched by keen commercial instincts, an ability to deliver contracts within deadline. and of course, outstanding negotiating skills.

In return for your commitment you'll receive a competitive salary, and the wide-range of benefits you would expect from a company of our calibre, including relocation assistance where appropriate.

To apply, please write to: Brian England, Personnel Officer, Eastern Electricity pic, Wherstead Park, PO Box 40, Wherstead, Ipswich IP9 2AQ by

An information pack is available on request.

We are an equal opportunity

General Manager/ Operations Director

EMCG MANUFACTURER

PACKAGE c£50,000, EXCELLENT BENEFITS

M62 CORRIDOR

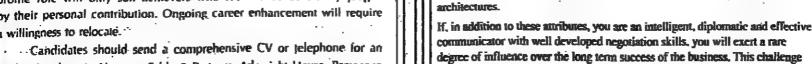

This progressive, profitable group is investing and expanding in a flercely competitive marketplace. Their formula for success is simple: close: control of productivity and costs with a total commitment to quality and customer service.

Responsibility for a site manufacturing high volume, high variety products for the major multiples is a particular challenge when constant improvement of the best is the stated objective.

Academic and operational accomplishment is expected, with a fast track record of success achieved in a highly commercial food or nonfood environment. In return is offered the status of working within a respected group whose performance sets the industry standard. This high profile role will only suit achievers who look to be constantly judged by their personal contribution. Ongoing career enhancement will require a willingness to relocate.

application form to Howgate Sable & Partners, Arkwright House, Parsonase Gardens, Manchester M3 2LF. Tel: 061-839 2000, Fax: 061-839 0064, quoting reference (S.T.728F).

SEARCH AND SELECTION: EXECUTIVES AND INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS

Macmillan Davies, Salisbury House, Bluecoats, Hertford, Herts SG14 1PU,

Agencies wishing to submit candidates should liaise with Macmillan Davies,

To apply, please forward your CV, quoting ref MD3080, to Steve O'Brien at

There are few fields where computer and communication security is more vital than in the Government and Defence sector, where projects carry high prestige and value. Our client's reputation for integrity and excellence in producing high technology solutions to customer security problems, has won them a number of major contracts in this field - hence this new role for a senior project specialist.

Working at the highest levels - in terms of finance, technological sophistication and customer seniority - you will be responsible for bringing multi million budget. This will entail procuring and managing all internal and external management experience of major IT projects in this sector is crucial. Your experience should include the successful management of multi-disciplined resources from design through to delivery, as well as a sound technical is supported by an attractive salary and benefits package.

appreciation of a broad range of platforms, communication and database pound fixed price systems integration projects to completion on time and on resources, often in conjunction with major consortia. Proven high level project

Government

Defence Sector

c£45,000

+ benefits

Surrey/Hants

NETWORK SERVICES DIRECTOR

 $c \pm 65k + benefits + car$

This high profile Board appointment offers a rare opportunity to take full P & L responsibility for an ambitious growth plan for the Network Services Division, within a prestigious organisation.

Already a major force in the Communications industry, our Client is also recognised and respected for their unrivalled commitment to providing their customers with a comprehensive range of complementary services, in addition to their innovative networking systems/solutions.

Based in the Thames Valley, the NETWORK SERVICES DIRECTOR will be responsible for the efficient and profitable performance of the division. Your responsibilities will include managing in excess of 50 dedicated staff covering: Training, European Distributor Support, Field Service, Repair, Technical Services and a Remote Diagnostics centre. You will be expected to contribute fully to the future business strategy, and the development of worldwide support to ensure the successful launch of new 'added value' services to meet future market demands.

You will also regularly interface with key customers in supporting Sales and Marketing in the procurement of major bids.

The successful candidate will possess leadership qualities and entrepreneurial flair. You will have a minimum of 10 years' experience in a pre/post sales support environment, ideally having held a similar level of position within the IT industry, in any of the following: Comrus, Networking, Systems Integration, VAR, Consultancy or Software.

The role carries European responsibilities and will involve extensive overseas travel, therefore international experience would be a distinct advantage to maximise on the outstanding business and career opportunities both in the UK and internationally.

In addition to an attractive basic salary, performance related bonus and a quality company car, a fully comprehensive benefits package including stock options, will be offered.

For a confidential briefing, please send a full CV, quoting ref 6525 and stating your current salary details, to Tracey Richardson or Stephanie Kirby at Highfield International,

London Road, Newbury, Berkshire RG13
 2JL. Fax: (0635) 38837. Applications must be received by 9th October 1992.

Holping you map the way choose

EXECUTIVE SEARCH & SELECTION

Managing Director (Designate)

Food Franchising - U.K. and Ireland

Bewley's Franchising Ltd is the franchising division of Campbell Bewley Group Ltd, an international company in the quality food and catering business; its activities extend to the U.K., Middle East and Japan as well as in addition to owning and operating its own chain of restaurants and cales in Ireland and the U.K., the Group also franchises a large number under the well known Bewley's name.

The person we are seeking will spearhead the further growth of the group's restaurant/cale franchising business in Ireland, the U.K. and internationally.

ideally aged between 30 and 45, he/she will have a strong commercial background with broad experience which will include marketing, preferably at director/general manager level, within the franchise industry. A high degree of commercial maturity, decision making and communication sidils are essential. It is anticipated that the successful candidate will join the board within a relatively short period.

Located initially in Dublin, rapid expansion within the U.K. is expected in the foreseesble future.

Remmeration is likely to interest candidates currently earning in excess of $35,000 and the incentive/benefits package will be fully appropriate.

if you believe you qualify for this exceptional opportunity, please write - in confidence - with full CV and stating current salary to lan White, quoting ref: 90038 at MSL Group Ltd., 32 Aybrook Street, London W1M 3JL. These will be forwarded direct to our client.

MSL International Consultants in Search and Selection

KEY ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT Midlands 1.230.000 plus car bohus and benefits

Quality products, customer service. innovative concepts and practical ideas are critical to our client's success. The business, an autonomous subsidiary of a blue chip group, is a contract manufacturer with major clients in retail and consumer products

Reorganisation has created two positions for talented individuals to handle key accounts with a major retail client. As the prime contact between the client and your company's development, manufacturing and logistics functions your role will be to identify and exploit product opportunities to the mutual benefit of both parties, to ensure that products are available to the agreed timescale and specification, to resolve any problems which may threaten the achievement of these goals, and to continually develop the trading relationship.

These are critical and highly visible roles requiring graduates or equivalent with at least seven years' experience. and preferably aged 28 to 40. This should include account handling within FMCG or consumer manufacturing environments, dealing with retail oriented clients. A broad-based appreciation of consumer product development, manufacturing, materials management and/or retail marketing will be required. In addition, you should possess good interpersonal and influencing skills, the ability to generate and promote innovative ideas to provide business advantage to your company and its client, a high degree of tenacity, commitment and focus on customer service. Opportunities for career advancement within the business and Group-wide are excellent.

To learn more please write in confidence, enclosing a curriculum vitae, to Sue Rossiter, Barrett Webb Limited, Ashbrittle House, Lower Dagnall Street, St. Albans. Hertfordshire AL3 4PA. Facsimile 0727 812885. Alternatively, please telephone her on 0727 57755.

Barrett · Webb Search & Selection

ment of helping you to land the right job.

Our methods lead to hundreds of opportunities at serior level across a wide range of services and industries. SAGN + + +

Continued professional support from start to laish. Special Government interest like load to tide you give, it required.

Call us on 071.488 1324 to learn how we

Management Career Consultants, 41 Youer HSB,

A member of the Hambres Gross

TELECOMMUNICATIONS ENGINEERS

Systems, Hardware & Software designers are needed to work on broadband systems development. Positions are available in Harlow and Paris.

Attractive salaries available for experienced people. Please send CVs and location preference to:

ORT COMMUNICATIONS Latton Bush Centre Southern Way

Southern Way Harlow Essex CM18 7BH

RECRUITMENT CONSULTANTS GROUP

3 London Wall Buildings, London Wall, London EC2M 5pg Tol: Q71-588 3588 or Q71-588 3576 Telex No. 887374 Fax No. Q71-256 8501

This is a term appointment until end of June 1993 with prospects for renewal if targets are achieved

CJA

LONDON

CJA

BRUSSELS based

INVESTMENT PROMOTION EXECUTIVE - AUSTRALIA

£45,000-£60,00

SUBSTANTIAL INTERNATIONAL TRADE PROMOTION ORGANISATION position based in London, we invite applications from candidates aged 37-50, who will he

For this new position based in London, we invite applications from candidates aged 37-50, who will have acquired good practical knowledge of inward trade investment into Australia working in either strategic planning or as the main decision taker in this context. Responsibilities will cover the key role in the growth of inward investment into Australia with particular focus on resources processing, processed food, environmental management, telecommunications and I.T. The ability to target companies to invest successfully in Australia and to interface effectively with the Chief Executives and individuals structuring these proposals is important, as is a sound commercial networking capability in both the UK and Australia. An initial salary is negotiable pro rata for this term appointment of between £45,000-£60,000. Applications in strict confidence, under reference IPC4857/ST to Managing Director: CJA

Outstanding career opportunities for highly motivated individuals with vision and a mature commercial attitude to spearhead activities dedicated to winning contracts.

PROJECT MANAGERS

BF. 2,400,000-2,800,000 + car

EUROPEAN HEADQUARTERS OF ESTABLISHED WORLD-WIDE OPERATOR OF STATE-OF-THE-ART MOBILE COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS

For these key new appointments in both GSM and Mobile Data, we invite applications from graduates, aged 32-45, with at least 3 years overall project management experience of pan-European high value commercial/technical contracts. Multi-European language skills, including fluent English, are important. The selected candidates will be responsible for the management of tender response projects as well as the management of the implementation projects for various Mobile Communication networks in Europe. This includes the development of a work schedule, resource allocation, budget control and ensuring that the project milestones are met by monitoring activities and responding to requests for support and information. Extensive travel within Europe should be expected. Essential personal qualities include highly-developed inter-personal skills, persuasiveness and, above all, you must be able to demonstrate in your application that you are an effective catalyst in the planning and winning of confracts. Initial salaries are negotiable in the range above with a performance related bonus and large company benefits. Applications in strict confidence under reference PM4855/ST should be sent to the Managing Director: CJA This client also needs RF DESIGN ENGINEERS to join their expanding team-BF: 1,650,000-2,300,000 + car.

Chief Executive

Information Technology Services Agency Up to £80,000

The Department of Social Security develops and implements aocial security policy, pays social security benefits and arranges for the collection of national insurance contributions throughout the UK. The Department operates a devolved structure through a number of Executive Agencies. The Information Technology Services Agency - ITSA - was established under the Next Steps programme in 1990 to provide IT services and support to the Department, its other agencies and to other customers in Government.

The post of Chief Executive will become vacant next April and an outstanding manager is now sought to take on this demanding role.

As the new Chief Executive, you will have overall responsibility for some 4,000 staff and a budget of around .500 million per year. You will head up an experienced team who are committed to ensuring the most efficient and effective use is made of existing and future investment in IT.

IT is crucial to the improvement of services and ensuring value for money from public expenditure. You will advise Ministers and senior officials of the Department on IT matters. You will help them to develop the Department's strategic plans for the future operation of the Agency. Your prime management tasks over the next few years will be moving customer relationships to a commercial footing and implementing the associated change management processes within the Agency, while advising the Secretary of State on its

To fulfil this demanding role you need to demonstrate a s track record in managing change in the public or private sector at director level or equivalent. To lead the delivery of services provided by ITSA to a large number of customers, your experience is likely to have been gained within a large multi-site organisation where effective use is made of IT. You should have a sound understanding of how IT can contribute to business success and '. experience of leading and motivating a large number of staff. Through general management responsibilities in the past you will also have experience of financial management (including significant budget responsibility) and customer relationships. You will have a sound knowledge of organisational issues, including the ability to identify quickly the core business of an organisation. You will have excellent communication skills and highly developed political sensitivity in the broadest sense and an ability to work effectively with Ministers and civil servants at all levels.

IPSA's main operating sites are in Newcastle and Blackpool and there is a small Headquarters currently based in London. You could be based at any of these locations, but would have to be prepared to travel regularly between them.

regularly between them.

An attractive remuneration package will be negotiated and the appointment will initially be on a 3-year contract with a possibility of extension. The Department is an equal opportunities employer.

For an information pack, please telephone 071 939 6310 (during office hours) quoting reference A/1295/ST. Alternatively if you would like to discuss this appointment in confidence, please telephone Alannah Hunt on 071 939 6068.

Executive Search & Selection Price Waterhouse Milson Gate 1 Moor Lane London BC2Y 9PB Fax: 071 638 1358

Price Waterhouse

EXECUTIVE SEARCH & SELECTION

RETAIL AREA MANAGER Circa £30,000 Per Annum + BONUS + CAR

Office World, a UK subsidiary of Magazine zum Globus, one of Switzerland's largest retailing groups, is pioneering the development of 'Out of town' office suplies superstores.

During the past three years the initial concepts have been tested both within the UK and Europe and the company is now ready to implement an aggressive rollout.

The successful candidate will play a major role in the development and expansion of the UK stores. Therefore they will need to demonstrate both the ability to effectively manage and motivate the store management teams and be able to work 'Hands on' to develop further an outstanding retail concept.

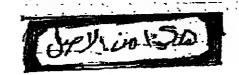

You will have previous store management experience, preferably in the DIY sector and will be capable of working to demanding time constraints in a fast moving retail environment.

We offer an excellent reward package and also the opportunity to play a major part in the development of the UK's most exciting out of town retail concept.

If you have the enthusiasm to fulfil this position please forward an up to date c.v. detailing current responsibilities and benefits package to:

Mrs Emma Shepherdson, Office World, 65 Caversham Road, Reading, RG1 8AD.

THE NO. 1 OFFICE SUPPLIES DISCOUNT SUPERSTORE...

marketing 🔀

MANAGER

is one of the world's largest liqueur brands - its versatility will ensure its continued growth within a wide consumer base. Cointreau is marketed by Remy & Associates (UK) Ltd who are based in Henley-on-Thames and are the U.K.'s leading independent supplier of quality spirits and wines. Their unique portfolio also includes Remy Martin, Charles Heidsieck, Piper-Heidsieck, The Macallan and Campani. We seek a U.K. marketing manager to continue the development and dynamic growth of the Cointrean brand. Aged 26/32, you should have a marketing background that demonstrates creativity, adaptability and the need to work within a dedicated team environment.

Whilst drinks' experience is not essential, you must be confident that you can come to terms with the responsibility for a world leading brand. Your past track record will demonstrate that you have the skills to continue its growth and market penetration through the implementation of carefully planned and executed strategies.

This is a progressive career move, as successful results in this position would eventually be rewarded by promotion within the group, either in the U.K. or overseas.

The position attracts a competitive salary, company car and the obvious benefits of a

Telephone or write with full details quoting Ref D 1992 to: DOUGLASS & PILKINGTON LTD., 19 Church Street, Sun

Middlesex TW16 6RJ, Tel: 0932 761041

Are you keen to develop a career in telecom sales? Do you want to join an aggressive team and learn new skills? Can you show a proven ability to maximise opportunities and

OTE circa £30K, plus fully expensed car and benefits

(1) North & Midlands, (2) South & South West

Our dient is an established electronics company with market leading, new and innovative products offering major benefits to users. They seek two young, committed and highly self-motivated individuals to join an expanding team selling telecom monitoring and network management products across a wide industry spectrum.

The correct attitude, education background and personality are more important than industry experience as full product training. backed by sales training where necessary, will be given. Some familiarity with PCs at DOS operating level will be beneficial. Future prospects with this stable, respected employer are excellent for the right individuals.

(Interviews in London, 20-22 October.)

Specialist Consultants to the Computer industry.

Applicants should forward a full c/v to: Peter Underhill, Spittire Selecti Norfolk House, 196 Old Bedford Road, Luton, Beds. LU2 7HW, quoting reference 0992/46, to arrive no later than Thursday October 15th 1992. Further details available on 0582 37023 between Z00pm and 10.00pm tonight (Sunday) or during normal office hours.

McKinsey & Company

Career opportunities in top management consulting

Use your IT and business knowledge to initiate major change.

McKinsey is the world's pre-eminent management consultancy, serving the top executives of leading companies worldwide. We help them develop their businesses to improve bottom-line performance in a rapidly changing world.

Today, fast and effective change is not possible without an integrated view of information technology and business. McKinsey is already active in providing such expertise to major corporations, and continuing business growth means we are now looking for more highcalibre professionals who combine in-depth skills in information technology with the intellect. maturity and business vision to move into too management consulting.

Working as part of a consulting team and liaising closely with client executives, you will use your skills and experience to drive change in strategy, organisation, core process redesign and information technology. Your time will be spent on analytical work to resolve complex business issues and working closely with client management to implement practical change.

Our unrivalled client base will expose you to a wide spectrum of industry sectors: supported by ongoing training, you will apply your consulting skills to an increasing variety of business situations. Advancement within McKinsey is strictly based on merit: the range and depth of experience you acquire with us will enhance your prospects, whether you intend to rise within McKinsey or move into general management.

In your late 20s - mid 30s with a good honours degree and strong IT skills, you must have a proven record of applying your technical expertise and business understanding - typically in a broadly-based internal or external consultancy role - to implement significant change. In addition, you should have sound recent experience in at least one of the following areas:

 application of advanced IT eg major-scale distributed detabases, parallel computing, executive information systems. artificial intelligence etc;

e business process redesign or "re-angineering" - focusing on cost measurement, process flow design, working process technology. eg client-server architecture, user interface design etc;

e application & management of IT in a technology-intensive industry - eg banking, securities trading, insurance, retailing, FMCG manufacturing, airlines etc.

All posts are based in London; client engagements are undertaken throughout the UK, and there are also opportunities to work overseas. The first-class remuneration package includes company car, non-contributory pension scheme and, if appropriate, assistance with relocation.

OPYLUDISD.

If you are keen to work in an environment where your personal capabilities will be constantly tested and extended, please send or fax your full cv (including details of present remuneration) to our advising consultant, Jenny Riley, at Jenny Riley & Associates, Knightsbridge House, 197 Knightsbridge, London SW7 1RB, quoting ref: IT/ST/92 on all correspondence. Closing date for applications: Friday 23rd October 1992.

NATIONAL SALES MANAGER

25K + BONUS + CAR + BENEFITS

Dartington Crystal is one of the world's leading manufacturers of crystal glassware. It is widely acclaimed for its design and quality

Company is seeking to appoint a National Sales Manager with experience of business building in the multiple retail and independent sectors. Knowledge of the giftwere industry would be useful but more important is a proven record of achievement.

Business to business sales experience would also be an esset. Early sales training in a recognised "blue chip" company is

This appointment requires a high degree of self motivation,

Initiative, innovation and a competitive approach. A flair for merchandising and staff training is vital, as is the ability to motivate a team. Domestic location is flexible and an attractive package is offered with enhancements for above

Please reply with full c.v. to:-JOYCE KNOWLES, PERSONNEL MANAGER,

DARTINGTON CRYSTAL LTD.,

TORRINGTON, N. DEVON, EX38 7AN

average performance.

As a result of re-organisation of its sales structure, the

and has an enviable market presence.

These important appointments offer the opportunity to join a well known £40m turnover manufacturing company at the forefront of its industry sector.

Central England

FMCG/Consumer Durables

MARKETING & UK SALES DIRECTOR c£55,000 salary package + benefits + car

initially the role will be to ensure the continuing success of the UK sales team through effective and creditable leadership. Successful achievement of this will lead to additional responsibility being given for all worldwide marketing activities. Marketing will become the main emphasis of the role culminating in the combined

To ensure the Company optimizes new and existing business opportunities, the role requires excellent management skills and the ability to enhance the sales and marketing operation through proactive, creative professional initiatives supported by a high degree of commercial judgement, strategic and analytical thinking. Ideally a graduate aged 35-40 with a track record of exceptional performance as a professional marketeer and experience of running a sales operation. Candidates will currently be operating at senior management level within a competitive retail driven manufacturing company. The position offers an attractive salary and benefits package including the opportunity for equity participation. (Ref. 641)

EXPORT SALES MANAGER c£25,000 package + benefits + car

This position is to supplement the Company's highly successful team of Export Sales Managers with responsibility for expanding existing market penetration in Scandinavia and Benelux countries and to establish and develop sales opportunities in ex Comecon countries.

Candidates, aged 25-35, must be able to travel extensively, be self-motivated, ambitious, good communicators with proven export sales experience ideally with the ability to speak German. (Ref. 642)

Apply in confidence by sending a detailed CV quoting the appropriate reference number to: Staniforth-Endsor and Partners Ltd., 3 The Courtyard, Ashley Road, Hale, Altrincham, Cheshire WA14 3NG. Telephone: 061 929 1481.

CONSULTANTS IN ORGANISATIONAL COMPETITIVENESS

Over 1,300 beds. A staff, 4,500 strong. An international reputation for the highest standards of clinical care, teaching and research, and an annual income of over £90 million; the University Hospital, within Queen's Medical Centre is one of the largest and most respected teaching Hospitals in Europe.

It is expected that the Hospital will achieve self governing NHS Trust status from 1st April 1993. There is, therefore, a need for revised roles within the management structure.

We are looking for the perfect Communications and Public Relations Manager.

The role will be shaped by the new manager and the developing needs of the Hospital.

Reporting directly to the General Manager, responsibilities will include all activity which broadly falls under the communications banner. Indeed, the manager's first task will be to identify and set out objectives for both internal and external communications and formulate a strategy within given budgets.

In particular, he/she will be expected to take overall responsibility for press and public relations, to become the ultimate guardian of the corporate image, to oversee literature and design, and to put into effect a plan for extending and improving the quality, scope and content of all communications.

Previous experience will encompass some of all the above elements and may also include an appreciation of market research and its role in understanding customer perceptions and the need for carefully managed budgeting.

Salary within the range £25,000 - £30,000 p.a.

To discuss the post informally, contact David Edwards, General Manager, Tel: 0602 421421, ext. 44295.

Application form and further information available from: Personnel Department. Queen's Medical Centre. Nottineham NG7 2UH.

Closing date for all applications:

Tel: 0602 709284.

21st October 1992

(Quote Ref 232/92) · NOTTINGHAM

St.Andrew's Hospital

DARTINGTON CRYSTAL

Quality Assurance Co-ordinator circa £25,000

Accountable to the Chief Executive, the postholder will coordinate the Hospital wide strategy with regard to total quality management. He/she will ensure the strategy is communicated across the whole organisation and will work with both Clinical Divisions and Departments striving to improve the quality of service to our patients and staff.

For this "hands on" role, the successful candidate must possess exceptional personal and professional skills, coupled with first hand experience of implementing a Quality Assurance programme within either the NHS or the Equally important are the personal qualities required for this post. Qualities such as the ability to think creatively, to market and innovate new ideas at all levels; to generate enthusiasm and co-operation in others, plus boundless energy and a persuasive personality.

If you believe you are capable of meeting the criteria and are seeking a demanding but thoroughly satisfying appointment please write, enclosing C.V. to Claire Osbourne, Personnel Manager, St Andrew's Hospital, Billing Road, Northampton NN1 5DG.

Closing date: 16th October 1992.

St Andrew's Hospital is a major independent not-for-profit charitable trust providing treatment for the widest range of acute and long term psychiatric disorders in adults and young people.

Regional Manager F.T.S.

1110

Europe/Africa

£35,000 + Car Based SE England

This major services group is looking for a Manager to control its foreign trade supervision activities in Europe .

The Manager will be a graduate aged between 30 and 40 with at least 5 years international business experience including profit and loss responsibility and be familiar with international trade practices. The ability to demonstrate effective management skills and computer. literacy are essential.

To apply for this position send a full CV to S.P. City, 15 Eastcheap, London, EC3M 1BU, quoting reference JC-92-135. Closing date for applications 16th October 1992.

A SENIOR MANAGEMENT CHALLENGE WITH A VITAL OBJECTIVE

Leeds City Centre

To £35,000 + Car

"To develop a better trained, qualified and effective workforce for the prosperity of Leeds by investing in people and enterprise". The Leeds TEC Limited wishes to recruit a resourceful business manager who will make a significant contribution to raising the levels and standards of youth and adult training throughout

As Head of Training, you will apply commercial acumen and creative flair to the formulation and implementation of innovative strategies. The task is to meet the training needs of employers and individuals in the local labour market.

Controlling a £15m training budget and managing your own team, you will assume full responsibility for the specification, negotiation, administration and monitoring of all contracts with training providers.

The job requires an inspirational leader and outstanding communicator who has proven commercial management experience at senior level. A strategic thinker and influential manager of change, you will have confidence, authority. resilience and - of course - total commitment to education, training and the development of the individual.

Please write with full CV in strictest confidence to Judith Bennett, Personnel Manager, The Leeds TEC Limited, Belgrave Hall, Belgrave Street,

Cath Builder rate. Natibulated in a member of the publing potences venusionmen per

The Leeds TEC is committed to Equal Opportunities and welcomes applications inaspective of geoder, ethnic origin or disability.

Redundant or The Next Move? We can help you find a new job

Directors / Senior Managers

 Professional outplacement and career consultants to maximise your potential. Quality services, without frills,

 Get the right job through access to the unadvertised job market.

 Programmes approved for interest free Covernment Juan scheme.

For FREE initial consultation at any of our locations call 071 379 3195 or 0506 888529 (SUNDAY 10am - 1pm or in normal office hours) MANCHESTER LEEDS

HEADWAY ()

The British Standards Institution, incorporated by Royal Charter, is an internationally recognised force in standardisation, testing and quality assurance. The Testing Division comprises an established group of well respected laboratories, based at Hemel Hempstead and employing 350 staff.

Director and General Manager

ELECTRICAL AND MECHANICAL PRODUCT TESTING LABORATORIES.

Circa £50,000 plus Executive package

Operating in an increasingly changeable and competitive environment, the Division's success to date has been achieved through developing and delivering a range of commercially attractive testing, and testing related services, to the highest quality standards. Future success will depend even more on understanding the needs of the National and International markets and the Division must evolve to meet the challenge.

The Director and General Manager is responsible for developing a vision of the future and implementing plans to ensure that the vision is realised. As a member of BSI's Executive team, he/she will also contribute to the overall strategic development and growth of the

The position calls for an experienced General Manager, professionally qualified in a scientific or technological discipline with experience of leading a large team of technical staff, preferably in a laboratory environment. Experience of managing commercial activities

Guiding the business through a period of growth and change will appeal to someone who enjoys solving complex organisational problems and motivating a team to deliver

As well as an opportunity to make a significant difference in a major British Institution, the position offers a competitive remuneration package plus relocation assistance where

For further details, please contact: Teresa Cottrell, Director of Human Resources, The British Standards Institution, 2 Park Street, London W1A 2BS. Telephone: 071-629 9000.

Leaders in Quality and Efficiency

Senior Leasing Salespeople

We are looking to expand our U.K. operation and require Senior Salespeuple. The successful armirents We are looking to expense our require Scalor Salespeople. The successful applicants must have a good understanding of the IBM or DEC mainframe marketplace with at least ten years expenses and will be expended to expend our existing

O.T.E. will not be a barrier to suitable applicants and all normal large company benefits apply to this position

Telesales

We also require for our head office in Richmond, an experienced Telesalesperson who must have a good knowledge of the computer marketplace.

Please send your C.V. in confidence to:

Mr P Geering - Commercial Manager Econocom UK Limited, Merevale House, Parkshot Richmond, Surrey TW9 2RR - Fax: 081 948 3884

Manufacturing Director

North West

Our Client, a leading confectionery manufacturer, requires a Manufacturing Director to head up its Production, Technical and Engineering Services departments and become a key member of the

The successful applicant will control doily production, including efficiency monitoring, development of production planning and control, incorporating the installation of modern manufacturing management systems, together with controlling the engineering and technical services support.

The Manufacturing Director will lead new product and process development, working closely with sales and marketing departments.

maily the applicant will be responsible for health fety ensuring compliance with current legislation. The successful applicant will have a proven track record in the confectionery or related industries and will have a suitable technical and professional qualifications and experience of a multi-process and multi-product package in a successful but demanding environment.

Apply in confidence enclosing full details to:

INTEREUROPE RECRUITMENT 13/15 Sarrack Road, Guildford, Surrey GU2 6RU Tel: 0483 39155 Fex: 0483 39661

The Pathfinder Partnership Ltd are experts at marketing top level executives, particularly within the informal discussion call us today.

HIGH WYCOMB 9494 452791

PATHFINDER PARTNERSHIP

178-70. Great Pordand Street, Landon, WIN 6/J Private & Corporate Career Advisory Con-

WE CAN TELL YOU WHERE YOU CAN GO! Smile 1965 we have told many thousands of all ages where they can go to achieve carear success and satisfaction. Complete our lasts of aptitudes, interests and personality and our Consultants can tell you few to select and obtain the appointment best suited to your career plans and ambitions, full accels in free brochure: CAREER ANALYSTS

This is an excellent opportunity for a high calibre manufacturing professional aged 30 to 40, with a minimum of 5 years' management experience, to join a rapidly expanding food company, part of a highly successful and acquisitive group.

Ideally from a FMCG background, your major experience will have been gained within a high volume multi-line environment.

Your role will be not only to effectively manage but to improve the operational efficiency of the plant to meet increasing demands on quality standards and productivity. A prime focus of the role will be management development and team building.

This key role demands a young, ambitious and dynamic line manager with . exceptional management and technical skills who will respond to the challenge of total manufacturing responsibility.

Success will lead to genuine and exciting promotional opportunities. FOR A THOROUGH BRIEFING AND FULL CONFIDENTIAL DETAILS, CALL CHRIS STAINTON ON (0532) 420999

HIGHFIELD INTERNATIONAL, 6 SHEEPSCAR COURT, LEEDS, WEST YORKSHIRE LS7 288 TELEPHONE: (0532) 420999 FAX: (0532) 421989

Grampian Enterprise and the Energy Group of Scottlish Enterprise National, part of the Scottish Enterprise natwork, are located in the North East of Scotland, working for the benefit of the local economy. Our job is to stimulate economic growth and to help improve the supply of appropriate skills. Our aim is to ensure that Grampian is in the first rank of Europe's regions for growth, skills, prosperity and quality of life. Offshore Technology

The Aberdeen Offshore Technology Park is a £40m public/private joint project designed to develop the technology expertise of indigenous Scottish companies and provide a base for the development of international business. Phase I of the project has now been established and, based on its success, commitment has been made to progress to Phase II. Phase I includes the International Drilling and Downhole

A Project Director is now required to lead the multi-disciplinary team which is currently working on the project with the objectives of delivering an agreed strategic plan. Phase II will involve the provision of infrastructure, the development of further open access R&D facilities, and the attraction of international R&D operations to Aberdeen.

The Project Director will have a high level of project management skills, preferably developed in a technical environment, and be able to operate and be credible at a senior level within the oil industry.

The successful candidate must be able to demonstrate experience and success in managing and delivering a multi-disciplinary project. Knowledge of current HR issues in the industry would be an

The position, initially a two year contract, will be based at the Offshore Technology Park and will include a suitable package in line with the level and expectation of the post. For an information pack containing more details about the project, contact:

Lynne Black on (0224) 211500

Written applications should be sent to: The Personnel Manager Grappian Enterprise 27 Albyn Place, ABERDEEN AB1 1YL

Closing date for applications 31/10/92

DYNAMIC GROWTH - FOOD PROCESSING

The Sims Food Group plc is a major processor of mear both in the UK and increasingly in Europe and other international markets. With current turnmer standing at over £250m, our exceptional growth record during the last four years reflects our innovative thinking and intelligent investment strategy. Retail is our largest division and is the leader in consumer ready meat packaging for supermarkets; a position we are seeking to strengthen with these key appointments.

SALES and MARKETING DIRECTOR

Excellent Package Much of our success is built on excellent customer relations - a concentration which has led to the establishment of dedicated plants, processing meat to individual customer specifications. Developing such relationships and pursuing similarly innovative ideas will be your key brief. Leading the existing sales and marketing team, you will utilise your senior level meat industry background to ensure growing supremacy in this market.

GENERAL MANAGER

Excellent Package

Our Cardington plant is one of our top flight factories leading the field particularly in Controlled Armospheric Packaging. Your role will encompass all aspects of operation achieving key targets in the operational, cost, quality and service areas. Staff management and training will also play a vital part in the plant's success. The ability to run a dynamic. Emulti-million business is essentially linked with a strong performance driven, hands-on style. Previous mear trade experience is not as important as proven production management skills.

Both positions carry the salary and benefits you would expect from a leader in

Please send your ev, including current remuneration details, to: Kevin Holland, Director of Human Resources, Sims Food Group plc, Sims House, Sims Food Park, Sherbourne Drive, Tilbrook, Milton Keynes MK7 8BS.

Making Our Technology Work For The

da vou have busin

Are you looking for a ny's products and services and increase our market share (euch as carry out :

To quality, kindly submit full resume inclusive of contact tell no. to: Box No 9528

Manchester Unity Friendly Society Chief Executive

Manchester

Minimum £35,000 + Car + Benefits

Emplished in 1810, Manchester Unity is one of the cauntry's leading friendly archities with branches throughout the UK and oversers. The Society provides a comprehensive range of financial services and welfare benefits to members,

The Society now wishes to recruit a Chief. Executive who will assume overall day to day gement of the organisation. In particular this will involve responsibility for all legal and accounting issues as well as the adaptoistration of centralised benefits, a life assurance fund and a health cure scheme. A key emphasis will be reporting to the Board, its working commerces and the summer conference.

Candidates, probably aged between 15 and 50, will be qualified professionals with a proven record of senks managerial experience, prefembly gained within a financial services environment. Knowledge of the friendly society movement would be a distinct advantage. A high degree of selfmorivation, strong communication skills and commissions to standards of excellence will he crucial to achieve success in this rewarding and challenging role.

A relucation package is offered where appropriate. Interested applicants should send a full curriculum vitae, clearly marking the envelope with reference no 310, to our ndvising consultant Mark Hurley ACMA at Michael Page Group, Clarendon House SI Mosley Street, Manchester MZ 3LQ.

Michael Page Group

NATIONAL ACCOUNTS MANAGER

Sheds

OTE £33,000

Our client, the £12 million subsidiary of a 'blue chip' British plc, is one of the most profitable companies in the UK in its market sector. It maintains a record of continuous growth. The National Accounts Manager is a member of the senior management team and reports to the Managing Director. Candidates, probably aged 30-50 and of graduate level, will have an outstanding record of dealing with the professional buying organisations of the UK's large retail groups, particularly 'sheds'. Specific product knowledge is not required; professionalism in major account management, team playing attributes and a thinking approach are the essential pre-requisites. Basic salary negotioble c£30,000. First class benefits package including an executive car and relocation, if appropriate, to a Midlands base. Excellent early promotion prospects. Please reply in strict confidence giving details of experience, age, qualifications and present solary quoting Ref. 1166. No information will be divulged to our clients without your permission. CB-Linnell Limited

7 College Street, Nottingham NG1 5AQ. SEARCH & SELECTION CONSULTANTS NOTTINGHAM: LONDON

GENERAL MANAGER FOOD PROCESSING AND CONSUMER PACKAGING

Location: East Anglia Salary Negotiable

1. H

Our client is a privately owned family company based in East Anglia with an enviable position in the food processing and consumer pockaging industry. Sustained growth over recent years has now created the need to appoint a GENERAL MANAGER of outstanding ability and experience.

The person sought will be aged ideally or person sought will be aged, ideally around 45 and will have a measurable record of success in the food industry or in an industry closely alled to it. Experience of the exacting standards required to satisfy the high street food retailers will be an advantage, as will clear evidence of working to BS 5750 and knowledge of ISO 9000.

You will be responsible for workforce of around 375 and work closely with the Managing Director to promote new products and new markets. It is an inovative EEC approved Company which owes its position to supplying top quality food products to its customers at home and abroad.

This is an important new appointment. The basic salary is negotiable and an attractive package commensurate with the position is offered.

Please write in the first instance for an application form to: JOHN DAVES BUSINESS CONSULTANTS, The Estate Office, Clermont House, L. Cressingham, Thetford, Norfolk 1925 6LY.

JMCONSULTING

LTD

EXPERIENCED MANAGEMENT

BRISTOL

quality services in strategy and business planning, financial management, lumina resources and manheting. We wish to recruit one or two experienced consultants with shills in these

Soccessful applicants will inve:

- good acuteroic qualifications

- section as consultants to the public sector experience as consultants to the passes expertise is one of our service areas eptional analytical and communication communent to surve our elients and

We expect the post(s) to appeal to people who wish to be involved at a senior level in the development of a small growing firm, and to be rewarded according to their performance. You will have the ability to get on in a small temp, and the integrity and potential to race of responsibility for the marketing and development. Location in the South-West will be so bio with a high peribo Phase write with brief ourser details and explaining how you could contribute to our team to Melanic Bardett at: J M. Consolting, Saville Court, Saville Place, Bristol 886 483.

Wrong job -Redundant = Neither means being 20x | 30x | 40x | 50x | 60x | 70x out of the running

who care about your future, whether you are employed or nor. Finding the right job is all about confidence. approade and contacts. Our expertise is comprehensive and individually tailored to meet your needs, rooks and the right position - often within the unadvertised market.

to arrange an initial meeting; for Manchester call 061 834 2189

McKenzie Waterman

The remuneration package will be supported by a mandatum bornes technic which others the prospect of substantial revents. Successful applicants will also receive intensive in-house at the company's college in

Candidates should solonit hand written appli-cations, including a curriculum vitue and a recent photograph, by 16th October 1932, Initial interviews will be held in London late

Mr Chris Braakman, or Commercial Managers

Plast 535, King's Road, Loodon SW10 0SZ

Krauthammer

INTERNATIONAL

McKerezie Waterman & Co., St. Alphage House, Fore Street, London ECZY 5DA.

HELP US COACH EUROPE'S TOP MANAGERS

Krauthamaner International, one of Europe's largest treining, coeching and consulting institutes. Krauthammer operates in 11 European countries and during 1991 conducted more than 7,500 training days for senior management and sales personnel from amongst its 3,500 pan-European clients.

Krautharomer International has 120 highly qualified full time training consultants and it is qualities that mile training constituents aren't is in this area that the organisation now seeks to expand its operations in the United Kangdom through the appointment of a number of sation now seeks to

Your profile Candidates educated to degree level, will have line management experience in either industry or marketing be fluent in at least one other European language will enjoy the disciplines of being a cessful anolicants will nephably be bet

Geneva – Zurich – Paris – Lyon – Abren-Provence – Lillo – Strasbourg – Brussels Amsterdam – London – Cologne – Munich – Madrid – Milan – Mew York – Casablesc

3 Day Course

- *CV preparation and compilation
- *Career guidance & report
- Interview skills trition
- * Self-marketing skills tuition *Effective letter writing
- * Networking
- * Psychometric assessment & report

For further information telephone Jenny Haycock on: (0203) 227242

Cynosure Outplacement, 3rd floor, Queens House Queens Road, Coventry CV1 3EG.

Mechanical Engineering Managers

Join a leader in defence technology WEST LONDON: Attractive Salary + Benefits

Our client enjoys a high reputation for quality and impovation in the development and manufacture of advanced technology systems and products for the international defence

Following the recent reorganisation of their engineering department, they are seeking to appoint two high calibre individuals to management roles in the Mechanical Engineering

OPYINDS.

Mechanical Engineering Design Group Manager

esource and technical issues in the areas of nechanical and optical design. You should have organisation. Ref 062.

design and development function within a matrix

Mechanical Engineering Sub-Group Manager

You will hold specific responsibility for the staff and resources associated with the detailed mechanical design aspects of products across the group. In addition to practical skills in the

For both positions, you should have a solid technical background and be a Chartered Engineer. A minimum qualification in Mechanical Engineering of an HNC is required, although a BSc/BEng will be preferred. Your excellent interpersonal and people management skills will enable you to introduce improved concurrent engineering working methods, to achieve cost effective 'design for manufacture' solutions by the increased use of computerised CAD/MCAE mechanical design of intricate electronic and optical sub systems, you will have experience of managing a design and development function.

in return, we offer a package that includes an attractive salary and benefits, together with relocation assistance where appropriate. Please write with full career details, quoting the appropriate reference to: Lynette Cumningham, MSL Advertising, 32 Aybrook Street, London W1M 3.R., These will be sent direct to our Closing date: 9th October 1992. Interviews will take place in West London on 12th and 13th November 1992.

M5L Advertising

HEAD OF SCIENTIFIC SERVICES DIVISION

C. £ 40,000, + Company Car & Benefits

SURREY

men is the highly successful environmental consultancy and project management company within Saur UK. Saur UK provides water supply to 1.4 million customers in UK and Saur Group provides water and other environmental sérvices in many countries world-wide.

We wish to appoint a manager for our newly established scientific services division. The division will provide a scientific service to the Saur Group in UK and to external clients both here and abroad, in the field of water analysis and other environmental

A new laboratory will be established at Frimley Green - Surrey, which will be operational in the second part of 1993.

Educated to at least degree level in a scientific discipline, you will have a flair for business development, together with a strong problem solving approach. An excellent knowledge of modern analytical techniques is essential and knowledge of French

The challenge is significant, but rewards are commensurate, with a competitive salary and excellent

Career prospects in this fast expanding group are exciting.

Please send full personal and career details, including current remuneration level and telephone number in confidence to :

Miss J. Travia, Human Resources Manager Dynamco Limited Barcley Court Market Place Haywards Heath

WEST SUSSEX RHIE IDB

SALES & MARKETING

TO £40,000p.a. + Car + Benefits

Already recognised as the leading player in the U.K. market, this to the food industry - is now poised to implement its planned expansion throughout Europe.

Taking the lead in this marketing drive, your targets will be to increase current market share, identify new business opportunities and maintain effective client relationships - making this one of the most exciting and challenging assignments in the packaging industry today. Reporting to the Managing Director you must be able to demonstrate a successful sales and marketing record in the plastics packaging or food processing industries. A highly motivated self starter with a driving ambition for success you will be looking for the challenge of working in a demanding market sector. You will be supported by a small but dynamic Sales & Marketing team together with technical specialists. Fluency in a second European language would be of value. The rewards for your ability and commitment are excellent. You will receive a salary and henefits package commensurate with the role, plus a career opportunity determined by your success. A generous relocation package is available, including home sale guarantee, where appropriate.

Interested? Then write with full career details, quoting ref:ST/13 to: HUMAN RESOURCES MANAGEMENT SERVICES,

Are you at the open 24 hrs).

crossroads of your career?

4 Park Place, Dover, Kent CT16 1DF. Tel: (0304) 241763/201555. Fux: (0304) 201555.

if redundancy looms, or you are disillusioned or unemployed and our specialist career consultants.

tailored career management programmes for executives earning £20K plus for over 40 years.

even in these times.

CAREER

COUNSELLING

YOU CAN AFFORD IT: raceal Development ching, the UK's fastust

grawing career management ompany, trains and motivate lob-seekers using new lechniques from the LIK and USA at a lower cost than raditional career commelting.

Phone (0932) 829879.

REDUNDANT EXECUTIVE

MANAGING DIRECTORS?

E36,000 pe gonsunted from own consultancy 12 mouth contract available from 20th October 1992 For full information bet institute for independent British Business

USTOMER SERVICES Assistant required by Chalco publishing company. Aged 21 plus

We have been providing personally

We help you recognise and act on the vealth of opportunities that exist - unsure of which way to turn, contact

Call to arrange an appointment with no obligation, or send your CV (lines

We abide by the IPM Code of Conduct

LORDON 071 580 6771 - CHIPPERINAL 0249 651730

WEST MICHANDS 0527 69898 - LEICESTER 0533 630511 MAYKHESTER 061 228 0089 - YORKSHIRE 0532 426162

GLASCOW OCI, 332 1502 - EDWGURCH 031 452 8380

CHUSID LANDER

35/37 Fitzroy Street, London W1P 5AF

MAJOR DOMO

BUTLER - MAITRE D'HOTEL Southern California couple with major estate needs take charge, seasoned professional immediately. Require (nemcy in English, second language immediately. Require fluency in English, second language preferred, Must have thorough invaviedge of all duties required of major domo/butter/mattre d'hotel. Please apply only if ministum ten years experience in top position. Applicant must be non-smoking, non-drighting, have a drivers licence, and must pass security check and physical examinition. Live in or out. Five day work week, Wednesday through Sunday, Send resirves, recent photo and major references to: Post Office 296. Severty Hills. California 90215-0296 U.S.A. All references will be held confidential. Principals only, Along with resume please write detailed letter outlining what you as a Major Domo/Butter/Maitre d'Hotel are capable of performing. Salary commensurate with experience.

MASTER CHEF

MASIEK CHEP

Southern California couple with major estate wants top Northern Italian or Conlinental chef. Require fluency in English, second language preferred. Must be extremely well-trained and have a minimum of ten years Master Chef experience and versatility from haute cusine to provencal, large formal to informal parties. Applicant must be non-smoking, non-drinking, have a drivers licence, and must pass security check and physical examination. Live in or out. Five day work week. Wediesday through Symday. Send resume, recent photo and major references to: Post Office 296. Beverly Hills, California-90213-0296 U.S.A. All references will be held confidential. Principals only. Along with resume please write detailed letter as to your repertoire and any other information that would be helpful. Salary commensurate with experience.

THE JOB MARKET IS BAD! IT'S NOT IMPOSSIBLE!

Move back into employment with Fletcher Hunt Cureer Consultants. A leading force in the re-employment field we understand the used job market extremely well. Our success rate is unequalled.

UNEMPLOYED: • WRONG JOB: • REDUNDANT! Executives and Managers used to earning £20k - £150k, and needing to progress their currents professionally call Steven Thomas now to arrange an initial magnitudes on 671,434,8356 or real one of our regional offices.

North West 0912 625251 Dublin Dublin 750077 Newčistle 691 224 1010 Glasgow Bristol 0738 441327 0603 620054 041 204 3224

Fletcher Hunt pic, 59 Devonshire Street London WIN ILT.

Financial Management Controller

Swindon

c£35k pa

+ car

Quadrant is one of the largest food service operations in the UK with a Customer First approach and a dynamic attitude to growth. As a business centre within the Post Office, we supply food management services to all the main Post Office businesses and tender externally within the public sector. Our services include restaurant and event catering, project design and vending.

The Financial Management Control Department has 50 staff based in two locations. As Controller, reporting to the Finance Director, you will be responsible for developing and improving control procedures and systems, ensuring their effective operation and the production of all financial reports. business plan financial projections, budgets and Closing date for applications 16 October 1992.

Applicants should offer: Please send a CV and . covering letter to: Juliet Caupt, Consultancy, Coton House . .

Centre,

This is a challenging position with the potential for a major contribution towards our drive to a totally commercial Quality Management environment.

Accountancy qualifications (ACMA/ACA) Five years post qualification experience showing evidence of responsibility and achievement in a

Good experience of business planning Excellent interpersonal and staff management

UADRANT cotoring for tuday's business needs

Rugby CV23 8AA

We positively encourage equal opportunities.

Britain's largest network of career consultancy offices is helping more SENIOR EXECUTIVES with their careers than ever before

Services for Career Advantement - Job Change - Expais - Euro Executives include personal marketing programmes & unadvertised vacancy identification offered with flexible fee arrangements.

Birmingham Bristol & Carolli 2 241 0109

001 220 6727 041 248 5336 0908 231 919 061 929 8798 091 415 0905 North East Reading Winchester

EXECUTIVE CAREER SERVICES 32 Savile Row, London W1X1AG. Telephone: 071-734 3879. Fax: 071 734 2620

Chief Executive

Bradford and District TEC, with an annual budget of £20m and a staff of 80 works to build partnerships between the private and public sector by facilitating education, training and business support in a diverse and challenging industrial and cultural environment.

- RESPONSIBILITY is to the non-executive Board for the management and direction of the TEC in its aim to play a significant role in the provision of
- training and support to business. THE NEED is for proven management talent at a senior level probably from the private sector, with excellent leadership and interpersonal skills, and an ability and willingness to adopt a high profile in the area.
- REMUNERATION: c. &+0,000 plus benefits.

Bradford and District TEC is an Equal Opportunities Employer and welcomes applications from all sections of the community.

Write in confidence, enclosing a Curriculum Vitae quoting ref: E75,39

13-14 South Parade, Leeds, LS1 5QS, Fax: 0532 426888 A DIVISION OF TYZACK & PARTNERS

Director of Quality

Add a new dimension of quality Excellent salary in this newly created role within Hunting Communication Technology, we're taking quality to a different dimension. As a leader in the field of communications systems, new concept local area networks and computer-driven battle training systems, we must maintain the highest quality standards to stay at the forefront of our industry. The role of Director of Quality will cover two main areas, developing effective and systematic quality systems and facilitating a Total Quality Management Programme. This will involve providing each area of our business with a framework to develop quality systems, conducting an Audit and Assessment Programme and suppporting customer orientated quality

This senior position calls for a broad background in electronics embracing design, prototyping, procurement, production and field support. What's more, you must have an understanding of Systems Engineering principles, together with experience of machine code/assembler and high level languages. An appreciation of the contractual aspects of Quality Assurance and their financial implications is also required.

Of equal importance will be the personal qualities you bring to this role - self-motivation, pragmatism and an achievement-orientated approach. For someone of quality the prospects are excellent.

Please forward your CV and current salary details to Liz Tidy, Personnel Manager, Hunting

Communication Technology Ltd., Ham Bridge, Dominion Way, Worthing, West Sussex

II937 580 181

Divisional Manager - Flooring

Milton Keynes

Fosroc Expandite - part of the Burmah Castrol group - is the largest construction chemicals company in the UK. We offer our customers the most comprehensive range of products and continually strive to focus these products into new markets segments. There is a substantial opportunity for growth, backed by a comprehensive research and development programme.

We are seeking an experienced Divisional Manager for our Flooring Division to further develop our business. This will include the formulation/implementation of sales and key customer strategies, producing sales targets, motivating and training our sales force. The position reports directly to the Sales Director.

Graduate calibre with at least five years' sales experience, you will have managed a sales team within the construction industry (flooring ideally) and will have an understanding of marketing and its implications for successful business building. Highly articulate, with exceptional man-management and communication skills your enthusiasm and drive, coupled with excellent planning and decision making ability will enable you to progress successfully in this fast-moving, expanding organisation.

Career opportunities within this international group are excellent. Benefits will include an attractive salary, target bonus, company car, pension and life assurance, medical insurance and relocation assistance where appropriate.

in the first instance, please send full c.v. to our consultant, David Freeston, at the address below.

The right chemistry for construction

Fosroc Expandite Limited

Marc Woolmer Search & Selection, 45 Castle Street, Cirencester, Gloucestershire, GL7 1QD.

A BURMAH CASTROL COMPANY

SIGNIFICANT MANAGEMENT OPPORTUNITIES WITH THE MOST ACCOMPLISHED I.T. 'GIANT' CURRENTLY PROVIDING COMMUNICATIONS INFRASTRUCTURE AND CONSUMER TRANSACTION SOLUTIONS FOR THE HIGH STREET SECTOR!

SALES MANAGERS/ ACCOUNT DIRECTORS

Substantial packages commensurate with role including high basic, quality car, health insurance, pension etc.

An ability to manage and motivate sales and support teams is sought in individuals who have grasped the essentials of 'big sale' and consultative campaigning in establishing a successful track record. Experience within the retall, financial services, leisure or travel industries would be an advantage.

ACCOUNT MANAGERS

Excellent package including generous basic, 2L car and big company benefits

We seek dynamic achievers able to co-ordinate support services in the pursuit of major accounts business where strategic skills are essential. Contracts of £1 million plus are the norm in a company where career enhancement for your CV to Mediock Associates Limited, Imperial House, 21-25 North St., Bromley, BR1 1SD. Tel. 081-460 7163, Fax: 081-464 1034.

LOCATIONS: NORTH, MIDLANDS, SOUTH

SEER Technologies

The Systems Development Company

Project Managers / Senior Consultants £30-45X

Seer Technologies, a joint venture between IBM and Credit Suisse First Boston, is one of the fastest growing software and consulting firms, with a client list that reads like a "Who's Who?" of the industry. Seer is a young US based company earning an impressive reputation throughout Europe, the US and Japan as a leader in large-scale, cooperative systems development. Seer markets a number of products and services including a full life cycle CASE toolset, HPS (High Productivity Systems).

To meet the demand of our RAPID European growth, and to support our IBM European Partner, we are actively seeking candidates who can demonstrates a combination of the following:

- Hands on experience utilising CASE technology
- Knowledge of systems development methodologies (preferably
- Information Engineering and/or Object Oriented approaches) Solid systems analysis, design and construction skills
- A high degree of rechnical proficiency and a proven track record as a hands-on project manager/leader (preferably in a consultancy practice)
- A solid background in IBM mainframe and PC environments
- Excellent oral and written communication skills An ability to travel extensively
- Foreign language fluency (preferably German and/or Italian)

Knowledge of the financial services industry is desired

Seer Technologies offers rapid career advancement, training in the latest CASE technology and a competitive remuneration package. Qualified candidates should forward their CV to Ms Rae Avatar, Seer Technologies Europe Ltd., Status Park, Status 4, Nobel Drive, Heathrow, Middlesex UB3 5EY. No agencies please.

Software Sales Executives

● Management Information ● Direct and Indirect Channels ● Top Rewards for Top Results - c£75,000 In a world where results are sometimes difficult to find, you need to be good. You also need to be paid well for those efforts. You also need excellent products developed by a strong company dedicated to customer satisfaction. This opportunity combines all these elements. Our client is one of the top 50 independent software companies world-wide, with international offices covering 25 key markets supporting more than 3000 customers. Visual information access technology is one of the highest growth segments of the software industry. Our client is wishing to appoint two 'expenenced' sales professionals to assist in augmenting the existing range with exciting new products. To succeed in this role, you will need minimum 5 years' experience in solution and/or application sales - proven past personal cross earnings greater than £75k - worked with high level big account customers - business benefits oriented - probably aged between 32 and 37 - high energy and motivation levels. If you believe you have the desire and can achieve over £100k in personal earnings, then we wish to discuss this opportunity with you. It may be to your advantage.

To arrange an initial confidential telephone interview, please call ARS on 071-629 9982, ARS Friday 8th October or Manday 12th
October, between 9,00em and 5.30pm.

GENERAL APPOINTMENTS

COVERNMENT HOSPITALITY FUND

Head of Government Hospitality

Setting the Standards for High Level Hospitality

To £42,870 (under review)

Central London

The role of the Government Hospitality Fund (GHF) is to organise Guest of Government visits for Ministers and above from foreign and Commonwealth countries; and to arrange Ministerial hospitality and functions in the United Kingdom. The Head of GHF (known as the Secretary) is directly responsible for the day to day running of the Fund's business; for responding to requests from all Government Departments for the use of its services in fulfilment of this role; and for ensuring that the Fund's financial, manpower and material resources are deployed effectively and economically.

The post calls for skills in dealings with Government Departments, supervising the operational sections within GHF for visits, functions and butlers and other staff matters generally; controlling all financial matters - including long term estimating; maintaining the highest standards for food and its service; supervising contractors generally; and setting and upholding impeccable standards for the Fund.

The Secretary has representational duties at varying levels within and outside government circles and plays a key role in e.g. large set-piece banquets and other highly visible prestige events taking place in London and elsewhere in the United Kingdom.

The successful applicant's skills must therefore stem from a general fund of experience in long-term planning, costing exercises, general administration, good human relations skills and management of staff and excellent interpersonal skills at all levels of contact - Ministerial, Official, UK and foreign.

The Secretary must be an excellent leader, manager, negotiator and motivator; skilled in diplomacy and with a keen sense of balance between firmness and flexibility. This role calls for mental stamina and resilience, in a high-profile position where the successful applicant will be judged by his/her own standards and Commonwealth Office.

For further details and an application form (to be returned by 27 October 1992) write to Recruitment & Assessment Services, Alencon Link, Basingstoke, Hants RG21 IJB or telephone Basingstoke (0256) 468551. Please quote reference no: C/L567.

THE CIVIL SERVICE IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES EMPLOYER:

UNIVERSITY OF BATH DIRECTOR OF FINANCE

extion and control of the University's the provision of financial advice, the ion of the University's financial and ent accounts and ensuring financial control is looking for a qualified accountant, preferably a graduate, and although experience in higher ion will be an advantage it is not essential.

The Director will play a major part in the strategic planning in collaboration with the Vice-Chancellor and Secretary and Registrat, together with the Officers and Heads of Schools of the University. The University is looking for a professional person with Applications are invited from those both in the private and public sectors and should be sent to the Secretary and registrar of the University. Further particulars are available from Mr Peter J Hill Director of Personnel, University of Both, Claveron Down, Bath BA2 7AY (tol. 0225 826026; fax 0225 826559). The closing date for applications is 31st October 1992.

PROFILIS

EDUCATED

C.V. SERVICES

FREEPHONE 0800 622414

* Access to the prandvertised job market * CV service . * Skills assessment

CAREER MOVERS'

COMPANION

L HE A stagle call Excel CVs by search consulta come to the unadvertised market 075 226 5225.

Printed C.V. 48 hours. TRC Limited 0425 839522

PROFESSIONAL Laser Printed C.V. 48 hours TRC Limited: 0625 659622

OUASLTY GY Writing Service. Telephone Day or Eventug - OSL 940 7981.

SUPJEE Profesional bound mer printed CV FREE headed Paper. FREE interview guide. 0235 580557 (7 days. 24km) intelligent young man driving licence and willing to travel. Any genuine entransments with Please Reply to Box No 3875 marketing and

INTERNATIONAL

OPPORTUNITY

For motivated

R Back 35 Cambridge Street London SW1V 4PR

PROJECT MANAGER

REDEVELOP A MAJOR LONDON SITE

Circa £35,000 + car + PRB.

RPM/CM/ST, Tel: 0223 3/1316, Fee: 0223 316152.

Central Middlesen, a progressive and insovative first wave NHS Trust, plans to radically redevelop in 65 acre West London site commencing in 1992/3. Reporting lointly to the Calef Executives of the Hospital and the Brent Regeneration Agency, the panem Project Manager will take on a wide and Challenging belef. You will be responsible for designing a comprehensive Development Control Plan and Strategy, Phase 1 of which will begin the volution of Central Middlesex into a more compact and patient-focused urban health care compas. The job also involves managing the timely sale of land and property belonging to the Trust, Central

Middlesez is in a City Challenge urban redevelopment zone, and associated initiatives include possible joint To manage a project of this scale, you will need to have several years relevant project management experies in either the private or public sectors. You will possess excellent communication, negotiation and organis skills, regether with an appropriate professional qualification and a record of achievements to march. If you are study for the unique opportunity to lead a major capital redevelopment project, hand-in-hand with a fundamental rethink of how hospital care will develop form the 21st century, your initiative and To apply send your curriculum view as quickly as possible to Geoffrey King or Deborah McGovert. Cambridge Recruitment Consultants, 11 King's Panade, Cambridge, CB2 15j, quoting reference

CAMBRIDGE RECRUITMENT CONSULTANTS

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS

QUEEN VICTORIA HOSPITAL (East Grinstead)

Unit General Manager/Chief Executive

Salary circa £45,000

Queen Victoria Hospital provides a unique and renowned dual service as a Regional Centre for Burns, Plastic Surgery, Maxillo-facial and Oral Surgery and Orthodontics together with acute general hospital services for the local population. The Hospital is seeking independent. Trust status within the NHS.

An excellent reputation for technical quality, clinical teaching and research in the specialties combines well with strong support from local CPs 190% fund-holding by April 1993) and from the demanding local community for general acute services.

The budget is £13 million split 21 between specialty and general services. This 'mixed economy' provides an exceptional challenge for a time served manager to lead a committed team during this period of unprecedented change. Potentially successful candidates will know the skills and attributes we are seeking and they will also know that NHS experience is desirable but by no means essential.

If you would like to know more, please contact lack Lowe, Tunbridge Wells District General Manager, on 0892 511577 ext 2702. information pack available from Mrs J Anderson, Personnel and Training Manager at Queen Victoria Hospital, Holtye Road, East Grinstead, Sussex RH19 3DZ. Telephone 0342,410210 ext 480,

Closing date for applications: 30th October 1992;

8892

tality

PLOYER

071-782 7828

69×100 100

ASSISTANT SECRETARY

GKN plc is an international automotive components and industrial services group operating worldwide with annual sales of over £2 billion and some 30,000 employees.

The appointment is in the Company Secretary's Department at the Group Headquarters in Redditch, Worcestershire.

The successful candidate will be a fully qualified Chartered Secretary educated to degree standard. Excellent communication skills and a thorough understanding of the work involved in a major PLC are essential. The department deals with all aspects of company secretarial work. There will be particular emphasis, however, on Companies Act and UK and overseas stock exchange compliance and on servicing the Board and shareholders of GKN plc. Specific responsibilities will include the production of annual and interim reports, organisation of the AGM, shareholder circulars, acting as secretary to a number of companies, and special project work.

This is an excellent opportunity for candidates looking for increased responsibility. An attractive salary is offered, together with a company car and relocation expenses.

For further details please contact Fiona Boxall or send her a copy of your c.v.

Chambers

74 Long Lane, London EC1A 9ET Tel (071) 606 8844 Fax (071) 600 1793

Training Co-ordinator To £25,000

We are a major City law firm with over 300 staff and a strong commercial outleok. The vision of quality legal and management training is vital to maintaining and developing the abilities of our lawyers and consequently the strength of the firm.

We now seek to appoint a Training Co-ordinator who, reporting directly to one of the Partners, will outsmise external courses and also devise and plan in-house training. As well as involvement in identifying training requirements, responsibilities will include rating the availability of appropriate courses to the Partners, preparing budgets and regular activity reports and liaising with the Law Society to ensure adherence to its

The ideal candidate will be a graduate (law degree preferred) and have experience of ing administration, preferably in a similar professional environment. Good written and ation skills, experience of information technology and a lively and resilient

Please apply in writing, enclosing a full CV, to Keith Wood at S J Berwin & Co. The

SJBerwin

REDUNDANCY?

LEARN FROM HIS MISTAKES

Selfstart teaches you to adapt. It's a radical new initiative to help people get back to work. It consists of an intensive one-day seminar which allows you to evaluate yourself and your prospects for successful self-employment.

You discover how to take better control of your future - and whether you opt for self-employment or not, you will become clearer and more confident about which career path you should choose.

To help you assess self-employment, you'll also be able to discuss three highly respected self-employment opportunities which have worked successfully for other people in your position.

Selfstart is sponsored by Whithread, Prontaprint and Royal Life, and costs just £100 (+VAT). Places are still available on Selfstart seminars in Central London and Gatwick on 22nd Oct. and 3rd Nov. respectively, and bookings are welcome from employers as well

For further details, please call

selfstart

MAKING JOBS FOR PEOPLE AND PEOPLE FOR JOBS

CAREERLINE the fastest way to the latest jobs. just dial and listen SALES: NORTH SALES: SOUTH EAST SALES: SOUTH WEST SALES: LONDON TEL: 0336 + TEL: 0336 + TEL: 0336 + TEL: 0336 + 404 670 Kent, Surrey, Sossex 404 625 Avon & Someree 404 640 City
404 671 Hanss, Berks, Osos 404 626 South Coxes 404 641 West End
404 672 Berks & Berks 404 627 Deven & Crimen 404 642 North London
404 673 Harts & Northanin 404 628 Hansland & Sibe 414 643 South London
404 675 Surface, Northit 404 628 Hansland & Sibe 414 644 Siest London
404 675 Surface, Essex 404 630 Willsobie 404 646 West London Captrel Breengham 404 655 Manchester West Middends 404 656 Camcashire Lecs & Derbystine 404 657 Yorkshire Notis & Lines 404 658 Hussberside 404 613 404 614 404 615

Or you can call regional offices direct: London 071-828 8020. Bristol 0272 306683. Birmingham. 021. 200.5736 Careerline. 23 Watting St, Cantenbury, Kent, CT1 2UA. Galls charged at 36p per minute cheap rate 46p per minute at all other times.

A CAREER IN SALES

We are an expanding IT company looking for someone with experience in technical sales. Product training in Germany, company located Hampshire/Berkshire. Salary c£30K. Sales & Marketing Support post also available, salary c£20K

Applications to Box 3365

We are looking for an educated person with good personality and sales ability for interesting position in travel-telated small company in central London. Typing skills necessary plus good French. Age approx 25 - 40.
Please reply in writing with C.V. to:
Box No 4174

As a Financial consultant with AEGON, you could secure yourself a more rewarding future by creating a more financially secure future for others.

No experience in Financial Services is required, but maturity integrity and the ability to communicate with people are assential.

AEGON is one of EUROPE's ten largest insurance groups. As such we can offer training of the highest quality and unlimited earnings potential. For more information, please contact: Keith Agnew, Divisional Director, AEGON Financial Services Ltd. Academy House, 161-167 Oxford Street, London W1R 1TA.

Telephone 071 734 3000 Telephone 071 734 3000

EUROPE IN HEADING EASTWARDS ARE YOU?

cuts is a major company prepared to look long term at eastward developments of manufacturing, sales, or ce business, then I would like to play a project-leading role with you. ider employing me on a six month contract to stair position. I will come and talk to you just say the word

Mr Antony Jackson Tel: 0986 894580, Fax: 0986 895036

Career Evaluation

gent and professionally minded people on 25 and 50 to market their range of ity to find out. We wo you to attend a meeting to be held stortly which would discuss and explain the opportunities wallable within the Group and also — most portantly -offer a COMPREHENSIVE ave had no experience nce of sales in the past.

Please write with a brief cv. to: Emma Brown lied Dumbar, 1st Floor, Clockhouse Court, 5 London Road, St. Albans, Herts Al.1 1AA or cell ties exist in the following location

UNADVERTISED jobs market,

Programmes approved for Government assisted loans, 250K+

G# 0767 400153 Fmx 0262 678294

REGIONAL SALES MANAGERS

Required to join

THE HOME OWNERS EXCHANGE

A national UK based company seeks enthusiastic Sales Managers to join our successful team.

The regional managers will be based in their own area and be responsible for running an autonomous sales operation. The post calls for ambition, initiative and a desire to take on responsibility and reap good rewards. Earnings potential in excess of £40K plus a guaranteed basic. Minimum 3 vears experience.

In the first instance, please forward your CV to Mo Dooley at The Home-Owners Exchange, Unit 4. Barnack Business Centre, Blakey Road, Salisbury, Wilts SP1 2LP.

ALL BOX NUMBER REPLIES SHOULD BE ADDRESSED TO:

BOX No. .....

c/o TIMES NEWSPAPER P.O. BOX 484, VIRGINIA ST, LONDON, E1 9DD

OPERATIONS MANAGER

FUTURE ELECTRONICS is a multinational player in the worldwide distribution of sophisticated electronic components with an innovative approach to business.

We are presently looking for an OPERATIONS MANAGER, which is an executive management position. The successful candidate will be a career minded individual whose responsibilities will include MIS, Warehouse Operation, Customer Service, Customs and Logistics, Traffic, as well as Facilities, including office support personnel. This key position reports directly to the Manager Director.

The ideal candidate will be a unique individual, an intense achiever with a high energy level and excellent communication skills. We offer a competitive remuneration package commensurate with the responsibilities of this important position. If you feel you have the qualifications to meet this challenge and become part of the management team of this continuously expanding corporation, please send your resume in strictest confidence to:

> Mr. Rick Hawron - Managing Director FUTURE ELECTRONICS LTD. Petersfield Avenue Slough, Berkshire, SL2 5EA

West Glamorgan Health Authority

Deputy Director of Finance Up to £35,000

+ Performance Related Pay + Lease Car

An enthusiastic qualified accountant is required for this challenging and rewarding position. The Authority has a budget of £160 million for the purchase of health care. Together with the Family Health Services Authority and other agencies it is seeking to improve the health of its local population to that equivalent to the best in Europe. You will have a major involvement in the high level financial, planning and management processes necessary to achieve this strategic objective. Drive and determination, together with strong leadership skills and the ability to communicate effectively at all levels, are essential qualities for this post.

For an informal discussion please ring Graham Bennett, Director of Finance, on (0792) 458066

An information pack and application form can be obtained from Mrs C Williams, Orcare Business Services, 36 Orchard Street, Swansea SA1 SAQ. Tel: (0792) 458833 Ext 7368. Closing date for receipt of applications is Friday 23rd October 1992.

CYMRU

EER SERVICES

Access + VISA Amex + Diners

DON'T POST 100 LETTERS For the cost of the 1st class stamps lave your CV written by 071-436 0766 By post, telephone or personal consultation 9 Great Russell Street, London, WC1B 3NH

loberrotters P.O. BOX 741, Days TH Postelli, Baywood, 1153 ETM

GET A HEADSTART NOW

With few jobs advertised and more people looking you need a fast track approach to job hunting As an independent consultant / offer-As an inc CV PREPARATION

OV PREPARATION OCAREER GUIDANCE OSELF MARKETING . JOB SEARCH ADVICE TELEPHONE NOW STEPHEN DAVIES 081-763 0895

INSTITUTE OF COUNSELLING COUNSELLING SKILLS COURSES

Certificate Courses "1 Year Diploma Course 2 year Diploma Courses "Training Resources All courses in a home study basis.
For further information write to: Institute of Counselling Dept TT, 8 Dixon Street, Glasgow G1 4AX Tel: 041 204 2230

OVERSEAS EMPLOYMENT & WORKING HOLIDAYS

Opportunities Available Worldwide, Temporary or Permanent, Skilled or Unskilled including: ustralia, The Caribbean, Canada, Africa, U.S.A. and Europe For Further Details of our service send 2 x 24p stamps to DEPT T, GLOBAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICES, 8, DOUGLAS AVENUE, WHITSTABLE, KENT CTS 1RT.

How not to look an ass

Clare Hogg reports on company anxiety that employees do not write well and speak effectively early half of Britain's office workers cannot tell the difference between "principle" and principal". More than three-quarters of university science students misspell "occurrence" or cannot distinguish between "its" and "it's". Cambridge University examiners have devised a new test to determine whether university applicants can write grammatical English and understand basic arithmetic. A number of large companies with a significant graduate intake are interested in incorporating the tests into their own selection process.

The statistics quoted above ex-plain why. Good communication skills are important to businesses. Selection processes can be tailored to weed out those who are substandard, but many companies already have employees whose skills need to be improved. Accordingly a growing number of consultancies are seeking to provide the appropriate training.

Initially employers and trainers encounter resistance to the improvement of these basic skills. Many people feel terribly threatened by these courses," says Pam Evans of Entek, a company which runs a grammar course. They see their need for them as a personal reflection on their own lack of ability rather than as a general failure of their schooling.

The course covers basic writing skills, clamping down on onesentence paragraphs and solving the dilemmas of when to use who or whom: I or me, effect or affect. The tone is kept deliberately as light hearted and straightforward as possible; nouns are referred to as "a thing" and verbs are "an action word". "You can't ask 'where's the adverbial modifier in sentence 87," says Karie Davis, an Entek trainer over from the United States. "That stuff cripples people." Many find that getting to grips with their mother tongue gives them confidence. Ms Davis argues that the grammar course "empowers people, it enables them to look at their own work with a critical eye ... and fix it". There is a feeling among those without much formal education and with only sketchy use of English that their inability to communicate correctly on paper makes them appear stupid. They and their bosses are right to be he adds: "Now, with so many managers writing their own correspondence both internal and external. the need to put over an intelligent and capable impression is even more important." In the past, Ms Davis comments, secretaries (whose grammar quiz scores are lower than editors' and lawyers'. but higher than most others') were able to correct their bosses' letters. Now few managers have the luxury of such a safety net.

It is in no employer's interest to have employees sending out writ-ten material displaying an ignorance of the difference between its

Our client is a Saudi-Austrian Joint Venture operating successfully in the building and it's, or principal and principle, either to dients or to colleagues. The ability to express oneself on paper, however, is now not sufficient for most employees. The majority also need to be able to express themselves orally, at least in small groups if not to large audiences.

Philippa Davies is a spirited Weishwoman who, having worked as an actress for several years. became interested in the voice. undertook some further specialist study, and then set up Voiceworks. a consultancy offering presentation skills training.
Her courses are marvellously entertaining but at the same time, for those who are determined, they are the path to significant improvement in speech delivery. For example, Ms Davies explains, conditioning results in most people taking "a deep breath" before they begin a fraught presentation. This is Instead. the potential speaker should be concentrating on breathing out. It is the conditioning which causes the problems. At the outset of a presentation when most mental effort is going into marshalling thoughts and remembering the salient points which must be covered, the idea that one must remember to breathe out is often nother useful tip, and one which can become a powerful tool for the public A speaker, is to get into the habit of breathing in before answering difficult questions. This can be very disconcerting to the questioner, who is hopefully discouraged from pursuing an awkward line of questioning, and at the same time saves the speaker from rushing into an ill-considered and possibly emotional response. Ms Davies' courses are not only about breathing and voice. She is critical of the "stiff upper lips" of the Prince of Wales and John Major. "It can be very useful to be inscrutable," she says, "but if your face doesn't change you are depriving yourself of your most useful

More and more production line jobs are being scrapped and replaced by jobs with greater responsibility and requiring more expert knowledge. The need for basic technical communicating skills the ability to speak and write - is crucial for industry. As Peter Morgan, director general of the Institute of Directors says: "Where spelling and the use of language are inadequate, the effect can be disastrous for a company. It creates an image of poor quality, which costs business."

His view, shared by many of the employers he represents, is that basic literacy, numeracy and fluency should be at the heart of primary education. Until it is, the business community will have to fund the necessary training itself.

● Voiceworks: 233 Hamlet Gardens, London, W6 OTS (081-748 8318): Entek Training Services: The Mansion. Minchenden, High Street, Southgate, London, N14 6BJ (081-886 0057)

LIFE AFTER REDUNDANCY

Path-blocking secretaries

ob applicants and journalists share a common problem. In cold-calling for interviews, both regularly come up against that most formidable of obstacles - the protective

The simple fact is that many secretaries regard their duties to include that of corporate gatekeeper. As such, they are of course perfectly justified in shielding their bosses from unwelcome interruptions. For job applicants, however, no less than for deadline-haunted hacks, bypassing an obstructive secretary is an acquired skill. In some cases, too, guerrilla tactics are called for.

The first step is to realise that you are up against a professional in the art of telephone blocking. Tele-phone techniques are taught as part of secretarial training and usually in-"dealing with difficuit people".

For the wouldbe infiltrator, much hinges on the answer to the all-important enquiry about your passage. A more cunning plan is purpose for calling. One wrong move at that stage will bring the portcullis down and when you call back in a few days' time it may well be to find that your earlier effort counts against you. First impressions are every-thing. Many accomplished coldcallers therefore favour the authoritative tone. The trick here is to sound important enough to be automatically connected with the target of the call. "You've got to be strong to get through," says John Spencer, whose company. APW, trains secretaries. "Confidence goes a long way. But I censinly wouldn't advise anyone trying to get past a secretary to say they're looking for a job." Loss of confidence, however, is often the biggest problem for those who have lost their jobs. People used to breezing effortlessly past secretaries can suddenly find themselves in need of some new tricks. One overrated solution is to rely on natural charm. If laid on too thick, however, it can be counterproductive.

Name-dropping can be a great help, but only if the name dropped carries sufficient weight to filt the balance in your favour. Paula Grayson, chairman of the IPM's Recruitment Forum, suggests a different approach. Anyone who has lost their job, she says, should approach a cold-call target as a source of advice, not as a potential employer. "You are then in advice-seeking mode," she says. "Most people like to give advice as long as they don't feel they're being put on the spot and asked for a job."

But for those who dare to use them, more sophisticated guerrilla tactics can also bring results. One way in is to prepare the ground by writing a letter.

A simple letter of introduction is the most straightforward approach,

'One overrated solution is to rely on natural charm' and at least shows serious intent, even if it does not onarantee a free a letter outlining a potential business opportunity for the company. This arms the coldcaller - now a lukewarm caller - with a ready-made response to the enquiry about the nature of the call. "It's about my proposal to move into the American market is a reply a good secretary is unlikely to dismiss. especially in a recession. But as Mr Spencer warns, once past the secretary you have seconds to make an impact on the target. "You have to come clean." he says. "The best approach is to say, "You have never met me, but I got past your secretary using my initiative. I'd like to discuss how you could put that initiative to work for your company."

DESMOND DEARLOVE

41

表 ""表现 C.

The author is business issues editor, the ITEM Group.

27 071-481 4481

GENERAL APPOINTMENTS

EAX 071-782 7828

supply industry. With an annual turnover of 27 Mio Pounds, the Al-Hanouf Group is planning to expand sales operations in Riyadh, Jeddah and Dammam

For these locations we are now seeking top people who are challenged by the idea of building new markets instead of increasing margins.

Manager Marketing & Sales Saudi Arabia Riyadh

Reporting to the Executive Manager, the emphasis will be on building the market for a new product through professional sales and marketing activities. Your responsibilities will include:

- development of marketing strategies for both domestic and export markets
- development and supervision of promotional activities (e.g. advertisement campaigns, fairs and exhibitions)
- co-ordination of activities of sales outlets and distributors supervision of sales staff
- preparation of sales forecasts and sales budgets
- key account management.

For this challenging position we are seeking an entrepreneurial candidate with a graduate degree of a European or US university and at least 3 years experience in a Sales Manager Position. Marketing experience in one of the Gulf states is an advantage but not prerequisite. To understand and target our products effectively you should be able to read technical drawings.

Regional Sales Manager Saudi Arabia Jeddah and Dammam

Based in one of these two major cities in Saudi Arabia you will be running a regional sales outlet. Supported by a small sales and administration staff you will be responsible for:

- · conducting of sales negotiations
- execution of sales promotion programs and the organisation of local fairs and exhibitions.
- sales forecasts and follow up
- preparation of sales and financial reports

managing local sales office, staff and equipment

The ideal candidate has a good technical understanding of architectural drawings. Solid commercial skills and an appropriate education as well as a high energy level are required. Experience in a sales position is mandatory to expand and build your market successfully.

These positions offer good career opportunites for energetic men who enjoy the contact with different cultures. We offer an excellent, performance based, remuneration package including all expatriate benefits. If you feel that you have the necessary drive and commitment to succeed in a demanding, multinational environment write with full career details to: Hill International, International Department Fasangasse 20, 1030 Vienna, Austria, Phone No. + 43 1 798 35 66-25

With more than 2000 employees in Germany and Europe, EDNA and Wollbacher Group is one of the largest manufacturer of frozen bakery products. As a fast growing dynamic company we intend to establish activities in London Therefore we are looking for a career minded

In this position you will

- perform sales of company products to achieve sales goals
- manage, coordinate and support sales channels identify and act on opportunities to promote our company
- identify and act on problems and issues with accounts. resellers, dealers and wholesalers

We offer you a high level of autonomy and responsibility. Negotiated package will include company car.

> If you are interested, please send your application (including C.V.) to EDNA International FROZEN FOOD, Personal Department, Golfenhoferstraße 3, 8901 Zusmarshausen, Germany

Director of Operations/Customer Services

Mostry-Year Book Europe Ltd is part of a major international health s publishing group, with a strong focus on Europe and the Middle East. As part of our continuing expansion, a vacancy now exists for a Director of Operations and Customer Services to manage and enhance the book distribution and customer service functions handled for us by an outside agency.

- Responsibilities attached to this position will include: Achieving improved levels of customer service
- Assisting in the development of improved delivery systems to Europe
- Managing the third party book fulfilment operation * Assisting in the development of IT requirements.

You should have a history of senior management in customer service or distribution within a service orientated organisation. You will possess excellent staff management and communication skills. Familiarity with publishing would be

We offer a competitive solary of up to £35K, commensurate with age and experience and benefits include pension scheme, private health care, interest free eason ticket loan, subsidised staff restaurant and 20-25 days haliday per year. Applicants are invited to write, sending a detailed curriculum vitae to; Ms Alex Regan, (ref DOCS) Personnel Manager

Mosby-Year Book Europe Brook House 2-16 Terrington Place

Year Book Europe

EMINORING. PERSONALITY COULD EARN YOU EZOK IN YOUR FIRST YEAR Train for a new career as a Pinanciel Consultant with an International 25th Financiel Services Group. Edensive reining and support, offering a complete range of financial services.

versus conveniona in ofic locations, aged 21+, ne 071-650-5821 daytim (London Hased).

CIRCA £600 PER WEEK

leiling a 1st cless product with a company which is probably the fastiest growing company in direct sales in the Ult today. Working from home from company generated qualified leads. No canvassing. No welds. No carvassary, No conspection, If you are a cor conset and interested letephone Mr. Conway on 071-528 1381 and 071-515 3609 or, if you the in the North Mr. Patchett on 0924 368511

DP OPTIONS EXECUTIVE RECRUITMENT

2 URGENT VACANCIES RECRUITMENT CONSULTANTS

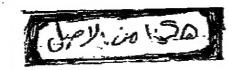

PUTNEY - Professionalism, business philosophy and tenacity gave us a profitable year for 1991-1992 despite the recession. There is business.

We have urgent vacancies for TWO Consultants. Ideally you will have experience in some of the following areas:- client consultancy, interviewing and selection, specialist or executive recruitment. We will consider applications from exceptional graduates. Working in a professional consultancy environment dealing with 'TOP 190' companies you should enjoy working under pressure and as part of a team, ideally you should be aged between 25 - 35, with an honours degree and a good career track record.

We offer regular salary reviews, an open ended commission scheme and performance bonuses

Telephone Carole Weedon on 081 877 1121 or write to her at DP Options, 6th Floor, 73 Upper Richmond Road, London SW15 287

UP JUDIO

Frontier dispute settled by reference to colonial boundaries

Land, Island and Maritime Frontier Dispute (El Salvador y Honduras, Nicaragua intervening)

Before Judge Sette-Camara, President of the Chamber, President Sir Robert Jennings, Vice-President Oda and Judges ad hoc Valticos and Torres Bernardez [Judgment September 11]

In a case brought by special agreement between the parties, and heard by a chamber of the International Court of Justice territorial and maritime frontier disputes between El Salvador and Honduras, with Nicaragua intervening, were settled.

Nicaragua was permitted to intervene in the dispute between El Salvador and Honduras but solely in respect of the question of the agreed on the major part of their land boundary in 1972 but six sectors were left to be sented. A mediation process led to a General Treaty of Peace, signed and rati-fied in 1980, which defined the agreed sections of the boundary.

The dispute had three elements: a dispute over the land boundary, a dispute over the legal situation of islands in the Gulf of Fonseca and a dispute over the legal situation of maritime spaces within and out-side that gulf.

That treaty further provided that a joint frontier commission should delimit the frontier in the remaining six sectors and determine the legal situation of the islands and the maritme spaces and provided that if agreement was not reached within five years the dispute was to be submitted to the International Court of Justice.

By a special agreement dated May 24, 1986 the parties submitted their case in accordance with the terms of the general treaty.

The parties agreed that the fundamental principle for determining the land frontier was the uti possidetis juris. The essence of that agreed principle was primarily securing respect for the territorial boundaries at the time of independence, colonial admin-istrative boundaries being transformed into international intervening state came into being with the break up of the Spanish Empire in central America and their territories corresponded to that empire. The parties indicated to which colonial administrative divisions or provinces they claimed to have succeeded. The problem was to identify the areas and the

No legislative or similar material indicating that had been produced but the parties had submitted documents collectively referred to 'tides" which concerned grants of land by the Spanish Crown in the disputed areas from which, it was claimed, the provincial bound-aries could be deduced.

boundaries which corresponded to those provinces.

By analysing the various meanings of the term "title" the chamber concluded that none of the titles produced recording grants of land to individuals or Indian communities could be considered as "titles" in the same sense as, for example, a Spanish Royal Decree attributing certain areas to a particular administrative unit.

Although the chamber took account of the suitability of certain topographical features to provide identifiable and convenient boundary, it was appealing not so much to any concept of natural frontiers but rather to a presumption underlying the boundaries on which the un possideris juris

[The chamber unanimously decided where the boundary line was between Honduras and Salvador in five of the disputed sectors and by a vote of four to one where the boundary was in the sixth remaining sector.

El Salvador asked the chamber to declare that it had sovereignty over all of the islands in the Gulf of Fonseca with the exception of Zacate Grande and the Farallones. Honduras requested that the chamber declare that only Meanguera and Meanguerita islands were in dispute between the parties and that Honduras had sovereignty over them.

The provision of the special agreement that the chamber should determine the legal situait jurisdiction in respect of all the islands in the gulf. But a judicial determination was only required in respect of such islands as were in dispute between the parties. That excluded, inter alia, the Farallones, which were recognised by both parties as belonging to Nicaragua.

Prima facie, the existence of a dispute over an island could be deduced from the fact of its being the subject of specific and argued

The chamber conduded that either since 1985 or since issue was joined in the proceedings, the islands in dispute between the parties were El Tigre, Meanguera and Meanguerita.

The determination of sovreignty over the islands had to start with the uti possidetis juris. Following independence in 1821 none of the islands of the gulf. which had been under the sou-ereignty of the Spanish Crown, was terra nullius. Sovereignty over them could not therefore be acquired by occupation and the matter was thus one of the successtates to the islands. It was particularly appropriate to examine the conduct of the new states during the period immediately after 1821.

The law of acquisition of territory was in principle clearly established and buttressed by arbitral and judicial decisions. The difficulty with its application here was that it was developed primarily to deal with the acquisition of sovereignty over terra nullius.

Both parties, however, asserted a title of succession from the Spanish Crown so the question arose whether the exercise of display of sovereignty by the one party, particularly when coupled with lack of protest by the other, could indicate the presence of an uti

Where the historical material of colonial times was confused and contradictory and independence was not immediately followed by unambiguous acts of sovereignty, practically the only way in which the un possidetis juris could find formal expression was by evidence of possession backed by the exevidence as to possession and control and the exercise of sowereignty by one party coupled with the evidence of the attitude of the other party, clearly showed that Honduras was treated as having succeeded to Spanish sovereigniv over El Tigre, and El Salvador to Spanish sovereignty over Meanguera and Meanguerita

With regard to the legal situation of the maritime spaces in the gulf, the chamber concluded that no indication of a common intention to obtain a delimination from it could be derived from the special agreement, to which on that sole question Nicaragua had been authorised to intervene.

But notine that Honduras itself was not a conflict of delimitation but of attribution of sovereignty, it was difficult to accept that the wording "to determine the legal situation", used for both the is-lands and the maritime spaces, would have a completely different meaning regarding the islands and regarding the maritime

The chamber had to enquire into the legal situation of the waters of the gulf in 1821 for the principle of uti possidetis juris should apply to those waters as well as to the land.

It concluded that the gulf waters, other than a three-mile maritime belt, were historical waters subject to a joint sovereignty of the three coastal states and that the closing line of the gulf, to determine the the gulf, constituted the baseline of the territorial sea.

The chamber observed that the terms in which intervention was granted were that Nicaragua would not become party to the proceedings. Accordingly the binding force of the judgment for the parties did not extend to Nica-

Judge Oda, dissenting on the maritime spaces, said that the concept of a "phuri-state" bay had no legal existence. Instead of the waters of the Gulf of Fonseca being held in joint sovereignty outside a three-mile coastal belt, they consisted of the sum of the territorial

Your legacy could save lives

every year.

Their beavery is free, but lega-cies are their lifetime — accounting for over 60% of the service's suni for over 60% of the service's wast increase.

We are granched for vary contributions, however small, and have produced a five hoother on making a will which also gives teach on how to leave a legacy.

For your copy, or for further challs, counter Anthony Oliver, Dept. CFR/L (TTS), RNLL, West Quay Road, Donner, BBILS 183Z. Or releashone (2022 67133).

Lifeboat

THE NATIONAL DEAL

CHILDREN'S SOCIETY

THE NATIONAL DEAF CHILDREN'S SOCIETY CHILDREN'S SOCIETY

AUTHOR wishes to hear from anyone who allended boarding school between 19675 to present das willing to relate their experiences of being bulled, particularly by a teacher for research project. Please fellowhere in costilience Sir A. Marphone in confidence Mr A. Mar-tin on 071 794 0193 tany time:

CREME DE LA CREME

PERSONAL ASSISTANT TO THE HEADMASTER

Ampleforth College, Helmsley, York

Ampleforth College is one of the country's major independent Roman Catholic boarding schools. The College is based 20 miles north of York and 4 miles from Helmsley on the southern slopes of the

The Headmaster requires an articulate, experienced and mature Personal Assistant to support him in the efficient running of the Headmaster's Department.

The successful candidate must be committed, flexible and willing to take on many varied duties, and should also be able to demonstrate excellent administrative/secretarial skills, including shorthand. Experience of WordPerfect 5.1, Excel 4 spreadsheets and Fox Pro database would be highly advantageous, as would a working knowledge of a European language. This position offers excellent long term prospects.

Interested applicants should fax or send their CV in confidence to Jane Metcalf, quoting reference 860 at AP Secretaries, 10 Lisbon Square, Leeds, LS1 4LY. Tel: 0532 440939. Fax: 0532 420802.

AP SECRETARIES

Senior Secretarial Consultants

ABVERTISING.

£18K MEG Sen. P.A. (28-32 yrs) to M.D. o. exp. nec. and rusty s/hd.

MEDIA PA £14-15K Well presented PA/Sec. (24-28 yrs) for Chairmen and team of agency. Media exp. plus Word for Windows useful. Reguelr Call Jeanes 871 323 5523

LINGUISTS

HINGUIS IS

If you are looking for a fresh chollenge and new borizons - and have a min.
of 2 years secretarial superience we have several positions with French, German or Spanish at a salary of £15,000 + all solating benefits (Package

banking benefits (Pockages are in the region of £ 19,000). Min of 80 woma English shorthand essential Do coll,

Appointments Bi-Longuage Tel: 071 355 1975/

071 734 3390 or Fee: 071 499 0568

Restort a secretorial

Paris

If you have good french, cell TM International for an appointment next Fri

Tel: 010 33 1 47033867

Fax: 010 33 1 47033838

ACE opportunity to run the office. Thriving property developers are looking for a young, friendly and outgoing for a young, who can cope with pictuality, who can cope with pictuality, who can cope with pictuality and outgoing and pictuality and property of the pictuality of the pic

ADMIN SEC 25-36. Creatmite cations with later exp for pres-surface image conncions depart-

ADMAIN $25 25-35. Grammer cuttiers with their era for pre-surfaced image connectors depart-ment of major off to WC2. 20% lectings for 6-9 mentits before prepositionistics, Gainer, 216,000 p.s. Jean Grunger 071 937 8311. Cauthorni Staff Agency.

ESIL Contineum Staff Agency.

CONSENSATION to £18.000.

Despated, small flow to archilects require a secretary to seal flow. Dulles include full scretarial support as well as running a small other desic accounts, petry carb, stancestry austics sett. Staffs 56/ WP/

Audio, Hra 9-5.30 Please cettl

Caroline Tuck on 071-837

Consultants.

Consultants.

Consultants.

SEC/P.A.

MARETIONE.

SEC/P.A.

MARETIONS SECTP.A.
CC13,000, Superb experiments for expensed extentions sec to join first proving erg. Cod sect admin stills 554 wyrn + spreadsheet exb. Good commuscaled set 4 'A' levels. Ase 2230, Call Figure Downes (Rec Comm on 081 747 0268.

SEC/P.A.

k on your own initiative

, = 5<sup>-4</sup>, <sup>2</sup>,

1

. W. JK

F 45

W. Strain

in the state of 2F .

SUPER SECRETARIES

ENTERNATIONAL SPECIAL EVENTS. (WordPerfect), SH and Octobase skills, Small Co. with high-level levelvement, jots of flent centact. Work to cover all spects of general office admin, toop with and wordstand.

Salary £11,000 seg. use cell Judi Wilker s UBIQUE on 071 937 6446

RECEPTIONIST Smort, well spoken, well presented. SECRETARY Ausia, efficient shorthand, with a depth word perfect 5.1. To join our team in an exciting new-venture in the West End. C.V.s. in: Mary Johnson, 28 Grosvenor Street, London WIX 9FE.

A TANGO IN PARIS OR A

BEER IN BRUSSELS?

13 - 20K

Whether you are a top-class PA or a college-leaver, whether you have gained experience or have experience to gain, whether you have confident skills to build on or wish to build up confident skills, whether you are looking for that first job or taking the next step in your career, if you are ready to make the move then call us

We currently have a wide range of opportunities with a variety of international clients for candidates with secretarial training, a high standard of French and, in some cases, commercial experience abroad.

Sheila Burgess International Recruitment Consultants

LONDON: 971 584 6446

English for P.R. company. Starthand essential Age 20-30. C15.000, Tel 071-486 7923 Opus Rac Cons.

PEOPLE ORIENTATED? Our dient is a dynamic W1 based company working in the recruitment field and they now seek a PA Secretary to work for one of their successful Commitunts. Together with regular secretarial drifter, the role will incorporate a high amount of client' carefidate instean.
dOwns trying (andio). 'A' level education. Good cryamizational shifts. Aged 25-58 and looking for a salary of £16.5007 Piezee rall Merryweather Consultants on 071.455 071.5.

PERSONNIEL Ser - CE15.000+. Full admin/sec role with last of scope for involvement. Good sec skills 60+-ways. Diary org. Travel, client lishson. Adv 25-2'. 'A' levels, Father Downes on 081 747 0298 (Nac Coss).

supontrount. Abstract appointment. Abstract appointment. Abstract to under presents. Score to emand role. Antilo. no Shorthand. Salary scale 512.782 to 514.599 phis Location Weigning £1,750 and sidl allowable. Paid overtime. Office in SW1. Reply flox No. 4367 by 19 Cubyer, Parther information available from Mrs. A Wilson/Mrs. S Santon (Tel. A. Wilson/Mrs. S Santon

MULTILINGUAL OPPORTUNITIES

PA MEDICAL Bury private cardiac practice in Upper Wimpole Street requires sacretary, 25+, with excellent secretarial, also interestive skills (experience in private ractice preferred). Schery [19,500+.

MEDICAL SECRETARY DEVONSHIRE PLACE Experienced Secretary require for two consultant, physicians besy practice. WP essential.
Generous selary negotiable.

PARIS: 44 63 02 57

NON-SECRETARIAL

SERVICES GUIDE

EXPERIENCED

ACCOUNTS

PERSON

C/o The Times

Newspapers, P.O. BOX 484, Virginis Street London E1 9DD

CAREER

INSTITIOUS Person for busy promotions/model agency. Typ-ing necessary, salary nego-tisble, Ring 071, 624 5048.

in faction, art gelleries. crommants, properties and ediministration. Computer (Supercise 5 & payred) and word processing therete, efficient and self appropriate in Railan and French. Seeks situation with small to medium stred business in Central or West Landon. Please reply to Box No 2925

ALL BOX NUMBER REPLIES SHOULD BE ADDRESSED BOX NO:- ......

LEGAL NOTICES

Notice of appointment of liquidator Voltomers of liquidator Voltomers of liquidator Up Pursuant to section 1.09 of the Insolvency Act 1.986.
Company Number: 1042785. Name of company: M & J light Convactors. Address of registered officer Treviol House 186-192. High Road Index, Essex [G] 1.3Q. Liquidation: R.A. Sogal Segat Davis Road-Rich House 186-192 High Road lifter Essex [G] 1.3Q. Liquidation: R.A. Sogal Segat Davis Road-Rich House 1.86-192 High Road lifter Essex [G] 1.3Q. Office Holder No: 006285. Date of appointment: 29 September 1992. By whom appointed: The Mombers & Creditors. R.A. Sogal, Dake: 2 October 1992.

ORÓER
MAXWELL COMMUNICATION CORPORATION PLC
(Registered Number: 298465)
Nature of Busines: Priming and Publishing, Trede Casalfica
iosu: 10. Administration Order 10. Administra 20th Decen

Serick Pic. John Administrative Receivers Colin George Wiserman & Brian Mills (office holder role of Fired E Herkely Gyven, Mills (office holder role of Fired E Herkely Gyven, Martine of States) of Section '98 of the Selicion House Administs was wateraide Lendon E14 SSN.

FRED FERRY Wateraids E14 SSN.

FRED FERRY GYVEN, Survey Wateraids E14 SSN.

FRED FERRY GYVEN, Survey Wateraids E14 SSN.

FRED FERRY GYVEN, Survey Wateraids Company will be held at Trevier House, 196-192 High Road, Bford, Essex, 103 LJQ on Friday the 16th October 1992. At 10,000 office in section role of the particular of the above-hamed Company, intends to make a distinct are regulated to submit full particulars of their cialms, and their hames and deference of the Company of the particulars of their cialms, and their hames and their hames and deference of the particular of the particular of the section of S27 Medison Avenue. New York NY 10022 of S8R (11 LJQ between 10,000 a.m. and their hames and their hames and their hames and their hames and deference of the particular of the section of S27 Medison Avenue. New York NY 10022 of S8R (12 LJQ between 10,000 arm, and 4,000 Bm. as from Wednesday, of September 1992.

Dated this 25rd day of Spotenber 1992.

RE P A D PRECISION ENGINEERING LTD
and The Insolvency Act 1986 NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to Section 98 of the insolvency Act, 1986 that a Meeting of the Creditors of the above named Company will be held at Treviol House, 186-192 High Road, Bford, Essex, 101 1JQ on Thursday the 18th October 1992, at 10.00 orcitors in the forenoon, for the purposes mentioned in Sections 98, 100 and 101 of the said Act of the names and addresses of the Company's Credtion free of charge at the offices of Segal Davis Rose. Treviol House, 186-192 High Road, Bford, Essex, CII 1JQ between 10 00 a.m. and 4.00 p.m. as from Tuesday 13th
October 1992.
Dated this 25th day of September 1992.
P A DAWSON, Director.

ROTAIR LIMITED.

AUTAIR INTERNATIONAL LIMITED and AUTAIR LIMITED
In Administrative Receivership
Registered Numbers 456498.

870079 and $2569792N
NOTICE IS HEREBY NOTICE
THE HEREBY
NOTICE

FLATSHARE MELSEA Own double room n/s 289 per Tel. 071 585 0945 day / 071 576 5116 eve CHELSEA Dible room in tige less ury flat, n/9 £120 pw. Tel: 071 575 1226 or 071 522 6001 CHELSEA SW10. and or so ma with a bith en-cuite. £100/£80 pw anc. 071 361 1130 (even)

ATMISLEDON VGE on rm in RD flat Own bath share kit. N/S. £250ecm inc. 081 9478807.

W12 hoxury 4 bed 2 beth 3 recept 1 shower furnity has with gdn. Large kitchen exc femily rm in baneni £376pw, 081 743 6796

FREE LIST

NO FEES 071 713 7134

L A GUIDE

PROPERTIES OF

THE WEEK

AGENCY

REAL

RENTALS

TEL: 071 481 4000 PERSONAL COLUMN FAX: 071 481 9313

ESTABLISHED 1785

THE INSOLVENCY RULES 1986
RULE 4 19641
CENTRES OF EXCELLENCE
LTD T/AS CHROMASERVICES
LTD T/AS CHROMASERVICES
Volumes Liquidation
Notice is bereby given that i,
Dermoi Breadan Coaldey, Charlered Accountant of Leren Bright & Partners, Langton Priory, Porismonial Road, Guidiford,
Surrey, CUZ BEH, was amonited Liquidator of the above named company on 2 October 1992.
All creditions who have and abready done so are invited to reve their debts in writing to me at the above address.
No further public notice or advertisement to prove debts will be given.

BIRTHDAYS

LIFT THE GLOOM of the recession by decreating your horse or office. Decaration with 20 years experience will give inches the and free estimates. O71 236 9316 or 024 823 1595

WANTED ALL CROCODILE Articles. Our leather laggage, trunks ele-wanted, 071 229 9618.

"LOOK Me Top Of The World" and that's where we should be in the British Film Industry. We are film onthusiasis convolites to producing a successful Bril-ian film. We are looking for like-minded individuals willing to take a share in the financial commitment thouse or small, it

FOR SALE ALL TICKETS ENG V STH AFRICA GB V AUSTRALIA (RL)

Hord Shr £78 081 550 9407 N2 1 brd £155 081 568 2166 £26 1 bed £86 081 460 0226 £25 5 bed £250 0707 572702 $252 5 5 bed £250 0707 572702 $266 sharr £110 071 731 2192 $276 sharr £110 071 731 2192 Phaniom, Salgon, Joseph. Les Mis. Cats. ail pop. sport Tel 071 323 4480 THE AMERICAN

WEDDING MORNING SUITS DINNER SUITS EVENING TAIL SUITS SURPLUS TO HIRE BARGAINS FROM £50

AMERICAN SERVICE Lipmans Hire Department 22 Charing Cross Rd London WC2 Nr Leicester Sq Tube. 071 581 5353 071 240 2310 A.M.A. INTERNATIONAL LUN A BIRTHDATE Newspar inal. Superb presentation Open 7 days a week. Freepb 0800 906609

ury flats for long, short or holi-day lets. Mayrair, Martic Arch and Hyde Park, 071 724 4844 and Hyde Park, 071, 724 4844

A Bargain - Stunning brand new

2 bed fial. Lonely recep high ceitings, silk drages, rabulous kitchen, reducer 5,450

LSSOpw Surgess 861,5136

ACCOMMODATION Unpensity
req for City Institutions, Call us with your properties to let Sepantian Extates 071,581,4998 ALL AVAIL: S.Red. Medness, Ni Football/Rugby, Salgon, Phan-tom, Joseph 071 497 1407. ALL SEST Seats. Phantom. Let Mis. Sargon. Madness. S.Red Generis. Extreme. AB sports. Rugby wanted. 071 480 6163 ACTIVE DEMAND For corpo-rate executives for quality furn/instan post in South Kor & Chebec. 1 beds £250-£280pw. 2 beds £200-£300pw Ruck & Ruck 071 581 1741 ARLA Member

ALL TICKETS Prantom, Salgon, Joseph, Les Mis. England V. South Africa. BaBa's v Aus. Genesis. Simply Red. Football & all pop shows. D71 930 0600/071 925 0065. CCs Acc ALL TICKETS. Phantom dally. Les Mil. Me Salgon, Cain, S/Red Pop. 071 706 0353 or 0366 ALLEN BATES & CO have a selection of furnished fiels, 1 bedroon ubwards in Central London area, Available for lets of 1 week plus From £250pwpius, 071-436 6666. ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA Leather bound. Cost £1.900 Brand new £850. 0903 244631 AMERICAN BANK - EA1,600 CU to ESC.000 in advance for 2 years 1-4 beds. For in SW1/3/7 A WB This is a genuine enquiry 4, we have a large demand for good quality property. Burgers 581 5136 ENG v STH AFRICA Albert Hall all shows, all theatre, sporting events. Uckets bought & sold. Best prices, 071-497 2535 OLD & REW york, french, & per-nant stone (lagstones, floor tiles, stone troughs, victorian brick, cobbte sets oft. Nathonwide deliveries; OSBO 850039 (Wilts) AMERICAN STYLE Horel Apre Central London. Short/ long stay Best rates 071 794 6702 I BARBICAN Unfurnished apart-ments for rent. Rents from approx E8,000 ps which includes 88,000 ps which includes 88,000 ps which ground nesting. Daytime call 071 628 4848 or 071 628 4371 Eventings call 071 628 4372

SUNDAY TIMES computers in hunters video course, £450 (complete), 071 386 7973. THE TIMES 1791-1990 other titles assigned reacy for pre-sentation also "Sandays". £17.80, Remember When 081-688 6323. TWICKENHAM Eng V S.A. Wr buy & sell - Phantom, Salson. Les Mis. All other sold our recens. 071 839 5363. MUSICAL

INSTRUMENTS EXCHANGES

AWARD winning Artist/Acros-regular exhautor/performer. London/Edimburoh. seeks sup-plement for year's part scholar-sity award. £5,000 or part in exchange paintings/ commis-sions. Reply to Box. No. 4019 GIFTS

FLATSHARE BALHAM Female 10 Share spa-cious 2 bed, mt designed ust den flat. Double room, oven beth, all mod const, N/5 preferred. £300 pcm. 081-542 9791

HARROW ON HILL 5 bress file 1/2 bds Gda £126/175 pw Tel Owner 081 998 0021 HOLLAND PK Priv Sq. new dec mod unfurn fare hee, New Lit, 6 beds, 2 bath, Oge Odn, £575pw Long let 071 483 0681 DULWICH M/F. N/S for rm in 2 bed hee. 1 min BR for City/W.E. £240 pcm. inc Tel: 071 733 1309 ISLINGTON S.c flat Over 580 sq ft 2 mm + usuals. Amale stor-age & bookshetves. £150 pw mc hw 071 607 7009.

RENTALS

AMPSTEAD Pristing 3/4 be + 071 794 6702

FLATMATES Landon's foremos (Est 1970) Professional fla sharing service 071-589-5491 KERSINGTON W11 New qual-my 3/4 bedroom flats & mais with eath Pogenpoell Kill £695/£650pw 071 794 6702 FULHAM SW6, 8/contained dble bedrin own en suite WC. Entire top floor of family hise £350pcm. Tel: 071-386 5962 NORSURY SW16 Fully Rum 4 bed hav bath & WC + sep. WC shower-rm. C/H & telephone £170pw. Tel: 081 764 3592 HIGHGATE his, quanty ige newly dec. rm. CH wash m, Nr. tube sust prof. £67pw 081 883 5290 OVAL Sumny 2 bed maisonetti w/terrace, good dec. order £550 pcm. 071 585 1834 HOLLAND PARK Kensington B/st in fam hee, C56pw all inc F. n/s, long let, 071 603 3610 SOUTH NORWOOD Fully fur nisted 4 bed house, C/H, disking room, lelephone & leunge £165pw Tel; OS1 764 3392 KENSAL GREEN, Non amoker own room in flat share with ow other. 250 pw. Tel: Seb 9-4pm 071 490 0049 x304.

NOTTIRGHILL GATE Mews, m lube. I/ns. Lge rm, ewn built i patio. £85pw, 071 229 1419 Ex WI By Portland Place 1 min lub Trendy 2 bed jux flat gas ch wm $220pw 071 935 9512 I RICHMOND & mine Br/Ug. N/o own dbl rm all amens £318 pens 0784 474829 bef 7pm W11 Elegant newly cont 14 fir fit, bed, bath kitchenette, CH N/S £210 inc. 071 221 3556 SLOAME SO. (Nr). 1/2 gred prof M 25+ cond has o/r. 085 and £75pw 071 730 5743.

SW7 Cornwall Odns, m/l. n/s for lux own rm, £78/£108pw ne bills 071 602 4084. or 071 937 4067 CATERING SITUATIONS

> The Ultimate Nanny Agency We have the Ultimate Nameies and Mathers' Helps requisible for all area of the U.K.

35 Cheriton Drive, Ravenshead, Nottinghamshire NG15 9DG Telephone 0623 490135 Fax 0623 490960

HOUSEKEEPER/SECRETARY 30-40 yrs. Non-smoker, musidrive, well prepented with bright personality, to help 35 yr old gentleman with home and eptablished husiness. Full board + small wage. Refs resential.
Please Reply to Box No 4125
LIVE-IN MOUSEWEEPER

LIVE-IN HOUSEXCEPER own room and bathroom, lo run family home in Cheises & supervise twiks after echool Refs required, telephone 071-351 5118/071-774 8929 ROFESSIONAL COOK who likes responsibility and commit-ment required for winter sesson in Zermall Age 25+ Pre-1048

VAL D'ISERE top quality chaner/hosters required to work alongside cook in luxury mountain todge for winter se-sor. Must be over 21, enthusias-lie, reliable, preferably will migertence. Call Sarah 081-944

SITUATIONS

WANTED YOUNG Profesional Woman, fluent Spanish, strong French and some Russian avail Janu-ary 1993. Pirase Repty to Box No 3505

GENERAL OVERSEAS * IT'S ALL AT TRAILFINDERS * More low cost flights via more

PLUS * L'p to 60% discount on hotels and car hire * The best deals on the world's

42 - 50 Earls Court Road. London, W8 6EJ Long Haul Flights 071 938 3366 Manchester Office 061 839 6969 Government Lirensed/Bonded LOWEST FARES

LOWEST FARES WORLDWIDE
Due to recession hundreds of unstelled seats at gave every prees.
Manobi Amsterdam
lobury Parr.
Where U.S.
Bangdark Indig
Carro
Many more dealinathous
Suprace I ravel & I court Pik (ch. 1971-495-3673)
15 pars experience
ABTA CV665

BARBADOS 2399, N. York 2219, L.A. 2299, Bangkok 2369, Sydney 2579, Delhi 2379, Paris 569, Joreurg 2489 0634 812036 ARTA 35739 BARGAIN HOLS /flights Cyprus Greece Spain Malla Morocco. Greekorama Tv. 11d. 071-734 2562 ABTA 32980 ATOL 1438 CANADA. USA. S. Airica. Australia. N.Z. & Europe Cood discount fares. Longmere Inii. 081-655 1101 ABTA 73196 CANADA SPECIALIST. USA. O71-434 4564, IATA.

GENERAL OVERSEAS ANNOUNCEMENTS

EUROPEAN Scheduled and Charler flights Tel: 07: 630 5672 ABTA 89974

SELF-CATERING

ORTUGAL All arem villas, apis, holois, Golf holidays, pousadas, manor houses, flights, car hire Canaries Langmere Ind Obi-665 2112, ABTA 73196.

SWITZERLAND

Daily scheduled flights 07 856-4444 ABTA 90685/IAT/ WINTER SPORTS

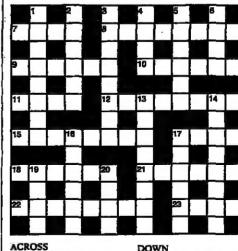

GERMANY GERMAN TRAVEL CENTRE Daily scheduled flights 07: 836-4444 ABTA 90685/LATA

LONDON

ENTRAL Position, 3 bed lineary flat. Axad now Tel. 081 451 3094. Fact 081 459 4422 Regards Howard

CONCISE CROSSWORD

NO 2913

ACROSS 7 Gone by (4) 8 Lack of activity (8) Strain (6) 10 Casually sociable (6) Political faction (4) 12 Funnyman (8) 15 Offspring (8) 17 Fierce storm (4) 18 Knife holder (6) 21 Digging for coal (6) 22 Bountiful (8)

Polo ponies group (6) Finearm muffle (8) Firearm me Young cow, bull (4) 13 Under-rate (4) 16 Head (6) 17 Nobility (6) 19 Foot rear (4) 20 Girdle (4)

SOLUTIONS TO NO 2912 ACROSS: I Cupid 4 Miscast 8 Recruiter 9 Pea 10 Duo 11 Lowing cup 12 Among 13 Bugle 16 Re-hearsal 18 Aim 20 Run 21 Iguanodon 22 Wrangle 23 Ernie

DOWN: 1 Cured 2 Piccolo 3 Double glazing
4 Motive 5 Spring balance 6 Aspic 7 Trample
12 Aircrew 14 Gladden 15 Astute 17 Henna
19 Mince

ANNANIA MONE

By Raymond Keene, Chess Correspondent This position is from the game Chandler – Nijboer, Lioyds Bank 1992. Here white, desperately short of white, desperately short of time, missed the chance for a brilliancy. Can you spot it? Solution below.

Rxh8+ Ke7 (2 ... Kg7 3 R1h7 mate) 3 Re1+ Kd6 4 Re6 Solution: white can force checkmate with 1 Ch8+! Bxh8 2

BRAZILIAN NAVAL COMMISSION IN EUROPE
NOTICE OF PUBLIC TENDER
NE. 124/92
Notice in hereby given that the BN.C.E. with offices at 170
Upper Richmond Road. London
Swi15 281. is accepting tenders to choose a supplier for HIGH PRESSORE. The intest date for submission of qualitying documents and quotations is 03rd Novimber 1992 and the details of this Public Tender are available.
For further information you may resulte. Blose contact:

CONTRACTS &

BRAZILAN NAVAL COMMISSION IN EUROPE
NOTICE OF PUBLIC TENDER
NOTICE NICE OF PUBLIC OF PUBLIC OF PUBLIC
TO USE OF THE OF PUBLIC TO USE OF THE O

LEGAL NOTICES

which is the last day for preving claims.

Notice is also given that the liquidator proposes to make final distributions and that start distributions will claim made writted the date mentioned.

C.K. Circeron. Liquidator.

NOTE: On Information available as present the Company will be able to pay all its known Creditors in full.

Dated; Sth. October 1992

Ne. 008168 of 1992

Ne. 008168 of 1992

RY THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE
CHANCERY DIVISION
IN THE MATTER OF PILOT
CHANCERY DIVISION
IN THE MATTER OF PILOT
CHANCERY DIVISION
IN THE MATTER OF PILOT
CHANCERY DIVISION
IN THE COMPANIES ACT 1968
NOTICE IS HEREBY CAVEN
Inal a Polition was on 14th
August 1992 presented to Her Missay's High Court of Justice for the canfirmation of the reduction of the capital of the abovenamed Company from £100.000
to £20,000.
AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the said Petition is directed to be heard before Mr.
Replacar Buckies at the Royal
London. WC2A ZLL on Wednesstay 21:8 October 195 Stampholder
Courts of Justice. Straind.
London. WC2A ZLL on Wednesstay 21:8 October 195 Stampholder for the condimination of the said reduction of capital should appear of the time of the hearing in percon or by Counsel for that purpose.
A copy of the said Petition will be furnished to any such person requiring the £ame by the undermeditioned Solicitors on payment of the required charge for the same lor the same lor the lor the sam

menitoped Company

Muttee of S98 Meeting of Creditors

Actionhyte Distribution Limited Principal Trading, Address, Unit 12. The Markham Centre 8 state Principal Trading, Address, Unit 12. The Markham Centre 8 state Principal Trading, Address, Unit 12. The Markham Centre 8 state Principal Trading, Address, Unit 12. The Markham Centre 8 state Principal Trading, Address, Unit 12. The Markham Centre 8 state Principal Principal

CHELSEA - Reduced 3 bad own impressive entrance, grand hall-way/ chandeliers, 35m recep. 18m celling, high double doors, 2 baths, letter CASO-CIGOpw Burgest 581 5136 CHELSEA HARBOUR river view, two bedrooms, turnished, garage, £575 monthly for six manules, 071-576-8746. CHELSEA SWIO Private patio garden. 1 bed flar C19Cow 071 581 5877 071 351 2198 eve GIFT CARICATURES from pho-tographs. Free Illustrated bro-chure. 0458 253290 (9am-7pm)

CHRILGEA - SW10 super 2 bed tone dolor flat. Rec. K & B. £190mw. 0395 272208 CHELSEA SI Sq prime loc. V light plegsant lwr gd fl 2 bed 1 recpu patio $250pw, 071 684 6897. FULHAM 9W6 Delightful furn 2 bed flat balt & river views. £210pw Drury 071 379 4816 FW GAPP (Management Ser-vices) Lid Require properties in central, south & west London areas for walking application. Tel. 071-245 0964. BALHAM Own room in house for quiet n/s prof Nr tube/BR. CSO pw Inc. OH1 6755483 HAMPSTEAD Spacious lop flat. 2 bedrms. 2 baths, new att. Lge recep. $250 pw. 071 794 5644

Selection of the defining societies Onnounced Selection Onnounced Selection of the defining societies Onnounced Selection of the defining societies of the definition of the d

BARONS COURT W6 Vict 2 bed fial. 5 mins lube. w/m. £145pw. 081 977 8772.

BATTERSEA 2 bedrooms. 1 with own both in Vic 3 bed lerrace house Fully furnished, share kitchen, stiting etc with 1 other on occasion. CH, street parking £300 peru each each bills Tel. 0235 866223 after 6 pm.

BELGRAVIA Small studio flat. Ataliable I year + . CfiOpw. Tel 071 225 3515

CLUB, First & Economy Discounted says. 061 332 2288 Richmond Travel. ABTA 82181 IATA COSTCUTTERS on frights 8 note to Europe, USA 4 most destina-tions. Diplomat Travel Services Ltd: 071-730 2201. ABTA BBC1

6.00 Ceefax (75804) 6.30 Breakfast News (27285-)27)

Transferration and a second

 9.05 Perfect Strangers. American comedy series (r) (1153069)
 9.30 Conservative Party Conference. The morning's proceedings include the debates on employment and the environment and an address by Norman Lamont on the economy (91069) 10.00 News, regional news and weather (8096935) 10.05 Playdays (s)

(2291576) 10.25 Jimbo and the Jet Set (r) (5846412) 10.35 Conservative Party Conference. Further live coverage from Brighton. Includes News (Ceefax), regional news and weather at 11.00 and 12.00 (22383311) 12.55 Regional News and weather

1.00 One O'Clock News with Philip Hayton. (Ceefax) Weather (31750)
1.30 Neighbours. (Ceefax) (s) (80164243) 1.50 Going For Gold. A quarter-final of the general knowledge quiz with European contestants presented by Henry Y.elly (s) (80175359)

2.15 Golf. First round action in the Toyota World Matchplay championship from Wentworth (259576) 3.50 Puppy Dog Tales narrated by Victoria Wood (s) (4426917) 3.55 Noddy. Animation (s) (6946934) 4.10 Star Pets. Peter Simon continues his search for the Star Pet on 1992 (s) (7872224) 4.20

Get Your Own Back. Slapstick game show (s) (2911359) 4.35 Uncle Jack and the Dark Side of the Moon. Episode two of the six-part children's drama senal (Ceefax) (s) (7697069) 5.00 Newsround (8615021) 5.05 Blue Peter. Includes a look at Henry

VIII's flagship, the Mary Rose. (Ceefax) (s) (4748137) 5.35 Neighbours (r). (Ceefax) (s) (576156). Northern Ireland: Inside 6.00 Six O'Clock News with Anna Ford and Andrew Harvey. (Ceefax)

Weather (663) 6.30 Regional News Magazines (243). Northern Ireland: Neighbours 7.00 Top of the Pops introduced by Tony Dortie (s) (9601) 7.30 EastEnders. (Ceefax) (s) (427)

8.00 As Time Goes By. Bob Larbey's benign comedy series starring Judi Dench and Geoffrey Palmer as former old flames whose paths accidentally cross 38 years later (r). (Ceefax) (s) (5021) 8.30 Waiting For God. Graham Crowden and Stephanie Cole as the iatric malcontents causing comic havoc in a retirement (Ceefax) (s) (4156)

9.00 Nine O'Clock News with Michael Buerk, (Ceefax) Regional news

Lucky break: police question a murder suspect (9.30pm)

9.30 Crimewatch File: Murder Without Motive

● CHOICE: Tonight's reconstructed crime is the murder of Dr David Birkett, a distinguished skin specialist, who was found battered to death at his home in Middlesbrough in 1990. He was a charming and respected man with no enemies. There seemed to be no reason for the killing. Previous programmes in this series have celebrated the skill of the police and the ability of television appeals to produce crucial evidence. In the Birkett case the police investigation wa painstaking, laborious and largely fruitless. One officer spent a fortnight unsuccessfully trying to match a fingerprint. Other officers were given the less than exciting job of checking a quarter of a million dockets. The Comewatch appeal was similarly unproductive. In the end the murderer was apprehended through a colossal piece of luck but perhaps after all their hard graft the cops deserved the break. (Ceefax) (s) (893595)

10.20 One Foot In the Grave. Richard Wilson and Annette Crosbie star as the grouchy pensioner and his long-suffering wife in the award-winning comedy series (r). (Ceefax) (972243)

10.50 Question Time. Peter Sissons chairs the programme from the Conservative party conference in Brighton. The panel is Clifford Chetwood, chairman of Wimpey Holdings, and MPs Michael Howard, Gordon Brown and Paddy Ashdown (830311). Northern Ireland: Spotlight 11.20 Question Time 12.20am-1.05 Law and 11.50 Golf. Highlights of the first round of the Toyota World Matchplay from Wentworth (576773) 12.40em Weather (6388267) 2.15 BBC Select: Executive Business Club. Scrambled (85411). Ends

BBC2

8.00 Breakfast News (4424885) 8.15 Made by Man. The skill of basket-making (r) (4414408)
8.30 A Summer Journey: The Severn. Angela Rippon explores the stretch of the Severn between Shepperdine and the mouth of the 9.00 Daytime On Two Educational programmes 2.00 News and weather (51198224) followed by You and Me. For infants (r) (32290243) 2.15 Conservative Party Conference. Live coverage from Brighton.

presented by Donald MacCormick, Vivian White and Huw Edwards. Includes debates on health, defence and national heritage. With News (Ceefax) and weather at 3.00 and 3.50 5-30 Golf: World Matchplay. Further coverage of first round action in the Toyota World Matchplay championship from Wentworth, introduced by Steve Rider. The commentators are Peter Allis, Bruce Critchley, Alex Hay, Clive Clark and Mike Hughesden (392) 6-00 Film: Flipper (1963) starring Chuck Connors and Luke Halpin.

Wholesome family fare about a fisherman's son who befriends an injured dolphin. Later became a successful television series. Directed by James B. Clark (25345). Wales: Rough Guide to careers 6.40 The Velvet Claw 7.10-8.00 Cuban Missile Crisis

7.30 First Sight. The first of a new series of the south-east's current affairs programme Northern Ireland: Route '92; East: Matter of Fact; Midlands: Midlands Report; North, North-east and Northwest: Close Up North; South: Southern Eye; South-west: Close Up; West: Close Up West (999)

8.00 A Cook's Tour of France. Mireille Johnston samples the culinary delights of the Alsace region. (Ceefax) (s) (3663)

68.30 Top Gear. Formula One driver Martin Brundle tests the Jaguar XI220, the world's fastest and, at £415,544, most expensive car. Presented by Tiff Needell, Chris Goffey and Janet Trewin (s) (2798) 9,00 Bottom. Unsophisticated comedy series written by and starring Adrian Edmondson and Rik Mayall. (Ceefax) (s) (2392)

9.30 Present Imperfect: The Searchers.

◆ CHOICE: Nick Godwin's film follows four 16-year-olds in Clacton, Essex, as they take their GCSEs, leave school and try their luck in an unpromising job market. The girls, at least, have firm goals: Nicola to work in a bank and Joanne in a building society. the boys are more hazy. Danny talks about being a bricklayer. Given the depressed state of the building trade, this is not the happiest choice. John talks more grandiosely about becoming a disc jockey in the United States. Meanwhile he shows promise as a stand-up comic. Surprisingly, perhaps, this is not a film about hundreds of rejection letters and young people joining the bitter ranks of the unwanted. Godwin refrains from making political points and treats the four as individuals, neither heroes nor victims. Do stay to the final credits. They contain an unexpected twist (s) (86243)10.30 Newsnight with Jeremy Paxman (928507)

11.15 The Late Show: Later. The first of a new weekly music series presented by Jools Holland (904750)
12.30am Weather (7332248). Ends at 12.40

3.00 BBC Select: RCN Nursing Update (47644). Ends at 4.00

VideoPlus+ and the Video PlusCodes

The rumbers next to each TV programme isting are Video PlusCode<sup>na</sup> numbers, which allow you to programme your wideo recorder instantly with a VideoPlus-to handset. VideoPlus-to no eused with most videor. Tau in the VideoPlus-to, doe for the programme you wish to record. For more details call VideoPlus on (8839 121204 (calls charged at 48) per minute peak, 36p off-peak) or write to VideoPlus+, Acomer Ltd, 5 Nory House, Plantation Wharf, London SW11 3TM, VideoPlus+, Pinscode (110) and Video Programmer are trademarks of Gemstar Marketing Ltd.

ITV

6.00 TV-am (6130934)

9.25 Win, Lose or Draw. Celebrity game show hosted by Danny Baker (1142953) 9.55 Thames News (7759243) 10.00 The Time . . . The Place . . . Topical discussion series (8715069)

10.40 This Morning. Magazine series (4622972)
12.10 The Riddiers. Puppet series for children (1 (7203576)
12.30 Lunchtime News with Nicholas Owen and Carol Barnes. (Oracle)
Weather (6994243) 1.05 Thames News (36407296)
1.15 Home and Away. Australian family drama serial. (Oracle) (786595) 1.45 A Country Practice. Medical drama set in the Australian outback (s) (785866) 2.15 TV Weekly. Anne Diamond goes behind the scenes of popular ITV and Channel 4 programmes; Bany Took delves into the archives (700175) 2.45 Take the High Road. Soap set in the Highlands

3.10 ITM News headlines (8557243) 3.15 Thames News headlines

(8556514) 3.20 GP. Australian drama serial set in and around a doctor's surgery (4156779) 3.50 The Ratties. Animation (r) (6121345) 3.55 Captain Zed and the Zee Zone (r) (6208224) 4.20 Rolf's Cartoon Club. Rolf Harris uses the world of nature to explain some animation techniques (2721589) 4.50 Art Attack. Art show for children, presented by Neil Buchanan (4372205) 5.10 Who's the Boss? American comedy series (4732576)

5.40 Early Evening News with John Suchet. (Oracle) Weather (721779) 5.55 Thames Help (r) (349476) 6.00 Home and Away (r). (Oracle) (359) 6.30 Thames News (311)

7.00 Emmerdale. Drama serial set in the Yorkshire Dales. (Oracle) (1069)7.30 Jimmy's. Real life dramas concerning the patients and staff of St.

James's University Hospital, Leeds (595)

8.00 The Bill: Playing God. DS Roach and DS Greig visit the house of a man found wandering in a daze and discover the body of his wife near an almost empty bottle of sleeping pills. The husband subsequently claims that his wife wanted him to help her to die. (Oracle) (5507)

8.30 This Week. An investigation into how some people escape death duties by ostensibly allowing the public access to works of art.

Crime watch: James Macpherson and Sara Stewart (9,00pm)

9.00 Taggart: Ring of Deceit. Episode one of a new three-part thriller in which the dour Glaswegian detective sets out to catch a serial killer nicknamed "The Mechanic". Staming Mark McManus, James Macpherson and Sara Stewart. (Oracle) (8069) 10.00 News at Ten with Alastair Stewart and Carol Barnes. (Oracle)

Weather (79359) 10.30 Thames News (667137)
10.40 01. London area entertainment guide. The featured film is White Men Can't Jump; the play is The Rise and Fall of Little Voice which transfers from the National to the Aldwych (368779) 11.15 Prisoner: Cell Block H. Drama serial set in an Australian women's remand centre (548088)

12.10am Science Fiction: Stealing the Fire. The story of the atom bomb spy Dr Klaus Fuchs (1913977)

12.40 Beethoven String Trios. Opus 9 No 1 in G performed by Itzhak Perlman, Pinchas Zukerman and Lynn Harrell, recorded in New York (4874828)

1.10 Film: KGB — The Secret War (1985) starring Michael Billington.

Weary thriller about a KGB spy who decides he prefers the American way of life. But his masters hold a trump card to prevent him from defecting. Directed by Dwight Little (319712)

2.50 The Twilight Zonez Acts of Terror. A battered wife exacts a terrible revenge (4150915)

3.10 Hardball. Last in the police drama series (r) (s) (7276064)
4.00 Motor Sport Special. The Caterham Vauxhall challenge from Oulton Park (56737)

4.36 America's Top Ten (r) (s) (80977)

5.30 ITN Morning News with Tim Neilson (14373), Ends at 6.00

CHANNEL 4

6.00 Cartoons (63934) 7.00 The Big Breakfast presented by Chris Evans and Gaby Rostin (54601)9.00 You Bet Your Life. American game show hosted by Bill Cosby

9.30 Schools (635595) 12.00 Flight Over Spain. The Badajoz region from the air (r). (Teletext)

(69972)12.30 Sesame Street. Entertaining early-learning series (73974) 1.30 Take 5. Children's entertainment (87866)

2.00 Check Out 92. A repeat of Tuesday's consumer affairs programme in which Tina Jenkins asks if the privatisation of utilities had resulted in the advantages claimed by the government (s) (8595)

2.30 Film: The Passionate Friends (1948, b/w) starring Trevor Howard Ann Todd and Claude Rains. Romantic drama, written by Eric Ambler and based on the novel by H.G. Wells, about a woman on holiday in Switzerland with her husband who meets her former lover. A polished but over-elaborate variation on Brief Encounter from director David Lean (48333866) 4.10 The Three Stooges in G I Wanna Go Home (1946, b/w) (1314514) 4.30 Fifteen To One. Quick-fire general knowledge quiz presented by William G. Stewart (408) 5.00 The Oprah Winfrey Show. How long do shipboard romances

last? (6303069)

5.50 The Magic Roundabout. Vintage children's programme (266039)

6.00 My Two Dads. American comedy series (r). (Teletext) (s) (601)

6.30 Gamesmaster. Video game series presented by Dominik Diamond.
The guest is Frank Bruno (953)

7.00 Channel 4 News with Zeinab Badawi in the London Studio and Jon Snow at the Conservative party conference in Brighton. (Teletext)

weather (7917)
8.00 Down To Earth. Archaeological magazine. Dr Catherine Hills introduces evidence for prehistoric sacrifice at Flag Fen, Cambridgeshire, and Dr Roberta Gilchrist uncovers the strange world of medieval Christianity (s) (8359)

Damp squib: Leonard Rossitar fails to win the girl (8.30pm)

8.30 Rising Damp. Rigsby is smitten by an attractive new lodger and washes her windows three times a week. But, true to form, his attempts at passion are thwarted. Starring Leonard Rossiter (r).

(Teletext) (7856)
9.00 Critical Eye: Heart of the Moment.

CHOICE: A lively polemic looks at the claims of the international oil industry to be environmentally friendly and says, in effect, nuts. Soothing corporate videos and the reassuring words of company spokesmen are intercut with protests against the destruction of rainforests, the disruption of wildlife and the uprooting of native communities. Shell, 8P and the rest insist that they are being responsible and sensitive. This is not how the locals see it as the hydrogers came out new mode and rivers become polluted. The bulldazers carve out new roads and rivers become polluted. The film takes its examples from Ecuador, Nigeria, Gabon and Papua New Guinea. In Nigeria a peaceful demonstration against Shell was brutally suppressed by the police, with much death and destruction of property. The trouble is that the country depends on oil for 95 per cent of its foreign earnings. (Teletext) (s) (9311)

10.00 Film: The Habitation of Dragons (1992) starring Brad Davis, Frederic Forrest and Horton Foote Jr. Solidly satisfying family drama, set in 1930s Texas, about the political and personal rivalry of two brothers. Directed by Michael Lindsay-Hogg (s) (705137) 11.45 Set of Sbc. Cornedy series starring Rowland Rivron (r) (s) (937392)
12.15am Four-Mations: Alice. Czech animator Jan Svankmajer's gruesome version of Alice's Adventures in Wonderland by Lewis Carroll (138606). Ends at 1.45

SATELLITE

SKY ONE

(20595) 10.00 Day Wis the Astra and Marchopolo satellites
 6,00am The Di Kar Show (8909038) 8.40
 Mirs Pepperpot (2458685) 8.50 Playabout (4719021) 9.10 Cartoons (9940952) 9.30
 The Pyramid Game (22553) 10.00 Let's Made a Deal (40934) 10.30 The Policia and the Beautiful (42333) 14.10. The Veneza and the Restless (17576) 12.00 St Escwhere (12576) 1.00pm E Street (1392) 1.30 Geraldo (46885) 2.30 Another World (4373363) 2.15 The Brady Bunch (326595) 2.45 The Dirat Show (8118798) 5.00 Star Tref: The Next Generation (2576) 6.00 Simpson Mania (3175) 6.30 E Street (4427) 7.00 Family Ties Starring Michael J Fox (3205) 7.30 Full House (3311) 8.00 W 1.0.11 New drama states in a telegraph presspora (1243) 9.00 lesties: 177576) 12.00 St Else senes in a television news/com (71249) 9.00 Chances (68779) 10.00 Studs (84205) 10.30 SKY MOVIES+ our (95779) 11.30 Fachion TV (79445)

 Via the Astra and Marcopolo satellites 5.00am Sunnse (1147663) 9.30 Our World (20595) 10.00 Dayline (48576) 10.30 Beyond 2000 (32682) 11.30 International Business Report (4574601) 11.45 Japan Business Today (5011427) 12.30pm Good Marting America (437981 1.30 Good Morning America (4427) 2.30 Nightline (69427) 3.30 Our World (22232) 5.00 Live at Five (36021) 6.30 Nightline (77445) 7.36 Enternal Times (86662) 10.00 (891562) Five 1360211 6.30 Nightline (17446) 7.30 Financial Times Business Weekly (99156) 9.30 Financial Times Business Weekly (331751 10.30 Nightline (86021) 11.30 ABC World News Tonspir (71601) 12.30am Beyond 2000 (935381 1.30 ABC News (73083) 2.30 Cur World (64996) 3.30 ABC News (64996) 3.30 ABC News (64896) 3.30 ABC News (64896) 3.30 ABC News (64896) 3.30 ABC News (64896)

SKY NEWS (48576) 10.30

Via the Astra and Marcopolo satellits

10.00 An American Summer (1990): A.00 Reoftops (1989): Tale of forbidden Michael Landes makes friends in Caffornia while his parents dworce (37885) 12.00 The Moontumers (1974). Bootleg-12.00 The Moontumers (1974). Bootleg-ges clack with the law (5586). 2.00pm Aces High (1976). Peter Firth stars as a first world war pict (85446). 4.00 Jun't A gril becomes disruptive (47798). 5.00 All the Kids Do it (1984): A diver has a lateful accident (2412). 6.00 Am American Summer (as 10am) (84806576). 8.00 Pretty Woman (1990): Romantic connecte symme that Rejears (77437).

8.00 Pretty Woman (1990): Romantic corredy surring Julia Roberts (77427): 10.00 Child's Play 2 (1990): The murderous doil returns (1794972): 11.25 Django Strikes Again (1987): Spaghett western (693494): 1.00am Meet the Applegates (1990): A suburban family Indes a secret (24915): 2.30 House of Usher (1950): Retelling of Edgar Allan Poe's classic tale (97373): 4.00 The Fabulous Bakar Boys (1989). Jeff and Beau Bridges hire singer Michelle Pleifler (18335): Ends at 6.00

SKY MOVIES GOLD

White Astra satellite
6.15pet Young 8illy Young (1969): A sherif average his son's death (63304682) 8.00 Honky Tonk Freeway (1981): Comedy about a Florida rown (87503088) 9.55 The Adventures of Buckaroo Banzai (1964): Perer Weller defends, the earth (903682), Ends at 11.45

SCREENSPORT THE MOVIE CHANNEL O Vis the Astra and Macropolo satellites, 6.15sm Figure of the Sarbary Coast (1945, biv/r Cowboy John Vilayne finds romance with singer Ann Docrat (101595) 8.15 Doct and the Kangaroo (1976) Animation and live action (292311) 10.15 The Lodger (1944, biv): Could he black the Rapper (212175) 12.15pm King of the Khyber Rifles (1954). Tyrone Power defends a Sittatiogamson (574427) 2.15 Titanic (1953) Drama about the maintene disaster (936083) 4.00 Doct and the Kangaroo (as 8.15cm) (6869205)

1,000 Dot and the Rangardo (25 d 154m) (686920).

1,200 Anterix and the Big Fight 119381.

Cartoon adventures 17656392).

1,40 The Court Jester (1955). Danny Kayestars as the eponymous fool 1303059721.

1,300 The Russia House (1590). Spy thriller stamnd Sean Connery and Michelle Pfedfer (47043296).

10,400 Harriem Riights (1989): Gangster contedy stamng Edoe Musphy (198976-62).

12,40cm The Lonely Guy (1934): Steve Marlin is a reluctant bachelor (197748).

2,15 Postbards From the Bigh (1990): Darkly come since of Hollywood life staming Menyl Streep and Shirtey MacLaine (841557).

 Vis the Astra and Marcopolo satellites
 5.30am Stretch (97866) 7.00 Watersporks
 (97156) 8.00 Boots and All (98285) 9.00
 Stretch (40972) 9.30 Football: San Marino v
 Norway (29311) 11.30 Stretch (60660)
 12.00 Indy Car Grand Pts. (91682) 2.00pm
 Watersports (12173) 3.00 Dobain Snooker
 Classic (15069) 5.00 German Touring Cars
 [5446] 6.00 Football News (634205) 6.05
 MAME Brington Watersport (6556211) 7.20 EUROSPORT

 Via the Astra satellite
 9.00mm Step Aerobics (35040) 9.30 Gaelic Football (21779) 11.30 Step Aerobics (95359) 12.00 Football (56059) 1.30pm Truck Racing (73798) 2.00 Gymnasus (13601) 3.30 Hockey (67309) 4.30 Mountain Bike Downhift Cup (7972) 5.00 Gaelic Football (33059) 7.00 Basketball (7395) 8.30 Truck Metall Carpe (67245) 9.30 8.30 Trans World Sport (67345) 9.30 Eurosport News (54663) 10.00 Football 1984461 12.00 Kick Bosing (22278) 12.30-1.00am Eurosport News (48880)

© Via the Astra smallite 7.00am Golf (95798) 8.00 Revs (25663) 8.30 Unwersty Eights Regatta (24934) 9.00 Challenge Bowl III (894031 10.00 Pans-Mozow-Beying Raid (26866) 11.00 Thai Kick Box (39330) 12.00 Longfinude (28750)

Sterie (836,2243) 3,00 The New Newlywed Game (4576) 3,30 Generyl hills Burty (7595) 4,90 Dick, Van Dyke Show (5158408) 4,40 American Gameshows (8634175) 5,30 Sell-a-Vision (6565) 6,00 Selly Jessy Ruphael (80098) 7,00 Selh-a-Vision (241330) 10,00 Jukebox Likus Videos (8796427) 2,00-3,00 Last Julrebor Dance (24441)

FM Stereo. 4.00am Charles Nove: The Early Show 6.15 Pause for Thought 6.30 Brian Hayes: Good 1.50mmg UK1 9.15 Pause for Thought 9.30 Ken Bruce 11.30 Immry Young 2.00pms Glona Hannford 3.30 Ed Stevent 5.05 John Durin 7.00 The News Huddines 7.30 Country Week: Wally Whyton presents the 26th annual Country Messe Association awards coremony from the Grand Ote Opp House. Nachalle, Termesses 9.30 Paul Jones 10.30 The Jamesons 12.05am Jazz Parade 12.35-4.00 Steve Matricking with Burth Birlo

VARIATIONS ANGLIA

As Losson except: 3.29-3.50 The Young Doctors (4156779) 6.25-7,00 Anglia Hems (240717) 10.40 A Little Piece of Heaven (308214) 11.10 Widesingle (524804) 11.40 Prisoner: Cef Block H (887514) 12.40-1.10 Hodson Confidential (4874828) BORDER

BORDER
As London except: 2.45-3.10 High Days and Holidays (6765408) 3.20-3.50 The Young Doctors (4156779) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4732576) 6.00 Lookanound Thursday (399) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (311) 10.40 Scotland's Ladder (308214) 11.90 Prisoner: Cell Block H (549717) 12.95 high Heat (3162606) 1.00 America's Top Ten Heat (3162606) 1.00 America's Top Ten (92712) 1.30 Film: The Cat and the Carary (572354) 3.20 Videofashion (53160915) 3.50 Shady Tales (93721118) 4.00-5.30 Film: A Night in Casabianca® (38460) CENTRAL

CENT HCAL

As London escept: 1.15 A Country Practice
(786595) 1.45-2.15 Home and Away
(785966) 5.10-5.40 Family Pride (4792576)
6.25-7.00 Central News (240717) 18.40
Married...with Children (306214) 11.10 1st Night (624804) 11.40 The Young Rides
(153069) 12.35 Hollywood Report
(4875557) 1.05 Video View (1507002) 2.05
America's Top Ten (3148286) 2.35

Cinern/Attractions (6698847) 3.05 Coach (96029847) 3.35 Raw Power (4684199) 4.35-5.30 Central Jobfinder '92 (9308557) GRANADA

As Looden except: 1.15 A Country Practice (786595) 1.45-2.15 Home and Away (785866) 3.20-3.50 The Young Doctors (415679) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4732576) 6.00 Blockbusters (359) 6.30-(4732576) 6.00 Blockbusters (559) 6.30-7.00 Granuda Tonught (311) 19.40 Celebra-tion (308214) 11.10 Prisoner: Cell Block H (549717) 12.05 Night Heat (3162505) 1.00 America's Top Ten (92712) 1.30 Plin: The Cat and the Canary (Honor Blactorum, Wilfrid Hyde White, Edward Fod (57254) 3.20 Videofachion (53160915) 3.50 Shady Tales (93721118) 4.80-5.30 Plin: A Night in Casublance (38465).

HTV WEST As London except: 1.45-2.15 The Young Doctors (785866) 3.20-3.50 A Country Practice (4156779) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4732576) 6.00 HTV News (359) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (311) 10.40 The West This Week (308214) 11.25 HTV Weeksand Outlook (374576) 11,40 Pres mer: Cell Block H (153069) 12.35-1.10 A W

HTV WALES As HTV West except: 6.00pm-6.30 Wales at So: 7.30-8.00 Hay Days 10.40 Nature Watch 11.10-11.40 Science Fiction

TSW
As London except: 3.18-3.50 The Young Doctors (706359) 5.10-5.40 The Mursters Today (4732576) 6.00 TSW Today (492021) 6.20 TSW Community Action (3175427) 6.30-7.00 Home and Away (311) 10-40 5cap (308214) 11.10 Prisoner: Cell Block H (549717) 12.05 Night Heat (3162605) 1.00 America's Top Ten (32712) 1.30 Film: The Cat and the Canary (572354) 3.29 Video(ashion (53160915) 3.50 Shady Tolks (672711118 A.00-8.30 Film: A Night in (93721118) 4.00-5.30 Film; A Night Casablanca" (38460)

TSW

As London except: 3.20-3.50 The Young Doctors (4156779) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4732576) 6.00 Coast to Coast (359) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (311) 10.40 TV Weekly (308214) 11.10 Prisoner: Cell Block H (549717) 12.05-1.10 Brand New Life (7754588) TYNE TEES

As Landon escapt: 1.45-2.15 Gardening Time (78586) 3.29-3.50 The Young Doc-tors (4156779) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4732576) 6.00 Tyne Test Today (359) 6.30-7.00 Earthmovers (311) 10.40 Prisoner: Cell Block H (835865) 11.40 Film: Windshifts of the Gods (634595) 1.30 Film: The Cat and the Carlary (572354) 3.20 Videofastion (53160915) 3.50 Shady Tales (93721118) 4.00-5.30 Film: A Night in Casablanca*

YORKSHIRE As London except: 3.20-3.50 The Young Doctors (4156779) 5.10-5.40 Home and Away (4732576) 6.00 Calendar (359) 6.30-7.00 Blockbusters (311) 10.40 Afred Hind-cork Descript (309314) 43 40 The Bloom 7.00 Blockbusters (3111 10.40 Alfred Hitch-cock Presents (308214) 11.10 Time Please) (624804) 11.40 Windmill of the Gods (992021) 1.20 Wolf (1503286) 2.20 Ameri-ca's Top Ten (3137170) 2.58 CinemAttractions (3570539) 3.20 Muss Box (9896248) 4.20 Profile: Omer (95690286) 4.30-5.30 Jobinnder (58248)

S4C Starts 7.00am The Big Breakfest (54601) 9.09 You Bet Your Life (56408) 9.30 Yougokon (635595) 12.00 Get Smart (69972) 12.30 News (67006972) 12.35 Slot Methinn (8032156) 1.00 Take Five (64088) 1.30 Fifteen To One (87866) 2.00 Gest Russian Whrtes (8595) 2.30 Fifth: The Passionate Finends (49333866) 4.10 Owde (2908885) 4.25 Slot 23 (4307934) 5.00 The Whyder Years (2175) 5.30 Generalists (290885) 4.25 Slot 23 (4307934) 5.00 The Wonder Years (2175) 5.30 Gamesmaster (208) 6.00 News (769205) 6.10 Heno (988330) 7.00 Pobol Y Cwm (2311) 7.30 O'r Grand (38779) 8.30 News (894205) 6.55 . Taro 9 (897292) 9.25 Rising Damp (669972) 9.55 Film: Vernus Peter (Gordon Strachan, Nay McAnally, David hayman, Snead Cusack) (672934) 11.50 Mojo Working (986069) 12.05am Evening Shade (1924083) 12.30 The Steve Allen Show (82286) 1.00 Close

Smiling through.

Like any ten year old, Tony is full of mischief and always ready to smile for the camera-With our help, he now has a powered wheelchair,

Without it, he can't move around. Tony has Duchenne muscular dystrophy, an wasting condition. His disability doesn't Abir A stop him enjoying life to the full. Now, he has more reason to smile breakthrough in the tive treatment for Tony and thousands like him. It's simply a question of time. And time equals money.

Research teams are poised to make a

we can find the cure

Muscular Dystrophy Group.

Telephone: 071 720 8055 Please complete this form and return it to: Muscular Dystrophy Group, Department Ti . 7-11 Prescott Place, London SW4 6BS. I enclose a cheque/PO payable to Muscular Dystrophy Group for Help us keep the smile on Tony's face. With your help.

or please debit my Access/Visa/Mastercard/Other______(please specify) Card No: Expiry Date: _ Please send me further information about muscular dystrophy Resistance Charity Number 200700

£100 £75 £50 £10 Other £___

Kok Box (39330) 12.00 Longfuude (28750) 12.30pm Baseball (48214) 2.30 Golf (597021) 5.30 AMA Carrel Pro Bikes 1992 (1798) 6.00 Golf (39507) 7.30 Powerboar World (21427) 8.30 Mototsport (13069) 9.30 Brazilian (67137) 10.00 Spanish Soccer (92750) 11,00 Golf (33224) 12.30-1.30am Pawerboar World (21427) 8.30 Pawerboar (14427) 8.30 Pawerboar (1442

LIFESTYLE Via the Astra smelite
 10.00am Fashon Rie (60476) 10.30 American Garreshows (39866) 11.00 Gloss (85972) 11.30 The Joan Rivers Show: 3958408; 12.15pm Sally Jessy Raphael (8392840) 10.1unchbox (75292021) 1.40 Selt-a-Vision (87910622) 2.10 Rerungton Sirele (839243) 3.00 The New Newlywed

FM Stereo and MW. 4.00am Bruno Brook es IFM orby 6.00 Mark Gooder 9.00 Senon Bates 12.20pm Newsbest 12.45 Jakks Bram-bles 3.00 Steve Wright in the Alternoon 6.00 News 5 Mega Hits 6.30 News 92.7.00 Neale James's Evening Sesson 9.00 in Concert Los Libbos, and Chris Whitley 10.00 Nidey

New Madden with Night Ride

RADIO S

New T and sport on the hour umit 7.00gm.
6.00mm World Service Newshour 6.30 Damny.

Make a Story, 9.15 Together, 9.35 Esterning and Reading, 9.45 The Song Tree; 10.00 in the News Lipidare 10.10 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 1.25 EPS Whirtbashed 2.30 Sportspeat 4.30 Five Ande 7.15 Shiff Bounces Back 7.30 Formula Five 8.00 Whet 9.30 Cutt Heroes Sid Vicous 10.10 Eastern Beat, and 11.00 Sport 12.00-12.19am News, Sport

All times m 85T. 5.30am World Business Report 2.00-12.19am News, Sport

All times m 85T. 5.30am World Business Report 10.15 From Our Own Correspondent 10.30 News48:8, 9.30 News 10.05 World Business Report 10.15 From Our Own Correspondent 10.30 The Farming World 10.45 Sports Roundup 11.00 News 11.01 Assignment 11.30 Take it from Here Midday 10.45 Sports Roundup 11.00 News 11.01 Assignment 11.30 Take it from Here Midday 10.00 News 5.15 BPC English 12.45 Intragstratean 1.00 News 1.09 World 3.30 Citt the Shelf Marsfield Rair 3.45 Recording of the Week 4.00 News 4.15 Classics with Asy 5.00 News 5.15 BPC English 5.30 Programmes in French 6.00 News 4.00 News 8.00 News 9.09 The World Today 9.25 Whorlds of Faith 17.15 Network III.00 News 1.00 Ne

Sports Roundup 4.30 Focus on Farth 5.00 News 5.13 The Devi's Trill

GLASSIC FAIL

GROWN Nack Baker 9,00 Henry Kelly 12.00

Susannah Samons talks to the pleyworght Tang Ali 2.00pm Lunchtime Concerto: Saint-Saers
Pearoc Trelawine, 6.00 Classic Reports: Margaret Howard's guest is Guy Wolfender 7.00

Classic Travel Guide 8.00 Classic RA Concert Saint-Saers Soury Wolfender 7.00

Classic Travel Guide 8.00 Classic RA Concert Saint-Saers RSO under Juncth Horizam performs Rosani (Overture, Sentramdeg Provictive (Plano Concerto No 5 Bernd Glemser); Rachmamnor (Symphony No 2) 10.00 Adnar: Love 1.00-6.00am Robert Booth

ه کامن الرمن

6.55am Weather 7.00 On Air: Andrew Lyle with on extr. Anorew Lyle with music, news, weather and arts news. Including Ravel (Gaspard de la muit Robert Casadesus, piano); Kodály (Peacock Vanations:

Thilliamnonia Hungarica under Antal Doratii 9.00 Composers of the Week:
The Court of Philip II of Spain, Antonio de Cabezón (Sacris solermis; Overn terra:
Ensemble Alfonso X El Sabio
under Luis Virumbrales); Eventlana (Farrizaia de Fuenllana (Fantasia de Fuenliana (Fantasia de redobles; De Antequera sale el moro: Christopher Wilson, vihuela); Hernando de Cabezón (Susara un jour, Glossada de Dulce Memoria: Fretwork, with Paul Nicholson, harpsichord); Penre de Manchicourt (Missa Reges terrae: Tallis Scholars under Peter Phillips).

9.55 Night and Dreams: Schube (Nacht und Träume, 0827: Kathleen Battle, soprano, James Levine, piano); Mozart (Serenade in D, K 239, Serenata Nottuma: Orpheus CO), Berlioz (Les Nuits d'Eté: Boston SO under Charles Manch with Motaria de les Munch, with Victoria de los Munch, with victoria or tos Angeles, soorano); Tchaikovsky (Noctume in D ranor, Op 19 No 4: SSO under Maxim Shostakovich, with Julian Lloyd Webber, cello), Berg (Four Lieder, Op 2:

Brigitte Fassbaender, mezzo, John Wustman, piano); Bartók

(Music for strings, pento), betto (Music for strings, Dercussion and celesta: BBC SO under Mark Wigglesworth), Mahler (Kindertotenlieder: BBC SO under Mark Wigglesworth, with Linda Finnle, mezzo) 12.00 Beethoven and Bartok Quartets (r) 1.00pm News 1.05 Rossini — The Forgotten Romantic: The last of four programmes marking Rossir bicentenary with operas he wrote for Naples between 1816 and 1820. Ambros Opera Chorus: Philharmonia Orchestra under Jesus Lopez Cobos performs Otello, With José Carreras, tenor, as Otello, and Frederica Von Stade, soprano, as Desdernona

RADIO 3 3.55 Talich Quartet performs Martino (Quartet No 2); Dvořak (Quartet in F, Op 96, Amencan) (r)

American) (r)
4.45 Cruel Hearts: Sinfonye under Steve Wishart performs Anon (Domina pos vos ay chausidal; Anon (Estampie Royale No 3); Richard de Fournival (Onques n'amai tant que joy fui armee) 5.00 In Tune: Natalie Wheen, in Birmingham for the Festival of BBC Orchestras, talks to conductors Yan Pascal Tortelier and Tadaaki Otaka 8.00 Variations on an Original

8.00 Variations on an Original Theme: Festival of BBC Ordnestras. Live from the Symphony Hall, Birmingham, the BBC Weish Symphony Orchestra under Tadaald Otaka performs the first in a senes of concerts by the BBC. Otaka performs the first in a series of concerts by the 8BC orchestras. Britten (Four Sea Interfudes, Peter Grimmes); Shostakovich (Concerto in C minor for piano, trumpet and strings: Omitif Alexeev, piano, John Wallace, trumpet). 8,45 Chris de Souza examines. Eigar's association with the city of Burmingham, including the commissions for the Triennal Festival. 9.05 Eigar (Symphony No 1 in A flat) 10.00 Portuguese Discoverers; Manuel Carlos de Britos traces the export of western misiral.

the export of western musical cultures 10.15 Pop Goes the Jazz Star. Mel Hill considers Louis Jordan (r) 10.45 Night Waves: Anthony Payne explores the appeal of maintains music, and Phillip Brady reports from Germany on how writers are tackling the subject of national identity

11.30 Wolf's Goethe Lieder. Gordon Stewart presents the Gordon Stewart presents the second of three programmes including all 51 of the settings of Goethe texts composed by Hugo Wolf in 1888 and 1889. Performed by Felicity Lott, soprano, Anthony Rolfe Johnson, tenor, Thomas Allen, Olaf Bar, Thomas Hampson and Andreas Schmidt, baritones, and Geoffrey Parsons, piano Dam News 12.35 Close

12.30am News 12.35 Close 1.00-2.00 Night School (except in Scotland: as Radio 5 at 9am)

FREQUENCIES: Radio 1: 1053kHz/285m;1089kHz/275m; FM-97.6-99.8.
Radio 2: FM-88-90.2. Radio 3: FM-90.2-92.4. Radio 4: 198kHz/1515m; FM-92-4-94.6. Radio 5: 693kHz/433m; 909kHz/330m. LBC: 1152kHz/261m; FM-97.3. Capital: 1538kHz/194m; FM-95.8. GLR: 1458kHz/206m; FM-94.9; World Service: MW-648Hz/463m Classic FM-FM-107.107.

RADIO 4

(s) Stereo on FM
5.55am Shipping 6.00 News, incl
6.03 Weather 6.10 Farming
Today 6.25 Prayer for the Day
6.30 Today, incl 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30 News 6.55, 7.55 Weather 7.45 Thought for the Day 8.43 The Man Who Planted Trees, by Jean Giono. Read by Bill Paterson
(1/2) 8.58 Weather
9.00 News 9.05 Pace the Pacts (r)
9.30 Opinion: Charles Medawar, a consumer affairs journalist, salys pharmaceutical medicine is losing sight of proper values and should be checked

says pharmaceutical medicine is losing sight of proper values and should be checked 10.00-10.30am News; Rat Race (FM only): Third of a four-part adaptation by Martyn Read of Dick Francis's novel (s) (r) 10.00 Art Act of Worship (LW only) 10.15 The Hindu Scriptures (LW only): Exile to the Forest 10.30 Woman's Hour: Sara Davies investigates why thousands of people enrol in evening classes. Incl 11.00 News 11.30 From Our Own Correspondent

12,00 You and Yours
12,25pm Trivia Test Match: 8rian Johnston umpires another test of wit and general knowledge
(s) 12,55 Weather
1,00 The World at One
1,40 The Archers (s) (r) 1,55
Shipping Forecast
2,00 News Travel Over Spanish

Shipping Forecast
2.00 News; Traivel Over Spanish Sighs: Douglas Esson's cornedy on the perits of foreign travel (s)
3.00 Are You Free? In 1974, artist Nick Swingler was invited to travel behind the iron curtain to Czechoslovalca, to marry Dascha, a scientic with was Dascha, a scientist who was unable to obtain exit papers because her family had been backed (51/2)

blacked (s) (r) 3.30 The Ufologists (s) (r) 4.00 News 4.05 Kaleidoscope discusses the pub theatre network; and the poet Merle Collins reads from her new collection (s)

Yancey (s) (r) 12.00-12.43am News, ind 12.27

A.45 Short Story: Conflicting Interests, by Eddi McVeigh.
Read by B.J. Hogg
5.00 PM 5.50 Shipping Forecast
5.55 Weather
6.00 Six O'Clock News
6.30 Lionel Nimrod's Inexplicable World: A New Age cornedy series on life's mysteries (s) 7.00 News 7.05 The Archers (s)
7.20 Relative Values: The Marchants
● CHOICE: Do not despair:
the labyrinthine who's who WCHOICE: Do not despair: the labyrinthine who's who that prefaces the first in Michael O'Donnell's new series of family anatomies lasts for less them a minute. The "cast list" then shrinks down to the handful who really matter: the wife who dies the matter: the wife who dies, the matter; the wire who cies, use widower who re-marries, the second wife, and the two daughters — one from each marriage — who have to cope with divided loyalties when the second marriage fails.

O'Donnell examines, with his cistomary tact the stresses O'Donnell examines, viscositionary tact, the stresses and strains that can threaten destroy extended families

(s) Analysis: Passing the Buck.
David Walker asks to what extent Treasury officials abould share responsibility with politicans for Britain's economic woes (s)
8.45 Does He Take Sugar?
9.15 Kaleidoscope (s) (r)
9.45 The Financial World Tonight

(s) 9.59 Weather

10.00 The World Tonight (s)

10.45 Booker at Bedtime: The English Patent, by Michael Ondaatje. Read by Euron Griffith 11.00 Lord Edgware Dies: Dramatisation of Agatha Christie's novel (3/5) (s) (r) 11.30 The Honkytonk Man: The work of blues plants throng

Weather 12.33 Shipping 12.43 World Service (LW only)

COMPILED BY PETER DEAR AND GILLIAN MAXEY TELEVISION CHOICE PETER WAYMARK/RADIO CHOICE PETER DAVALLE

